Investment AND Railroad Intelligence.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of United States railroads (and also a few Mexican and Canadian roads) for the latest period reported. The statement includes every STEAM road from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are not included in this table, but are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (in the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns. The latest full statement will be found in the CHRONICLE of October 19. The next will appear in the issue of Saturday, November 23.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

Missouri Kansas & Texas Railway.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1895.)

President Henry C. Rouse, in the annual report, says:

General Review.—The business of the company throughout the year has been free from serious disturbances other than the Chicago railway strike of July, 1894, and the receipts may be taken as indicating normal traffic conditions, the increase over previous years reflecting the result of new connections and facilities established by the present management.

The average mileage in operation was 3,028 miles, contrasting with 3,001 miles in 1893-94; the gross earnings per mile were $9,502 against $9,502; the net earnings per mile $1,549 against $1,565; the ratio of expenses to earnings was 73 per cent in both years. Included in the above operating expenses is $981,827 paid for renewals and replacements as hereafter detailed. It will be observed that the gross earnings per mile show a large increase, and that the net earnings per mile are the largest in the history of the company.

No Floating Debt.—New Bonds.—The company is free from floating debt. The bonded debt has been increased during the year by $380,000 of bonds issued against new mileage.

Missouri Kansas & Eastern.—This railway has continued to show a constantly increasing business. The connection with the Union Passenger Depot in St. Louis was opened for traffic March 16, 1895, since which date its passenger trains have been able to connect with all the other lines centering there. The freight traffic of St. Louis and points beyond has developed in the most gratifying manner, and has demonstrated the paramount importance and value of the St. Louis Division. The entire capital stock of the Missouri Kansas & Eastern is owned by the parent company, but a more permanent connection could be established by a legal consolidation of the two companies, authority for which through an exchange for stock has been granted by the stockholders of the Missouri Kansas & Texas.

San Antonio Connection, Etc.—The acquisition of an independent terminal at San Marcos has been proceeded with as outlined in the report of last year, and 2½ miles of road have been constructed extending into and through that city.

Negotiations have been conducted for a long time past looking to an arrangement whereby your company should be allowed trackage rights for 50 miles from San Marcos to San Antonio, Texas. Should the railway company find it impossible to gain access into San Antonio over the rails of the existing railroad, it may be deemed best to build its own line into that city.

First Mortgage Extension Bonds.—For the extension of the company's system in the States of Missouri and Kansas and the Indian Territory, the contract dated as of Feb. 14, 1895, authorized the creation of a mortgage to secure the company's first mortgage extension five per cent gold bonds, to be issued to the extent of $20,000 per mile on lines hereafter built. Two lines have been practically completed on which these bonds have been or are to be issued. They are as follows:

1st. Southwestern Mineral Branch from near Parsons, Kansas, to Mineral City, about 16½ miles, opened May 1, 1895. The cost has been defrayed by the issue of $330,000 of extension bonds. The development of the mines on this Mineral Railway has already secured large shipments of a superior quality of coal.

2d. The St. Louis and Kansas City cut-off now under construction from Hidden to Green Ridge, Missouri about 35 miles, is expected to be opened for business before the end of the present calendar year.

Southwestern Coal & Improvement Co.—The independent resources of this company have enabled it to meet all its own obligations in connection with the development of the coal field, where it has acquired 360 additional acres during the year, making a total purchase of 2,450 acres.

Traffic.—The number of tons of freight carried increased 434,108 tons, or 17·78 per cent. Tons of freight carried one mile increased 115,715,111 tons, or 16·64 per cent. Revenue per ton per mile increased 49-100 of a mill, or a fraction over 4 per cent. Of the income from freight traffic more than one-half was derived from the following commodities:

Coal	$1,202,993,	an increase of $147,189 over 1894.
Live stock	1,492,519,	an increase of 248,848 over 1894.
Cotton	1,598,330,	an increase of 556,645 over 1894.
Lumber	515,542,	an increase of 77,613 over 1894.
Grain	597,895,	an increase of 59,776 over 1894.

and from general merchandise and other commodities $3,583,-667 39, an increase of $782,458 47 over 1894.

The revenues for the last four months of the calendar year show, as heretofore, a disproportionate amount of the annual earnings. In the past seven years the gross earnings at this season of the year have increased 10½ per cent; i. e., from $2,330,953 for the four months ending Dec. 31, 1888, to $4,737,-053 for the same period of 1894.

Improvements.—The rehabilitation of the permanent way was actively continued during the year, and the expenditures included in operating expenses comprise the following amounts for repairs, renewal and replacement:

Roadway	$226,942	Station buildings	$105,625
Ballast	47,914	Yards	12,703
Fencing and road cross.		Equipment	394,959
ings	3,921	Tools and machinery	15,627
Side tracks	6,815
Bridges	115,963	Total	$981,827

The policy has been pursued of maintaining the standard and character of the property consistent with the requirements of an increasing business. The result is apparent in more efficient service, conducted at the same time with decreased cost. Whilst the tonnage has increased nearly 18 per cent, it will be observed that the expenses of conducting transportation are less than the previous year.

Second Mortgage Interest a Fixed Charge.—The first of August, 1895, marks the termination of the income period under the terms of the second mortgage, and hereafter the interest on the bonds thereby secured becomes a fixed charge. The increased obligation of $100,000 in excess of what has been heretofore paid may be regarded without trepidation in view of the largely increased revenues of the company.

Directors.—The board of directors has been divided into four classes, so that the terms of office of only one-fourth of the board of directors shall expire annually.

Statistics of Operations, Etc.—The statistics of operations, earnings, etc., and balance sheet, have been compiled for the CHRONICLE as follows:

"The interest charges have been reduced from $428,495 to $280,000 per annum, and the property is free of all floating debt and has ample working capital, owning every mile of its line, its terminals, equipment, boats, docks, &c., and not paying one dollar for rentals. Because of the improved physical condition in which it will be placed, it should, under wise and economic management, unquestionably earn a handsome surplus above its fixed charges. In order to complete the proposed and necessary improvements the net earnings of the year ending Jan. 1, 1897, estimated to be $350,000, will be required. It therefore becomes necessary to defer the payment of interest on the bonds until April 1, 1897—that is to say, the bonds will begin to draw interest from Jan. 1, 1897.

"The amount already expended upon the property and in payment of claims allowed by the Court since it was placed in the hands of the receiver has amounted to some $800,000. The committee has undertaken to reorganize the property upon a sound business basis, and conscientiously believe that this result has been achieved."—V. 61, p. 557.

The plan provides in part as follows :

The packing properties (which it is estimated could be replaced for $1,300,000) are to be conveyed to the International & Wells Packing Company, together with such an amount of working capital as the committee shall decide. The old bonds shall be exchanged for the debentures at par, the coupon of Nov. 1 on the old bonds deposited to be paid in cash. When a majority of the bonds have been deposited the plan may be declared operative.

John C. Hately, John J. Mitchell, Henry Botsford, T. J. Lefens and O. Stamford White are the committee to carry out the plan.

Northern Pacific RR.—Receivers.—President Rolston, of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., trustee under the several Northern Pacific mortgages, has gone West in company with Mr. Herbert B. Turner, the Trust Company's counsel, for the purpose of "appealing in person to the several Western United States judges to agree upon such a policy as regards the question of jurisdiction and the personnel of the receivers as will again assure a competent, uniform and economical management of the imperiled railroad system in the interest of its mortgage creditors." In other words, to secure, if possible, a consolidation of the receive ships.

Pending this effort the case before Judge Lacombe, which was to have come up yesterday was postponed.

Parties to Foreclosure Suit—Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court in this city, on Thursday granted the petition of Johnston Livingston, chairman, and others, constituting the second mortgage bondholders' committee, and C. B. Van Nostrand and others, the third mortgage bondholders' committee, to be made parties defendant, or individually as a party defendant, in the cause pending between the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. and the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. The decision of Judge Lacombe says in substance :

The application was granted in the Seventh Circuit, and in the propriety of such action this Court concurs. The Trust Company is trustee under the first mortgages of the same railroad or of parts thereof. These several mortgages are necessarily conflicting. Under such circumstances it would seem appropriate to appoint new trustees under all the conflicting mortgages but one. This, however, has not been done by the courts where the property has, and will not, therefore, be described here. The provisions in the respective mortgages may be sufficient to prevent the displacement of the trustee by a minority agreement in cases of this character where there is no bad faith or collusion. But such provisions should not be availed of to leave the whole body of bondholders under some one mortgage unprepared at extra cost for a sale which is necessary to be the legal and equitable extinguishment of another and conflicting mortgage.—V. 61, p. 750.

Oregon Ry. & Navigation.—Sale.—The sale of securities deposited for the collateral trust bonds has again been postponed, this time till Nov. 25. The proposed sale of the road itself under foreclosure of the consolidated mortgage is indefinitely delayed, owing to the stay obtained by the Boston stockholders.—See V. 61, p. 661, 704.

Oregon Short Line & Utah Northern Ry.—Coupon Payment.—The Special Master recommends that the interest on the Oregon Short Line first 6s due Feb. 1, 1895, be paid, with interest thereon at 6 per cent per annum to date of payment; and also that $9,456 be paid for interest upon the August 1, 1894, coupons during the period the same were in default. It is said application will be made without delay to have the August, 1895, coupon also paid.

Foreclosure.—The foreclosure proceedings under the consolidated mortgage are still pending.—V. 61, p. 750.

Pacific Mail SS.—Panama RR.—Negotiations Ended.—President J. Edward Simmons of the Panama RR. Wednesday said:

"The Panama RR. Co. definitely decided to-day not to enter into a joint contract for operation of the Panama Railroad in connection with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company."—V. 61, p. 569.

Pennsylvania RR.—Business and Improvements.—President Roberts has been inspecting the system, and an interview with him regarding it is reported by the daily press as follows:

Mr. Roberts had much to say about the improvement in the business situation as seen by the East and West during the past few months and the progress of still greater activity to come. Something of the changes to be made in the practical operation of the railroad, he said:

"In the West we will lengthen our double track and add to the equipment a very large sum. We have ordered new locomotives and cars which will be built and delivered during the year. At Pittsburg we are commencing the building of a new freight station, and at Conemaugh [name illegible], a couple of miles east of Johnstown. The building over the train shed at Newport is [illegible] and will be completed during the winter."—V. 61, p. 744.

Philadelphia & Reading RR.—Reorganization Plan.—The reorganization plan, it is said, is about ready for public announcement. The plan, it is said, recognizes the priority of the general mortgage bonds, the mortgage securing which will be foreclosed. The junior securities will be assessed to meet the $25,000,000 needed to rehabilitate the property. The current rumors place the assessment at $5 a share (2½ per cent) for the stock and 15 per cent on the income. What will be given for the assessment has not been finally determined upon. The plan when brought out by the committee will be underwritten by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co.—V. 61, p. 750.

Pittsburg Shenango & Lake Erie RR.—New Boats.—The second of the large steamers built for this company has just been completed. The boats are intended to carry the company's coal cargoes across Lake Erie, between Conneaut, Ohio, and Port Dover, Ontario.—V. 61, p. 241.

Seattle Lake Shore & Eastern Ry.—Reorganization Notice.—The reorganization committee of the first mortgage bondholders gives notice that the above-named bonds must be deposited with the Manhattan Trust Company on or before the 15th of November under the bondholders' agreement of July 13 last, and that no bonds will be received after that date, except upon the payment of such a penalty as the committee may impose.—V. 61, p. 747.

South Jersey Street Ry. (Point Pleasant).—.—Receiver.—J. W. Wainwright has been appointed receiver.

Steinway RR. (Long Island City.)—Sale of Control.—Parties interested deny that a controlling interest in the stock of this road has been sold as reported to Philadelphia capitalists.

—V. 61, p. 277.

State Trust Co.—Correction.—In the report furnished the CHRONICLE from Albany regarding this company's resources, liabilities, etc., for the six months ending June 30, 1895 there was a clerical mistake. The expenses of the institution, which were reported to us for the six months as $171,575, were in reality $71,575. This correction applies to the statement published in the last issue of the INVESTORS' SUPPLEMENT, on page 149.

Southern New England Telephone.—New Stock.—For improvements this company will increase its capital from $1,500,000 to $1,650,000, giving one new share at par for each ten shares held. The company is paying 6 per cent annual dividends and in 1893 the balance for dividends was $106,001; in 1894 it was $97,299.

Tennessee Central RR.—Receiver.—Col. C. O. Golfre has been appointed receiver of this road. The road-bed has been constructed about 35 miles and one-half of a 600-foot tunnel has been opened up. The road strikes the Cincinnati Southern at Harriman and it was proposed to run it on to Knoxville.

Third Avenue RR. (New York.)—New Stock.—The stockholders of Oct. 30 are entitled to subscribe to 4,000 shares capital stock, the balance of the 20,000 shares authorized Dec. 26, 1894. This issue makes the total stock $4,000,000.

3 months' end. Sept. 30	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes, &c.	Balance, surplus.
1895	$677,719	$315,741	$12,119	$52,044	$275,817

Toledo St. Louis & Kansas City RR.—Reorganization.—Messrs. P. D. Armour, Richard F. Hartshorne, Otto T. Bannard, J. C. Havemeyer and J. H. Bowman, representing the bondholders' committee, have been West to consult with the receiver and to inspect the property. They report the road as in a fair condition and prospects good for business. Corn is selling along the line of the road at only twenty cents a bushel but the crop is very heavy. Litigation in the foreclosure suit will be pushed vigorously. The condition of the common stock is the cause of the delay, but as soon as practicable a decree will be obtained, which will be followed promptly with a plan of reorganization.—V. 61, p. 514.

Union, People's and Electric Traction Co's. (Philadelphia.)—Consolidation—New Stock.—The time for exchanging the stock of the People's and Electric Traction companies for the Pennsylvania Company's trust certificates, and for subscribing to the shares of the Union Traction Company, will expire on Oct. 31, and the first assessment of $5 on the stock of the new company is due and payable on the same day.—V. 61, p. 664.

United Gas Improvement.—New Stock.—At Philadelphia on Tuesday it was decided to increase the capital stock from $10,000,000 to $11,500,000, in order, it is said, to pay a stock dividend of 15 per cent. Stockholders will vote on the proposed increase Dec. 30.

Union Pacific Ry.—Coupon Payment.—Louis Fitzgerald, Chairman of the Union Pacific Reorganization Committee, gives notice that all past-due coupons pertaining to the first mortgage bonds of the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific Main Lines will be cashed on and after November 1 at the Mercantile Trust Co. of New York and the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston.

Reorganization.—The deposits yesterday under the plan were unusually large for the first day. No official statement, however, as to the aggregate amount of deposits will be made, we understand, till after Jan. 1, 1896. The Taffen committee, representing the Kansas Pacific consols, have been considering the plan, but have taken no action regarding it.—V. 61, p. 716.

The road is 27 miles long and extends from Washington to Chesapeake Beach, Calvert County, Md., where the company owns 709 acres of land. The rails have not been laid but considerable grading has been done.

West Superior Iron & Steel.—Receiver.—The receivership question, about which there has been a dispute, has been settled, and Robert Kelly, already acting receiver, has been confirmed as such by the Circuit Court for Wisconsin. The Central Trust Co., which, as trustee for the mortgage for $1,500,000 sought his appointment, will now proceed with foreclosure.—V. 61, p. 618.

Wisconsin Central RR. and Co.—Coupon Payment.—Coupons due Nov. 1, 1895, on the joint and several improvement bonds of the Wisconsin Central Company and Wisconsin Central Railroad Company will be paid at the Merchants' National Bank, 24 State Street, Boston.—V. 61, p. 281.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 1, 1895.

General rains have brought decided relief to the country from the prolonged drought which has prevailed, but a much greater downfall is needed in the Middle States at least. Wheat declined under better prospects for the fall seeding, and cotton advanced smartly on the continued small movement of the crop, but yesterday the "war cloud" in Europe, arising from the strained diplomatic relations of the great Powers, as reported by cable, and the effect of these reports upon the leading markets abroad, caused a sharp decline in cotton and some recovery in wheat. An earthquake was felt in the Northern States on Thursday morning. It appears to have done no injury, but the occupants of the tall buildings in Chicago were somewhat alarmed. Generally trade is very fair, but profits are small. To day was a holiday at New Orleans.

A moderate amount of business has been transacted in lard on the spot, but offerings have been fairly liberal and prices have declined, closing at 5·85c. for prime Western, 5·60c. for prime City and 6·85c. for refined for the Continent. There has been no trading in the local market for lard futures, and prices have weakened slightly with the West and under a continued liberal movement of swine in the interior, closing dull.

Rio quoted at 15⅝c. for No. 7, good Cucuta at 18¾c. and standard quality Java 27@27½c. The speculative dealings in the market for futures has been on a very small scale, although there has been some buying for foreign account, and prices have advanced, closing steady.

Refined sugars have met with a slow trade and prices have been further reduced. Granulated quoted at 4⅛c. per pound. New-crop molasses, open kettle, has sold to arrive at 40c. for choice.

Kentucky tobacco has been quiet, owing to the scarcity of desirable grades, and prices have been firm, but for common grades the market was easy. Sales 150 hhds. Lugs were quoted at 2½@5c. and leaf at 5@14c. Seed-leaf tobacco has been quiet but steady. Sales for the week were 1,850 cases, as follows: 300 cases 1894 crop, New England Havana, 11@10c.; 100 cases 1894 crop, New England seed leaf, 19@24c; 50 cases 1892 crop, New England Havana, 7½@9c.; 200 cases 1892 crop, Wisconsin Havana, 11@13c.; 200 cases 1893-94 crop, State Havana, 8@13c.; 200 cases 1893 crop Zimmers, 11½c.; 300 cases 1894 crop, Zimmers, 11½@13c; 150 cases 1892 crop, Pennsylvania seed leaf, 10@12c; 200 cases 1894 crop, Pennsylvania seed leaf, 11@13c., and 150 cases sundries, 3½@18c.; also 1,500 bales Havana, 68c.@$1 05, and 300 bales Sumatra, 40c @$2 85, in bond.

There has been very little animation to the speculative dealings in the market for Straits tin, but prices have advanced in response to stronger foreign advices, though the close was barely steady at 14 65c @ 14 75c. Ingot copper has been in slow demand and prices have continued to decline, closing at 11 65@11 75c. for Lake. Lead has also been easier, closing quiet at 3 27½@3 30c. for domestic. Spelter has declined and the close was dull at 3 40c. for domestic. Pig iron has been steady, closing at $12@14 50 for domestic.

Refined petroleum has continued in fair demand, closing at 7 10c. in bbls., 4 60c. in bulk and 7 55c. in cases; crude in bbls. has been nominal; naphtha unchanged at 8 25c. Crude certificates have advanced, closing at $1 29½ bid. Spirits turpentine has sold slowly and prices have weakened slightly, closing at 28@28½c. Rosins have been in light supply and firmly held, closing at $1 65@1 70 for common and good strained. Wool has been quiet but steady. Hops have had a better trade at steady prices.

The speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market for the week under review has been quite active and values made a rapid advance—not, however, without some sharp fluctuations. The close shows advance for the week of 33 to 35 points for the active months. On Saturday there was a slight decline in values, but on Monday slightly higher futures in Liverpool, with a more active spot market there, together with liberal buying orders from the South and from Chicago, caused a buoyant market. On Tuesday the opening was buoyant again, in response to a sharp advance in Liverpool, better reports from Manchester and a small crop movement. But the highest figures of that day being 35 points above the close on Saturday last led some of the bull party to think the rise had been too rapid, and, under free selling to realize, together with fuller offerings of cotton for early arrival from interior towns, caused the loss of part of the advance. On Wednesday there was renewed buoyancy in response to a much better market in Liverpool, the large spot business there being a leading feature, and at one time prices were 17@19 points higher; but the demand fell off, and under some selling to realize, due to fuller interior receipts, prices receded, and the close was only 11@13 points dearer. Yesterday a "war scare" from Europe broke down the Liverpool market, and we followed suit to the extent of 15@17 points, but the continued small crop movement, to which a frost report was added in the last hour, caused the recovery of most of the early decline. To-day an early advance in response to a partial recovery in Liverpool was soon lost under free selling to realize under estimates of an increased crop movement for next week, and after the noon call prices further gave way. The close was steady at 5@9 points decline for the day. Cotton on the spot, notwithstanding the considerable accumulation of stocks, was very sparingly offered, and prices rapidly advanced early in the week, and on Wednesday had risen to 9c. for middling uplands, and the close to-day was quiet at this figure.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 1,584,300 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 7,917 bales, including —— for export, 2,917 for consumption —— for speculation and 5,000 on contract. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week.

Rates on and off middling, as established Nov. 22, 1886, by the Revision Committee, at which grades other than middling may be delivered on contract:

Fair	c. 1⅛ on	Good Ordinary	c. 1⅛ off.
Middling Fair	⅞ on	Good Middling Tinged	Even.
Strict Good Middling	¼ on	Strict Middling Stained	1/32 off.

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table indicates the actual movement each week from the plantations. The figures do not include overland receipts nor Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

The above statement shows: 1.—That the total receipts from the plantations since Sept. 1, 1895, are 1,953,202 bales; in 1894 were 2,530,120 bales; in 1893 were 2,055,395 bales.

2.—That although the receipts at the outports the past week were 251,087 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 290,507 bales, the balance going to increase the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the week were 480,903 bales and for 1893 they were 379,340 bales.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT FOR THE WEEK AND SINCE SEPT. 1.—We give below a statement showing the overland movement for the week and since September 1. As the returns reach us by telegraph late Friday night it is impossible to enter so largely into detail as in our regular monthly report, but all the principal matters of interest are given. This weekly publication is of course supplementary to the more extended monthly statements. The results for the week ending Nov. 1 and since Sept. 1 in the last two years are as follows:

A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

COTTON CONSUMPTION AND OVERLAND MOVEMENT TO NOV. 1.—In our editorial columns to-day will be found our usual overland movement report brought down to November 1.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &c.—The market for jute bagging has remained dull during the week under review. Transactions have been very limited in quantity, the season's business being practically over. The close this evening is at 4c. for 1¾ lbs., 4⅜c. for 2 lbs. and 4¾c. for standard grades in a jobbing way. Car-load lots of standard brands are quoted at 4c. for 1¾ lbs., 4⅜c. for 2 lbs. and 4¾c. for 2¼ lbs. f. o. b. at New York. Jute butts on the spot have been very quiet and are quoted at 1 1-16c. for paper quality and 1⅛c. for mixing. Bagging quality is nominal.

EAST INDIA COTTON MILLS.—We have received this week from Messrs. Lyon, Comber & Co., Bombay, the results of the operations of the cotton mills in India for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895. The number of spinning and weaving mills now in existence is 148, or a gain of six during the year. The subjoined statement indicates the location of these mills, their spindles, looms, &c., and the number of bales consumed.

* One in course of erection. † Five in course of erection or projected.

Of the 148 mills in the above table 142 were actually at work on the 30th of June, one in Bombay Island and four in the presidency were in course of erection, and one projected. In the twelve months the addition to the spindles in India shows an increase of 168,929; the addition to looms has been 4,184, and the increase in consumption has been 118,006 bales.

The results as stated above cover the year ended with June 30 last. We now give a table which indicates the progress made in cotton-manufacturing in India during the past sixteen years.

EAST INDIA CROP PROSPECTS.—The following is from Messrs. Lyon, Comber & Co's Circular dated Bombay, September 27:

Crop prospects in nearly all districts continue satisfactory, and if the weather henceforth is as favorable as it has been of late, a good deal more cotton will be available for export in the coming season than of late years. Picking of the early-sown and irrigated Bengals has already commenced, but the bulk of the crop is showing bolls rapidly ripening. In Berar and Khandeish the plants are in flower and bolls appearing, and unless heavy rain falls both Bengals—which promised at one time to be a late crop—and Oomras will be marketed earlier than of late years. Broach and Dholleras are flourishing, especially the former, but more rain would do a great deal of good to the latter.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 2, 1895.

Business in the market for wheat flour has been moderately active. Spring patents have received most of the attention of trade at steady prices. Trade brands of winter-wheat flour have also been in fair demand, but the scarcity of supplies and the high views of holders have had a tendency to check business. A fairly good demand has been reported for city mills at steady prices. Rye flour has been quiet. Buckwheat flour has continued to meet with a slow trade and prices have again weakened slightly. Corn meal has received a limited amount of attention at steady prices.

During the first half of the week the speculative dealings in the market for wheat futures lacked spirit and prices declined under liquidating sales, prompted by dull and easier foreign advices and later by the fall of much needed rains in the winter-wheat belt. Yesterday, however, speculation was fairly active, and during the latter part of the day war talk stimulated a demand from "shorts" to cover contracts and prices advanced. In the spot market shippers have been limited buyers, but a brisk business was checked by the firmer views of holders, due to limited supplies. The sales yesterday included No. 2 red winter at 4c. over December f.o.b. afloat; No. 1 Northern at 1½c. over December f.o.b. afloat and No. 1 hard spring at 3c. over December f.o.b. afloat. To-day the market declined under the failure of the war talk circulated yesterday to materialize and in response to weaker foreign advices. The spot market was quiet. The sales included No. 1 Northern at 1½c. over December f.o.b. afloat and No. 3 hard Manitoba at 2½c. under December f.o.b. afloat.

Speculation in the market for Indian corn futures has been quiet, and early in the week prices declined, particularly for the near-by deliveries, owing to the settlement of the "short" interest in October contracts and in sympathy with the weakness in wheat; but subsequently predictions of a decrease in the crop movement caused a slight recovery. The spot market has been quiet and prices have weakened with futures. The sales yesterday included No. 2 mixed at 36½c. delivered and No. 2 white at 37c. in elevator. To-day the market was weaker in sympathy with the decline in wheat. The spot market was steady. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 38c. delivered and 21¾@23⅞c. over November f. o. b. afloat; also No. 2 white at 37c. in elevator and yellow at 38½c. delivered.

Oats for future delivery have been quiet and prices made fractional declines in sympathy with the weakness in wheat and corn. Yesterday, however, there was a demand from "shorts" to cover contracts, stimulated by an expected decrease in the crop movement, and prices advanced. In the spot market business has been quiet and prices have followed futures. The sales yesterday included No. 2 mixed at 24c. in elevator and No 2 white at 24½@25c. in elevator. To-day the market was dull and easier. The spot market was steady. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 24c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 25c. in elevator.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 1, 1895.

There has been little material change in the market for cotton goods this week. The demand has been restricted in seasonable goods and staples to immediate requirements, and orders have consequently been for limited quantities only, both on the spot and through the mails. The firmness of the market in face of the slow business passing has been conspicuous. Spot prices are supported by the limited extent of supplies available for quick delivery whilst sellers have been re-established in their conservatism with regard to business for future delivery of staples by the renewed strength of the market for raw material. Southern manufacturers generally adhered to their high-priced cotton views, and are as a result difficult to deal with outside of stock goods. The demand for specialties in cotton dress fabrics for spring encourages hopes of an excellent season in these. The woolen goods departments are dull, and several failures of cloak houses during the past week have been a disagreeable feature. The failure of Bamberger, Bloom & Co. jobbers, Louisville, Ky., with liabilities of about a million and a quarter dollars, was also a disagreeable surprise to the general market. A large auction sale of silks was held on Wednesday at which over 7,000 pieces were distributed at fair prices.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The reorder demand for light-weight woolens comes forward with disappointing slowness, but business has been helped to some extent by a demand for medium-priced grades to replace foreign goods ordered some time ago upon which sellers have failed to make deliveries. Staple worsteds are generally well sold, Clay diagonals being scarce and very firm. There is still but little doing in new heavy weights yet, outside of a few of the most staple lines, and no new features developed in connection with the price situation. Satinets, cotton-warp worsteds and doeskin jeans are quiet and unaltered. Overcoatings and cloakings are dull throughout. Flannels, blankets and carpets firm, with a quiet business doing. The demand for dress goods in both fall and spring lines is fair, and in desirable varieties prices are firm and occasionally tending upwards.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending October 28 were 2,285 packages, valued at $120,940, their destination being to the points specified in the table below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year has been $7,464,296 in 1895 against $9,414,162 in 1894.

Business in brown sheetings, as also in brown drills, has been on a limited scale at firm prices, neither the home trade nor exporters buying to any extent. Brown ducks and osnaburgs are likewise dull but firm. Prices all unchanged. Dennins are dull and only a restricted demand is reported for ticks, plaids, cheviots and other coarse colored cottons; leading makes are in limited supply and prices unaltered. New demand is slow for bleached cottons in all grades, but the market does not give way at all. Kid-finished cambrics are very dull and other linings quiet at unchanged prices. Cotton flannels and blankets in light request and still in limited supply in all popular grades. Wide sheetings dull and unaltered. The demand for prints has been steady for small quantities; stocks in small compass and prices firm. Specialties for spring selling well. Spring ginghams and other light work in woven-patterned lines in promising request. Napped fabrics doing well and new lines occasionally ¼c. higher. Print cloths have been firm all week on the basis of 3¼c. for extras, but sales moderate.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—There has been a quiet market in this department. Seasonable requirements are small and orders light for general assortments. In spring business the demand is of fair extent in dress goods, silks, ribbons and linens, and prices generally firm.

The United States Life Insurance Co.

IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

This old and reliable Company now has the experience of forty-five years of practical Life Insurance, which has taught it that the sine qua non of success is the adoption of good plans of insurance, and the pursuit of a liberal policy towards both its Insured and its Agents. These essentials it possesses in an eminent degree, but judiciously tempered by that conservatism which is the best possible safeguard of the policy-holder. Its contracts are incontestable after two years. They are non-forfeiting, providing generally for either paid-up policy or extended insurance, at the option of the policy-holder. It gives ten days of grace in payment of all premiums. Its course during the past forty-five years abundantly demonstrates its absolute security.

Active and successful Agents, wishing to represent this Company, may communicate with the President at the Home Office, 261 Broadway, New York.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The elections have formed the event of the week. As an influence on the markets they have been prevented by the state of our currency and exchanges from being of any immediate account; as an expression of the course and condition of public opinion they have been most emphatic and significant. Financial affairs are in a vexatious tangle; they hamper all industrial enterprise and require heroic reorganization. This is the diagnosis of the people, and by a verdict surprisingly unanimous they have commissioned the party that has proved by its history to be the more reliable in financial emergencies, to relieve the existing embarrassment. It was irrational to think they could have committed the work to the hands of those now in control. That might have happened had not the wise action at the extra session of Congress been followed at the subsequent sessions by an utter obscuration of all faculty for finance, an obstinate disregard of the needs of Government repeatedly urged by the President and his Secretary, and ending in that climax of populistic legislation, an income-tax law, ostentatiously framed with the unconcealed purpose of being unequal and unjust. But possibly even all this might have been forgotten had not the public memory been refreshed and its fears sensitized by the developments of the past year, especially in some Western and Eastern States, proving that the control of the party was still under the lead of those who encouraged riots and under the management of the unwise councils that had so long and so effectually blocked the passage of remedial statutes.

Our adverse financial conditions have been aggravated this week in some measure by the European political situation. Constantly recurring disturbances in various parts of the Turkish Empire led to a declaration by the Powers, communicated to the Turkish Government, that if adequate measures were not adopted at once to bring about a restoration of order the Powers would decide in concert upon the steps to be taken. This action was made public on Tuesday and was construed by many to point towards the dismemberment of Turkey and to possible serious complications between the European governments. On the following day London cables reported a sharp decline in consols in London and an advance in the open market discount rate at that centre to 1@1½ per cent, caused, according to private cables, by the withdrawal of £100,000 for Turkey and £250,000 for Paris, where there was a flurry in internationals due to the advices above mentioned and to the rumor that an important house in Paris which had been extensively dealing in South African mining shares was embarrassed, the report being that an extension of time for Bourse settlements had been allowed.

The circumstance that throughout the various periodical adjustments of stock transactions at London and Paris the discount rates at those centres have not been affected to any appreciable extent, although the declines in the South African mining shares have been sharp at each settlement involving material shrinkages in market values—these facts led to the belief that the rise in the discount rates at London now indicated a political situation abroad which was very grave. But notwithstanding this was the almost general sentiment, it did not seem to be shared in any degree by the foreign bankers, who simply adjusted their rates of exchange to conform to the alteration in the open market discount rates. In the afternoon of Wednesday news came that the political feeling in Europe was less anxious, though consols again declined on Thursday, and the open market discount rates at London, Paris and Berlin remained firm at the advance. Yesterday there was a further fall in consols on adverse financial advices from the Continent; but bankers expressed the opinion that the financial situation abroad was less strained than the situation which our currency defects caused here, and that no gold would have to be shipped, though our foreign exchange market was quoted as very strong, with rates at the highest point of the week.

Whatever may be the monetary outlook, there can be no question of the continued activity in trade. There is perhaps no better indication of this than the returns of bank clearings. We have compiled this week our statement for the month of October, and it shows an increase over the corresponding month last year of nearly 1,000 million dollars. The ratio of improvement is 22·1 per cent, and this follows over 6 per cent increase last year. In September the present year the increase had been 18·4 per cent, in August but 16·1 per cent. In July the increase had been 29·8 per cent, but then we were comparing with the strike period in 1894. Outside of New York the ratio of improvement for October is 14·8 per cent, which compares with 8·6 per cent for September and 7·7 per cent for August, and is the largest percentage of increase for any month of the year with the exception of July. Comparing the aggregate of the clearings for the last four years the totals stand as follows: 1895, 5,245 millions; 1894, 4,295 millions; 1893, 4,036 millions; 1892, 5,419 millions. Thus the present year's total is only about 3 per cent less than the very large total for 1892, before the panic had occurred.

The significance of this showing becomes apparent when we consider that the conditions have been by no means all favorable. To be sure we have had large grain crops (all except winter wheat) the present year, and these are proving of decided advantage. The benefits that are accruing in the spring-wheat sections, both from a large crop movement and the increased trade activity resulting from the excellent harvests, are shown in the gain of $860,968 in earnings reported by the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul for the month of October as compared with the same month last year. On the other hand, the corn crop has not begun to move yet, and many districts are consequently still feeling the effects of last year's crop failure in that cereal. Then, too, the cotton crop the present year is short. Of course to the planter the loss in this way is offset by the greatly increased price which he is able to get for the staple, but that a smaller crop is nevertheless an important factor in reducing the volume of business is made apparent by the heavy losses in earnings which the leading Southwestern roads sustained during October—the Missouri Kansas & Texas reporting $175,472 decrease for the month, the Texas & Pacific $226,570 decrease, the St. Louis Southwestern $71,659 decrease, and the International & Great Northern $123,902 decrease. That bank clearings should compare so well with the best of previous years in face of the adverse circumstances here enumerated, must be accepted as evidence that our industries on the whole are being kept actively employed.

Money on call at the Stock Exchange is without change, loaning generally at 2 per cent, with a moderate amount at 2½ per cent, and averaging about 2½ per cent. Banks and trust companies quote 2 per cent as the minimum. There is a little better demand for time contracts, and some loans have been made at 4 per cent for six and 3½ per cent for four to five months. Quotations are 2 per cent for thirty days, 2½ per cent for sixty to ninety days, 3 per cent for four, and 3½@4 per cent for five to six months on good marketable collateral. The supply of the best commercial paper is not large, but the demand is good and quotations are 4½ per cent for sixty to ninety day endorsed bills receivable, 4½@5 per cent for four months' commission house and prime four months' single names; 5@5½ per cent for prime six months' and 6 per cent and above for good four to six months' single names.

The prominent features in the European financial and political situation have been noted above. The fact that Berlin bankers have agreed upon a loan of £10,000,000 to Russia for conversion purposes is regarded by the London Times as an indication that the situation of the European bourses is less acute. The Ottoman Bank is meeting its engagements, declining to take advantage of the decree of the Sultan authorizing it to defer payments for a month, and it is asserted that over £1,000,000 are on the way to it from London, Paris and Vienna. The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 2 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety-day bank bills in London 1½@1¾ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 1½ per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 3 per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England lost £801,385 bullion during the week and held at the close of the week £40,902,644. Our correspondent further advises us that the loss was due to the export of £739,000 (of which £364,000 were to Egypt, £250,000 were to France, £100,000 to Turkey and £25,000 to Malta), to £310,000 sent to the interior of Great Britain and to an import of £248,000, of which £242,000 were bought in the open market and £6,000 were from Australia.

The foreign exchange market has been quite firm this week, influenced in some measure by the less favorable financial conditions in Europe, by a good demand for remittance and by a scarcity of bills. It was reported early in the week that one of the leading bankers had sold £500,000 sterling, but this report could not be verified, and inquiry revealed the fact that this house was actually buying bills at the time it was said to be selling. Bankers who usually, through their connections, handle fairly large amounts of cotton bills at this season say that their receipts have been quite small, and even on Wednesday when there was an accumulation over the election holiday the mail brought comparatively few and these were deliveries on contracts made ten or fifteen days ago. One prominent banker reports that his receipts of bills on contracts have been about £1,250,000, making £4,250,000 since about the first week in October. Though it has been almost daily reported that arbitrage selling of stocks for European account has been large, bankers say that the arbitrage operations have had little effect upon exchange, and it therefore follows that the reports of selling have been exaggerated. The market was steady and dull on Monday, with a fair supply of commercial bills and a light inquiry. Rates for actual business in sterling were unchanged as compared with Friday of last week, but francs were a fraction higher. On Wednesday Brown Brothers & Co. reduced the posted rates for long sterling to 4 88, to conform to the advance in the open market discount rate to 1@1½ in London, while Lazard Freres advanced the short rate to 4 90. Rates for actual business were 4 87½@4 87¾ for long, a reduction of one-quarter of a cent, 4 88¾@4 89 for short, the same as on Monday, and 4 89½@4 89¾ for cable transfers, an advance of one-quarter of a cent. The market was firm all day with light offerings of bills and a good demand. On Thursday Brown Bros. advanced the 60-day rate to 4 88½ and the sight to 4 90, while the Bank of British North America and Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co. moved their short rate up to 4 90. The only change made in rates for actual business was in sight, which was advanced one-quarter of a cent to 4 89@4 89½. The market was strong all day and it was quoted as very strong at the close, though then private cables showed an advance in the rate for sterling at Paris on London from 25fr. 18c. to 25fr. 21½c.@25fr. 22½c., indicating an improvement in the situation at that centre. Yesterday there was a further rise in Paris exchange on London to 25fr. 23c., and our exchange market continued strong, closing very firm. Some more of the foreign bankers marked their posted rates for sight up to 4 90 and rates for actual business in sterling were advanced one-quarter cent for long and the same for cable transfers. The following table shows the daily posted rates for exchange by leading drawers.

The market closed very firm on Friday at 4 88¼ for sixty days and 4 89½@4 90 for sight. Rates for actual business were 4 87½@4 88 for long, 4 89@4 89½ for short and 4 89½@4 89¾ for cable transfers. Prime commercial bills were 4 87@4 87½ and documentary 4 86½@4 86¾.

The American Cotton Oil Company has this week issued its annual report for the year ending August 31 1895, and to carry out the suggestion of the New York Stock Exchange that the reports of corporations whose securities are dealt in at the Exchange should be distributed to the stockholders at least fifteen days in advance of the annual meetings, the date of the Cotton Oil meeting has been changed to the first Thursday in December, thus giving the holders ample time in which to study the report. This step accords with the past history of the company. Its accounts have always been stated clearly and fully, and its stockholders, unlike those interested in other industrial properties, have never had occasion to complain that knowledge of the company's condition or affairs was being withheld from them. Its business, too, under the intelligent guidance of Mr. Edward D. Adams, has been wisely and skilfully managed. One indication of this, to which we have alluded on previous occasions, is the very small trade losses incurred from bad debts. That has been a feature in the company's affairs from the first, but is the more noteworthy now in view of the great depression in business from which the whole country has suffered, for at such a time weakness of that kind is most likely to be disclosed. On an aggregate business of $21,069,821 the trade losses in the late year were but $48,757, or only 231 thousandths of one per cent—this being the smallest percentage of any of the years.

Considering the industrial depression, too, the showing of income for the late year is very satisfactory, the net profits being somewhat larger than for the year preceding, standing at $831,671 (after allowing for all expenses and also interest on the debenture bonds), against $696,297. The gross amount of the sales was $21,069,821, against $23,879,400 for 1893-4, but the loss in this case follows entirely from the lower prices received for the company's products. Mr. Adams states that while the cash value of the sales has decreased 11·77 per cent, the quantity sold increased 4·79 per cent. Mr. Adams also notes that new conditions at home and abroad had to be met. Prices of the products continued to fall until late in the season, when the decrease averaged about 25 per cent. The cotton crop proved to be the largest ever gathered; the quantity of seed crushed has never been exceeded, and the price of the seed as a result naturally fell; but Mr. Adams says that at no time was this fall in relative proportion to the decline in the prices of the products. The fact therefore that the company was able to increase its net profits notwithstanding the adverse conditions is both encouraging and gratifying. The net profits at $831,671 were $201,780 in excess of the requirements for the 6 per cent dividend on the preferred stock. A valuable feature of the report is comparative statements of the income account and balance sheet for the last five years, enabling one to see at a glance the changes which have taken place from year to year. The amount of the bills payable outstanding was reduced during the twelve months from $1,300,000 to $1,015,000.

In the earlier portion of this article we have referred to the favorable nature of the comparison of bank clearings for the month of October. We give below the figures for each month of the year, both with and without New York.

When we come to examine the results for the different sections we find that the Eastern manufacturing centres show on the whole the largest improvement. In the group comprising the cities in the Middle States the increase is 27·4 per cent, in the New England section it is 18·6 per cent. On the other hand, in the Middle Western section the gain is only 8·2 per cent, in the Far Western section 11·2 per cent, and in the Pacific Coast section but 7 per cent. This bears out what was said above with reference to the influence of last year's crop failure in continuing to affect adversely many districts. In the Southern group the increase is 15·7 per cent, but the effect of the short cotton yield the present season is seen in the loss in clearings reported at such points as Houston and Fort Worth. In the following we furnish a comparison of the clearings at a number of leading cities for the last four years.

ADDITIONAL REVENUE LEGISLATION NOT REQUIRED BUT DESIRABLE.

Perhaps the most conspicuous feature of the Government's monthly reports published this week is the large amount of the October disbursements they disclose. Over 35 million dollars ($35,102,000 including the national bank redemption fund) is the aggregate reported paid on all the accounts. We do not mean to convey the idea that these expenditures are larger than ever before. They have twice this year been in excess of that total, but those occasions were January and July, when the interest payments called for 2 million dollars more than fell due in October. The disbursements were also a little larger in July 1894, again in January and July 1893, and likewise in the same months of 1892; with those exceptions, however, (all of which were interest periods when 2 million dollars more of interest fell due than at any other date in the year) no month in any of the years named has equaled last month's record of expenditures.

That feature, though likely to attract attention, appears on a closer examination not to have any important significance. The explanation is that the expenditures proved conspicuously large because some of the previous months were unusually small. September expenditures for instance were only a little over 25 million dollars, against a little more than 35 millions in October. Our readers are aware that this large difference is partly accounted for by an excess in the October interest payments of about 5 million dollars. But aside from that the disbursements in the ten months of 1895 other than for interest have, even after adding the large total in October, averaged less than they averaged for the twelve months of 1894; and hence not only October 1895 but the remaining two months of this year ought to be considerably above the average hitherto to bring the total disbursements in 1895 up to the total in 1894.

The falling off in the aggregate expenditures during the first ten months of 1895 has occurred among the items we class under the head of "ordinary." By reference to our monthly statement of Government receipts and disbursements (given as usual in the department of "Commercial and Miscellaneous News"), it will be noticed that the payments under that head (which covers the appropriations designated in the Treasury Department report as "Civil and Miscellaneous," "War Department," "Navy Department" and "Indians,") have been for the ten months of 1895 only $151,277,000, against $165,849,000 for the same ten months of 1894. Even for the four months of the fiscal year, that is from July 1 to Nov. 1, this total has reached only $67,682,000 in 1895 against $70,030,000 in 1894, or a decrease of about 2½ million dollars, notwithstanding the appropriations for the two years for the objects named were not materially changed. For these reasons it would seem that large total expenditures above the average in October were to be anticipated, and have no significance.

These disbursements then are mainly of interest for the light they throw on the question of the sufficiency or the insufficiency of the Government income under the existing tariff and internal revenue laws. We are drawing near the period for the meeting of a new Congress, when Secretary Carlisle will no doubt disclose all the difficulties of this problem. But it seems pretty clear that until business shall further materially improve the Government income will be short at least to the extent of a considerable portion of the interest account. At the same time it may be said that the revenue continues to look promising. Of course Customs payments were off a little in October, as we suggested a month ago they would be. But the internal revenue taxes show great vitality. The total receipts under that head were $13,217,000 last month against $13,260,000 in September, or nearly a million dollars increase. Besides, October's enlarged total follows quite full totals in the same department of revenue ever since the current fiscal year began and shows most clearly that the country's consumption has not only absorbed the surplus "spirits" thrown on the market in 1894 but is materially increasing.

This speaks well for the Government income in 1896 so far as concerns the internal revenue taxes. Under the old law 12½ million dollars of receipts a month was a moderate average; under the new law when business revival has become as pronounced everywhere as it is at this centre $16,000,000 ought to be about the average, reckoned on the basis of the higher tax and the same per capita consumption. With reference to the future revenue from Customs duties it is more difficult to reach a definite conclusion; and yet the results thus far obtained ought to afford a safe forecast. Take for instance the months of July, August and September 1895, the latest months for which we have trade figures. Assuming that the receipts from Customs duties given in the Government record for each of those months were paid wholly on the merchandise imports of the month (not absolutely accurate because of the warehouse movement), we shall find that the Customs payments were in July 19¼ per cent of the month's imports, in August 22 per cent of that month's imports and in September 22½ per cent of the imports; or taking the average of the three months the percentage of the Customs receipts to imports would be 21¼ per cent.

The above result, though not claimed to be made up from absolutely accurate data, is we think sufficiently near accuracy to afford a basis for a close approximation to the probable Customs revenue under the present tariff law. For instance 1890, 1891 and 1892, the years immediately preceding our panic, were fairly prosperous years. The total merchandise imports in those years we may expect will be equaled again as soon as business has so far revived as to make consumption normal. In 1890 the total merchandise imports were $823,397,726; in 1891 they were $828,320,943; in 1892 they were $840,930,955. Estimating the receipts from Customs duties on these imports at 21¼ per cent—the above average rate of Customs receipts for the three months of 1895—the year's Customs receipts under the new tariff on imports equal to those of 1890 would be $174,972,017 on imports equal to those of 1891 they would be $176,018,200 and on imports equal to those of 1892 they would be $178,697,828. That is to say, the productiveness of the new tariff law when imports are normal again will be about 15 million dollars a month. Taking then the internal revenue receipts at 16 million dollars a month, Customs duties at 15 million dollars a month and miscellaneous as at present say 1¼ million dollars, and we have a total monthly Government revenue under the existing laws of 32¼ million dollars, or an annual income of $387,000,000, which would afford a comfortable surplus, applicable to the sinking fund.

The foregoing seems to us to present a fair and moderate interpretation of the future productiveness of the new tax laws when the business of the country shall have returned to a normal state. These suggestions are interesting and useful because they indicate that there is no actual necessity for agitating the subject of new taxation the coming winter. At the same time the state of industrial affairs and of Government revenue existing to-day make it obvious that more revenue secured at once would hasten business revival; but on the other hand a wrangle over a bill changing tariff rates which if passed the President would no doubt veto would harm business and therefore be worse than useless.

GROWTH OF NATIONAL BANKING SYSTEM ARRESTED.

Some quite noteworthy changes have been going on in the national banking system during the last two years which up to the present time have not yet attracted a great deal of attention. Growth and expansion were for a long period the characteristics of the system—growth in the number of banks, growth in capital, growth in deposits, in loans, and in fact in all the leading items. Instead of that we now have contraction and retrogression.

The change of course dates from the panic of 1893. The Comptroller calls for five statements of the condition of the banks every year, and up to the panic practically each return showed an increase in the size and magnitude of the system. It will perhaps be remembered that we frequently called attention to this growth, more particularly in the organization of new banks of small size in the remoter sections of the country where banking facilities appeared to be most needed. Steady development was such a regular feature of the returns that it had almost come to be regarded as inseparable from the system. Nor was this development difficult to understand. The commerce and business of the country had been growing in a wonderful way, and the national banking system enjoying great popularity and prestige, and apparently well fitted to meet the expanding requirements of trade, grew with the country.

During the panic the banks were called upon to face unusually trying conditions, and to the surprise of most persons a great many of the institutions were unable to stand the strain and were forced into the hands of receivers. In the report of the Comptroller of the Currency for 1893 it was shown that during the year ending October 31 no less than 158 national banks with a capital of $30,350,000 had suspended; 93 of these were found to be solvent and subsequently resumed, but this still left 65 banks with a capital of $10,935,000 bankrupt—a larger aggregate both in number and capital than the insolvencies of any preceding year since the organization of the national banking system, and in fact larger than for any half-dozen previous years taken together. But the conditions which disclosed this weakness were clearly exceptional, and it was supposed that the resulting set-back would be merely temporary, that a quick recovery would ensue, and that thereafter the system would resume its onward and upward course. It appears now that so far from the downward movement having been arrested it is still in progress; and that is the most striking feature about it. To bring out this fact, we give the following statement to show the number of banks in the national system at each call of the Comptroller during the last two years.

NUMBER OF NATIONAL BANKS.

Date.	Number.	Date.	Number.
September 28 1895	3,712	May 4 1894	3,774
July 11 1895	3,715	February 28 1894	3,777
May 7 1895	3,711	December 19 1893	3,787
March 5 1895	3,728	October 3 1893	3,781
December 19 1894	3,737	July 12 1893	3,808
October 2 1894	3,755	May 4 1893	3,830
July 18 1894	3,770

We go back in the foregoing to May 4, 1893. This was just before the advent of the panic, when the number of the banks was the largest ever reported, namely 3,830. Since then the Comptroller has made twelve calls for statements from the banks, and at each of those calls, with only two exceptions, the number of banks, it will be seen, had diminished. The number at the latest date (September 28 1895) was 3,712, which thus shows a decline since May 4 1893 of 118. Of this loss 43 occurred during the last twelve months. When it is remembered that in the interval a good many new banks have been organized, and that this decline represents the net loss after allowing for these new institutions, it is evident how formidable the movement has become. In the case of the capital of the banks there has of course been a contemporaneous loss. In the following we give the aggregate capital for the same dates as in the table above.

CAPITAL OF NATIONAL BANKS.

Date.	Amount.	Date.	Amount.
September 28 1895	$657,135,498	May 4 1894	$675,868,815
July 11 1895	658,224,179	February 28 1894	678,536,910
May 7 1895	659,146,736	December 19 1893	681,812,960
March 5 1895	662,100,100	October 3 1893	678,540,339
December 19 1894	666,271,045	July 12 1893	685,786,719

Here we find a reduction at the date of every call with but one exception, so that the amount of the capital now is only $657,135,498, against $688,701,200 on May 4 1893, a decrease of over 31½ million dollars. In order, however, to get the highest total of capital ever reported, we must go a little further back—to December 9 1892, when the amount was $689,698,017. As compared with that date the loss is over 32½ million dollars, and of that loss 11¼ million dollars occurred during the last twelve months. In this case the same remark applies as in the case of the number of banks: the loss is the net loss after allowing for the additions through the formation of new banks.

What accounts for this large and continuous falling off? In the main the reasons are found in the great depression in business, out of which we are now emerging, which on the one hand forced many traders to the wall (thus involving the banks in loss because of bad accounts, especially in the remoter parts of the country), and on the other hand diminished the requirements for money, causing interest rates at the leading monetary centres to drop to extraordinarily low figures and making it difficult for the banks to earn a profit from their business. It is of course well understood that the national banking system does not now offer the opportunities for profit that it did in its early days, when the banks were able to derive such large gains from their note issues. In those days the privilege of issuing circulation was very valuable, and was one of the great attractions of the system. But since Government bonds have advanced to such high figures as virtually to take away the profit from issuing circulation, the situation has changed. Practically the national banks now stand on the same basis as other banks—that is they are dependent for their profits and prosperity upon their ordinary business. But, as we have seen, with trade depressed, profit-making in this way has been very difficult, and thus the situation has been a trying one to the national banks as to others.

The Comptroller of the Currency in his last report gave some figures which illustrate strikingly how the earnings of the banks have been reduced through the depression in business and the extinction of the profit on circulation. The Comptroller found that while the average percentage of net earnings on capital and surplus since 1869 (when the act of Congress became operative requiring national banks to report earnings and dividends) had been 8·2 per cent and of dividends 6·6 per cent, the net earnings during the year (1894) covered by his report had amounted to only 5·6 per cent and the dividends to only 5 per cent. This latter was the smallest percentage of dividends ever paid, and the percentage of earnings fell below all years except 1878 and 1879. The continued stagnation in commercial circles, the Comptroller said, with its attendant business embarrassments, had in some instances consumed surplus and undivided profits, and even demanded substantial assessments upon the shareholders to make good impairment of capital. That this remark regarding the draft upon the surplus fund was correct appears from the fact that on December 19 1894 the total of the fund was reported only $244,937,174 against $249,138,300 on July 12 1893. It is gratifying to note that in the interval since the close of 1894 some recovery has taken place, and that on September 28 1895 the amount stood at $246,448,426.

The trying conditions to which the banks were subjected operated adversely in three different ways: (1) in leading a great many institutions to go into voluntary liquidation; (2) in causing an unusual number of failures even during the late year, and (3) in diminishing the number of new banks organized. The first of these movements has reached large proportions, and is of course the direct result of the inability to earn a profit out of the banking business. For the year ending October 1894 the Comptroller reported no less than 79 banks as having gone into voluntary liquidation, a number exceeded in only one other year, namely 1885. We have shown above that during the late year —that is between October 2 1894 and September 28 1895—there had been a net decrease in the number of banks in existence of 43. From the weekly returns furnished to us from Washington, we have sought to determine how this net decrease of 43 is made up. While we cannot be sure that a computation reached in this way is absolutely correct, it is certain to be very close to the actual result. According to such method of computation 47 banks voluntarily went out of business in the late year in addition to the 79 in the previous year. We also find that 35 banks failed during the year. In 1893, the panic year, as already stated, 65 banks failed, but with that single exception the present year's aggregate of failures has never been exceeded. The year is also exceptional in the very small number of new banks organized. We can discover only 39 for the twelve months, which is less than in any previous year since the resumption of gold payments in 1879. In a great many of the more recent years the new additions reached two and three hundred.

It is decidedly instructive to note where the losses in capital and in the number of banks have chiefly occurred during the last two years. We find that in this part of the country there has been no decrease at all, but rather an increase. Thus in the Eastern Middle States (comprising New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania) there are now 847 banks with a capital of $175,680,465, against only 816 banks with a capital of $173,272,800 in May 1893. The same is true of the Southern Middle section (comprising Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia) and the Western Middle section (comprising Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin), in the one of which there are now 167 banks with a capital of $30,109,245, against 163 banks with a capital of $29,558,245; and in the other 756 banks with $122,442,339 capital, against 753 banks with $121,796,175 capital in 1893. In the New England section there has been a small decline, there being now 589 banks with a capital of $163,081,620, against 597 banks with $166,985,920 capital at the earlier date. On the other hand, in the Southern, the Far Western and the Pacific States the losses are very heavy. In the Southern States there are now only 492 banks with $61,619,130 capital, against 522 banks with $71,462,160 capital in 1893; this includes Texas, with 214 banks and $21,379,730 capital, against 227 banks and $26,170,000 capital. In the Far Western States the number of banks is 617 with $71,937,100 capital, against 674 banks with $85,088,900 capital; in the Pacific Western, 129 banks with $15,983,600 capital, against 155 with $20,585,000 capital; and in the Pacific Coast section, 115 banks with $16,232,000 capital, against 150 with $19,952,000 capital. The changes in the case of some of the separate States are very striking indeed; Washington, for instance, having only 47 banks now with $5,055,000 capital, against 70 banks with $7,475,000 capital in 1893; Kansas, 123 banks with $9,987,100 capital, against 140 banks with $12,092,100 capital; Nebraska, 117 with $11,640,000, against 136 with $13,093,100; Missouri 67 with $17,665,000, against 80 with $23,915,000; Colorado, 45 with $6,437,000, against 53 with $9,060,000, etc.

In brief, we see that the elimination of banks and of capital (largely through insolvency) has been greatest in the remoter parts of the country. These are the sections where real estate values were most inflated and also the sections which suffered most from the depression in mining and in agriculture. Under such conditions doubtless it would have been difficult to prevent extensive bank failures under any banking system. It is nevertheless unfortunate that the national system should have proved weakest where it had been hoped it would prove strongest. The matter is of importance chiefly because we had educated ourselves to think that the national system possessed superior advantages and might be regarded as practically invulnerable under all circumstances and conditions. The result shows that good management, sound judgment and activity in trade are as essential to the national banks as to others.

THE MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Massachusetts is one of the large manufacturing States, and therefore the statistics of manufactures for 1894 just issued by the Bureau of Statistics of Labor will be received with the customary welcome. The present volume is issued a little later than that of other years, but under the intelligent supervision and guidance of Mr. Horace G. Wadlin, the Chief of the Bureau, the statistics are presented with the usual detail and the usual care.

The results being for the calendar year 1894, a year of intense depression in business, possess more than the ordinary interest. We showed two weeks ago how the depression had affected the railroads, the largest single industry in the country, and these statistics of manufactures enable us to form an idea as to the course of the general range of industries. There is this difference, however, between the two sets of figures: the railroad statistics were for the fiscal year ending June 30, a year continuously as well as unprecedentedly bad from beginning to end, whereas the Massachusetts manufacturing statistics are for the calendar year 1894, during the latter part of which some recovery in business occurred.

In concluding his analysis of the results, Mr. Wadlin points out that the summaries presented emphasize the anomalous condition of the industries of the Commonwealth during the year 1894 owing to the depression which began in 1893 and was prolonged during the greater part of the year covered by the report. In each of the elements considered, namely amount of capital invested, value of stock used, value of goods made and work done, average number of persons employed, aggregate amount paid out in wages, average yearly earnings per individual, proportion of business done, and average number of days in operation, a decline appears, he says, when all industries are considered in the aggregate, in 1894 as compared with 1893.

The decrease in capital has perhaps less significance than the decrease in any of the other items, since there are certain variable factors that enter into it which change from year to year, and a contraction in the total does not necessarily imply the withdrawal of capital from the productive enterprises of the commonwealth. The decrease in this, too, is relatively quite small, which is what we should expect, since one or two years of depression would hardly be likely to cause much withdrawal of capital from industries as firmly established as the most of those in the State of Massachusetts. For the 4,093 establishments considered in the comparisons of the last two years, the aggregate of the capital invested is found to have been $431,121,145 in 1893 and $417,647,636 in 1894, a decline of $13,473,509, or 3·13 per cent. In the value of stock used there has been a decline from $320,239,480 to $287,212,036, or 10·31 per cent, and in the value of the product a decline from $552,938,022 to $496,144,574, or 10·27 per cent. In the amount paid in wages the decline has been from $122,495,937 to $111,103,085, or 9·30 per cent, in the average number of persons employed only from 280,868 to 263,398, or but 6·22 per cent, and in the average yearly earnings only from $436 13 to $421 81, or not more than 3·28 per cent. As indicating the extent of the depression, however, the last two items should be taken together—that is, there has been a diminution in the number of persons employed and at the same time the average amount earned by each person has diminished. The decrease in the average yearly earnings does not necessarily imply a reduction in the rate of wages; it may be due to a reduction in the time of employment. As bearing on this point, it is well to note that the industries of the Commonwealth were in operation only 275·63 days in 1894, against 278·40 days in 1893, a decrease of 2·77 days, or about one per cent.

The significance of the general falling off here noted lies in the fact that in nearly all the items the reduction in 1894 follows a reduction in 1893. The material is lacking for a comparison for a series of years of the whole of the 4,093 establishments treated in 1894 and 1893. But a statement is furnished to show the results for five years of 3,073 establishments, and this brings out very forcibly the extent of the depression. It appears from this statement that the value of the product in 1894 was only $449,675,930, as against $504,017,695 in 1893, $547,924,725 in 1892, $517,274,796 in 1891 and $508,142,367 in 1890. In other words, the 1894 total is the smallest of any of the years, and during the last two years there has been a decline of nearly 100 million dollars, or 17·93 per cent. Another statement in the report is yet more instructive, as it furnishes a comparison for the last ten years. This statement is worth reproducing. Of course the further back the comparisons go the smaller the number of establishments embraced. The statement referred to covers 857 establishments, and is as follows.

1892	296,563,113	1887	253,590,055
1890	280,482,516	1885	209,500,026

Two noteworthy facts appear from the foregoing, first that for these 857 establishments the product for 1894 was hardly any larger than that eight years before, in 1886; and, secondly, that up to 1892 there had been an uninterrupted rise from year to year and that the unfavorable comparison between 1894 and the earlier years arises wholly out of the great set-back which has occurred during the last two years. Of course it is not to be inferred that the falling off represents wholly or even chiefly a diminution in the amount of work done. We know that a large and general decline in prices has been an important factor in the reduction. It would be interesting and instructive if we could have the figures showing the quantity of goods produced rather than their value, but unfortunately there are no data on that point.

Perhaps the most gratifying feature in the report is that showing the recovery in business which occurred during the latter part of 1894. The course of trade is reflected quite accurately in the record of the number of persons employed from month to month. Mr. Wadlin states that under normal conditions no very large variation in the number of persons employed month by month occurs. In view of that fact the following statement covering the last two years affords a graphic illustration of the exceptional nature of the conditions which ruled.

AGGREGATE NUMBER OF PERSONS EMPLOYED EACH MONTH IN 4,093 ESTABLISHMENTS.

January	247,777	254,721
February	279,109	265,093
March	305,143	274,780
April	301,142	268,540
May	303,315	270,801
June	294,446	263,415
July	290,000	258,491
August	284,022	254,682
September	237,777	251,614
October	264,465	272,303
November	271,375	275,196

We thus see that in 1893 the largest number of persons employed in any month was in April, before the panic, when the number was 305,143; that from this there was a steady decline, month by month, until September, when the number had been reduced to 237,777, this being followed by a recovery to 263,905 by the close of that year. In 1894 there were no such wide fluctuations, but the highest figure was reached towards the close of the year, namely in November, when the aggregate was 275,196. That the recovery, however, had not been to full normal business conditions is evident from the fact that this aggregate is nearly thirty thousand less than the highest number for 1893 at 305,143 in April of that year. It is also worth pointing out, as indicating how slow the recovery in business was in 1894, that during the whole of the first eight months the number was smaller each month than for the corresponding month in 1893. When the returns for the current year are furnished it may be expected that they will reveal very striking evidences of improvement, for during the last six months business revival has made noteworthy progress.

Clearings by Telegraph.—Sales of Stocks, Bonds, &c.—Stock Exchange Clearing-House Transactions.—The subjoined statement, covering the clearings for the current week, usually appears on the first page of the CHRONICLE, but on account of the length of the other tables is crowded out once a month. The figures are received by telegraph from the leading cities. It will be observed that as compared with the corresponding week of 1894 there is an increase in the aggregate of 19·2 per cent. So far as the individual cities are concerned New York exhibits an increase of 24·8 per cent, and the gains at other points are: Boston 28·5 per cent, Philadelphia 34 per cent, Baltimore 7·1 per cent, Chicago 8·4 per cent, St. Louis 19 per cent, and New Orleans 12·3 per cent. The figures cover only five business days in each year at most points on account of Election day.

Monetary and Commercial English News

LONDON, SATURDAY, Oct. 26, 1895.

The Venezuela question attracts far less attention here than apparently it is doing in the United States. Nobody in this country wishes for an increase of territory in South America, and above all nobody desires any unpleasantness with the United States. On the contrary the wish here is for the best possible understanding on all questions with your country. Therefore the matter is dismissed as simply a local dispute that will be settled without any unpleasant consequences. Attention here is much more given to what is going on in the Balkan Peninsula and in the Far East. That the condition of things in Turkey is disquieting is fully recognized, and there are fears either of a revolution or of a Palace conspiracy to depose the Sultan. But it is hoped that the Powers are all resolved to maintain peace.

Concerning the Far East there is more real anxiety. It is announced that at last Japan has come to an agreement with Russia, France and Germany, that she has reduced her demand for an additional indemnity for evacuating the Liao-tung Peninsula to 30 million taels, and that this demand has been agreed to. As soon as the sum is paid the peninsula will be evacuated. It is reported, too, that China has given various important concessions to Russia, one being permission for the Russian fleet to winter in Port Arthur and another for the construction of railways by Russia. That all this may lead to disputes and strained relations is feared, for it seems only too certain that China has made the concessions alleged. Meantime money continues as abundant as ever, and though for a day or two the rate of discount has been slightly hardening the ease is sure to continue for a long time yet.

Silver has been fluctuating during the week around 31d. per ounce. There is little demand for the Far East, but at the same time sales are not pressed. Those who are interested in the market hope that China will seriously set about the construction of railways and that that will lead to large purchases of the metal. But for the moment the demand is slight. Meanwhile the Eastern exchanges are firm and the India Council is selling its drafts very favorably, mainly because of the extension of railways in India.

The scare in the mining market has overshadowed the whole Stock Exchange throughout the week. On Saturday last it was generally believed that the trouble was over, for the great gold magnates had formed a syndicate to purchase large amounts of stock at the current quotations. But on Monday sales from Paris became so large that the market gave way again. The selling continued throughout Tuesday and the early part of Wednesday. On the latter day apprehension became so great that at one time it looked as if there would be a veritable panic. Suddenly, however, it was announced in Paris that the Messrs. Rothschilds and the Messrs. Wernher Beit & Co. had formed a bank with a capital of 50 million francs to lend upon gold shares. Instantly there was a change of feeling on the Bourse, selling stopped, and buying upon a considerable scale began. Since then markets have decidedly improved.

Here in London the settlement in Barnato Bank shares passed off very smoothly. Mr. Barnato late on Friday evening sent two brokers into the Stock Exchange to lend to all holders of the bank's shares, and he continued to give so much accommodation that the troubles feared did not occur. There were a couple of very small failures, but generally the settlement passed off very smoothly, though it is understood that many speculators were unable to pay their differences. The settlement in Paris in East Rand shares was much more difficult. One large operator failed for £120,000, or 3 millions of francs, and another failed for a considerable amount. There were rumors of many other difficulties, and the name of an ex-king was freely bandied about. At last matters became so bad that even the Messrs. Rothschild had openly to come forward in support of the market.

To-day the fortnightly settlement in mining shares in London begins and the settlement will end on Wednesday evening. The general belief is that there is a very large "bear" account, that operators have sold such shares as had a free market on an immense scale as a "hedge" against their losses on unsalable securities; and it is also said that there is a very large "bear" account in Paris. If that proves to be true there can be little doubt that there will be an early recovery. All the great South African magnates are now completely united and such arrangements have been made that the "bears" will be severely punished if indeed the account is as great as is generally supposed. But after such a scare it is not to be expected that the general public will return to the market for some time. Probably, therefore, we have before us a considerable period of merely jobbing markets.

Outside of the mining department there has been hardly anything doing. Operations in the American market for the time being have stopped. Quotations move up or down with those in New York, but there is hardly any buying or selling, nor is it likely that there will be until the condition of the mining market is fully disclosed. The International market has likewise been neglected in London; but in Paris there has been large selling of Turkish and Bulgarian securities, of Ottoman Bank shares, of Suez Canal shares, and so on, partly by operators who had to pay large differences and partly as a mere "hedge" against losses.

In the South American market quotations have been fairly steady, with the exception of Brazilian, the excitement of the Brazilian people over the Trinidad question deterring operations. The occupation of Trinidad is purely for the purpose of constructing a new telegraph line to South America; there is absolutely no political object in view. In Argentina trade is rapidly improving. The railway traffic returns are exceedingly good, and the agricultural classes are doing well. But there is some revival of political anxiety. Ex-President Pellegrini is bitterly opposing the Finance Minister's measure for the unification of the national, provincial and municipal debts, and it is said that the President is not supporting his Finance Minister very thoroughly, not because he disagrees with his Minister but because he is of an indolent disposition. It is feared, therefore, that the Minister's scheme may fail and that he may resign. If so, it is thought probable that the whole Cabinet will resign with him, and in that case there might be political trouble.

Baltimore & Ohio.—We have received the following from a subscriber to the CHRONICLE:

Editor of the Commercial & Financial Chronicle:

DEAR SIR—As a citizen of Baltimore and interested in the Baltimore & Ohio RR., I was quite struck with surprise this morning to find that the impression prevails with some of the holders of its stock that this road is not fully sharing in the somewhat general improvement in earnings. Having been myself of a different opinion I was led to refer to the returns contained in your issue of Nov. 2, 1895, to ascertain to what extent this impression was sustained by the facts, and I beg to call attention to the following comparative table, which includes the principal railroad systems.

Comment is unnecessary, as the figures speak for themselves. They are as follows:

—The Reorganization Committee of the second, third and consolidated mortgage bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, Edward D. Adams, Chairman, announces that there have been deposited already with the committee more than $8,000,000 of seconds and a majority of the thirds and of the consols. They urge outstanding bondholders to join the committee without further delay, as the complication in the affairs of the Northern Pacific Railroad that have arisen from the appointment of separate receivers threaten the existence of the property and make it necessary that all bondholders should unite at once, the endeavors of the committee being to secure the same receivership for the entire system, for which purpose it has the co-operation of the trustee of the mortgage and of the railroad company. Mr. Adams has been admitted by the United States courts in this city and in Milwaukee as a party to the litigation relative to the Northern Pacific receivership.

—An attractive list of railroad bridge bonds will be found in this issue of the CHRONICLE, advertised for sale by F. J. Lisman, member of the New York Stock Exchange. Investors looking for a better interest rate than the ordinary railroad bond will yield should examine this list of railroad bridge bonds.

—A list of investment bonds is advertised by Messrs. Chas. T. Wing & Co. in to-day's CHRONICLE. Descriptive circulars can be had on application at their office, No. 18 Wall Street.

—New Haven City and School District bonds are offered for sale by Messrs. N. W. Harris & Co. in their advertisement in the State and City Department of to-day's CHRONICLE.

—Messrs. Whann & Schlesinger, No. 2 Wall Street, are offering $45,000 New York City 7 per cent dock bonds, due November 1, 1904. Price on application.

—Messrs. W. J. Hayes & Sons, Cleveland and Boston, offer an attractive list of municipal securities, including St. Paul fours, Columbus and Newark, Ohio, fives, Dayton, Ohio, sixes, South Bend and Goshen, Ind., Bay City and Jackson, Mich., issues. List will be sent on application.

—Messrs. Redmond, Kerr & Co. offer investors a number of issues of bonds and guaranteed stocks. Their advertisement will be found on page VIII. of to-day's issue.

—Attention is called to a list of municipal bonds advertised in our municipal columns by Messrs. Rudolph Kleybolte & Co., Cincinnati.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 8, 1895.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The liquidation which has been a feature of the stock market this week was not brought about by any new developments. The strained political situation abroad, the monthly settlement on the Paris Bourse and the prevailing high rates for foreign exchange in our own market have all contributed to the feature above mentioned. The situation was taken advantage of by speculators to depress the market, and the result is a lower range of prices generally.

In the foreign exchange market rates have advanced during the week and the possibility of gold exports at this season of the year is regarded with much interest in business circles.

The results of the elections which have taken place this week indicate that the sentiment in favor of sound currency is a growing one and that populistic ideas are on the wane.

Favorable traffic returns continue to be made by many leading railway lines. The earnings by the St. Paul road for the fourth week in October exceed those reported for the corresponding period in 1894, and are therefore the heaviest for the corresponding period in the history of the road.

The money market is easy and the tendency is to lower rates.

The open market rates for call loans during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 2 to 2½ per cent. To-day's rate on call was 2 per cent. Prime commercial paper is quoted at 4½ to 5 per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed a decrease in bullion of £801,385, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 59·02 against 59·35 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 2 per cent. The Bank of France shows a decrease of 3,875,000 francs in gold and 600,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 2 showed an increase in the reserve held of $707,000 and a surplus over the required reserve of $17,594,400, against $16,690,700 the previous week.

Foreign Exchange.—The foreign exchange market has been firm on a limited demand for bills. The offerings have been light and quickly absorbed, and rates are fractionally higher than at the close last week.

To-day actual rates of exchange were as follows: Bankers' sixty days sterling, 4 87½@4 88; demand, 4 89@4 89½; cables, 4 89½@4 89¾.

The following were the rates of domestic exchange on New York at the under-mentioned cities to-day: Savannah, buying ⅛ discount, selling par; Charleston, buying ⅛ discount, selling par, New Orleans, bank, par; commercial $1 00 premium; Chicago, 10@20c. per $1,000 premium; St. Louis, 50@75c. per $1,000 premium.

Posted rates of leading bankers are as follows:

State and Railroad Bonds.—State bonds have been unusually dull. Sales at the Board include $10,000 Tenn. settlement 3s at 88, $10,000 Virginia 6s defd. trust rects., stamped, at 6 and $7,000 Louisiana con. 4s at 100.

The railroad bond market has been relatively steady. Some issues have been freely sold, but in most cases prices have been fairly well sustained. The Atchisons have been most conspicuous for activity and the 3ds have declined about 8 points, the adjust. 4s (w. i.) 3 points, while the other issues are only fractionally lower than last week. Readings are next in order, with similar results. Ches. & Ohio gen. 4s, Chic & No. Pacific 1st rects., Ore. Short Line & U. N. con. rects. and Texas Pacific 1sts have made fractional advances. St. Louis Southwestern bonds have declined about 4 points, presumably on the light cotton crop in its territory. Ore. Imp. con. 5s have lost over 2 points.

Other active issues include Mo. Kan. & Texas, Union Pacific, Rio Grande Western, Kansas Pacific, Texas & Pacific, Northern Pacific, Oregon Short Line and Wabash bonds.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The market for stocks continued weak until Thursday under the liquidating movement noted in our last issue, and nearly all active stocks suffered a further decline in prices. On Thursday the pressure to sell was less urgent, and there was some evidence that the movement had about spent its force, but to-day it has been renewed. Naturally enough the industrial list was most affected by the prevailing conditions. The lowest prices were generally touched on Wednesday, when Tenn. Coal & Iron, which had advanced from 13¼ to 46⅝ within a few months, sold at 31½, a decline of over 6 points since the close last week; and Colorado Fuel & Iron at 30¾ had lost about 4 points within the week.

Am. Tobacco sold on the same day at 85½ and since Oct. 1 above par. Am. Sugar was below par for the first time since April. U. S. Leather was weak on the announcement that some tanneries are to be shut down, and the preferred lost over 5 points. Chicago Gas and Distilling each declined about 2½ points and Gen. Electric closes at 30½, a decline of 1¾.

Of the railroad list the features were Louisville & Nashville, which sold to-day at 53, against 57 at the close last week, Reading at 11¼, against 14½; Atchison sold on Wednesday at 15½ against 18¾, Atchison (new pfd., w. i.) at 24⅓ against 28⅓, Mo. Pacific at 28⅝ against 31½ and Mo. Kan. & Texas pref. at 30½ against 33⅓. Even the high-priced coalers have declined from 2 to 4½ points and the leading grangers from 1 to 2 points.

Investment AND Railroad Intelligence.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of United States railroads (and also a few Mexican and Canadian roads) for the latest period reported. The statement includes every STEAM road from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are not included in this table, but are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

b Net earnings here given are before deducting taxes.

* After deducting other expenditures for repairs, replacements and general expenses, net income applicable to interest on bonds in Sept was $106,040, against $70,372 last year, and for nine months to Sept. 30 $752,502, against $648,120; after adding earnings received from Federal Government net from January 1 to Sept. 30, 1895, was $752,502, against $725,788. This is the result in Mexican dollars treated (according to the company's method of keeping its accounts) as equivalent to 80 cents in United States money—that is, all depreciation beyond 20 per cent has already been allowed for.

Interest Charges and Surplus.—The following roads, addition to their gross and net earnings given in the foregoing, also report charges for interest, &c., with the surplus or deficiency above or below those charges.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns. The latest full statement will be found in the CHRONICLE of October 19. The next will appear in the issue of Saturday, November 23.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

American Cotton-Oil Company.

(Report for the year ending Aug. 31, 1895.)

The report of this company for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1895, has been issued, and is published at length on subsequent pages. It embraces extended remarks by Mr. Edward D. Adams, Chairman of the Board of Directors, and is very full and complete in details regarding the condition of the property and the results of the year's operations. Notwithstanding adverse market conditions and the prolonged business depression the company has earned in excess of all charges the full dividend on the preferred stock and a net surplus of $201,780.—V. 60, p. 1007.

Toledo & Ohio Central Railway.

President Burke in the annual report says in part:

Growth of Earnings, Etc.—The increase in gross and net earning for the year, considering all the circumstances, show a healthy increase, which I have reason to believe will be very greatly added to when the business of the country, or the section through which your line passes shall have assumed its normal condition. In relation to the condition of the track and bridges and the equipment, all are in the most excellent condition.

New Line.—Since the beginning of the present fiscal year the line has been completed through Columbus to Truro Junction, and it is being used for the freight business of the company and will soon be used for its passenger business. The freight stations at Columbus and South Columbus have been completed, and the passenger station has been put under contract, and will doubtless be completed for occupancy early during the coming spring.

Funding.—The floating debt shown by this report has been substantially all paid off by the issue and disposal of the general mortgage bonds of the company.

Kanawha & Michigan.—The business of this railway in which your company is so largely interested is showing a very healthy and satisfactory increase.

Traffic.—Tables are given which show a total tonnage in year 1894-95 of 2,210,807, contrasting with 1,970,013 in 1893-94. Included in 1894-95 are 1,326,862 tons or 60 per cent of the whole of bituminous coal as against 1,107,139 tons (56.78 per cent) in 1893-94. In 1894-95 there originated on the road itself 1,785,103 of the total tons carried, and there were carried north 1,787,968 tons and south 422,839.

Northern Pacific Railroad.

(Report for year ending June 30, 1895.)

The facts relating to the operations of the late fiscal year were fully given in the CHRONICLE of Aug. 31, page 364, and of Sept. 28, page 554. The Comptroller's report now at hand contains the balance sheet below given and various other data of interest, including the following information respecting the consolidated mortgage.

Consolidated Mortgage.—The bonds secured by this mortgage were authorized to a total of $160,000,000, of which there have been certified and delivered $62,443,000, this amount including $6,850,000 deposited as part security under the collateral trust deed of 1893 and $4,726,000 for the security of the receivers' certificates.

No interest has been paid since June 1st, 1893, and there is due therefor to June 30th, 1895, $4,741,666. This interest is calculated on $45,520,000, which is the amount of these bonds in the hands of the public.

These bonds, besides covering the main line and land grant subject to prior liens, are a first lien upon the lines of the following-named branch railroad companies:

Total	1,231

There are other branch roads, the bonds of which are held in part by the public, in which the consolidated mortgage has an equity based on its holdings.

These are as under:

It has also undetermined equities or claims in other cases in which the cash proceeds of consols were used.

Brooklyn Traction Company.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1895.)

J. P. Ilsley, President of the Brooklyn Traction Company, submits a report of the business of the Atlantic Avenue RR. Co. of Brooklyn, the stock of which company is owned by the Brooklyn Traction Company, and constitutes its only asset. He says in substance:

General Results.—The receipts for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1894, showed a very gratifying increase, but the great strike of Brooklyn street car employes, which commenced Jan. 18, and lasted for many weeks, with the various ordinances of the city requiring slower speed, so affected the business as to make a loss for the year of $91,709. The receipts of all the electric railway companies in the city show a falling off in earnings for the year of $155,437, so that the Atlantic Avenue Company was not the only one to suffer.

For the three months of this year from July 1, 1895, the gross earnings were $241,618, contrasting with $249,895 for the same period in 1894 and $231,274 in 1893. The low rate of speed called for by the present city ordinances has had a marked effect of increasing the operating expenses, and it is very questionable if the companies are legally bound by the ordinances which compel a speed less than that of the old horse cars. This question, however, is being tried in the courts and will soon be decided.

Settlement with Long Island RR.—The suits against the Long Island RR. Co. have been compromised, the Long Island RR. agreeing to pay $60,000 annually to the Atlantic Avenue RR. Co. instead of a percentage of the receipts derived from operating the road to Jamaica owned by the Atlantic Avenue Company.

The Brooklyn Bath & West End RR. Co. gave up its interest in the Union Depot at Thirty-sixth Street and made an independent connection with the Atlantic Avenue Company, so that the cars of the latter can run directly through to Coney Island. This settlement and the new connection must result beneficially to the Atlantic Avenue RR. Co.

Capital Accounts.—The company expended for construction during the year $55,848. It will be necessary to expend during the present year for tracks, paving and additional equipment, about $150,000. This amount it is expected can be realized, either by a sale of real estate not needed by the company and free from its mortgages, or by mortgaging the same for the amount required.

The unfunded debt is about $360,000. The company has in its treasury $448,000 of the Brooklyn Bath & West End Railroad Company's bonds, which, if sold, should more than liquidate this indebtedness.

Brooklyn Bath & West End RR. Company.—The receipts of this company for the past two years have been as follows:

Year.	Gross.	Net.	Other Inc.	Interest.	Taxes.	Deficit.
1894-95	$128,171	$18,777	$2,407	$51,954	$3,846	$9,615
1893-94	107,305	20,588	4,300	33,826	5,892	14,830

Since July 1st the receipts show an increase over the three months of last year of over 25 per cent. This is partly due to the new connection by which cars are run to Coney Island. The increased business thus given should enable the company, the present year to show a surplus instead of a deficiency.

Earnings and Balance Sheet.—The statement of earnings and balance sheet for the Atlantic Av. RR. Co. was in the CHRONICLE of September 28, page 557. The balance sheet of the Brooklyn Traction Company shows:

Long Island Railroad Company.

(Report for the year ending June 30, 1895.)

The balance sheet for the late fiscal year was given in the CHRONICLE of Sept. 14, page 468. President Austin Corbin in his brief report refers to the large additional improvements to the property and equipment which have been made during the year, including new interlocking signal plants at various points, fencing, the laying of 2,510 tons of new 80-pound steel rails, the equipment of cars with air brakes, etc., etc.

"The physical condition and appearance of the equipment have been improved and all are now in first class order."

The construction of the Long Island Railroad North Shore branch from Port Jefferson to Wading River is completed. The Montauk Extension was completed to Amagansett and trains commenced running June 1, and work is being pushed on the route to Montauk, and it will be completed ready for operation by November 1.

There has been charged out and deducted on account of depreciation of the equipment and other items $100,026, thereby reducing the surplus by so much.

The rolling stock consists of 148 locomotives, 440 cars in passenger service and 1,321 freight and miscellaneous cars.

The mileage includes: Main lines, 326 miles; branches, 83 miles; leased lines, 79 miles; total operated, 488 miles; second track, 91 miles; sidings, 196 miles; total track, 563 miles.—

American Type Founders Co.—Funding—Reduction of Capital Stock.—At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the company, Mr. John E. Searles, the President, introduced a resolution, which was passed, authorizing the directors to take steps to fund the floating debt, which amounts to about half a million dollars, and also to prepare and submit to the stockholders a plan for the reduction of the capital stock, which is now $5,000,000 common and $4,000,000 preferred. Four directors whose terms of office had expired were re-elected by a unanimous vote.—V. 61, p. 748.

Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe RR.—Atlantic & Pacific RR.—St. Louis & San Francisco Ry.—Reorganization Negotiations.—Reports have been current of negotiations between the Atchison committee and the representatives of Atlantic & Pacific and St. Louis & San Francisco bonds. Regarding these reports Mr. Edward King, President of the Union Trust Company and a member of the Atchison Committee, has made the following statement:

A proposition was submitted, by the Atchison Committee, to the committee of Atlantic & Pacific bondholders. That proposition was rejected. What further steps will be taken in that direction I cannot now state. The question of the division of rates between the Atchison and the Atlantic & Pacific has been submitted to arbitration. Should the Atlantic & Pacific join the Atchison plan this rate question would, of course, lose its importance.

No terms for the consolidation of the St. Louis & San Francisco with the Atchison have as yet been proposed; consequently nothing definite is known as to what the St. Louis & San Francisco will do.

We are informed that no proposition has been recently made to the Atlantic & Pacific bondholders, so that the one referred to by Mr. King is presumably that tendered several months ago, when the equivalent of 30 cents on the dollar was offered for the A. & P. bonds and was refused. The committee of arbitration referred to was appointed by the United States Circuit Court, and consists of E. P. Ripley, E. S. Washburne and W. W. Findley. The appointment of the arbitrators was the result of an agreement reached by the Reorganization Committees of the respective companies.

At Albuquerque, N. M., this week arguments have been heard in the foreclosure proceedings against the Atlantic & Pacific. A decision is expected in a few days.—V. 61, pp. 703, 793.

Bangor & Aroostook RR.—Annual Report.—A revised report of this company's earnings for the year ending June 30, 1895, is furnished the CHRONICLE as below. It differs considerably from the statement published in the daily papers. On June 30, 1895, there were 263 miles in operation.

—V. 60, p. 794.

Brooklyn Traction—Nassau Electric Ry.—Proposed Lease.—A lease of the Brooklyn Traction System (Atlantic Avenue RR.) to the new Nassau Electric Ry. is being arranged, and it is thought will be carried through. The terms of the lease are withheld, but it is reported they provide for a cash payment on the making of the lease, for a considerable outlay for improvements, and for regular dividends on all or a part of the Brooklyn Traction stock.

The Nassau Electric Ry. has also offered to lease the Coney Island & Brooklyn and Brooklyn City & Newtown companies. Under the reorganization plan of the Long Island Traction Co. the voting power on the new stock is to be held in trust for five years by Governor Flower, E. P. Olcott and A. N. Brady, so that if, as appears likely, strong interests are working to bring about a consolidation of all the transportation facilities of the city, it will not require a vote of the individual stockholders of the Long Island Traction Company to include that system in the deal.—V. 59, p. 737; V. 61, p. 153.

Brunswick Terminal RR.—New Bonds.—A meeting has been called for Nov. 20 in Brunswick, Ga., to consider the issuance of $500,000 bonds. The property was recently sold in foreclosure. See item under South Brunswick Terminal.—V. 61, p. 283.

Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburg Ry.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

Loans and bills payable Sept. 30, 1895, were $764,000, against $866,482 on Sept. 30, 1894.—V. 61, p. 709.

Buffalo Traction (Buffalo, N. Y.)—This company has been incorporated to construct 66 miles of street railway in Buffalo and its suburbs. Capital stock, $3,000,000. Directors: E. G. S. Miller, Joseph B Mayer, Leonard B. Crocker, Washington Bullard and Herbert P. Bissell, of Buffalo; Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, Ohio; Richard Ladenburg, John K. Page and Louis Kahn, of New York.—V. 61, p. 470.

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Ry—Reorganization Plan.—The committee, of which Mr. Wm. H. Blackford is Chairman, has issued a plan of reorganization which provides for the sale of the property under decree of foreclosure as speedily as possible and for the issuance by a new company of securities as shown below. For improvements and equipment the expenditure of $300,000 will be necessary within the next three years. The committee are of the opinion that when this is done the road can be operated to much greater advantage.

New Securities.—The new securities will be:

Prior lien 4½ per cent twenty-year gold bonds to have a first lien on all the railroads and property. Total authorized issue	$500,000
Of these bonds $200,000 or so are to be used for purposes of reorganization and payment of claims prior to mortgage, and balance for betterments, etc.
General mortgage 100 year gold bonds bearing 3 per cent for four years and 4 per cent thereafter. Total authorized issue	$3,400,000
Of which in exchange for old A B and C bonds	2,165,500
For settlement with North State Improvement Co.	203,000
For improvements, extensions or equipment after Jan. 1, 1900, in case trustee is satisfied that interest is being earned on entire issue	531,500
First preferred stock ($100 shares), 5 per cent non-cumulative	$1,700,000
Of this to be issued to reimburse bondholders for overdue interest and reduction of principal and interest	1,532,400
Remaining in treasury	167,600
Second preferred stock, 5 per cent non-cumulative	$600,000
Of which to be given to holders of present consols	467,000
Remains in treasury	133,000
Common stock ($100 shares)	$900,000
Of which to be given to city of Wilmington and other municipalities holding common stock	300,000
To be issued with new general mortgage bonds	537,700
Remaining in treasury	62,300

Voting Trust.—The first and second preferred and common stock will be vested in a voting trust of five trustees for five years and beneficial certificates issued therefor.

Exchange of Securities.—The holders of old securities are to receive new securities as follows:

—Holders of each $1,000 bond— with overdue coupons.	Will receive.— Gen. mort.	1st pref. stk	2d pref	Com. stk.
Series A	$1,000	$100	...	$200
Series B	750	600	....	200
Series C	750	600	....	200
Consols	....	....	$250	....

Earnings and Charges.—The plan states the earnings of the road as follows:

	—Years End'g Sept. 30.— 1895.	1894.	—Years Ending June 30.— 1893.	1892.	1891.
Net	95,200	85,800	123,900	126,500	181,300

Under the plan the interest charges, assuming it necessary to issue $100,000 prior lien bonds, each year would be in 1896 $95,055; in 1897, $99,500; in 1898, $104,055; in 1899, $108,555; in 1900, $187,240. The committee believe that the net earnings for the year 1896 will be at least $15,000 in excess of the interest charges.

Deposits.—Of the entire amount of old first mortgage bonds there have been deposited with the Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company of Baltimore and the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. of New York, depositaries under the agreement between the committee and the bondholders of date April 7, 1894: Series "A," $1,158,000 out of $1,500,000; series "B," $756,000 out of $784,000; series "C," $792,000 out of $820,000. Further deposits may be made till Dec. 1. The claims adjusted by the agreement with the North State Improvement Company are as follows: Consolidated mortgage, $1,868,000; capital stock, $1,972,900.—V. 61, p. 749.

Central of Georgia Ry.—Savannah & Atlantic Sale.—The Savannah & Atlantic was purchased at foreclosure sale on Saturday (Nov. 2) for $50,000 by a representative of the reorganization committee, and will be merged in the new Central of Georgia Ry. Co. The sale was made subject to $40,000 of 7 per cent receivers' certificates.

Augusta & Savannah RR.—Southwestern of Georgia Ry.—The Central of Georgia has agreed that on or before Dec. 15 all arrears of rental due these two companies shall be settled at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.—V. 61, p. 793.

Chattanooga Southern Ry.—Reorganization Plan.—The Committee, consisting of H. A. V. Post, Chairman; Russell Sage, Thomas H. Hubbard, Newman Erb, Henry L. Lamb, with headquarters at No. 71 Broadway, room 38, New York, has issued a modified plan. The Committee says: The total requirements are such that it is necessary to provide $875,000 in cash before the reorganized company can be deemed in fair working order. The earnings of the road for the past three years have been disappointing, but the Committee believes that there will be, henceforth, a continuous improvement which will give intrinsic value to the securities which it is proposed to create under the following plan of reorganization.

Plan.—The reorganized company will issue:

First mortgage 5 per cent bonds; authorized issue $5,000 per mile on existing road and $10,000 per mile on extensions of main line. First lien on property	$500,000
Income mortgage bonds, 5 p. ct. non-cum., $7,500 per mile	750,000

THE AMERICAN COTTON OIL COMPANY.

SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT—FOR THE YEAR ENDING AUGUST 31, 1895.

EXECUTIVE OFFICES, No. 46 CEDAR STREET,
NEW YORK, November 6th, 1895.

To the Stockholders of the American Cotton Oil Company

Pursuant to the by-laws adopted by this Company at its organization, October 14th, 1889, an annual report of its business interests has been regularly submitted to the stockholders at their yearly meetings for the election of directors.

Early in the present year the New York Stock Exchange recommended that the reports of corporations whose securities are dealt in at that Exchange should be distributed to the stockholders at least fifteen days prior to their annual meetings.

In order to provide sufficient time, after the close of the fiscal year, for the preparation of the statements, the date for the annual meeting has been changed to the first Thursday in December in each year, and this report is now issued in conformity with the recommendation referred to.

The continuation of the general business depression during the larger part of the fiscal year had its effect, as in the two preceding years, upon the industries represented by this Company.

Although the commercial revival, noted in certain directions during the later months of the fiscal year, did not manifest itself in this business in any important degree, yet the net results for the year are better than those of the previous year, and mark, it is hoped, as in other branches of manufacturing, the beginning of a new era of prosperity.

SHARE CAPITAL.

The amount of the Capital Stock, Common and Preferred, now outstanding, remains the same as upon the organization of the Company, as has been stated in detail in all of the previous annual reports.

DEBENTURE BONDS.

The amount of Debenture Bonds now outstanding and bearing interest has been reduced to $3,068,000 during the past year by the appropriation from the cash assets of $383,800, of which $358,000, the par value of the Bonds redeemed, has been charged to the Bond account, and $25,800, the ten per cent premium on the Bonds drawn, has been charged to the expense account.

MANUFACTURING PROPERTIES AND THEIR TRANSPORTATION EQUIPMENT.

These Assets have been increased during the past year by expenditures amounting to		$120,218 12 for the following additions to these properties, the cost of which has been charged to the Permanent Investment accounts:
At Rotterdam, Holland:
Completion of Buildings, Machinery, Storage Tanks, Electric-Light Plant and one Tank Lighter for use in delivering bulk Oil to customers.
In the United States and Canada:
Refinery at Houston, Texas, including Real Estate, Buildings, Machinery, Storage Tanks, and 30 Tank Cars.
Real Estate; Seed Houses and Scales in the Country; new Warehouses and Extensions to old Warehouses; Automatic Sprinklers, Water Tanks and other appliances for protection against fire; Machinery for increased manufacturing capacity.
During the same period, however, this account has received credit for the following items:
Sales of Real Estate, Buildings, etc., at various properties	$40,164 88
Charges to Expense account for loss on above property	16,749 80
Charges to Expense account as annual depreciation of the transportation equipment	59,102 15
Net increase of Permanent Investment account		$4,201 34

The active properties have been maintained and improved during the past year at a cost of $389,578 20. While this is a decrease of $93,409 57 compared with the previous year, it does not indicate any lowering of the high standard of maintenance, but rather the decreasing cost of operation because of the improvements previously made.

The policy adopted in distributing expenditures between construction and expenses is to charge to

Property or Permanent Investment Account whatever disbursements produce an increase of capacity or output, and to whatever increases facility and economy of operating or improves the quality of the products, as well as the cost of maintaining the active properties in first-class working condition.

TRANSPORTATION EQUIPMENT.

This equipment has been increased during the past year by the purchase of 30 tank cars.

The original cost of all this class of property was $564,508 28. By annual charges to the expense account to represent the depreciation by use, in addition to the cost of repairs, which are similarly charged, the book valuation has been reduced to $409,764 74, and the property has been well maintained.

The charges to expense account for depreciation during the past year have been as follows:

Tank Cars	$25,689 25
Ocean Tank Steamer	29,523 42
Tank Lighter	289 48
River Steamboat	3,600 00
Total amount charged off the past year	$59,102 15

By act of Congress in 1893, it is required that all cars used in Inter State Commerce shall be equipped with power brakes and automatic couplers before January 1, 1898. To distribute the work and expense of conforming to this statute, the cars of this organization are being gradually equipped as convenient opportunity permits.

LIST OF MANUFACTURING PROPERTIES.

70 Crude Oil Mills.
16 Refineries.
4 Lard and Cottolene Plants.
9 Soap Factories,
14 Cotton Ginneries,
8 Cotton Compressors,
2 Fertilizer Mixing Plants,
1,112 Seed Houses.

All these properties, as well as the equipment for transportation by rail, river and ocean, are free from mortgage or other lien.

GENERAL RESUMÉ.

A review of the past year shows a continuation of the general business depression so long prevailing and a period of manufacturing and commercial difficulties for this Company, in common with the experience of most other industries.

New conditions at home and abroad had to be met.

Soon after the commencement of the fiscal year the prices of all our products began to decline, and continued to fall until late in the season, when their decrease averaged about 25 per cent.

The cotton crop proved to be the largest ever gathered in this country. The quantity of seed crushed has never been equaled.

As this abundance developed, the price of seed gradually fell, but at no time in relative proportion to the decline in the prices of the products.

Notwithstanding these adverse market conditions and the prolonged business depression, the Company has earned, in excess of all charges, the full dividend on the Preferred Stock and a net surplus of $201,780.

While the cash value of sales shows a decrease of 11·77 per cent, the quantity sold increased 4·79 per cent as compared with the business of the previous year.

As a result of the low prices new buyers have been attracted, new markets opened and new uses developed.

The continued increased in the volume of business is a most satisfactory evidence that the industry is gaining in the extent and permanency of its position in the commerce of the world.

By order of the Board of Directors,

EDWARD D. ADAMS,
Chairman of the Board.

Union Pacific RR.—Reorganization.—The Reorganization Committee has received a cable message from the Amsterdam Committee, offering to deposit the bonds which they represent under the New York Committee's plan. Amsterdam holds 53,000 shares, which will also be deposited. The speculation in cotton for future delivery in this market for the week under review has been interrupted by a close holiday—General Election. The market has been feverishly unsettled between conflicting influences, the active months closing at 21@32 points decline from last Friday, the advance of last week being nearly lost. In the course of Saturday and Monday the market was very unsettled in tone, with frequent and wide fluctuations in values, sympathizing to some extent with a similar state of affairs in the Liverpool market. Port receipts continued small, but the interior movement continued fair at many principal towns; the bears made use of the latter fact, also of the liberal stocks and of the apparently increasing burdens of Southern bankers, in seeking to prevent any material advance if they could not force any decided decline. On Wednesday values were much lower, in sympathy with a sharp break in the Liverpool market and the dulness in the leading spot markets of the world. The execution of some "stop orders" contributed to the depression. Yesterday an early advance was soon lost under reports of public disorders at Constantinople; but in the last hour there was a fresh improvement on a demand to cover contracts and some fresh buying for the "long" account. To-day the market was depressed by a weak Liverpool market and rumors regarding short-time at Manchester, together with full receipts and accumulating stocks at many interior towns, closing at 10@14 points decline for the day. Contracts were very freely covered at inside prices. Cotton on the spot continued very dull, within narrow fluctuations To-day prices declined 1/16c., making a reduction of 8-16c. for the week, middling uplands closing at 8 13-16c.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 1,123,800 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 3,052 bales, including —— for export, 1,952 for consumption —— for speculation and 1,100 on contract. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week—November 2 to November 8.

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table indicates the actual movement each week from the plantations. The figures do not include overland receipts nor Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

The above statement shows: 1.—That the total receipts from the plantations since Sept. 1, 1895, are 2,201,314 bales; in 1894 were 2,974,184 bales; in 1893 were 2,373,134 bales.

2.—That although the receipts at the outports the past week were 197,931 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 248,113 bales, the balance going to increase the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the week were 444,064 bales and for 1893 they were 317,739 bales.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT FOR THE WEEK AND SINCE SEPT. 1.—We give below a statement showing the overland mouement for the week and since September 1. As the returns reach us by telegraph late Friday night it is impossible to enter so largely into detail as in our regular monthly report, but all the principal matters of interest are given. This weekly publication is of course supplementary to the more extended monthly statements. The results for the week ending Nov. 8 and since Sept. 1 in the last two years are as follows:

The foregoing shows that the week's net overland movement this year has been 44,993 bales, against 82,720 bales for the week in 1894, and that for the season to date the aggregate net overland exhibits a decrease from a year ago of 109,625 bales.

Jute Butts, Bagging, &c.—The demand for bagging during the past week has been very limited, the season being practically over, and while prices have been fairly well maintained there is a weakening tendency. The close this evening is at 4c. for 1¾ lbs., 4¾c. for 2 lbs. and 4¾c. for standard grades in a jobbing way. Car-load lots of standard brands are quoted at 4c. for 1¾ lbs., 4⅜c for 2 lbs. and 4¾c. for 2¼ lbs., f. o. b. at New York. A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

Quotations Nov. 8 at Savannah, for Floridas, common, 10½c.; medium fine, 13½c.; choice, 15½c.

Charleston, Carolinas, medium fine, 23 to 24c.; fine, 26 to 27c.; fully fine, 28 to 30c.; extra fine, 35 to 40c.

EAST INDIA CROP.—The following is from Messrs. Gaddum, Bythell & Co.'s report dated Bombay, October 4.

Crop reports from upcountry continue to be favorable. In the Dharwar and Broach districts more rain is wanted in order to refresh the plants, but there is nothing really damaging in what has occurred so far. From some of the Bengal districts we hear of picking being carried on on a small scale and in certain portions of the Berars the same process will commence within the next fortnight.

Telegraphic advices of October 23 from the same firm are as follows:

Bengal prospects very well, receipts are increasing, and a large crop seems almost assured. Oomra reports rain in some districts, but no damage to quality of standing is apprehended should the weather prove favorable hereafter. Dholleras, Hingunghat and Broach have also been treated to some showers, which have been of great benefit to the plants, so that prospects for those crops have materially improved.

SHIPPING NEWS.—The exports of cotton from the United States the past week, as per latest mail returns, have reached 183,231 bales. So far as the Southern ports are concerned, these are the same exports reported by telegraph and published in the CHRONICLE last Friday. With regard to New York we include the manifests of all vessels cleared up to Thursday.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 8, 1895.

It has been a slow week in the market for wheat flour, and although the supply of winter-wheat grades has been limited prices have weakened slightly owing to the dulness of trade. For spring-wheat grades, however, prices have been steady as the mills have refused to grant concessions. A moderate amount of business has been transacted in city mills, but at lower prices. Rye flour has been in slow demand but steadily held. Buckwheat flour has been dull and prices have been further reduced. Corn meal has been quiet and unchanged. To-day the market for wheat flour was quiet but steady.

Speculation in the market for wheat futures has been dull, and prices have steadily declined under free offerings prompted by dull and weaker foreign advices, a continued full movement of the crop in the Northwest and the fall of additional rain in the Southwest. In the spot market a limited amount of business has been transacted, but at lower prices. The sales yesterday included No. 2 red winter at 4c. over Dec. f. o. b. afloat; No. 1 Northern at 1¼c. over December f. o. b. afloat and No. 1 hard spring at 3c. over December f. o. b. afloat. To-day the market was fairly active and higher on unfavorable crop accounts from the Southwest, rumored large export business and a renewal of war talk from Europe. In the spot market shippers were moderate buyers. The sales included No. 2 red winter at 3½@4c. over Dec. f. o. b. afloat; No. 1 Northern at 1¼c. over Dec. f. o. b. afloat; No. 2 Northern at ¼c. under Dec. f. o. b. afloat and No. 1 hard spring at 2¾@3c. over Dec. f. o. b. afloat.

In the market for Indian corn futures speculation has been extremely slow and prices have made fractional declines in sympathy with the weakness in wheat and an increased movement of the crop toward the seaboard. In the spot market business has been dull and prices have been weaker. The sales yesterday included No. 2 mixed at 2½c. over Nov. f. o. b. afloat and yellow at 37@37¼c. in elevator. To-day the market was firmer in sympathy with the improvement in wheat and a decreased movement of the crop. The spot market was quiet. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 36½c. in elevator, steamer mixed at 35½c. in elevator and yellow at 37½c. in elevator.

Oats for future delivery have continued to receive very little attention and prices have eased off a trifle in sympathy with the downward tendency to wheat and corn values. The amount of business transacted in the spot market was small and prices declined. Yesterday the sales included No. 2 mixed at 23⅜@23½c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 24⅝c. in elevator. To-day the market was a trifle higher with wheat and corn. The spot market was quiet but steady. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 23⅜@23½c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 24⅝c. in elevator.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 8, 1895.

The condition of the market for cotton goods has undergone no material change during the past week. Business has been of indifferent volume in staples and seasonable fancy lines, the holiday and election tending to curtail the already limited demand. Despite the scattered slow business the general tone of the market continues firm. A slight irregularity is occasionally reported in staple cottons, but it is confined to what are regarded as outside makes, the leading brands in brown, bleached and colored cottons all being well held for full prices. As agents handling these have no stocks to speak of, and are frequently well sold ahead, they are disposed to await a revival of buying which may develop this month and are not at present pushing for business. Seasonable cotton dress fabrics are generally in limited compass. There is a good demand for spring lines in fancy cotton goods with a firm tone prevailing. In the woolen and worsted goods departments interest in the new heavy-weight season has been stimulated by the Washington Mills quoting prices which show advances of 15 to 17½ per cent in Clay worsteds and of 10 per cent in overcoatings compared with the opening of the light-weight season. It has yet to be seen how the trade will receive these advances.

Leading makers of import goods continue firm in sheetings, drills, ticks and awnings; business is, however, confined within moderate limits, although if sellers would give way somewhat considerable orders could be taken, particularly in the heavier weights of sheetings and drills. Bleached shirtings are without change in price and quiet throughout. An occasional line of bleached cambrics advanced ½c. to 1c. per yard. Kid-finished cambrics very dull at 4c. for 64 squares. Other converted linings dull also but prices steady. Denims are selling in small quantities only at previous prices. Ticks quiet but generally well sold ahead and Hamilton ticks advanced ½c. Plaids dull, as are cheviots, checks and stripes, and other coarse colored cottons. The demand for wide sheetings is restricted at previous prices. White goods firm, with fair sales for spring. Cotton flannels and blankets in limited supply and firm. Dark fancy calicoes in quiet demand but supplies scanty; other regular prints firm and occasionally tending upwards. Spring specialties selling readily. Spring ginghams in fair request at steady prices. Staples dull but firm. Napped dress fabrics in good demand at full prices. Print cloths have ruled firm but quiet at an advance of 1-16c. to 3 5-16c. for "extras."

WOOLEN GOODS.—There has been an indifferent re-order demand again for light-weight woolens and worsteds for men's wear in both staple and fancy lines and the market for these is without new feature of importance. In new heavy-weights Washington Mills Clay worsteds have been opened at 95c. for 10-ounce, $1·00 for 12-ounce, $1·10 for 14 ounce, $1·20 for 16-ounce and $1·30 for 18-ounce makes, being on a parity with the prices quoted on new lines of foreign Clays. Last season the Washington Mills prices were 17½c. per yard below the above at the opening, but subsequently advanced 5c. per yard. The goods are only being opened and the new prices have not been fairly tested. No other domestic heavy-weight Clays are quoted yet. The Washington overcoatings in beavers and kerseys for the new season are also advanced 10 per cent, but there are other agents taking orders at old prices. Cloakings are quiet and unchanged. Business in flannels and blankets is limited but prices are firm. Dress goods for spring are generally firm, with a generally good business secured. Seasonable demand mostly confined to plaids and rough effects.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—There has been a dull market in seasonable merchandise, the demand running to a few specialties in dress goods and silks, with light piecing-out orders in other directions. Business for spring also quiet. Dress goods, silks and linens firm, the latter tending upwards. New heavy-weight woolens and worsted for men's wear in moderate request.

MUNICIPAL BOND SALES IN OCTOBER.

Our review of municipal bond sales for the month of October shows that the market for this class of securities has continued strong. The prices paid for new loans were generally good and in some cases unusually high. Fall River, Mass., for instance, marketed a 4 per cent 30-year issue at 111·777, while in October of 1894 the highest bid made in response to a similar offering by the same city was 107·075 and in June of 1893 Fall River 4-30s sold at 100·2. With reference to this last-mentioned sale, however, it should be remembered that it was made at a time of general financial depression, when many other cities were obliged to withdraw their bonds from the market as no bids at all were made for them.

Philadelphia succeeded last month in disposing of nearly all of a 3 per cent loan of $1,200,000 in small amounts taken at par by popular subscription.

In the following table we give the prices which were paid for October loans to the amount of $5,027,812, issued by 47 municipalities. The aggregate of sales for which no price was reported is $1,669,200 and the total sales for the month $6,687,012. In the case of each loan reference is made to the page of the Chronicle where a full account of the sale is given.

Both principal and interest will be payable at the City Treasurer's office. The city's indebtedness, exclusive of the new issue, includes $219,000 of water-works bonds; $8,000 of market-house bonds; $197,000 of street improvement bonds; $5,500 of building bonds; $146,000 of sewer bonds and $75,000 of dock improvement bonds; total, $591,500. The assessed valuation is $7,000,000; estimated real value, $18,000,000. The tax rate (per $1,000) for 1895 is $31·50. The population, according to local figures, is $20,000.

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Bonds Defeated.—Alfred Davis, City Clerk, reports to the CHRONICLE that an election recently held at Santa Barbara, on issuing $60,000 of paving bonds, resulted in the defeat of the proposition.

Scranton School District, Pa.—Bond Sale.—Four and one-half per cent bonds of this district to the amount of $40,000 have been awarded to Messrs. N. W. Harris & Co. of New York. Of the sum purchased $15,000 will mature July 1, 1914, and $25,000 will mature July 1, 1915.

These bonds are part of the entire issue of $75,000, $35,000 of which will be taken up by the board of control with cash in the interest and sinking fund account. The loan is free from all taxes, the School District having assumed the payment thereof.

The amount of the last assessed valuation of property in the district liable to taxation was $18,599,764, and the financial condition of the district at the beginning of the present fiscal year, July 1, 1895, as follows:

Valuation of school property, estimated	$1,000,000 00
Cash in the hands of the Treasurer	10,851 67
Delinquent taxes outstanding	25,000 00

School Bonds—	When Due.
5s, $15,000	July 1, 1900	4½s, $50,000	July 1, 1908
5s, 40,000	July 1, 1901	4½s, 50,000	July 1, 1913
		4½s, 50,000	July 1, 1918

Sedalia, Mo.—Bond Sale.—On November 4, 1895, the city of Sedalia sold at public auction $208,500 of 4½ per cent refunding bonds to F. W. Schultz, cashier of the Sedalia National Bank, for a premium of $5,100. Interest is payable semi-annually in June and December and the principal will mature in 20 years with an option of call in 10 years.

It was advertised that proposals would be received until November 4 for the above-mentioned bonds and accordingly sixteen bids were received, but as there seemed to be a general desire manifested by the bidders to have the bonds put up at auction, the council by resolution decided not to open the bids, but to return them and sell the bonds to the highest bidder at public auction. The firms represented were Blair & Co., New York; Deitz, Denison & Prior, Cleveland, O.; Farson, Leach & Co., Chicago, Ill.; Gaylord, Blessing & Co., St. Louis, Mo; N. W. Harris & Co., Chicago, Ill.; W. J. Hayes & Sons, Cleveland, O.; E. H. Rollins & Sons, Boston, Mass; E. C. Stanwood & Co., Boston, Mass., and three local bidders.

The city has no other bonded indebtedness than the above and its assessed valuation is nearly $4,500,000; actual valuation about $12,000,000.

The question of making Sedalia the seat of State Government will be voted on in November, 1896, and it is expected that the proposition will carry.

Sharon, Pa.—Bond Sale.—Refunding bonds of Sharon to the amount of $49,000 have recently been sold to Messrs. Rudolph Kleybolte & Co. of Cincinnati. The securities are dated November 1, 1895, interest at the rate of 4 per cent is payable semi-annually on May 1 and November 1 at the Sharon National Bank, and the principal will mature November 1, 1915.

Sharon's total debt is $79,000. The assessed valuation for 1895 is $3,400,000; actual valuation $4,000,000.

Sherman, Tex.—Bond News.—An offer at a high rate of premium has been made for the purchase of a proposed issue of $25,000 of bonds to retire a like amount of Houston & Texas Central subsidy bonds. Proof of the validity of the issue sought to be retired, however, is not furnished and the approval of the Attorney-General is being asked for.

Virginia, Minn.—Bond Offering.—City Recorder E. S. Smith reports that $11,000 of city of Virginia funding bonds are being offered for sale.

White Plains, N. Y.—Bond Offering.—Propsosals will be received until November 11, 1895, by the Board of Trustees for the purchase of $18,000 of 4 per cent village paving bonds. Interest will be payable semi-annually and the principal will mature at the rate of $3,000 yearly, commencing 1905. The bonds will be delivered on or before November 15, 1895.

Windsor Locks, Conn.—Bond Offering.—Proposals will be received until November 21 for the purchase of town bonds.

The United States Life Insurance Co.
IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

This old and reliable Company now has the experience of forty-five years of practical Life Insurance, which has taught it that the sine qua non of success is the adoption of good plans of insurance, and the pursuit of a liberal policy towards both its Insured and its Agents. These essentials it possesses in an eminent degree, but judiciously tempered by that conservatism which is the best possible safeguard of the policy-holder. Its contracts are incontestable after two years. They are non-forfeiting, providing generally for either paid-up policy or extended insurance, at the option of the policy-holder. It gives ten days of grace in payment of all premiums. Its course during the past forty-five years abundantly demonstrates its absolute security.

Active and successful Agents, wishing to represent this Company, may communicate with the President at the Home Office, 261 Broadway, New York.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

Our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, November 9, are given below, and we also present the results for the corresponding week in 1894, 1893 and 1892. In comparison with the preceding week there is a decrease in the aggregate exchanges of about sixty-seven and three-quarter million dollars, but at New York alone the loss is seventy-one millions. Contrasted with the week of 1894 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 21·9 per cent. Compared with the week of 1893 the current returns record an excess of 18·1 per cent and the loss from 1892 is 5·4 per cent. Outside of New York the gain over 1894 is 18·1 per cent. The excess over 1893 reaches 18·9 per cent, and making comparison with 1892 the excess is seen to be 1·5 per cent.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

European markets have all developed a quieter condition as the week has progressed. On Saturday last a serious panic was reported on the Bourse at Paris and at Vienna. The cause was the political tension added to the speculative situation and the approaching settlement, the latter giving rise to fears lest in its progress important failures should occur. Lord Salisbury's address at the Mansion House Saturday evening relieved in large measure the political tension. The address was conservative, disclaiming any ambition other than to preserve the peace and restrain lawlessness in Turkey; it was satisfactory to his own people because of its clear and strong expression of the ability of Great Britain to protect her own interests everywhere; it was reassuring to financial classes all over Europe for its emphatic affirmation of the perfect accord and concert of the Great Powers in the present movement. Besides the quieting effect of this address measures were reported to have been taken on Monday by strong houses in Paris to place $25,000,000 at the disposal of the market for the purpose of assisting in the settlement; also a conference of leading financial men was stated to have been held at which it was resolved that the utmost assistance safety permitted should be rendered in order to avert a financial disturbance. These measures further helped to restore confidence and the settlement was concluded without important incident. At London consols gradually recovered and nearly all trace of the disturbance seemed to be removed by Thursday, when it was announced that the public were again buying South African mining shares quite indiscriminately. This last announcement seems a little marvelous. If correct the English public just now has unusually strong faith in the substantial nature of things hoped for but not seen.

At home the abnormal state of our foreign exchange market, which has at length resulted in gold exports—$1,000,000 on Tuesday and $2,250,000 withdrawn yesterday for to-day's steamer—has been an unfavorable circumstance and the only unfavorable development of the week. Is it not strange though that while this condition of our foreign exchange market prevailed here, Mr. Crisp, late Speaker of the House of Representatives, was making a speech in Georgia announcing he was in no manner cured of the delusion he has so long labored under that the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 was a safe policy for the country and one the people would best thrive under? Georgia and the other Southern States are trying to bull cotton to-day. There is a short crop and they ought to get a good price for it. These exports of gold produced by our silver issues already made are so disturbing that if continued financial people who are carrying the cotton will have to drop it. When that occurs the people of the South had better look to these silver advocates for their damages.

The highly gratifying exhibits of earnings which the railroads are making in their current returns (outside of a few roads in Texas and the Southwest whose revenues have been diminished by the reduced cotton movement) constitute an exceedingly encouraging feature in the general situation. It is evident too that so long as on the one hand the grain movement continues so heavy as at present and on the other hand iron production remains on so large a scale, the earnings of the roads must go on improving. The "Iron Age" has this week issued its usual monthly statement showing the number of furnaces in blast and the aggregate capacity per week, and from this it appears that the output of pig iron on the 1st of November was 217,306 tons per week. We noted a month ago that the production had for the first time in the history of the country exceeded the two hundred thousand mark (the amount for October 1 having been 201,414 tons) and the latest figures demonstrate that the great activity in the iron and steel trades continues unchecked. The "Age" says that since the 1st of November a few more furnaces have either started or are getting ready to start; these it calculates will bring the output up to 220,000 tons per week, but that, it thinks, will be the maximum. Of course with production at the rate of nearly 11½ million tons a year, we should soon have iron enough to supply the present very extensive demand. It is this feeling doubtless that accounts for the weakening in prices which has been the feature of late weeks. And yet it is a fact that up to the present time, so far from there having been any accumulation of iron, supplies have been steadily drawn down. According to the "Age" the total of stocks, sold and unsold, on November 1 was only 396,669 tons, against 418,103 tons October 1, 461,511 tons September 1, 511,781 tons August 1 and 549,068 tons July 1. These figures warrant the inference that thus far all the iron turned out has been actually wanted, and more too; and this of course furnishes the reason for the steady enlargement of the output.

With reference to the course of earnings, we give to-day our review for the month of October. From this it will be seen that though the Southwestern group of roads has in some cases sustained quite heavy losses as the result of the smaller cotton movement, yet in the aggregate our table shows a gain in amount of over 3½ million dollars as compared with the same month last year. We need hardly say that the large grain movement has played a prominent part in this improvement in earnings, and yet the gain in volume of the grain traffic will not alone explain the great increase in earnings. The truth is, the excellent grain harvests gathered the present year are an advantage to the roads quite as much in the stimulus they have imparted to general trade and the increased buying power they have given the farming classes as in the extra tonnage in grain which they afford. With reference to the loss of earnings on the Southwestern roads, that is large, because at this season of the year cotton always moves in considerable volume, and therefore any shortage in the crop is felt most severely at such time. After a few weeks more the small crop will count for less in the affairs of the roads, and it should also be remembered that the grain harvest in the Southwest has been very good the present year, the same as in other sections, and that this will operate as an offset to the cotton shortage. We show for instance to-day, in speaking with regard to the Agricultural Bureau's figures of corn production, that in Texas the yield for 1895 is given as 107,897,000 bushels, as against only 69,338,676 bushels in 1894, and in Arkansas 50,360,000 bushels, against 38,437,824 bushels. In other words, in these two States the corn product for 1895 is estimated at 158,257,000 bushels, against only 107,776,500 bushels in 1894—an increase of over 50 million bushels. Thus the benefits of the country's large corn production the present year extend to that section of the country.

Money on call representing bankers' balances has been still easier this week and loans on the Stock Exchange were generally made at 1½ per cent after Tuesday, with a few transactions in small amounts at 2 per cent; the average for the week has been a fraction below 2 per cent. Some of the large up-town banks who have been unable to place their money at 2 per cent on call over the counter have employed it in the stock market at 1½ per cent, but the majority of the banks and trust companies refuse to loan below 2 per cent, and this rate is quoted as the minimum by all the down-town institutions. Lenders on time are willing to make concessions as to rates where choice collateral is offered, and some transactions have this week been reported at a fraction less than the figures quoted below, (3½@4 per cent) for six months. Rates on good marketable security are 2 per cent for thirty days (2½ per cent) for sixty to ninety days, 3 per cent for four and 3½@4 per cent for five to seven months. There is a good demand for the best commercial paper not only from the city but from Eastern buyers, and the supply on the market is only moderate, partly because of the fact that the names offered are closely scrutinized and those which pass examination are promptly taken. Quotations are 4@4½ per cent for sixty to ninety-day endorsed bills receivable, 4½@5 per cent for four months' commission house and prime four months' single names, 5@5½ per cent for prime six months, and 6 per cent and above for good four to six months single names. Re-discounting is nearly over for the season, though there is some inquiry from the South and bankers report an urgent demand for money in the extreme Northwest.

The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 2 per cent, but the Bank of Berlin has advanced its rate to 4 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London at 1½@1⅝ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 2 per cent and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 3 per per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England gained £45,124 bullion during the week and held at the close of the week £40,947,768. Our correspondent further advises us that the gain was due to the import of £218,000, all bought in the open market; to £40,000 received from the interior of Great Britain, and £213,000 exported, of which £203,000 went to the Cape and £10,000 to Egypt.

The foreign exchange market was slightly easier early in the week, influenced by a lighter demand, part of the inquiry for remittance having been met with gold bills drawn against a shipment of $1,000,000 gold on Tuesday and part by a little better supply of near or prompt cotton bills which came by Monday's mails, while at the same time there were fairly liberal deliveries of cotton drafts on contracts, though these were not so large as during previous weeks. Later the market grew firmer in response to a better demand for remittance by Saturday's steamer, and the buying for that mail began on Wednesday afternoon. There appears to be a disposition on the part of bankers to avoid, if possible, gold exports, and it was not until Thursday that there were any indications that gold would be shipped on Saturday, and even then no positive statement would be made as to the amount which would be sent. Yesterday the withdrawals for shipment were $2,250,000 ($1,250,000 by Lazard Freres and $1,000,000 by L. von Hoffman & Co.), making the total shipments of the week $3,250,000. On Monday the market opened steady with rates for actual business at 4 87¾@4 88 for sixty day, 4 89¼@4 89½ for sight and 4 89½@4 89¾ for cable transfers, the only change made compared with Friday of last week being in the sight rate, which was one-quarter of a cent higher. On Tuesday dearer discounts in London caused a reduction in rates for actual business for long sterling to 4 87½@4 87¾, while the lighter demand and some offerings of bills supposed to be against contemplated shipments of gold caused a reduction in the short rate for actual business to 4 89@4 89¼, and in the cable rate to 4 89¼@4 89½. There was no change on the following day and the market was quoted as steady until the afternoon, when a better demand caused it to close firm, and on Thursday rates for actual business were advanced to 4 87¾@4 88 for long, 4 89¼@4 89½ for short and 4 89½@4 89¾ for cable transfers, and the market was steady to strong all day and bankers reported a very light supply of commercial bills against cotton. Yesterday the same conditions ruled. There were no changes made in nominal rates during the week, and the following table shows the figures posted by leading drawers.

THE INTER STATE COMMERCE LAW AND UNEQUAL RATES.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission has recently made a ruling in two cases, both involving the same point, and the text of these decisions has now been issued in printed form. The opinion deserves very careful study and consideration—not that it enunciates any new doctrine or principle, or that it changes a previous construction of the law, but rather that by reaffirming a ruling made by the Board at the very beginning of its career, and applying this ruling to the cases under review, it enables one to see how far the theory of equality of treatment of different places may be carried, and also enables one to see how unfairly such theory may work in practice.

The complaints in the cases referred to were both filed by parties doing business in Cordele, a small town in Georgia. The complaint in the first case was by S. J. Hill & Bro., a firm in the wholesale and retail grain, hay and flour business, and was against the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway, the Western & Atlantic, the East Tennessee Virginia & Georgia, the Georgia Southern & Florida, the Louisville & Nashville, and the Savannah Americus & Montgomery. The petition was based on transactions which occurred in July and August 1892, and related to shipments of flour and corn from Nashville to the plaintiffs at Cordele. The second action was brought by the Cordele Machine Shop, a corporation engaged in the foundry and machine shop business at Cordele, and was against the Louisville & Nashville and the Savannah Americus & Montgomery. It related to the charges on shipments of coal and pig iron from Birmingham to Cordele.

In their opinion the Commission furnish tables of rates, tables of distances and various other details, and altogether go into the matter quite at length. The substance of the complaints, however, can be stated in very few words. The plaintiffs are dissatisfied because the defendant railroads will not grant them equally low rates with Macon, Americus and Albany, Ga. Cordele is 65 miles south of Macon, about 30 miles east of Americus and 35 miles northeast from Albany. The rates complained of are made according to what is known as the "basing-point system," by which certain competitive centres are granted low through rates while other points are required to pay higher rates, these latter being fixed by adding to the through rate to the nearest competitive or basing point the local rate from said point to the point of destination. In the rate sheets in the South, Macon, Americus and Albany are favored with the special rates referred to. Cordele, on the other hand, is treated as a local point, and is therefore obliged to pay in addition to the through rate the local rate to the through point. This the people of the town consider undue discrimination. Like the inhabitants of so many other small places they want to be placed in a position of equality with the most favored localities.

The Commission speak of the basing-point system as if it were peculiar to the South, whereas the truth is it obtains all over the country, and as a matter of fact it would hardly be possible to arrange rates in any other way. To most persons too it will appear that such method is not open to criticism. But the Commission have from the first been opposed to it, and have claimed that as it perpetuated the advantages which the trade centres have always had, therefore it was in conflict with the law. In one of the very first cases considered—the celebrated Louisville & Nashville case—the Commission, speaking through Chairman Cooley, referred to the pre-eminence of the trade centres and the concessions in rates which the railroads make to them. Again in the case of Martin vs. Chicago Burlington & Quincy, Chairman Cooley said: "A fatal difficulty with the theory that a trade centre, as such, is entitled to especially favorable rates, is found in the fact that it is in conflict with the spirit and purpose of the Act to Regulate Commerce. One of the reasons for the passage of the Act was that by means of rebates and other contrivances large towns and heavy dealers secured advantages which gave them a practical monopoly of markets and shut out the small towns and small dealers." * * * * "It is not a matter of the least importance, in a legal sense, that the small towns are strictly local and non-competitive."

We should say that the flaw in this argument was that it assumed that the trade centres were the creation of the railroads as the result of special rates granted by them, whereas it would be nearer the truth to declare that the trade centres by reason of their position and natural advantages had compelled the discrimination in their favor which the railroads make. Nor are we prepared to admit that the theory of the law is quite as broad as Judge Cooley here states it. However, as the Commission had early announced their position on this point and have not since changed it, it was not to be expected that they would decide in favor of the railroads in the present cases. In their syllabus to the latest decision they announce their conclusions in a somewhat dramatic fashion, saying of the competitive and basing-point system—"reviewed, again condemned, and found to result in unreasonable and unlawful rates to points classed as local, and give favored business rivals unreasonable advantage."

To those not familiar with the facts the argument which the Commission advance to justify their action may appear quite plausible too. By the short lines from Nashville, Cordele has an advantage only over Albany, the other two points—Macon and Americus—being nearer than it to Nashville by these short lines. But by the indirect routes, against which the complaints in the present instance are directed, Cordele appears to have an advantage over all the other points. The roads accord low through rates to these latter points, why should not Cordele be favored in the same way? Then also it is pointed out that by the short rail lines Cordele is nearer to the ports of Savannah, Brunswick and Jacksonville than either Macon, Americus or Albany, which thus would seem to afford additional reason for granting it the same advantages in rates as the other points.

But it will appear on reflection that a conclusion can not be based on these elements alone. There are other factors that enter into the matter. Some of these considerations are entirely ignored in the Commission's argument, others are passed over very lightly and not given the weight to which they are entitled. It is of course perfectly obvious why Albany, Macon and Americus are granted lower rates than Cordele. They are larger places and they enjoy facilities which Cordele does not possess. The Commission admit this, saying, "Cordele is not so large as the much older cities, Americus, Albany and Macon; its tonnage of corn and flour and other products is small in comparison with theirs." Necessarily, too, the indirect lines in seeking to participate in the traffic to these points must make the same rates as the short lines. It is also well to remember that the preference accorded Macon, Albany and Americus is not a recent innovation. Those places were treated as basing or competitive points long before Cordele came into existence. The railroads have therefore made no departure in this respect. They have simply continued a condition of things which has prevailed for years. The only new feature of the situation has been the development of Cordele as a point of some importance, and this prominence it is only fair to say it owes entirely to the railroads, as we shall presently show. Nevertheless the place is still a comparatively unimportant one alongside of Macon, Americus and Albany, and therefore cannot justly claim the same rates as those points.

The contention of the Commission is that Cordele has been arbitrarily excluded from the advantages given to its rivals and business competitors. But, as we see, the course of the roads has been not at all arbitrary. Macon, Americus and Albany have been treated as competitive points the same as always in the past, while Cordele has been treated as a local point the same as hosts of other local points, and the reason for the distinction is found in the differences in the circumstances and conditions under which business to the two classes of points is conducted. The Commission say that "Cordele is not treated by the defendant roads as a competitive point because it is not a sufficiently large distributing point, and it is not such a distributing point because it is not treated as a competitive point, and the defendants seek to excuse themselves from wrong-doing by offering the results of the wrong in justification." This is a decidedly unfair statement. What are the facts of the case. Let the Commission themselves answer. In one part of their opinion we find them saying: "Cordele has grown up since the building of the Savannah Americus & Montgomery Railway. In April 1893, four years after its incorporation, it had a population of about 2,500." Going back a little we discover that at the time of the 1890 Census the population was only 1,578. In the 1880 Census the place is not enumerated at all, for it then had not yet been called into being. To the ordinary observer the fact that such growth has been possible would furnish very convincing evidence that the policy pursued by the railroads had not operated to the disadvantage of the new point, rather than the reverse.

We may go a step further and aver that it is the railroads that have made Cordele a possibility. We have already quoted the Commission to the effect that the place had grown up since the building of the Savannah Americus & Montgomery Ry. It would be more accurate to say, however, that it had grown up since the building of that road and the Georgia Southern & Florida. Both reached Cordele at much the same time—late in the eighties. Previous to that time Cordele had no railroad facilities, and the locality covered by it was insignificant and of no account—it finding no mention, as we have already seen, in the Census of 1880. It is therefore strictly correct to say that the place has been created by the railroads. Under the circumstances to charge these transportation interests, as the Commission do in effect, with having conspired against the welfare of the place when the fact is that it was the railroads that gave it its breath of life seems a good deal like straining after effect.

Consider one other aspect of the matter. While Cordele has prospered what has been the experience of the two roads which connect it with the outside world? This is a consideration to which no reference whatever is made in the opinion of the Commission, and yet it is a matter which cannot well be ignored. As stated at the outset, the complaint in the case of S. J. Hill & Bro. is based on transactions occurring in July and August 1893. As it happens, in the same year the Savannah Americus & Montgomery found itself unable to meet its obligations and went into the hands of receivers; the Georgia Southern & Florida had met the same fate the year preceding. The present year both roads were sold at foreclosure sale. Hence while Cordele has thriven, the two roads through whose enterprise it was created have proved unsuccessful and have passed into the possession of their creditors. More than that, in the case of the Savannah Americus & Montgomery (now known as the Georgia & Alabama) the branch between Cordele and Albany, called the Albany Florida & Northern, has been considered of so little value that it has been altogether left out of the new or reorganized company. In brief then, while on the one hand it is clear that the prevailing rates, against which complaint was made, have not operated to the detriment of Cordele, on the other hand it is equally clear that the general scheme of rates in force on the two roads mentioned (of which the rates to Cordele form a part) has not yielded a sufficient revenue to allow the roads to earn a return on the money invested in them.

It is against the smaller roads like the Georgia Southern & Florida and the Savannah Americus & Montgomery that such a decision as that rendered in the present instance operates most harshly. To the larger roads—the Louisville & Nashville and the East Tennessee—the difference is not of so much importance. They are getting only through rates now to the basing points, and to extend these through rates a little further to include other points could not make any very large difference in the proportion of the total charge received by them. But in the case of the small connecting roads, which carry the traffic from the basing points to the points of destination and get local rates for the haul, the difference becomes very great; for instead of such local rates they must accept simply their pro rata of the through rate, yielding vastly less.

It must be borne in mind that it is the local traffic upon which these connecting roads depend for a profitable existence, and they can not take this local traffic at one-half or three-quarters of a cent per ton-mile, for there is not enough of it to make it pay at such figures. It does not affect the argument that the connecting roads may also engage in the competitive or through business and accept very low rates for such business. If they can make a profit at this, be it never so little, it lightens to that extent the burden upon the local traffic which must support the roads. In the present instance, the Savannah Americus & Montgomery in its answer to the complaint stated that it would prefer to abandon taking freight to the basing or competitive points at through rates rather than have its revenues impaired by the reduction of rates to the local points, and obviously it would suffer least in that way. It must be regarded as in every way unfortunate that the Commission should adhere to a ruling which can but be prejudicial to a good many roads and also prejudicial to the best interests of the country.

WHAT THE AGRICULTURAL COTTON FIGURES INDICATE.

An important contribution to the public stock of information for forecasting the size of the cotton crop ought to be the agricultural reports, and no uncertainty as to their meaning ought to attach to them. No one doubts that the officials give us, as a rule, conscientious work so far as they give us anything, and that the errors contained in, and the misleading character of the figures they make public are such as naturally attend crop investigations, enhanced by changes of methods so frequently introduced incident to the short term (the length of one administration) the Chief of the Department holds his office. The fact is, what the Government undertakes to do cannot be done with accuracy, even if the tenure of office were very much longer and the reports remained continuously under the guidance of one mind. The sooner that truth is acknowledged and the results are made up on an unchangeable basis and given to the public simply as reflecting the information gathered from correspondents, for which the Washington officials are in no way responsible, the more helpful the results will prove to commercial classes. It is the comparison with former years which gives the chief value to the Government reports. Destroy that comparison and the reports become no better than any individual's work.

These remarks are suggested by what is called "the Statistician's" report on cotton for November 1, issued on Monday last, the full text of which will be found in the cotton department of this issue of the Chronicle. There has been considerable conflict of opinion among cotton men as to the yield these November results indicate. The estimates put out by members of the trade varied widely, all the way from 6,200,000 bales to 8,000,000 bales, the most of the investigators being no doubt influenced in choice of method and result more or less by preconceived views of the extent of the crop. That situation would be of little moment were it not that great difficulty attends any one's effort to get at a correct solution, however desirous one might be of so doing. This difficulty has been produced by the confusion into which the bases of comparison have been thrown and are involved by the changes in acreage introduced and by new methods used by the Department.

One of these acreage compilations prepared by the Department was made public October 25 1894. The report, having stated that the compilation had been "made after an investigation covering a period of several months," gave in detail by States the planting for the 1893 crop at a total of 19,525,000 acres; whereas the acreage, according to the running count prepared from the Department's annual percentages of increase and decrease starting with the Census of 1890, indicated that the planting in 1893 was only 16,869,726 acres. The other compilation was published in similar form in the "Report of the Statistician" of May 1895, but omitted to say the length of time taken to prepare it and called the figures simply an estimate. By this estimate the planting in 1894 was again raised to 23,687,950 acres, or an increase of over 21 per cent on the figures prepared after so much work and care for 1893, although the acreage report published in June 1894 had stated that the increased planting in 1894 over 1893 was only six hundredths of one per cent.

Such a record as the foregoing statements disclose cannot strengthen one's faith in the processes used or encourage one's reliance upon any of the results reached by the same authorities. What is more unfortunate, too, these changes leave the older records discredited and in confusion so that comparisons of that sort become difficult if not worthless. Still, taking these latest figures of the yield per acre, as they have been given out this week, the first step in attempting an interpretation is obviously to apply them to the latest cotton acreage revision of the Department. We say obviously because the Department has stated in making up the acreage percentages for the 1895 planting (see the printed June report) that the 1894 revised statement is to be used with those percentages for determining the current year's acreage. It will be remembered that the Government estimated a considerable loss of area in cotton this year as all authorities did. Its percentage of decrease for the whole country was 14·8 per cent. We made it less than that; but taking the Government results and working them out as it directs, and applying to the year's planting thus obtained the present figures of yield per acre, we have the following full exhibit:

It will be seen on examination of the above that the total indicated production on the basis of 480 pounds net per bale (a fair average weight for the current crop) is 6,548,916 bales.

At this point of the investigation another factor has usually been made a feature of the calculation by practical men. That is to say merchants and brokers in search of the true meaning of these November returns of yield per acre have found it necessary to modify the results reached in the above manner by a condition of the Government's figures which experience has proved was a characteristic. We refer to the average under-estimate which these results compared with the actual yield have in past years recorded. This should be taken into the account as well as the figures themselves. Any honest conservative observer looking at a crop on November 1st when a part of the crop must be still in the fields, not yet even fully picked, would naturally seek to keep his estimate at least no higher than the prospective out-turn, and hence would be likely to err in making his figures too low. The existence and influence of such an inclination has proved itself by the experience of past seasons, and we have always considered this feature as an evidence of the conscientiousness of the observer rather than as proof of the unreliability or defectiveness of the report.

This point may be illustrated by last year's November report. On the basis of the Department's acreage figures made public in October 1894, and of its November 1894 estimate of 191·7 pounds per acre, the indicated yield as worked out by us when the figures were issued was 3,804,318,467 pounds, or 7,958,616 bales of an average net weight of 478 pounds; as the crop turned out to be 9,892,766 bales here was a divergence of about 2 million bales. Even if we should use the still later promulgated acreage estimate, the reported yield per acre November 1 1894 would even then indicate a crop about a half a million bales short of the actual result. Just the same condition is true of previous years. The November report in 1893 showed a yield per acre of 148·8 lbs, whereas on the Government acreage the year's yield turned out to have been 182 lbs. per acre. In November 1892 no report was made public; but in November 1891 the Department's yield per acre was given at 179 lbs, whereas the year's actual crop indicated 208 lbs. We might cite the record for still other years further back, but they all reflect the same condition which observers have noticed existed and have made allowance for in interpreting the November report.

There is one comparison, however, and that is with 1893, which is especially interesting because all the data to be used in making it are taken from the recent work of the Department. The reader will recall the fact that the Department's first revision of acreage was for that year's planting, and was prepared after long months of labor. Hence, not only are we justified in accepting its revised statement for that year, but we are forced to accept it as the standard for the year in comparing that year's figures with subsequent figures issued by the Department for subsequent years. We have consequently brought together all the facts affecting the proposed comparison in the following compilation for the reader to study.

Actual crop		7,527,211

We have not added anything of our own to the foregoing except the few figures at the bottom of the Statistician's statement of the year's yield of cotton to make that total conform to the actual commercial crop. The reader will see at a glance the nature of the comparison suggested. Taking the total results the factors in it are

On the one hand (1) a planting in 1893 of 19,525,000 acres, (2) an estimated production of 148·8 pounds per acre, and (3) an actual crop of 7,527,211 bales.

On the other hand (1) a planting in 1895 of 20,192,778 acres, (2) an estimated production of 155·6 pounds per acre, (3) the actual crop, allowing the same per centage of under-estimate in 1895 as in 1893.

The problem and its solution may be stated as follows:

If 19,525,000 acres produced 7,527,211 bales in 1893 on an estimated production of 148·8 pounds per acre, or 23 85-100 per cent more than the estimated production indicated, Then 20,192,778 acres on an estimated production of 155·6 pounds per acre should produce 23 85-100 per cent more than the amount which that yield per acre would net (that is 23·85 per cent more than 6,548,916 bales), which would be 8,110,832 bales.

We do not by any means intend to be understood as indicating that we think the Department's estimate, as just modified, is a correct forecast of the crop. Our purpose has been not to reflect our own views but simply to give what may be taken as a fair interpretation of the Government crop report issued this week.

TURKEY AND THE GREAT POWERS.

Periodically Turkey will get sick in spite of all the care which is taken of her; and her sickness is always more or less a cause of anxiety to her European physicians. It is really wonderful the care which has been bestowed upon her. For the best part of the last hundred years she has been in a chronic condition of collapse; but by nursing and the judicious application of wholesome remedies she has again and again been brought into a condition of convalescence, and so obtained new leases of life. She is now once more in the hands of the doctors; and it is hardly unfair to say that her case rarely, if ever, looked more desperate.

All our latest news is fitted to inspire anxiety as to the immediate future of the Sultan and his empire. At any moment we may learn that he has been deprived of power or more roughly put out of the way. His government seems to be powerless. Outside of Constantinople and beyond the immediate neighborhood, insurrection, aggravated by race and religious hatreds, and accompanied by the most horrible brutality, is more or less general. In Armenia and along her borders, and along the eastern shores of the Black Sea, Mussulman fanaticism has been aroused to the highest pitch, and the Christian subjects of the Porte where they have not been goaded into madness and compelled to arm themselves in self-defense have had to submit helplessly to Turkish brutality.

In the circumstances one does not wonder that the voice of the venerable Gladstone, although no longer the same voice which rang over Europe denouncing the Neapolitan Government in 1850, and arousing general indignation against the atrocities perpetrated by Turkish officials in Bulgaria in 1875, should be again raised, calling for the abandonment of this obsolete and hopelessly incurable Eastern State to its fate—characterizing it not unjustly as an excrescence and a curse. The Powers have been naturally slow to act; it did seem for a time as if those who were most immediately responsible were remiss in the performance of their duty. By the treaty of Berlin Great Britain came under obligations to protect Armenia and the Armenians; and many have been under the impression that it would have been better, all things considered, if battalions and iron-clads had at an earlier stage taken the place of manifestoes and recommendations.

On such occasions, however, the public is liable to judge rashly. Outside of government circles men are rarely, if ever, in full possession of the facts. Suffering on a large scale makes appeals which are apparently irresistible or which it is supposed ought to be irresistible; and inaction on the part of those who have power to interfere and save has the aspect of indifference. We know now that the Powers have not been unconcerned—that they have neither been inactive nor indifferent. Interference was beset with great difficulty. It was necessary in the first instance to call the Sultan's attention to the facts of the situation, to use persuasion, and threats when persuasion proved ineffective. It was necessary to place some reliance on the Sultan's promises. And even when it became manifest that armed interference was about to become a necessity, it was in the last degree desirable that caution be exercised so as to avoid giving offence to any one or more of the treaty Powers. Civil war in Turkey would be bad enough, but a general European war, conducted partly for the purpose of securing shares of Turkish territory and partly for the reconstruction of European boundary lines, would be infinitely worse. It was necessary above all things that the Powers act in concert.

For a time it did seem doubtful what shape interference would take, if interference became actually imperative. The situation in the Far East had assumed features which made it difficult to foresee how far Russia and Great Britian could be induced to act in concert in the Nearer East. Might not the apparently aggressive spirit held in check off the coasts of Corea break out on the Bosphorus and in the Black Sea? Was it not possible that Russia might seize the opportunity to force her way into the Mediterranean? Doubts were also possible in regard to France? Her relations with Great Britain have not been for some time of a particularly friendly character. Might she not seek an opportunity by acting in concert with Russia to avenge herself for imaginary wrongs in Egypt? Happily we have now good reason to believe that all such doubts and fears have been removed, and that there is a perfect understanding among all the powers as to what shall be done if armed interference should become a necessity, and actual occupation of Turkish territory should take place.

Lord Salisbury in his now famous speech at the Mansion House on Saturday evening last effectually cleared the political atmosphere of all mist by making plain the real condition of the Turkish empire, the inability or unwillingness of the Sultan and his ministers to carry out reforms now imperatively demanded, and by declaring the absolute and unqualified concord of the Powers, both as to what is being done and as to what is to be done, if persuasion and threats should prove equally ineffective. The speech of the Prime Minister had in it many points of commanding interest. It was just such a speech as we had expected of him. Its wisdom was perhaps its most pronounced characteristic. That it should reveal something of British pluck and fearlessness was most natural in the circumstances. Speaking of the Far East, he gave courage to his audience when he said: "Depend upon it, whatever may happen in that region, be it in the way of war or in the way of commerce, we are equal to any competitor that may be opposed to us." But wisdom is conspicuous throughout. There is a Power, he reminded those about him, higher than all treaties, all combinations, all earthly instrumentalities, and that is Providence. "Constant misgovernment must lead the government that carries it on to its doom." The governments, however, that united formed the treaty Powers knew their duty. What they would do if they were compelled to act it was not for him to say; but it was with pride he was able to state that "throughout the negotiations nothing was more strongly impressed upon his mind than the disposition of the Powers to act together, and their profound sense of the appalling danger any separation of their action might produce."

It is not safe for us to predict where Lord Salisbury prefers to be silent. There is, however, a natural course to be followed. Austria is likely to have charge of whatever lies to the west of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. Russia will take charge of Armenia and the country adjoining to the south and east of the Black Sea. France and England aided probably by Italy and Austria, so far as ships of war are concerned, will take charge of Constantinople, not necessarily by occupation. That such interference will have a damaging effect upon Turkey there can be no manner of doubt. It is reasonable to assume that it will lead to further dismemberment. This, however, belongs to the future. In the meantime it is gratifying to find a man like Lord Salisbury rejoicing in the concord of the Powers, and finding in such concord encouragement to look forward with confidence to a discontinuance of "that armed peace which presses now so heavily on the industries of the world."

THE CORN YIELD.

The Agricultural Bureau at Washington has this week issued its customary statement, giving among other things the yield per acre of corn in the different States and for the whole country. The statement is accompanied by the usual qualifying remark that the present figures are to be regarded as a preliminary and not a final estimate of the yield. But the results must have been worked out very minutely for all the States, otherwise it would not be possible to give an average for the entire country. Hence we seem justified in regarding the estimates now submitted as a pretty close approximation of what the Bureau thinks its final figures are likely to be a couple of months hence.

The chief feature in the return is that it makes the aggregate of the production of corn smaller than appeared likely from the returns of previous months.

Applying the yield per acre to the acreage planted in corn, as reported by the Bureau earlier in the year, we get a crop of 2,156 million bushels. This is about 200 million bushels less than what the probabilities seemed to point to in October. It is also that much less than the estimates of reliable private parties at the present time, for they all fix the crop as being between 2,300 and 2,400 million bushels. But whether the aggregate is 200 or 300 million bushels larger or smaller is, on the whole, a matter of very little consequence. The important fact is that the crop is decidedly the largest ever harvested, and is, roughly, 1,000 million bushels in excess of that of last year. In the following we show the indicated production for the leading producing States in 1895 in contrast with the estimated yield for previous years.

The foregoing furnishes some striking contrasts illustrative of the great difference in the crop situation this year and last. In Iowa we have a crop of over 298 million bushels as against only 81 million bushels in 1894, in Kansas 204 millions against 42 millions, in Illinois 255 millions against 169 million bushels. In Nebraska the drought greatly impaired the prospects, but even there the estimate for 1895 at 126 million bushels is vastly better than the yield of only 13 million bushels in 1894.

The figures for the Southern States possess considerable interest in view of the reduced cotton yield in those States. On the whole they bear out the accepted reports that there has been an excellent crop of grain in that section and that this will serve as an offset to the loss in cotton. Thus for Texas the corn crop is estimated at 107 million bushels against only 69 million bushels last year; for Arkansas 50 million bushels against 38 million bushels; for Tennessee 83 million bushels against 68 million bushels; for Kentucky 93 million bushels against 67 million.

Besides the yield of corn per acre, the present return also furnishes the estimated yield for some other crops—in addition to those given in the October return. It is worth pointing out that these crops, too, show in several cases an exceptionally large product per acre. The following are the figures for a series of years.

AVERAGE YIELD PER ACRE.

	1895.	1894.	1893.	1892.	1891.	1890.
Corn ..... bushels.	26·2	19·7	22·6	22·4	26·6	19·9

Cotton.....pounds	155·6	191·7	146·8	.....	179·0	187·0

It will be seen from the foregoing that the yield of potatoes for 1895 is the best of all the years, that this is true also of buckwheat, that in the case of tobacco and corn the 1895 averages are close up to the best, and that only cotton and hay fall decidedly behind in their averages.

RAILROAD GROSS EARNINGS IN OCTOBER.

The October statement of railroad gross earnings is by far the best we have yet had in the present upward movement, and in this reflects the improvement in conditions—the large crops, the revival of business activity and the heavy grain movement. Our statement is very comprehensive, and embraces 139 roads operating 104,008 miles of line. On these the gain is over 3½ millions dollars ($3,524,772), or 6·59 per cent. Out of the whole 139 roads, only 37 have fallen behind in their earnings, but among these there are quite a number where the decrease is very heavy.

But here again we see reflected the prevailing conditions, for there is a certain large section of the country where these conditions have been in one particular adverse. We refer to the South and Southwest, where the cotton crop is short and where at the same time some of the planters have been holding back their cotton for higher prices, thus causing a great falling off in the movement of the staple. The shortage of the crop is most pronounced in the Southwest, and more particularly in Texas, and therefore the roads in that section record the heaviest losses in earnings. There is still another reason for the large losses in these cases; the Southwestern roads last year had (mainly because of the very heavy cotton traffic then) in many instances reported the largest October earnings on record.

As indicating the extent of the falling off in the cotton movement the present year, we may note that the receipts of cotton at the Southern outports in October 1895 were only 1,174,023 bales as against 1,575,551 in October 1894, a decrease of over four hundred thousand bales. In addition the shipments overland aggregated only 206,093 bales as against 271,027 bales in 1894, thus showing a further loss of nearly 65,000 bales. The bulk of the falling off at the ports occurred at Galveston and New Orleans, the points receiving cotton from the Southwest; but that the falling off has been general is evident from the following statement, giving the receipts for each of the several ports.

East of the Mississippi, as the diminution in the cotton movement has been smaller than elsewhere and has been offset by gains from the revival in general business and from the activity in the iron sections, there are no such conspicuous losses in earnings as west of the Mississippi and in fact there are very few losses of any kind. In the Southwest, among the roads reporting, the Texas & Pacific has $226,570 decrease, the Missouri Kansas & Texas $175,472 decrease, the Inter-National & Gt. Northern $123,902 decrease, the Atchison $87,000 decrease and the St. Louis Southwestern $71,659 decrease. The Atchison decrease is entirely owing to the losses on the Texas lines, the Gulf Colorado & Santa Fe division having sustained a decrease of $135,447.

We have given first place to these losses because they are a prominent feature of the situation this time. But of course our tables comprise vastly more gains than losses, and the gains are also vastly larger. In some cases indeed these gains reach phenomenal amounts, as witness the increase of $860,968 reported by the St. Paul, making the October earnings of the road the largest on record with the exception of October 1893, when the passenger business had been raised to exceptional proportions by the closing of the World's Fair. The Burlington & Quincy and the Chicago & North Western figures have not yet been published, but presumably these roads also will show very large gains. The Great Northern reports $371,637 increase, the New York Central $349,074 increase, the Northern Pacific $313,626 increase. Even such a comparatively small road as the Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern has enlarged its earnings $229,217. The Illinois Central has $211,684 increase, the Mexican Central $179,997 increase, the Wabash $141,923, the Southern Railway $139,086, the Missouri Pacific $127,073, the Rock Island $123,645, the Baltimore & Ohio $87,605, the Louisville & Nashville $87,099, &c., &c. We get a very good idea of the character of the exhibits for October from the following summary of the principal losses and gains, the statement giving all the changes down to $30 000.

Of course the basis for the heavy gains in earnings is found mainly in the excellent grain crops and the large and free movement of the same. At the Western primary markets the expansion in the grain movement has extended to all the leading cereals, the receipts of wheat for the five weeks ending November 2 having been 39,201,172 bushels against only 23,506,943 bushels, of corn 12,330,212 bushels against 4,823,648 bushels, of oats 22,692,069 bushels against 9,041,378 bushels, of barley 8,400,890 bushels against 7,364,890 bushels, and of rye 704,510 bushels against 285,588 bushels—making a grand aggregate of 83,328,853 bushels for the five weeks in 1895 against only 45,022,447 bushels in the corresponding five weeks of 1894, thus giving an addition of over 38 million bushels. But while there has been this tremendous increase and while it has extended to all the cereals, several of the points show a falling off in one or more of the cereals. Some of the winter-wheat points have diminished receipts of wheat, but this is of course due to the small winter-wheat crop the present year. The movement in detail in our usual form is shown in the following.

Chicago gained beyond all other points from the large grain movement. But even at that point there was considerable irregularity in the movement over the different roads; the deliveries of winter wheat evidently were much smaller than in 1894, but the receipts of spring wheat were decidedly larger. The relative proportions in which the two classes of wheat have contributed to the totals may be judged from the fact that the inspection of winter wheat at Chicago during October 1895 comprised only 645 cars against 3,106 cars in 1894, while on the other hand the inspection of spring wheat was 7,834 cars against only 56 cars. From the following table giving the receipts for the even month, it will be seen that the grain deliveries altogether at the point mentioned reached 30,634,810 bushels in October 1895 against 12,178,706 bushels in October 1894. In 1892, however, the receipts had been over 35½ million bushels. We may say that the movement of live stock was also much heavier than in 1894, the receipts of hogs having been 859,941 head against only 629,879 head, and the receipts of all kinds of live stock having been 29,843 car-loads against 28,098 car-loads.

As in the previous month quite a number of roads suffered from causes or influences peculiar to themselves. This is particularly true of the bituminous coal roads, where in certain cases strikes continued a disturbing influence part of the month. The strike in the Reynoldsville district affected adversely the Western New York & Pennsylvania, the strike at the Congo mine restricted shipments over the Columbus Sandusky & Hocking and the strike in the Massillon district, which was not settled until the 28th, reduced the earnings of the Cleveland Canton & Southern and some other roads. Some lines, too, suffered because of the scarcity of Lake vessels, which made it difficult to unload the cars.

We have stated above that out of the 139 roads contributing returns to our statements only 37 had fallen behind in their earnings. We may supplement this now by saying that almost the whole 37 comprise roads which either had to contend with a smaller cotton movement or else have suffered in one of the ways mentioned in the preceding paragraph. Of course in very many cases we are comparing with diminished earnings last year, the losses at that time, however, having resulted usually because earnings in 1893 had been so heavily swelled by the World's Fair. In the aggregate our table last year, comprising 124 roads operating 93,144 miles, showed $2,766,969 decrease, and this came on top of $1,245,892 decrease in 1893. The following is a summary of the October results for a series of years.

It is almost needless to say that when the roads are arranged in groups, the Northwestern group makes decidedly the best showing of any, the 1895 earnings being in several cases the largest ever reached; this applies notably to the Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern, the Great Northern and the Minneapolis & St. Louis. On the roads embraced in the following table aggregate earnings in 1895 are $10,049,086, against only $8,269,298 in 1891, an addition of over 1¾ million dollars.

Southern roads have on the whole fared much better than Southwestern roads, there being few that have failed to record an increase notwithstanding the reduced cotton movement.

a Figures here for 1895 and 1891 are simply the totals of the earnings for the four weeks of the month as reported in the weekly return; the month's earnings usually exceed the weekly estimates quite considerably.
b Including Scioto Valley & New England and Shenandoah Valley for all the years.
* Does not include the Elizabethtown Lexington & Big Sandy road in this year.
‡ Figures are approximate, same as for this year; actual earnings were larger.
† Western & Atlantic not included in this year.

The east-and-west trunk lines, so far as we have returns from them, show moderate improvement. The small winter-wheat crop has been a disadvantage with several of them.

What applies to the east-and-west trunk lines also applies to the other roads in the Middle and Middle Western States, and it may be added that these roads likewise suffered most from the coal strikes and the other drawbacks already mentioned. This will account for the somewhat varied character of the returns in that group.

Monetary and Commercial English News

LONDON, SATURDAY, Nov. 2, 1895.

Disquieting political rumors have circulated all through the week and have helped to depress the stock exchanges all over Europe. Though the Sultan has yielded to the pressure of the Powers so far as to issue an Irade granting reforms in Armenia, he has not yet appointed the Commission that is to carry them through; and it is said that he has rejected the names recommended by the Grand Vizier. Further, he refuses to sanction the dispatch prepared by the Grand Vizier to be submitted to the Powers, and fresh massacres of Armenians have been perpetrated, while disorder is spreading throughout the Empire. Over and above this, the Russian papers are writing in a very bitter spirit against England, the semi-official journal itself accusing our Government of stirring up mischief in Turkey for objects of its own. The tone of the German press is likewise unfriendly and it need not be added that so also is that of the French.

More serious, if possible, is the state of things in the Far East. The report, indeed, that Russia is about to build railways in China, and has obtained permission to winter her fleet in Port Arthur, is officially contradicted. But nobody denies that a secret treaty of some kind has been concluded between Russia and China, and that Russia is putting forward all her efforts to strengthen both her army and her navy in the Far East. Japan, likewise, is hastily arming. On Thursday the 30 million taels which Japan has agreed to accept as a special indemnity for retrocession of the Liao tung Peninsula were paid to her by China, and next week a further sum of about 8 millions sterling, making in all about 12½ millions sterling, will be paid over. The French and Germans are likewise very active in China, and it is said that Germany has promised to support Russia in China provided Russia avoids causing disturbance in Europe. Lastly, reports have been circulated on the Continent, emanating chiefly from the Russian press, that the British fleet is being concentrated in great force in one of the Chinese ports. Altogether, the feeling in diplomatic circles, as well as amongst the business community, has been exceedingly anxious.

Money continues as abundant as ever, and is likely to remain so for months yet. The silver market is hardenening, as it is believed that Japan will have to remit in that metal a considerable amount to defray her expenditure in Formosa. Far the greater part of the indemnity, it is understood, will be spent in Europe upon ships and munitions of war, but a considerable sum, for all that, will be needed at home. The Eastern exchanges therefore are firm and the India Council continues to sell its drafts well. On Wednesday it disposed of the whole 50 lakhs offered at rather over 1s. 1⅞d. per rupee.

The fortnightly settlement on the Stock Exchange, which began on Saturday morning, ended on Wednesday evening without serious difficulties. There were two small failures of no great consequence; but it is understood that several members of the Stock Exchange had to be helped by their friends. Still, so far as the London market is concerned, it is now believed by the best informed that all serious difficulties are over; that the weak "bull" account has been nearly closed, and that stocks have passed into the hands of wealthy people. One of the peculiar features of the week has been the purchasing on a very extensive scale by small investors in ten or twenty shares or so.

But while the condition of the market here is now sound, there is much trouble in Paris, Constantinople and Glasgow. Glasgow operators have bought very largely, not only of gold shares but of American securities. The differences against them are very heavy and several failures are expected. Already there has been liquidation on a very great scale. In Constantinople, too, there has been for some time a very wild speculation in gold shares, in Turkish securities and in Ottoman Bank shares. Two unimportant failures have already occurred and some more are expected. There has also been talk of the difficulties of a foreign institution in Constantinople. The firm, however, failed once before and is not now in much credit. The best informed believe that if the political outlook improves there will be no serious trouble in Constantinople. There will of course be failures but none on an important scale.

It is less easy to gauge the probable course of events in Paris. The Ministerial crisis has had little effect, for Ministries come and go so frequently that a change now attracts little attention. But the political apprehensions respecting Turkey and the Far East coming just when there was a break-down upon the Bourse have added to the embarrassments of the position. There has been a mad speculation in gold shares and a very reckless speculation in Turkish, Ottoman Bank shares, Bulgarian securities, Spanish, and so on. All these have fallen heavily and the differences to pay are very large. The settlement at the beginning of the month commenced on Thursday. Yesterday being a holiday no business was done. To-day the real settlement begins, for on Thursday only options and mining shares were dealt with. It will not be possible to form any very definite opinion of the state of the market for a few days yet—probably not till Tuesday evening or Wednesday. As the great banks have had to withdraw very large amounts of money from the Bourse in order to take up their acceptances in London, rates are exceedingly stiff. Five and even six per cent on good security is readily paid to the banks; within the Bourse rates are much heavier. That of course adds to the embarrassments of operators. Still every one is anxious to support the market as far as he can, and the best-informed think that though money will be very dear every one in good credit will be helped through, and the settlement will end more easily than is now expected.

Out side of mining and inter-Bourse securities there has been absolutely nothing doing. The American market is flat, owing to the general depression and the rise in the sterling exchange. But practically nobody is dealing at present in the market, and the same is true of all other deaprtments.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 15, 1895.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—Business in Wall Street during the week has reflected the improved financial conditions now existing abroad. The speech of the Prime Minister of England on Saturday evening last at the Mansion House in London had a reassuring effect at all the principal financial centers of Europe.

As a consequence the fortnightly settlement in London has proceeded this week with little or no disturbance, conditions on the Paris Bourse are less critical than they had previously been, and the liquidation of American securities by foreign holders has largely ceased. The strength and recuperative power of this market is shown by the rapid recovery from the decline in prices which was noted in our last issue.

As was foreshadowed by the high rates which prevailed in the foreign exchange market at the close of last week the export movement of gold has again commenced, and shipments for the week, including $2,250,000 engaged for to-morrow's steamers, amount to $3,250,000. This movement has no doubt had an unfavorable effect upon the stock market to-day, which is weak and heavy, with some evidences of renewed liquidation.

The open market rates for call loans during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 1½ to 2 per cent. To-day rates on call were 1½ to 2 per cent. Prime commercial paper is quoted at 4 to 5 per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed an increase in bullion of £45,124, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 58·16 against 58·02 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 2 per cent. The Bank of France shows a decrease of 9,975,000 francs in gold and an ncrease of 425,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 9 showed an increase in the reserve held of $1,184,000 and a surplus over the required reserve of $19,260,050, against $17,594,400 the previous week.

Foreign Exchange.—The foreign exchange market has been dull but firm and prices have further advanced. The demand has been met in part by drawings against gold shipments, of which the total for the week has been $3,250,000, including $2,250,000 going to-morrow.

To-day actual rates of exchange were as follows: Bankers' sixty days sterling, 4 87¾@4 88; demand, 4 89¼@4 89½; cables, 4 89½@4 89¾.

Posted rates of leading bankers are as follows:

Other active issues, nearly all of which have advanced during the week, include Ches. & Ohio, Chic. & No. Pacific, Lou. N. A. & Ch., Mo. Kan. & Tex., No. Pac., Ore. Short Line, St. Louis Southwest., Southern Ry., Tex. & Pac., Union Pac., Wabash and West Shore bonds.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The end of the recent downward movement of stocks was in most cases reached on Saturday and this week the recovery has been general. The grangers have advanced from about 1 to nearly 3 points, which was natural in view of the present and prospective large increase in traffic returns.

The recovery of the coal stocks has been less pronounced except in the case of Central of New Jersey, which is 2½ points higher than at the close last week. The Atchison shares, Mo. Pacific, Mo. Kan. & Texas preferred, Wabash preferred Louisville & Nashville and Southern Ry. preferred have advanced from nearly 1 to 1½ points. The annual report of the Manhattan Elevated was issued on Wednesday, showing a decrease in earnings, and the stock, which sold on Tuesday at 106¾, declined to 101⅛ on Thursday and closes at 100⅞ Reading sold at 13⅞ on Thursday, but has declined to 11 on reports of some features of the new plan of reorganization which may be given out next week.

The industrial list has been influenced to some extent by the recovery in railroad shares, and these stocks are generally higher. Without any special news affecting American Tobacco, Col. Fuel & Iron and Tenn. Coal & Iron, they had advanced from 1 to 3 points on Thursday, but have since declined. United States Leather preferred sold at 71¾ on Wednesday and closes at 70, against 67¼ last week Under various rumors about a change of executive officers, probable new relations with the Westinghouse Company, &c &c., General Electric has fluctuated between 28¾ and 33, closing at 31⅜. It was rumored early in the week that negotiations were in progress between the Pacific Mail and Panama Railroad companies and Pacific Mail stock advanced from 27 to 33, closing at 31⅜. American Sugar, Chicago Gas and Distilling have been relatively steady and changes are unimportant.

Investment AND Railroad Intelligence.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of United States railroads (and also a few Mexican and Canadian roads) for the latest period reported. The statement includes every STEAM road from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are not included in this table, but are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

a Net earnings here given are after deducting taxes.

b Net earnings here given are before deducting taxes.

* Including other income, the net from January 1 to October 31 was $293,686, against $392,305 for 1894, and from July 1 to October 31, $172,941, against $ 74,415.

‡ This is the net result for the subsidiary companies after deducting the dividends paid by those companies. Of the dividends so paid $73,15[illegible] went to the Erie Telegraph & Telephone Co. in the quarter in 1895, against $81,587 in the quarter in 1894. The Erie Telegraph & Telephone Co. on its part paid out $48,000 of this in both years in a dividend of one per cent, leaving a surplus of $25,159 in 1895, against $13,587 in 1894, which added to the above surplus of the subsidiary companies makes the combined surplus in 1895 $36,975, against $21,671 in 1894.

§ Included in expenses for September, 1895, is $18,231, and for July 1 to Sept. 30, 1895, $46,228, which in former years would have been charged to betterments.

Interest Charges and Surplus.—The following roads, in addition to their gross and net earnings given in the foregoing, also report charges for interest, &c., with the surplus or deficiency above or below those charges.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns. The latest full statement will be found in the CHRONICLE of October 19. The next will appear in the issue of Saturday, November 23.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

Kansas City Fort Scott & Memphis Railroad.

(Report for year ending June 30, 1895.)

In the eighth annual report, Secretary Charles Merriam says:

Betterments.—The charges to operating expenses for the year for betterment of the property amounted to $154,293, as follows: Ballast, $64,812; additional weight of rails (1,050 tons), $26,250; new side tracks, $4,951; new iron bridge work, $19,000; improvement charged to repairs buildings, $6,780; new equipment, $32,500.

Bonded Debt.—During the past year 37·67 miles of additional road have been acquired, extending from the main line near South Greenfield, in a southerly direction, to Aurora, Mo., and on account of which $360,000 6 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds had been issued at the close of the fiscal year. Since the close of the fiscal year arrangements have been made for paying off $545,000 of the floating debt, incurred for purposes of construction and equipment, by the sale of a like amount of the 6 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds at par and accrued interest, which leaves the bonded debt at $24,481 per mile, the authorized limit under the mortgage being $25,000 per mile, and the road practically without any floating debt, as the cash and cash assets on hand will more than provide for all current liabilities.

Traffic.—As anticipated in the last annual report, the export business and grain traffic to the southeastern States have been light by reason of the failure of the corn crop in Kansas and Nebraska, which also materially affected the lumber business, but the outlook for the coming year is much more encouraging.

Manhattan (Elevated) Railway.

(Report for year ending September 30, 1895.)

The fiscal year of the Manhattan Railway we understand ends, as heretofore, June 30, but at the annual meeting on Wednesday a brief statement for the year ending Sept. 30 was furnished as usual, as shown below. For the year ending June 30 the comparative report of earnings and balance sheet was in the CHRONICLE of August 17, page 279.

Refunding, Tax Suits, Etc.—The figures for the late year show a deficit of $391,788 after payment of the usual dividends, contrasting with a surplus the previous year of $240,180. The report, however, states that the interest on bonds includes interest on the New York Elevated Railroad first mortgage 7 per cent bonds to be retired Jan. 1, 1896, thereby effecting a net saving of $235,000 interest per annum. The report also says: "We have every reason to expect ultimate success in the present tax litigation; this would effect an additional saving of $285,000 per annum." This $285,000, it is understood, has not been paid for the past year.

As further decreasing the importance of the year's deficit, it is unofficially pointed out that this is due in part to the fact that interest has been included for a portion of the year on the $8,925,000 of consol. 4s sold in June, 1895, to retire the New York Elevated 7s, the interest on these latter bonds being also included, as they do not mature till Jan. 1, 1896. This causes a duplication of interest payments, which will also continue for three months of the year ending Sept. 30, 1896. The increase in fixed charges is likewise in a measure explained by the sale early in the present calendar year of $2,085,000 consol. 4s issued for improvements.

The percentage of operating expenses, including all taxes, was 62·93 per cent, against 60·12 per cent in 1894, and 53·90 per cent in 1893, when taxes were included under charges. The balance to profit and loss account Sept. 30, 1895, was $4,057,856 after deducting the year's deficit.

Loss of Passengers—On the Manhattan lines proper the total number of passengers carried decreased from 214,459,217 in 1893 to 190,669,854 in 1894 and has decreased to 179,234,356 in 1895. This loss is generally attributed to the competition of the cable roads.

Officers and Directors.—The following officers and directors were elected: President, George J. Gould; Vice President and General Manager, Frank K. Hain; Secretary and Treasurer, D. W. McWilliams; Directors, George J. Gould, Edwin Gould, Howard Gould, Russell Sage, Samuel Sloan, G. P. Morosini, George Bliss, Frank K. Hain, R. M. Gallaway, Donald McKay, Joseph Eastman and Warren B. Smith. The last-named gentleman was chosen to succeed Simon Wormser, deceased.

Akron Bedford & Cleveland RR. (Electric)—Road Completed.—We have received the following interesting statement regarding this road, which is one of the first inter-urban electric roads of importance to be completed.

This company was organized October 15, 1894, under the steam railroad laws of Ohio (which permit use of electric power) and began construction in Nov., 1894. The road is now completed from Akron to Cleveland, 35 miles, having traffic arrangements with the Akron Street RR to run over its line into the center of Akron, a distance of 4 miles; and with the Cleveland Electric RR to the center of Cleveland, a distance of 5 miles. About 11½ miles is on private right of way owned in fee; 16 miles on the highway with 11 miles perpetual franchise and 5 miles 25-year franchise. The road is built in a first-class manner and has steel bridges, heavy rail, mostly T., and is well ballasted, has at present an equipment of 14 cars of the large pattern, with two 50 horse power motors under each car.

This road in addition to serving the large population of Akron, Kent, Cuyahoga Falls, Northfield, Bedford and Cleveland passes through some of the most beautiful scenery to be found in Ohio and opening an entirely new field for traffic. The line to Kent, a distance of 4 miles, is under way, but will not be completed until spring. The running time from the center of Akron to the center of Cleveland is to be one hour and thirty minutes, a distance of 35 miles; fare 60 cents one way, $1 00 round trip. Railroad fare is $1 90.

The Akron Bedford & Cleveland RR. Co. has a paid-up capital of $300,000, is an Ohio corporation with stock liability and has $ 00,000 first mortgage 5 per cent twenty year gold bonds. Further bond issue is limited to $10,000 per mile of new track. The company began operating the through line on Saturday, Oct. 26th. Power is furnished by two power houses, located one at Bedford and one at Cuyahoga Falls.

American Bell Telephone.—Berliner Patent Suit.—The Supreme Court of the United States has denied the motion of the company to dismiss the appeal of the United States in the case involving the Berliner speaking microphone. The Court holds that it has jurisdiction to try the case.—V. 61, p. 792.

Atchison System—Atlantic & Pacific.—Foreclosure Sale.—At Albuquerque, N. M., on Monday, Nov. 11, Judge Collier sustained the exceptions filed by the United States Trust Company of New York to the answer of the defendants in the foreclosure case against the Atlantic & Pacific RR. Co. A decree of sale is expected in a short time.—V. 61 p. 839.

Atchison System—Colorado Midland—Earnings.—Since the beginning of the current fiscal year on July 1 the earnings of this road have shown an improvement over the corresponding period last year, the gross for the first three months being some $60,000 better and the net $130,000 better than in 1894, when there was a deficit from operation. The October gross was about $175,000. The receiver declines to make public the figures as they do not do justice, he says, to the normal earning power of the property. Justice to the security holders, however, would seem to require that they should be informed as to the results from current operation, this being especially desirable in view of the present independent operation of the road apart from the Atchison system. Under the Atchison receivers the figures were furnished weekly and monthly, but since the present receiver took charge the bondholders have been kept in the dark.—V. 61 p. 557, 829.

Boston & Maine RR.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

3 mos. end Sept. 30—	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, charges, &c.	Balance, surplus.
1895	$5,973,922	$2,111,806	$146,137	$1,291,604	$966,339

Brooklyn Elevated RR.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

3 months end. Sept 30.	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes, etc.	Balance, deficit.
1895	$441,024	$140,480	$3,011	$215,121	$31,930
1894	380,038	137,284	952	209,007	70,771

Loans and bills payable Sept. 30, 1895, $250,000, against $240,000 on Sept. 30, 1894.—V. 61, p. 280.

Buffalo (Street) Ry.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows. These figures do not include earnings of the "Cro-stown" road:

3 months end. Sept. 30—	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes &c.	Balance, surplus.
1895	$348,038	$183,961	$5,988	$105,138	$84,811
1894	321,677	150,506	6,221	95,912	60,815

Loans and bills payable Sept. 30, 1895, were $550,066, against $502,614 on June 30. There were no important changes in the balance sheet.—V. 61, p. 289.

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley RR.—Reorganization.—C. Adolphe Low, George F. Baker and William E. Strong, a committee claiming to represent a majority of Series A Bonds, request holders of both Series A & B to withhold approving the plan published last week until as a committee they can investigate the situation. They think the A & B bonds should receive better terms. It is pointed out on the other hand by the Blackford Committee that the "A" bonds are accorded by this plan $250 per bond in new general mortgage bonds more than the "B" and "C" bonds receive. They believe in preserving the unity of the road and consider the "A" bonds have been fairly provided for.—V. 61, p. 830.

Celluloid Company—Change of Dividend Period.—This company has declared a dividend of 1 per cent and an additional dividend of one-half of 1 per cent, payable Jan. 2, 1896. The dividend hereafter will be payable in January, April, July and October, and the extra dividend is paid merely on account of the additional month included by this payment.

Central of Georgia Ry.—Bonds Offered.—The $16,500,000 of consolidated mortgage five per cent 50-year gold bonds of the Central of Georgia Railway Company, issued in connection with the reorganization of the Central Railroad & Banking Company of Georgia, are offered to investors at 96⅛ and accrued interest by the New York Guaranty & Indemnity and the Mercantile Trust companies of New York. Subscriptions will be received up to the close of business on Nov. 19. The properties upon which these bonds are a lien formed for many years the most prosperous dividend-paying system of the South. Its insolvency resulted from the acquirement of extensions at heavy fixed charges. Of the roads so acquired, those which are retained in the reorganized system have been recognized principally by issue of income bonds, ranking after the consolidated issue. The property covered by the consolidated mortgage embraces all of the railroads, equipment, leaseholds, interests in other railroads and steamers, and securities owned by the company, and also such property as may be hereafter required. The new company owns absolutely 1,123 miles of railroad and holds leases in perpetuity upon 385 miles. The bonds are also a lien upon the ownership and equity of the capital stocks of the Ocean and New England Steamship Companies, which own a fleet of nine steamers plying being New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Savannah, as well as extensive and valuable terminals in the last-named city. The consolidated bonds will be the only fixed charge obligation covering the entire system and will be an absolute first lien upon 579 miles of railroad and its equipment, and the leases of the South Western and Augusta & Savannah roads and the stock of the New England Steamship Company. The liens prior to the consolidated mortgage aggregate $13,720,000. During the receivership the physical condition of the property had been greatly improved and its equipment increased and renewed. The new company has no car trust or floating debt. By the reorganization the fixed charges of interest and rentals have been reduced about 33 1-3 per cent to $1,864,000 per annum. The surplus earnings of the system for the year ending June 30 last, as reported by the receivers, were $2,122,885, exclusive of expenditures for equipment and rails. During that year, however, the system was operated under traffic conditions of extreme depression; hence largely increased earnings are reasonably expected.

On subsequent pages will be found an abstract of the mortgage specially prepared for the CHRONICLE with a view to presenting all its essential features in readable form. A map of the company's system is given in the October issue of the INVESTORS' SUPPLEMENT.—V. 61, p. 830.

Central & South American Telegraph—Listing.—Additional stock for $1,417,600, making the total $7,917,600, will be listed Jan. 1 on the New York Stock Exchange. This new issue retires a like amount of construction certificates dated 1892.—V. 60 p. 560.

Chicago Peoria & St. Louis RR.—Sale Confirmed.—On Saturday, Nov. 9, at Springfield, Ill., Judge Allen, in the United States Circuit Court, confirmed the recent sale of this road to the Bondholders' Committee for $2,100,000. Judge Allen directed that suitable provision be made for the protection of claimants whose claims may be filed within sixty days.—V. 61, p. 793.

Cincinnati & Green River RR.—Sale.—This road is again advertised for sale on a judgment for $3,837. The sale is set for Nov. 25.—V. 61, p. 471.

Cincinnati Jackson & Mackinaw.—New Trackage Rights.—This company has secured trackage rights from Franklin to Middletown, Ohio, over the Cleveland Cincinnati Chicago & St. Louis, which will give it an entrance into Cincinnati. A traffic arrangement has also been made with the Baltimore & Ohio which will give the Cincinnati Jackson & Mackinaw at Sherwood a connection with Chicago.—V. 61, p. 793.

Concord & Montreal RR.—Pemigewasset Valley RR.—Proposed Extension.—A stockholders' meeting of the Pemigewasset Valley RR. will be held Nov. 30 at Concord, N. H., to vote on the building of an extension from North Woodstock through the Pemigewasset Valley, and to authorize the issuance of the necessary capital stock.—V. 61 p. 68.

Consolidated Gas Co. of New Jersey—Consolidation.—The gas and electric plants of Long Branch, Red Bank and Asbury Park, N. J., and franchises, covering the entire ocean front from Seabright to Sea Girt, about twenty miles, have been purchased by a syndicate headed by Emerson McMillin & Co., bankers, of New York. A company (the Consolidated Gas Co. of New Jersey) has been formed and will develop and operate the properties. Work of laying mains to connect this territory will begin at once. The plans contemplate enlargement of the works, so as to produce at least two hundred and fifty millions cubic feet of gas per annum for illuminating and fuel purposes.—New York News Bureau.

Crawfordsville Water & Light—Foreclosure Sale.—The sale is set for Dec. 14, 1895.

Denison & Northern Ry.—Receiver.—At Ardmore, I. T., on Tuesday, Nov. 5, the Hon. Moran Scott was appointed receiver of this company.—V. 61, p. 470.

Denver & Rio Grande RR.—Officers and Prospects.—The directors of the company on November 15 re-elected George Coppell Chairman of the Board; Edward T. Jeffery, President; William Wagner, Secretary; J. W. Gilfoly, Treasurer; J. B. Andrews, Assistant Secretary, and Jesse Hoyt, Assistant Treasurer. Mr. Coppell, who has recently inspected the property, is quoted as saying:

Business throughout the West, and especially in Colorado, appears to be in a satisfactory condition. Rates generally are more stable and are a trifle better. The mining, agricultural and fruit growing interests are flourishing all among the company's lines, as is evidenced by its satisfactory earnings. We estimate a surplus for October over all charges of from $1 to $1 50 per share. The equipment and roadbed are in good shape, and the company is putting in seventy five pound rails. The gold output in Colorado is increasing, and I confidently expect that the production of that metal will exceed all estimates.—V. 61, p. 121.

Florida Central & Peninsular RR.—Annual.—For the years ending June 30 a report of earnings has been furnished us as follows:

Years—	Gross earnings.	Operating expenses.	Net earnings.
1894-95	$2,272,148	$1,690,317	$581,831

—V. 60, p. 82.

General Electric—Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing.—Patent Suit.—On Monday, Nov. 11, the Supreme Court of the United States held that the Sawyer Mann electric-light patent, of which it was alleged the Edison incandescent lamp was an infringement, was too broad to be sustained. The Consolidated Electric Light Co., which brought the suit, is now controlled by the Westinghouse Electric.—V. 60, p. 853; V. 61, p. 241.

Georgia Southern & Florida Ry.—Macon & Birmingham RR.—Officers—Relations Severed.—Samuel Spencer has been elected President of the Georgia Southern & Florida; W. Cheshley Shaw, Vice-President, and R. C. Smith, Secretary and Treasurer. Orders have been given that the Macon & Birmingham, which has been operated as a division of the Georgia Southern & Florida, shall be relinquished to its receivers.—V. 61 p. 429, 589.

Inter State Consolidated Street Ry.—Securities Authorized.—The Massachusetts State Railroad Commissioners have authorized the company to issue $230,000 of stock and $150,000 bonds, a total of $380,000, of which $62,800 for improvements and additions, and the balance on account of roads originally purchased by it. These figures include the $100,000 stock and $90,000 bonds previously authorized.—V. 61 p. 662.

Jacksonville Tampa & Key West RR.—Reorganization Notice.—The Committee of First Mortgage Bondholders, Winthrop Smith, Chairman, gives notice that a majority of the bonds have already been deposited with the committee, and notifies all bondholders who have not already signed the agreement and deposited their bonds to do so with the Pennsylvania Company for Insurances, &c., by Nov. 20, after which date bonds will only be received at the discretion of the committee.—V. 61, p. 594.

Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage Trust.—Receivers' Sale.—The receivers will sell at auction on Dec. 13 all the assets of the company which they hold. Further particulars may be obtained at their office, 31 Wall St.—V. 61, p. 611.

New Jersey Electric Ry.—Coupon Payment.—This Company paid half its November interest in cash and the balance in scrip, redeemable either in cash or bonds six months hence. It is reported that 90 per cent of the bondholders have consented to this arrangement.

Mr. Morrisse, Chairman of the board of directors, is quoted as denying that the road is in danger of bankruptcy, since he says the part from Singac to Rutherford is paying both running expenses and interest charges, and the Rutherford-Hoboken end meets operating expenses.

N. Y. Lake Erie & Western RR.—Erie RR.—Sale Confirmed.—Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court on Monday, confirmed the sale of the Erie to the reorganization committee for $20,000,000. With reference to the claim that his Court did not possess jurisdiction, he said:

There seems no good reason why the Court which originally acquired jurisdiction to care for and dispose of the property in a controversy between citizens of different states should not retain such jurisdiction to dispose of the claims of all parties appearing, whatever their citizenship.

New Company.—At Albany on Thursday, Nov. 14, was filed the certificate of organization of the Erie Railroad Company, which succeeds to the property of the old company, and will presently become the owner in fee simple of the properties heretofore known as the Chicago & Erie and New York Pennsylvania & Ohio. Kenneys, J. P. Morgan, Jr., Francis Lynde Stetson, Mortimer F. Smith, W. S. Townsend, J. H. Tierney and E. B. Thomas. This board met and elected officers as follows: President, E B. Thomas; Third Vice-President, Andrew Donaldson; Fourth Vice-President, G. G. Cochran; Secretary, J. A. Middleton; Treasurer, Edward White. The company paid an organization tax on its capital of $183,500.—Vol. 61, p. 831.

New York Ontario & Western Ry.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

Loans and bills payable Sept. 30, 1895, $230,000, against $421,500 on Sept. 30, 1894.—V. 61, p. 559.

New York Pennsylvania & Ohio RR.—Reorganization Notice.—Notice is given to the first mortgage bondholders that the necessary majority of the scrip for first mortgage bonds having now been deposited for enfacement, in accordance with the agreement for foreclosure of 6th September, 1895, under which it is intended to carry out the proposed arrangement with the new Erie Company, the 30th November has been fixed as the final date on which the scrip can be received except upon payment of such fine as may hereafter be determined upon by the trustees.—V. 61, p. 472.

Northern Pacific RR.—Receivership—The representatives of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, the mortgage trustee, have been to Portland, Ore., and are returning, interviewing the judges of the several circuit courts through whose districts the road passes in the effort to secure a unified receivership.

Land Decision.—At Washington, Nov. 14, Secretary Smith rendered a decision holding that the eastern terminus of the Northern Pacific is at either Thomson, Minn., or Superior, Wis. (which he does not undertake to say) instead of Ashland, Wis., as always has been claimed by the company. This decision is said to involve about 800,000 acres of land to which the company laid claim.—V. 61, p. 831.

Ohio Southern RR.—Meeting of Security Holders.—Rush C. Hawkins and Robert J. Kimball give notice that the holders of second mortgage bonds and of stock will meet at the office of R. J. Kimball & Co., 16 Broad Street, New York, on Saturday, Nov. 16, at 1 o'clock P. M., to hear any reports that may be made as to the condition of the affairs of the company, and to see if any action is necessary for the protection of their interests.—V. 61, p. 750.

Oregon Improvement.—Change in Committee.—Messrs. John G. Moore and Henry W. Cannon have retired from the first mortgage bondholders' committee, and Mr. E. Rollins Morse, of Boston, has become a member of the committee. Mr. Moore is going to Europe and Mr. Cannon retires because of his recent election as a director on the Great Northern. A majority of the bonds have been deposited with the committee, and November 29 has been fixed as a limit for receiving further deposits. In due course the various propositions that have been suggested will be submitted to the bondholders for their consideration, but it is thought that no plan of reorganization will be finally formulated for some months.—V. 61, p. 662.

Oregon Ry. & Navigation—Sale of Collateral—The sale of collateral securing the collateral trust has once more been postponed; Dec. 3 is the date now set for it.

Oregon Ry. Extension Co. Foreclosure.—The Bay State Trust Co. has commenced foreclosure proceedings against the Oregon Ry. Extension Company whose bonds are pledged as part security for the Navigation Company's collateral trust bonds. Similar proceedings under the Washington & Idaho mortgage, which secures the balance of the collateral, were begun last September.—V. 61, p. 831.

Oregon Short Line & Utah Northern Ry.—Coupons.—At Omaha on Monday, Nov. 11, Master-in-Chancery Cornish filed orders in the Dillon case for the payment of the interest due on Oregon Short Line 6s Feb. 6, 1895, and in the Richardson case for the payment of the interest on the Utah & Northern 7s due Jan. 1 and July 1, 1895. On Wednesday the American Loan & Trust Company of Boston, trustee of the Oregon Short Line & Utah Northern consolidated mortgage, filed a bill of exceptions to the report of the Master ordering these payments.—V. 61, p. 831.

Paducah Tennessee & Alabama—Tennessee Midland—Louisville & Nashville—Control—It is rumored that the Paducah Tennessee & Alabama and the Tennessee Midland recently sold in foreclosure will be controlled in the interest of the Louisville & Nashville, the object being to keep other companies out of the territory.—V. 61, p. 750.

Philadelphia & Reading RR.—North Pennsylvania RR.—Refunding.—The Philadelphia Ledger says:

> We are informed that arrangements have been made for the refunding of the North Pennsylvania Railroad 7 per cent mortgage loan due in May, 1896. The loan is $1,500,000, and the new rate of interest will be 4 per cent, thus saving the Reading receivers after May next an annual expenditure of $45,000.—V. 61, p. 795.

Reorganization Plan—The Chronicle is informed the plan will probably be issued within a week or ten days. There is much gossip but no trustworthy information regarding its provisions.

Pittsburg Cincinnati Chicago & St. Louis Ry.—Non-payment of Dividend.—As to the failure of the company to resume the payment of dividends on its preferred stock, an official is quoted as saying:

> While our revenue on the Western lines is large, the outlays for improvements are on a large scale. The widening of tunnels and construction of new bridges and station buildings between Pittsburg and Indianapolis and Cincinnati, which is now going on, will cost close on to $1,000,000, but as the net earnings this year promise to be over $1,500,000, and the indications point to still larger earnings for the coming year, present improvements are not of a nature to make it necessary to pass the dividend. The Pan-Handle needs four tracks between Pittsburg and Wheeling Junction at present and double tracks from Wheeling Junction to Columbus, and even as far as Indianapolis, as its traffic is enormous and is increasing at a phenomenal rate.—V. 61, p. 751.

Pittsburg Fort Wayne & Chicago RR.—Newspaper Error.—The daily papers have circulated widely an error regarding this company to the effect that it was about to fund its floating debt and reduce its capital stock. This error first appeared in a new York paper, where it was occasioned by the misplacing of a paragraph with reference to the American Type Founders' Co. As applied to the Fort Wayne Company the statement appeared too ridiculous to need denial, but since it has been copied in the foreign financial journals it seems proper to correct any wrong impression produced by it.—V. 60, p. 1102.

Rio Grande Southern RR. Officers.—At the meeting of the board of directors November 15 the following were elected officers of the company for the ensuing year: Edward T. Jeffery, President; George Coppell, Vice-President; J. W. Gillully, Treasurer; J. B. Andrews, Secretary; Joseph S. Dale, Assistant Secretary.—V. 61, p. 153, 421.

Second Avenue Railroad (N. Y. City).—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

—V. 61, p. 282.

St. Louis Cape Girardeau & Fort Smith.—Receiver's Certificates.—Judge Riley of the Missouri Circuit has authorized the issue of $40,000 of receiver's certificates to relay the road between Delta and Cape Girardeau with heavy rails and otherwise improve it. The improvements will be made by the receiver, under the direction of the Consolidated Bondholders' Reorganization Committee, which represents about $850,000 of the bonds. A trackage arrangement with the St. Louis Southwestern is said to be under consideration.—V. 61, p. 704.

St. Louis Chicago & St. Paul RR.—Annual Statement.—Receiver Chas. E. Kimball has favored the Chronicle with the following statement of earnings for the year ending June 30, 1895: Gross earnings, $238,223; operating expenses, $186,539; net earnings, $51,684.

Sept. 1, 1895, there were receiver's certificates for $381,933 outstanding.

Third Avenue RR. (N. Y. City)—King's Bridge Franchise Purchased.—The franchise for the King's Bridge Road extension was purchased by this company at public auction Thursday afternoon at 38½ per cent of the gross receipts more than the upset price, which is 3 per cent of the gross receipts for the first five years and 5 per cent thereafter. In addition to the amount of its bid the Third Avenue Company was required, within thirty days after it should get the right of way to build, to pay $250,000 into the city treasury. This is in the nature of a bonus imposed upon itself by the Third Avenue Company.—V. 61, p. 795.

—V. 61, p. 279.

Union Pacific Ry.—Notice to Bondholders.—H. Livingston Rogers of this city, who represents a substantial amount of first mortgage bonds of the Union Pacific Railway Co., requests holders to send for documents containing details as to a settlement for their coupons and principal.—V. 61 p. 831.

Union Railway (of N. Y. City)—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

Eighth. That it will, from time to time, pay all taxes, assessments and governmental charges lawfully imposed upon the lines of railroad and other premises hereby mortgaged.

REGISTRATION—BONDS MAY BE REGISTERED IN NEW YORK WITH OR WITHOUT COUPONS.

Ninth. That it will, at its agency in the City of New York, keep registers of bonds issued hereunder, which registers at all reasonable times shall be open to the inspection of the trustee. Upon presentation for such purpose, it will register therein any coupon bonds, and also all bonds without coupons issued under the provisions hereof. The railway company, for the purpose of making a list of the registered holders, may close its books for the registration of such bonds, and for the changing of coupon bonds into registered bonds without coupons, for the period of ten days preceding the maturity of the several instalments of semi-annual interest. The registered holder of any coupon bond may register the same as payable to bearer, in which case transferability by delivery shall be restored, and thereafter the principal thereof shall be payable to any person presenting the same. Successive registrations as aforesaid may be made from time to time as desired; but such registration shall not restrain the negotiability of any coupon thereto belonging, but every such coupon shall continue to pass by delivery merely.

Any coupon bond or bonds amounting to $1,000 or to any multiple of $1,000, together with all unmatured coupons thereto belonging, may be exchanged for registered bonds without coupons. In every such case the trustees shall forthwith cancel the bond and coupons surrendered, and deliver the same to the railway company. The interest on such registered bonds without coupons shall be paid only to the several registered holders of such bonds, or upon their written orders. For any transfer of registered bonds without coupons the railway company, at its option, may make a charge not exceeding one dollar for each new registered bond issued in exchange for any surrendered bond or bonds.

BONDS DESTROYED OR MUTILATED MAY BE REPLACED.

In case any bond issued hereunder shall become mutilated or shall be destroyed, upon the surrender of any such mutilated bond to the trustee, or upon the filing with the trustee of satisfactory evidence of such destruction, the railway company, in its discretion, may issue and the trustee may certify upon proper indemnification a new bond bearing the same serial number in lieu of the bond so mutilated or destroyed.

ARTICLE THREE.

DEFAULT FOR SIX MONTHS—THE TRUSTEE MAY TAKE POSSESSION.

FIRST. In case of default for six months in the payment of any interest on any bond at any time secured by this indenture, or by any prior mortgage recited herein; or in case of default in the punctual payment of the principal of any bond secured hereby or by any prior mortgage recited herein; or in case of default for six months in the payment of any tax, assessment or other governmental charge lawfully imposed upon any part of such property after written notice thereof from the trustee or from any holder of bonds hereby secured; or in case of default for six months in the due performance of any other covenant herein contained, after written notice thereof from the trustee or from any holder of bonds hereby secured; then the trustee may enter into all and singular the railway and franchises hereby conveyed and may conduct the business thereof, either personally or by its receivers, agents or attorneys. Upon such entry the trustee may maintain and insure the rolling stock, tools and machinery and other property, buildings, bridges and structures in the same manner and to the same extent as is usual with railway companies, and may make all necessary or proper repairs, betterments and improvements thereto and thereon, as well in respect of the rolling stock or equipment as in respect of the railways and appurtenances, and other subject matter as to it may seem judicious. And it may collect all profits of the same and also the income from stocks and bonds pledged hereunder, and after deducting the expenses of operating said railways, and of all repairs, betterments and improvements and other proper charges upon the said premises, it shall apply the moneys arising as aforesaid as follows:

(1) In case the principal moneys of the bonds hereby secured shall not have become due, to the payment of the interest remaining in default in the order of the maturity of the instalments of such interest, ratably to the persons or parties entitled thereto without discrimination or preference.

(2) In case the principal moneys of the said bonds shall have become due, first, to the payment of the accrued interest in the order of the maturity of the instalments of such accrued interest and next to the payment of the principal of the bonds, in every instance ratably to the persons or parties entitled to such payment without any discrimination or preference between holders.

During such default the trustee shall, subject to all the prior rights, superior liens, hereinbefore specified, vote on all shares of stock pledged, and collect all interest moneys and dividends maturing or payable upon said pledged bonds and stocks.

All certificates of stock deposited with the trustee subject to this indenture shall stand in the name of and be indorsed in blank by the railway company, and the trustee shall cause all them to be stamped with the words, "Held in trust by The Mercantile Trust Company under the provisions of a mortgage made by the Central of Georgia Railway Company to The Mercantile Trust Company, dated November 1st, 1895." The trustee may at any time cause to be transferred to its own name all or any stock represented by any certificates deposited hereunder or which may hereafter become subject to this indenture.

DEFAULT FOR SIX MONTHS—HOLDERS OF 25 PER CENT OF BONDS MAY DECLARE PRINCIPAL DUE.

SECOND. In case of default for six months in the payment of any interest on any bond hereby secured, then at the option of the holders of 25 per cent in amount of all bonds hereby secured then outstanding, and upon written notice to the railway company and to the trustee, the principal of all bonds hereby secured, then outstanding, shall immediately become and be due and payable. Provided, however, that if at any time after the principal of the said bonds shall have been so declared due and payable all arrears of interest upon all such bonds shall either be paid by the railway company or be collected out of the mortgaged premises, then and in every such case the holders of a majority in amount of the bonds hereby secured then outstanding by like written notice to the railway company and to the trustee, may waive such default and its consequences.

DEFAULT FOR SIX MONTHS—PROPERTY MAY BE SOLD.

THIRD. In case of default for six months, in the payment of any interest on any bond secured by this indenture, or by any of the prior mortgages recited herein; or in the punctual payment of the principal of any bond secured hereby or by any such recited prior mortgage; or in the payment of any tax, assessment or other governmental charge lawfully imposed or levied upon any part of such railways, property and premises of the income and profits thereof, after written notice; or in the due observance of any other covenant herein contained, after written notice, then—

(a) the trustee may sell to the highest and best bidder, in one lot and as an entirety, all and singular the mortgaged premises, railroads, leaseholds, bonds and stocks, rights, franchises and interests, lands and appurtenances, at public auction in the City of Savannah, or at such other place on the railroads hereby mortgaged, at such time and upon such terms, as may be specified in the notice of sale.

(b) the trustee, in its discretion, may, and upon the written request of the holders of 25 per cent in amount of the bonds hereby secured then outstanding and upon proper indemnity shall, proceed to enforce the rights of holders under this indenture by a suit in equity or at law, whether for the specific performance of any covenant or agreement contained herein, or for the foreclosure of this indenture, or for the enforcement of any other appropriate legal or equitable remedy as the trustee being advised by counsel learned in the law shall deem most effectual to protect its rights hereunder.

Notice of any sale shall be published once a week for six successive weeks in one newspaper published in each of the cities of Savannah and Atlanta, Georgia, and Birmingham and Montgomery, Alabama, and New York, N. Y. In case of any sale or sales by virtue of any provision of this indenture, the whole of the principal sum hereby secured, if not previously declared due, shall at once become due and payable.

FOURTH. Any sale completed by virtue of this indenture shall be a perpetual bar both at law and in equity against the railway company, its successors and assigns.

FIFTH. The trustee may, from time to time, adjourn any sale to be made by it under the provisions of this indenture.

SIXTH. The receipt of the trustees shall be a sufficient discharge to the purchasers of the property for the purchase money, and no such purchasers shall be bound to see to the application of such purchase money.

PROCEEDS OF SALE—HOW TO BE APPLIED.

SEVENTH. The proceeds of any sale under any provision of this indenture shall be applied as follows:

First. To the payment of the costs of such sale, including a reasonable compensation to the trustee, of all expenses in managing and maintaining the property, and of all taxes, assessments or liens prior to the lien of these presents, except any taxes, assessments or other superior liens subject to which such sales shall have been made.

Second. To the payment of the whole amount then owing or unpaid upon the bonds hereby secured for principal and interest, together with interest on overdue instalments of interest, and in case such proceeds shall be insufficient to pay in full the whole amount so due and unpaid upon said bonds, then to the payment of such principal and interest, without preference or priority of principal over interest, or of interest over principal, or of any instalment of interest over any other instalment of interest, ratably, to the aggregate of such principal and the accrued and unpaid interest.

Third. To the payment of the surplus, if any, to the railway company, its successors or assigns, or to whomsoever may be lawfully entitled to receive the same.

RIGHT TO DEMAND FORECLOSURE, ETC., RESERVED TO AT LEAST 25 PER CENT IN INTEREST OF BONDS—OTHER PROVISIONS.

EIGHTH. No holder of any bond or coupon hereby secured shall have any right to institute any suit for the foreclosure of this indenture, or for the appointment of a receiver, or for any other remedy hereunder, without first giving to the trustee written notice of the fact that default has occurred and continued as hereinbefore provided, nor unless also the holders of 25 per cent in amount of the bonds then outstanding shall have made written request of the trustee and shall have afforded to it reasonable opportunity to act, nor unless they shall have offered to the trustee adequate indemnity against the expenses to be incurred therein; it being understood that no holders of bonds or coupons shall have any right in any manner whatever to disturb the lien of this indenture by their action, or to enforce any right hereunder, except in the manner herein provided, but that all proceedings at law or in equity shall be instituted, had and maintained for the equal benefit of all holders of such outstanding bonds and coupons.

Except as herein expressly provided to the contrary, no remedy herein conferred is intended to be exclusive of any other remedy, but shall be cumulative and shall be in addition to every other remedy existing at law or in equity or by statute.

NINTH. The personal property and chattels hereby conveyed, or intended so to be, shall be real estate for all the purposes of this indenture.

MAJORITY OF BONDS MAY DIRECT FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS.

TENTH. Upon proper indemnity to the trustee, the holders of a majority in amount of the outstanding bonds hereby secured shall have the right to direct all proceedings for any sale of the premises hereby conveyed or for the foreclosure of this indenture, or for the appointment of a receiver, or any other proceedings hereunder, and to instruct the trustee to institute, continue or discontinue any proceedings hereunder.

BONDS AND COUPONS MAY BE USED IN PAYMENT OF PURCHASE MONEY.

ELEVENTH. In case of any sale hereunder, purchasers in making settlement shall be entitled to turn in any bonds and any matured and unpaid coupons hereby secured, estimating the value of such bonds and coupons for that purpose at the sum payable out of the net proceeds of such sale to the holders of such bonds and coupons as their ratable share of such net proceeds, after allowing for the proportion of the total payment required to be made in cash for the cost and expenses of the sale or otherwise. At such sale any or all of the bondholders may bid for and purchase such property, and upon compliance with the terms of sale may hold and retain, and dispose of, such property without further accountability therefor.

ACTS OF BONDHOLDERS TO BE AUTHENTICATED—OTHER PROVISIONS.

TWELFTH. All acts of any holders of bonds hereby secured asserting, waiving or affecting any rights or remedy of the bondholders shall be authenticated by an instrument or instruments, in writing, signed by the persons assenting thereto.

THIRTEENTH. Upon commencement of any judicial proceedings to enforce any right under this indenture, the trustee shall be entitled to exercise the right of entry herein conferred, and as matter of right the trustee shall be entitled to the appointment of a receiver or receivers of the premises hereby mortgaged, with such powers as the Court making such appointment shall confer.

FOURTEENTH. No delay of the trustee or of any holder of bonds to exercise any right arising from any default shall impair any such right.

COMPANY MAY SURRENDER POSSESSION PRIOR TO DEFAULT.

FIFTEENTH. The railway company at any time hereafter before full payment of the bonds secured hereby, and whenever it shall deem it expedient for the better security of such bonds, although there may then be no default entitling the trustee to enter into possession, may surrender and deliver to the trustee full possession of the whole or any part of the property hereby conveyed for any period, fixed or indefinite.

AND RECEIVE DIVIDENDS ON STOCKS, ETC., OWNED.

SIXTEENTH. Until default the railway company shall be entitled to receive all interest payable and dividends declared in respect of any bonds or stocks transferred to the trustee as collateral security for the payment of the bonds issued hereunder.

PROPERTY TO BE SOLD AS AN ENTIRETY.

SEVENTEENTH. In the event of any sale, pursuant to any provision hereof, the whole of the property shall be sold in one parcel and as an entirety, including all the rights, titles, estates, railroads, equipment, franchises, leases, leasehold interests, contracts, stocks, bonds and other real and personal property of every name and nature; and this provision shall bind the parties hereto and each and every of the holders of the bonds and coupons hereby secured or intended so to be.

RIGHT TO VOTE ON STOCKS PLEDGED.

EIGHTEENTH. Until default the railway company shall have the right to vote upon all shares of stock pledged hereunder and receive all dividends thereon, for all purposes not inconsistent with the purposes of this indenture.

COMPANIES WHOSE SECURITIES ARE PLEDGED MAY BE CONSOLIDATED.

NINETEENTH. No assignment of any shares of stock deposited hereunder shall prevent the consolidation or merger of any one or more of said companies with, or its sale to, the railway company or other party, upon such terms as shall be approved by the trustee, or by the holders of a majority in interest of the bonds secured by this indenture. In the event of the consolidation or merger, this indenture immediately shall become a lien upon the property of the company so consolidated, and the holders of the bonds hereby secured shall always have as full a lien upon such property as that herein created by the pledge of the stock and bonds of such constituent companies to the trustee hereunder.

Neither shall the assignment hereunder of any capital stock prevent the consolidation or merger of any such companies with each other upon such terms as shall be approved by the trustee or by the holders of a majority in amount of the bonds secured by this indenture. And the portion of the capital stock of any such consolidating or merging company issued in lieu of any stock previously pledged hereunder shall be deposited with the trustee and shall always bear to the total capital stock a proportionate relation at least as high as that borne by such previously pledged stock to the total capital stock of such constituent companies.

FORECLOSURE SALE HEREUNDER TO BE SUBJECT TO PRIOR MORTGAGES.

TWENTIETH. Any sale pursuant to any provision hereof or otherwise shall be made subject to the prior mortgages hereinbefore mentioned.

HOLDERS OF FOUR-FIFTHS THE BONDS MAY DIRECT THE TRUSTEE TO PURCHASE THE PROPERTY.

TWENTY-FIRST. Registered holders of four-fifths in amount of all the outstanding bonds in their discretion may direct the trustee, at any sale hereunder, to purchase the mortgaged premises for the benefit of all the bonds hereby secured. In settling for the purchase price of the property so purchased, the trustee shall have power to receipt for the entire amount of the proceeds applicable to the payment of all such outstanding bonds and the interest thereon, and no bondholder shall have any claim to any portion of the proceeds of the property sold, or any interest in such purchase, other than for his proportionate share of the proceeds of such purchased premises as represented in a new corporation to be formed, under the direction of the trustee, for the benefit of all holders of bonds hereby secured.

FORMATION OF NEW COMPANY.

Pursuant to such direction in writing of such registered holders of four fifths in amount of the bonds then outstanding, the trustee shall transfer the property so purchased to a new corporation (which shall be organized upon such terms as shall be so directed by such registered holders of four-fifths in amount of said bonds), in consideration of the issue of its stock, bonds or debentures, and shall distribute said stock, bonds or debentures, according to any plan of reorganization agreed to by such registered holders of four-fifths in amount of the bonds then outstanding, or shall make disposition of the property purchased, in such manner as directed by such registered holders.

Provided, however, that in case of any such purchase all holders of bonds and coupons shall share ratably in such purchase according to the amounts severally due them respectively.

It is understood, however, that it is not obligatory upon the registered holders of four-fifths in amount of said bonds to direct the trustee as aforesaid, or to purchase said property on behalf of the holders of all the outstanding bonds, it being agreed that any purchase may be made by or in behalf of bondholders for their sole benefit free from the claims of other bondholders and shall be deemed so to have been made, unless expressly made by the trustee upon such an express direction.

REORGANIZATION WITHOUT FORECLOSURE—FOUR-FIFTHS OF THE BONDS MAY AUTHORIZE THE CREATION OF PRIOR LIENS.

TWENTY-SECOND. In case of any default as aforesaid, if in order to preserve the franchises of the railway company and to avoid foreclosure sale, any plan of reorganization shall be proposed with provisions for the modification of this mortgage so far as to authorize the creation of new liens superior to the lien hereof; then and in every such case registered holders of four-fifths in amount of all outstanding bonds hereby secured by writing may direct the trustee in behalf of all the holders of all bonds issued hereunder to acquiesce in such provisions of such plan. But no bond hereby secured shall be changed as to amount of principal or rate or dates of payment of interest.

ARTICLE FOUR.

PROPERTY NO LONGER NEEDED MAY BE RELEASED FROM LIEN HEREOF

Prior to default as aforesaid the trustees may, upon request of the railway company, release from the lien of this indenture any premises acquired for stations or for other uses not connected with the maintenance or operation of the lines of railway, or any premises which may have been acquired for the supply of gravel, fuel and other materials; provided that such premises shall no longer be requisite for the purposes for which the same shall have been so acquired. And likewise it may release any parts of the line of track, or of the depot grounds, or accommodations connected therewith, which may have been thrown out of use by reason of the straightening of the lines of railway. But the power of release is to be exercised only in case the railway company shall sell the property so to be released. The proceeds of sale shall be invested in the purchase of other property, real or personal, which shall be conveyed in trust by the railway company to the trustee, subject to all the trusts hereby declared, or in the purchase of bonds hereby secured (which bonds shall forthwith be canceled and delivered to the trustee); or in betterments or improvements, or in some other way, to the benefit of the mortgaged premises and satisfaction of the trustee.

ARTICLE FIVE.

TRACKAGE CONTRACTS MAY BE MODIFIED WITH CONSENT OF TRUSTEE.

In case it shall become necessary for the railway company to make changes in, or substitutions of, any trackage contracts, the railway company, with the written consent of the trustee, may make any such changes or substitutions, and may make all such instruments in writing as may be proper and necessary to carry out the same. Such modified or substituted trackage contracts shall forthwith become subject to the terms of this indenture.

ARTICLE SIX.

LIABILITY OF TRUSTEE.

The trustee shall not be answerable for the default or misconduct of any agent or attorney appointed by it if selected with reasonable care; or for anything whatever, in connection with this trust, except misconduct or gross negligence.

TRUSTEE MAY BE REMOVED BY HOLDERS OF THREE FOURTHS OF THE BONDS—NEW TRUSTEE MAY BE APPOINTED BY A MAJORITY INTEREST.

The trustee may be removed at any time by an instrument in writing under the hands and seals of three-quarters in amount of the holders of the outstanding bonds. In case a Trustee shall die, or shall resign or be removed as herein provided, a majority in amount of holders of the bonds then outstanding hereunder shall have the right by instrument in writing to appoint a new trustee to fill such vacancy. Until an appointment be so made, the board of directors of the railway company may appoint a new trustee to fill such vacancy for the time being. Should any vacancy be filled by the railway company under the foregoing provision it shall be competent for any Judge of the United States for the Fifth Circuit, or for any State Court of competent jurisdiction, upon the application of a majority in amount of the bondholders, to annul such appointment, and to appoint as trustee the nominee of such majority.

The Commercial Times.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 15, 1895.

General trade conditions are somewhat slow. Jobbers report a fair distribution of seasonable goods, but the attention given bulk parcels of stock at first hand is disappointing, and in some instances holders exhibit a desire to realize in order to settle accounts before close of year. The unsettled rates of exchange have served as an influence to curtail operations in staple articles of export and import. Speculation in leading lines of merchandise was moderate, with general tendency toward liquidation. A few sections report slight disappointment in yield of corn. The movement of wheat is delayed by scarcity of cars. A fall of rain over a wide expanse of wheat-sown area has created a more cheerful feeling in regard to crop prospects. It is officially announced that at noon on December 5 the State canals will be closed for the season.

The demand for lard on the spot has been moderately active, but prices have weakened slightly under free offerings prompted by large receipts of swine at primary points, closing at 5 85c. for prime Western, 5 60c. for prime City and 6 25c. for refined for the Continent. The local market for lard futures has been neglected, and nominal prices have been lowered slightly in response to weaker advices from the West, closing dull.

The speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market for the past week has been of fair proportions. The general disposition of operators was to liquidate long engagements under influence of slow, disappointing demand from actual consumers. On Saturday there was a material decline, in sympathy with a smart reduction in values at Liverpool, increasing troubles on European bourses and a failure on the "bull" side in New Orleans. On Monday the market opened buoyant on the more peaceful aspect of European politics, but the Bureau report, though variously construed, was disappointing to the "bull" party, and a rapid decline followed. On Tuesday an early decline was followed by a considerable advance, the market evidently being under the control of local influences—early selling to realize and later fresh buying for the "long" account. Wednesday's deal opened at an advance, responsive to stronger foreign accounts, but quickly reacted under pressure to realize and lost 10 points net for the day. Yesterday there was a further decline of 10@11 points under less promising advices from Liverpool, but a covering demand stimulated recovery of nearly entire loss. To-day, however, renewed liquidation has again weakened tone and prices lose 17 points. Cotton on the spot declined sharply early in the week, and is again off at the close, with trade dull. Middling uplands 8 7-16c.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 1,887,300 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 2,623 bales, including —— for export, 2,623 for consumption, —— for speculation and —— on contract. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week—November 9 to November 15.

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table indicates the actual movement each week from the plantations. The figures do not include overland receipts nor Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

2.—That although the receipts at the outports the past week were 229,749 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 265 6 0 bales, the balance going to increase the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the week were 402,554 bales and for 1893 they were 345,089 bales.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT FOR THE WEEK AND SINCE SEPT. 1.—We give below a statement showing the overland movement for the week and since September 1. This weekly publication is of course supplementary to the more extended monthly statements. The results for the week ending Nov. 15 and since Sept. 1 in the last two years are as follows.

"Other ports" cover Ceylon, Tuticorin, Kurrachee and Coconada.

SEA ISLAND COTTON MOVEMENT.—We have received this (Friday) evening by telegraph from the various ports the details of the Sea Island cotton movement for the week. The receipts for the week ending to-night (Nov. 15) and since Sept. 1, 1895, the stocks to-night, and the same items for the corresponding periods of 1894, are as follows.

A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

Quotations Nov. 15 at Savannah, for Floridas, common, 10½c.; medium fine, 12½c.; choice, 15½c.

Charleston, Carolinas, medium fine, 23 to 24c.; fine, 25c; fully fine, 26 to 27c.; extra fine, 35 to 40c.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &c.—There has been only an extremely light demand for jute bagging during the week under review, but quotations continue as last reported, viz., 4c. for 1¾ lbs., 4½c. for 2 lbs. and 4¾c. for standard grades in a jobbing way. Car load lots of standard brands are quoted at 4c. for 1¾ lbs., 4½c. for 2 lbs. and 4¾c. for 2¼ lbs., f. o. b. at New York. The market for jute butts on the spot has been inactive, no sales being reported, and quotations are nominal at 1 1/16c. for paper quality and 1½c. for mixing.

EUROPEAN COTTON CONSUMPTION TO NOVEMBER 1.—By cable to-day we have Mr. Ellison's cotton figures brought down to November 1. We give also revised totals for last year that comparison may be made. The spinners' takings in actual bales and pounds have been as follows:

October 1 to November 1.	Great Britain.	Continent.	Total.
Takings by spinners...bales	261,000	237,000	498,000
Average weight of bales...lbs.	484	477	480·7
Takings in pounds	126,324,000	113,049,000	239,373,000
Takings by spinners...bales	311,000	236,000	547,000
Takings in pounds	152,737,000	115,630,000	268,367,000

According to the above, the average weight of the deliveries in Great Britain is 484 pounds per bale this season, against 490 pounds during the same time last season. The Continental deliveries average 477 pounds against 490 pounds last year, and for the whole of Europe the deliveries average 480·7 pounds per bale against 490 pounds last season. Our dispatch also gives the full movement for this year and last year in bales of 400 pounds.

Oct. 1 to Nov. 1. Bales of 400 lbs. each, 000s omitted.	1895.			1894.
	Great Britain	Continent.	Total.	Great Britain	Continent.	Total.

Takings to Nov. 1	316.	282	598	331.	289.	670.

In October	80.0	100.0	180.0	82.0	95.0	177.0

The foregoing shows that the weekly consumption is now 180,000 bales of 400 pounds each, against 177,000 bales of like weights at the corresponding time last year. The total spinners' stocks in Great Britain and on the Continent have decreased 122,000 bales during the month and are now 205,000 bales greater than at the same date last year.

COTTON ABOUT WACO, TEXAS.—The following letter is well worth reading. The details it gives are interesting and suggestive.

Messrs. Wm. R. Dana Company, New York:

DEAR SIRS—Both of our partners have driven together in a buggy through parts of this county in every direction from Waco for crop inspection. We have driven 12 to 17 miles on one day of each of the last ten weeks, and we have taken shorter drives other days. We have not confined ourselves to the public roads, but at times we have opened private gates and traveled plantation lanes.

We assure you that the information published on page 799 of the CHRONICLE of November 2 indicates that its Waco correspondent is not accurately acquainted with facts concerning cotton in this county.

The rain he refers to was not remarkably heavy, and injured grade without reducing yield. His statement that the "outlook is not good" must be based upon very high standard. This section is the best in Texas this season, and while some crops are only fair others are very good, and a favorable fall has improved the outlook. In reply to his statement that there "will be no second growth" we assure you that a very large percentage of the cotton in this section will yield a fairly good top crop, and that less than half the cotton has been removed from some fields, while we have seen only two fields that are picked clean and will produce no more. Plants in many fields are still heavily fruited with large bolls that will surely open regardless of the weather, while young bolls may be injured by severe frost. Some farmers complain that their plants are too sappy, but we find farmers are not in all cases disposed to give us correct information. Light frost on the morning of November 2, so far as we can ascertain from inquiry and personal inspection of a few fields, did not do any damage in this section. Without the possibility of official data we consider, or guess, that 60 per cent, or probably more, of the cotton tributary to Waco by wagons and by railroads for compressing here, is now in the hands of farmers, picked or unpicked, of country merchants, and of buyers who are not shippers. Stocks are liberal here and in near-by towns, and much cotton is held "long."

After the big drop in prices that began in New Orleans and New York on October 18 there was for more than a week practically no marketing or hauling. Receipts here one week were only 175 bales and should have been 400 to 500 bales per day. During the past two days more cotton has been wagoned into Waco than during the previous two weeks.

There are many here who do not go out of the city, and accept what they hear from interested sources and repeat dismal statements until they believe them. We know that it is not reasonable to expect a crop equal to last year in any part of Texas, and that S. W. and E. Texas have suffered severely beyond doubt, but if other sections are as much better than reports as Waco section is than the assurances we get here, not confirmed by our own eyes, the crop in Texas will go far over popular estimates.

Very truly,

HARDY, WILLIAMS & CO.

We never speculate, and write solely in the interest of truth. We have no other object in our long drives and weekly reports than to correctly inform our foreign and domestic correspondents. We are known to a number of cotton houses in your city, among them Price, McCormick & Co., 72 Broadway, and Hubbard Brothers & Co., Coffee Exchange Building.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT'S COTTON REPORT FOR NOVEMBER.—The Agricultural Department's report on cotton for November is given below:

The cotton returns of the Department of Agriculture for the month of November show an average yield per acre for the entire cotton belt of 155·8 pounds, distributed by States as follows: Virginia, 193; North Carolina, 187; South Carolina, 141; Georgia, 152; Florida, 148; Alabama, 135; Mississippi, 169; Louisiana, 177; Texas, 151; Arkansas, 183; Tennessee, 181; all other states and Territories, 207.

A large majority of the correspondents of the Department complain of a short yield, many reporting "a half crop," "poorest in thirty years," or something similar. The dry weather, which has practically destroyed the top crop in many localities, and injured it everywhere, has been favorable for picking, so that the fibre is generally reported clean and in good condition. The damage from drouth is not confined to particular States, none being free from it.

THE EXPORTS OF COTTON from New York this week show an increase compared with last week, the total reaching 23,459 bales, against 10,206 bales last week. Below we give our usual table, showing the exports of cotton from New York, and the direction, for each of the last four weeks; also the total exports and direction since Sept. 1, 1895, and in the last column the total for the same period of the previous year.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 15, 1895.

Business in the market for wheat flour has continued slow during the week under review, and prices have been lowered 5 to 10c. per bbl. The weakness was principally in spring-wheat grades, which have been freely offered, but winter-wheat grades have been in light supply and held fairly steady. City mills have sold freely at 10c. decline. Rye flour has been quiet and unchanged. Buckwheat flour has been in slow request and prices have further declined. Corn meal has sold slowly, and prices have been lowered 5c. per bbl. To-day the market for wheat flour was quiet and unchanged.

The speculative dealings in the market for wheat futures have been quiet as the trading has been purely of a professional character. During the first half of the week a large crop movement in the Northwest and the unsettled political and financial situations in Europe caused prices to weaken, but subsequently advices received from Europe were reported as showing a brighter political outlook, and this, with predictions of a decreased movement of the spring-wheat crop and a better demand in the spot market from shippers, caused part of the loss to be recovered. The sales in the spot market yesterday included No. 1 hard Manitoba at 3 @3¼c. over December f. o. b. afloat and No. 2 do. at ¼@1c. over December f. o. b. afloat; also No. 1 Manitoba at 2½c. under December c. i. f. to Buffalo and No. 2 do. at 4½c. under December c. i. f. to Buffalo. To-day the market was a trifle higher early in the day on reports of large purchases for export, but later realizing sales and dull foreign advices caused a reaction. The spot market was fairly active, shippers having been the buyers. The sales included choice red winter at 71c. f. o. b. afloat; No. 1 Northern, N. Y. inspection, at 1¼c. over December f. o. b. afloat; do., Duluth inspection, at 1⅜@1⅝c. over December f. o. b. afloat and No. 1 hard spring at 3c. over December f. o. b. afloat.

The speculation in the market for Indian corn futures has been quiet and early in the week prices weakened with wheat; later, however, a decreased movement of the crop in the interior owing to unfavorable weather caused a partial recovery. The spot market has been moderately active and prices have been well held. The sales yesterday included No. 2 mixed at 26½c. in elevator and 35¾@36¼c. delivered; No. 3 mixed at 35¼c. in elevator and yellow at 37¼@37¾c. in elevator. To-day the market was dull and slightly lower, in response to weaker advices from the West. The spot market was quiet. The sales included No 2 mixed at 35¼@35¾ in elevator and 1¼@1¾c over November f. o. b afloat; also No. 2 white at 38½c. f. o. b. afloat.

Oats for future delivery have been dull, and early in the week prices were weaker, but Wednesday and Thursday the market was a trifle stronger with "shorts" showing some disposition to cover contracts stimulated by a falling off in receipts owing to wet weather. The spot market has been moderately active at steady prices. The sales yesterday included No. 2 mixed at 24⅛c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 24⅝c. in elevator. To-day the market was dull and easier in sympathy with the weaker drift to corn. The spot market was moderately active and steady. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 23¾c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 24⅝c. in elevator.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT'S REPORT.—The Agricultural Department's report on the cereal crops was issued on November 10, and is given below:

The November returns to the Department of Agriculture make the corn crop the largest in volume on record, with a rate of yield, however, somewhat less than is indicated by the returns for October, being 27.2 bushels per acre. This must be regarded as preliminary and not final estimate of the yield.

The rates of yield by States are as follows: Maine 42.0 bushels, New Hampshire 40.2, Vermont 45.6, Massachusetts 43.4, Rhode Island 30.9, Connecticut 37.6, New York 35.6, New Jersey 33.0, Pennsylvania 33.5, Delaware 21.0, Maryland 26.8, Virginia 18.6, North Carolina 14.5, South Carolina 11.1, Georgia 13.0, Florida 11.2, Alabama 15.4, Mississippi 15.8, Louisiana 14.1, Texas 20.4, Arkansas 21.5, Tennessee 25.0, West Virginia 24.2, Kentucky 31.2, Ohio 34.5, Michigan 32.6, Indiana 32.8, Illinois 37.4, Wisconsin 31.8, Minnesota 31.2, Iowa 37.1, Missouri 30.0, Kansas 26.3, Nebraska 18.1, South Dakota 11.1, North Dakota 21.3, Montana 25.0, Colorado 20.7, New Mexico 27.2, Arizona 26.0, Utah 20.3, Idaho 30.7, Washington 17.1, Oregon 26.4, California 34.5; general average 26.2.

In the Atlantic States, except those about middle latitude, the yield appears to be large and of high quality. In the Virginias and Carolinas, some counties of Pennsylvania and Maryland, the greater part of the great lake and Ohio valleys, California and New Mexico, reports are conflicting, owing to the different action of the universal drouth upon different soils: rich bottom lands giving an abundant yield, while upland and clay tracts are very short. The whole Missouri basin reports a great falling off from earlier estimates, the extreme dry weather having converted fair promise into a comparative failure in Nebraska and adjoining States, while considerable damage is ascribed to untimely frosts near the Rocky Mountains and along the northern border. There are many complaints of the chinch bug and army worm, while the rotting of ears by soaking summer rains has made a large part of the crop unmerchantable in some inferior States.

The average yield of buckwheat is 20·1 bushels, against 16·1 last year.

The average yield of potatoes is 100·7 bushels per acre.

Tobacco 743 pounds and hay 1·06 tons. The crop of apples is reported as 71·1 per cent of a full crop.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 15, 1895.

There has been some development of irregularity in the market for staple cotton goods this week under the combined influence of a continued dull demand and a declining market for raw material, but so far as the leading makes are concerned prices are without material alteration. Southern manufacturers show the greatest tendency to favor buyers somewhat, many of them being now in an easier position as regards raw supplies than for a considerable time past and more willing to accept orders than before. Buyers are not often tempted by this, and they seem to think that nothing will be lost whilst something may be gained by waiting before pushing ahead further with goods for the coming season. Seasonable cotton dress fabrics have been quiet but good orders have been recorded in new spring lines in which there is a firm market with encouraging prospects. Print cloths have been inactive all the week, and are practically 1-16c. lower. Business in new heavy-weight woolens and worsteds has been good considering the limited display outside of overcoatings, and prices average considerably higher than last season. Reports of the jobbing trade here and elsewhere show that still colder weather is needed to stimulate the distribution of seasonable fabrics. Collections show some irregularity but are generally reported satisfactory.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 11 were 3,170 packages, valued at $157,208, their destination being to the points specified in the table below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year has been $7,727,574 in 1895 against $10,004,933 in 1894.

There has been no improvement in the demand for brown sheetings or drills from either converters or jobbers, and exporters have again bought but sparingly. Leading makes are steady in price but there are occasional instances of an easier attitude on the part of other sellers. Brown ducks and osnaburgs dull and unchanged. Bleached shirtings are in light demand in all grades without change in prices. Bleached cambrics also dull and unchanged. Kid-finished cambrics show an easier tendency and are occasionally ⅛c. lower. Wide sheetings, cotton flannels and blankets are all in limited request at previous prices. Business in coarse colored cottons is dull throughout; leading makes of denims, ticks, checks, stripes and other descriptions are steady, but in other directions some irregularity in prices is reported. Printed fabrics in wide specialties are in good request for spring, as are shirtings, but nothing doing yet in new light fancy calicoes. Indigo blues, turkey reds, staples, &c., are firm, with a quietly steady demand. Dometis and napped dress fabrics are selling well, and with more agents opening their lines an improved business is reported in ginghams for spring. Staple ginghams firm but dull. There has been a poor demand for print cloths and extras at the close are not worth over 3¼c., or 1-16c. lower than a week ago.

WOOLEN GOODS.—There has been a good business reported in new heavy-weight overcoatings, of which a considerable number of makes in beavers and kerseys have been put upon the market, some at old prices but others at advances of from 5 to 10 per cent. Kerseys are more generally higher than beavers. In heavy-weight suitings Clay worsteds where opened have been fairly well ordered at the advanced prices noted last week, but in other descriptions there are only a limited number of agents taking orders as yet, and the price situation is indefinite. Light weights for early delivery are showing some improvement in the volume of re-orders but the demand is still regarded as unsatisfactory. Business in cloakings has been without special feature, a quiet demand coming forward at previous prices. Cotton-warp and cotton-mixed goods are dull. Flannels and blankets in quiet reorder request and firm. Carpets are quiet pending new prices by agents; the tendency is upward. Woolen and worsted and mohair dress goods are generally firm, but current business moderate.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—A generally dull market has been reported for foreign merchandise outside of a few specialties in dress fabrics and holiday goods. The demand for spring lines has been quiet, but the market is firm for dress goods, silks, linens, ribbons, hosiery and underwear. New heavy-weights in men's wear quiet.

Middletown, Ind.—Bond Offering.—Bids will be received until Dec. 4, 1895, by J. O. Lambert, President of the Town Board of Trustees, for $10,000 of 6 per cent water-works bonds. The securities will be dated Oct. 1, 1895, and will mature part yearly from October 1, 1900, to April 1, 1910. Interest will be payable semi-annually at the office of the Town Treasurer. The town has no debt at present. Its total assessed valuation is $1,708,000 and the present population is about 1,800.

Middletown, Ohio.—Bonds Defeated.—F. S. Tanzey, Mayor, reports to the CHRONICLE that the question of issuing $25,000 of water-works bonds, voted on November 5, failed to carry.

Monroeville, Ohio.—Bonds Defeated.—The proposition to issue $25,000 of water-works bonds, voted on November 5, failed to carry. J. F. Henninger, City Clerk, states that indications are that another election will be held soon.

Mount Clemens, Mich.—Bond News.—J. H. Westendorf, City Treasurer, writes the CHRONICLE that nothing has as yet been done in the matter of raising $100,000 for water-works. It is not probable that the question will be voted on before next spring.

Mount Vernon, Wash.—Bond Election.—The citizens of Mount Vernon will vote November 29 on issuing $14,000 of water-works bonds.

Murfreesboro, Tenn.—Bonds Opposed.—The citizens of Murfreesboro have decided not to vote on the issuance of electric-light bonds for $25,000 which were recently authorized by the Legislature. The bond scheme was very generally opposed.

Newberg, Oreg.—Bond Offering.—Proposals will be received until December 2 by J. G. Hadley, City Recorder, for the purchase of 5 per cent 20-year water-works bonds to the amount of $15,000.

Ontonagon, Mich.—Bonds Authorized.—Electric-light bonds to the amount of $12,000 have been voted.

Orange, Conn.—Bonds Authorized.—Four per cent 20-year bonds of this municipality to the amount of $100,000 have been authorized.

Perry, O. T.—Bonds Authorized.—Water-works bonds of this municipality to the amount of $20,000 will soon be offered for sale.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Popular Loan.—The fact that Philadelphia has recently disposed of $1,200,000 of 3 per cent bonds in small amounts to local investors has encouraged the city authorities to try another popular loan. It is now reported that 3 per cent bonds for $1,000,000 will be offered at par, and subscriptions for $25 or over will be received. The bonds just sold were not issued in denominations of less than $100.

Portsmouth, Va.—Bond Offering.—Proposals will be received until November 29 by E. Thompson, Jr., City Clerk, for the purchase of $25,000 of sewer bonds. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent will be payable semi-annually and the principal will mature in 30 years.

Rochester, Pa.—Bonds Authorized.—A loan of $60,000 has been authorized for water-works.

Rockbridge County, Va.—This county will issue $52,000 of 5 per cent bonds to refund a like amount of 6 per cent railroad-aid bonds. County Treasurer S. R. Moore is said to be of the opinion that a 5 per cent loan, subject to call at any time, can be floated advantageously.

Rome, Ga.—Bonds Proposed.—City Clerk Halsted Smith reports to the CHRONICLE that a bill authorizing $169,000 of 4½ per cent 30-year bonds to refund a like amount of securities falling due July 1, 1896, has passed both Houses and Senate, and will doubtless be approved by the Governor. Interest on the loan will be payable semi-annually. It was erroneously reported that this ordinance provided for the issuance of $300,000 of bonds.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Bonds Defeated.—An election recently held on issuing $60,000 of paving bonds resulted in the defeat of the proposition by a vote of 3 to 1.

Saranac Lake, N. Y.—Bond Election.—A vote will be taken November 19 on issuing $10,000 of water-works bonds.

Sauk Rapids, Minn.—Bond Election.—The people of this municipality will soon vote on issuing $25,000 of water-works bonds.

Sedalia, Mo.—Bond Sale Illegal.—The sale of $208,500 of 4½ per cent 10-20 year Sedalia bonds has been declared void, as third-class cities of Missouri cannot issue bonds to run longer than ten years. Bonds for the same amount, maturing in ten years, with option of call after five years, will probably be offered.

Shawano, Wis.—Bonds Authorized.—Bridge bonds of this city to the amount of $15,000 have been authorized.

Superior, Wis.—Bond Call.—Notice is given by the City Comptroller and Treasurer of Superior, Wis., that $40,909 01 of 6 per cent sewer improvement bonds issued July 1, 1890, and optional in five years from date, are called for payment at the National Bank of Redemption in New York City on or before December 31, 1895, when interest will cease. The bonds called are numbered from 1 to 84.

Wood, Village Treasurer, for $4,500 of 6 per cent water-water bonds to mature Oct. 15, 1915, with option of call after Oct. 15, 1900. Talmage at present has no indebtedness of any description. Its total assessed valuation is $45,376, property being assessed at about 17 per cent of actual value. The total State, county, city and school tax per $1,000 is $44 37; present population about 600.

STATE AND CITY DEBT CHANGES.

We subjoin reports as to municipal debts received since the last publication of our STATE AND CITY SUPPLEMENT. Some of these reports are wholly new and others cover items of information additional to those given in the SUPPLEMENT and of interest to investors.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The following statement of Buffalo's municipal indebtedness and general financial condition has been corrected to July 1, 1895, the close of the last fiscal year. During the fiscal year 1894-1895 city bonds to the amount of $1,071,200 were issued and $767,561 were retired. Of this total amount retired $[illegible],000 were refunded and $492,561 were extinguished.

In connection with his report for the year City Comptroller Erastus C. Knight makes the following statement as a matter of interest to the holders of Buffalo securities: "The statutory limitation regarding the city's bonded debt is 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of its real property. Upon this basis, Buffalo, having an assessed valuation of $220,290,690, would be permitted to bond itself to the amount of $22,029,069. At the present time, however, the bonded debt of the city, less the amount of sinking funds, is $12,024,609 84, but little more than 50 per cent of the amount permitted by law. The city of Chicago is at present bonded for the full 10 per cent of its assessed valuation, and the city of Baltimore, with a population of 450,000, is bonded to the amount of $41,000,000."

Buffalo is in Erie County, and the city's tax valuation is about 5-6 that of the entire county.

On July 1, 1878, the duties of the Sinking Fund Commissioners of the District of Columbia were transferred to the Treasurer of the United States, and since that date Congress has appropriated annually a sum sufficient to pay not only the interest on the District's bonds but also, it is believed, sufficient to extinguish the entire debt of the District upon the maturity of the 3·65 per cent loan in 1924.

Special bonds made payable by statute from taxes on lands benefitted:

Montgomery Avenue bonds have been declared null and void.

Dupont Street bonds, 7s, amount outstanding $724,000

A recent decision of the United States Supreme Court established the validity of the Dupont street bonds, which had been in litigation, but subsequent litigation as to the validity of the tax levies is now pending in the courts. Since July 1, 1894, payments of the taxes on account of the Dupont Street widening have been made, of which a large proportion was paid under protest, suits being instituted by the parties paying to recover the same on the ground of illegality of the tax levies. From payments not made under protest bonds have been redeemed during the last fiscal year.

PAR VALUE OF BONDS—The bonds of this city are for $1,000 and $500.

INTEREST is payable in gold in San Francisco.

TOTAL DEBT, SINKING FUNDS, ETC.—The subjoined statement shows San Francisco's total bonded debt and the sinking fund held by the city against the same on the first of July of each of the last four years.

The United States Life Insurance Co.
IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

This old and reliable Company now has the experience of forty-five years of practical Life Insurance, which has taught it that the sine qua non of success is the adoption of good plans of insurance, and the pursuit of a liberal policy towards both its Insured and its Agents. These essentials it possesses in an eminent degree, but judiciously tempered by that conservatism which is the best possible safeguard of the policy holder. Its contracts are incontestable after two years. They are non-forfeiting, providing generally for either paid-up policy or extended insurance, at the option of the policy holder. It gives ten days of grace in payment of all premiums. Its course during the past forty five years abundantly demonstrates its absolute security.

Active and successful Agents, wishing to represent this Company, may communicate with the President at the Home Office, 261 Broadway, New York.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

Our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, November 16, are given below, and we also present the results for the corresponding week in 1894, 1893 and 1892. In comparison with the preceding week there is an increase in the aggregate exchanges of about eighty-four million dollars, but at New York alone the gain is sixty-six millions. Contrasted with the week of 1894 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 13·4 per cent. Compared with the week of 1893 the current returns record an excess of 19·2 per cent and the loss from 1892 is 11·7 per cent. Outside of New York the gain over 1894 is 10·9 per cent. The excess over 1893 reaches 16·3 per cent, and making comparison with 1892 the falling off is seen to be 4·8 per cent.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The influences affecting political affairs in Europe we have remarked upon on a subsequent page; the situation has improved since the beginning of the week. Foreign markets though have not recovered materially; the most of the time they have continued feverish and unsettled. One day, to be sure, the situation would appear to be somewhat relieved, but then again would follow rumors of a more acute embarrassment among perhaps another lot of over-loaded speculators, the older cripples having been "carried through" by some good Samaritan capitalist. Indeed, if there is one distinctive feature of the existing Kaffir crisis as cabled to New York it is the easy way in which moneyed men and financial corporations have converted themselves into charitable institutions. We hear first of one bank and then of another and then of a leading financial house by turns lifting some one or more exhausted speculators out of their dilemma. Last week the cable told of a vast pool of money collected in Paris just to help the struggling crowd, the apparent sentiment being that a man who got swamped dealing in Kaffirs was entitled to the sympathy and aid of the two markets. In the meantime Wall Street has read the cables, wondered, and kept quiet.

The truth is, far too much importance is given to the crisis in progress in Europe as an influence affecting our market. It is our currency situation that moves Europe in regard to American investments. Weeks, and even months ago, before the tension in London and Paris and Berlin began, foreign exchange was just about as high as it is now. It was the anomaly of such a rate so persistently continued at such a period of the year that led to the return of American securities. As soon as gold exports began this distrust abroad was strengthened, and so more gold exports followed. Inasmuch as our merchandise shipments are increasing, the net balance having become favorable now (see summary of foreign trade at end of remarks on foreign exchange in this article to-day), it is possible that there may be soon a suspension of the gold outflow for a time, though the large interest payments due Europe the first of January, added to a continued inflow of securities from abroad, may result otherwise. However that may be, whether the gold movement stops or goes on, the action will depend upon conditions here, not upon speculation in Europe. If we want to correct the foreign exchange market permanently and bring it back to a normal state, the remedy lies at home—in the halls of Congress and nowhere else.

The new Trunk-Line agreement was finally adopted this week by the unanimous approval of the Presidents of the roads, and we give it in full on subsequent pages. We are obliged to confess, however, that in the form in which it now stands it is quite different in a number of essential respects from the compact originally proposed. We are not referring in this to the many changes in the wording and phraseology of the agreement, which were evidently made to bring the scheme clearly within the provisions of the statute. But since the meeting on October 10, when the original vote in approval of the agreement was taken, the form of the contract has been revised again and again, and the revision, it is now seen, has involved the elimination of a good many features and provisions which appear necessary to its successful working.

The clause giving the Board of Managers authority to offer rewards for information that will secure conviction for violations of the Inter-State law has been omitted. This by itself would not be a matter of any great consequence. But taken in connection with other omissions and alterations it is rather significant. Both the agreement submitted September 20 and that submitted October 10 provided that in case of complaints the Board of Managers of the Association might examine officials and employees regarding the subject matter of the investigation under oath. The words "under oath" have now been omitted. In the agreement submitted September 20 it was provided that each road should deposit 2½ per cent of its gross revenues from business subject to the agreement until the deposit to the credit of such road should reach $50,000, and thereafter 1 per cent, but the percentage could be reduced by the Board of Managers if it became evidently excessive for the ends desired. The agreement acted on October 10 continued the provision of a monthly deposit but made the percentage only 1 per cent from the start, with the right of reduction as in the first instance in case the amount became excessive. Under the agreement as we now find it only a deposit of $5,000 is required from each road, with such further sums monthly "as the Managers may decide to be necessary to defray the expenses of the Association * * and to provide for such forfeitures as may be adjudged"—thus practically reducing the amount on deposit at any time to this first payment of $5,000.

Under both the September and the October agreements if a company withdrew from the compact without the unanimous consent of the other companies, it forfeited all the money it had paid in. The intention was to have large deposits and to make the pecuniary consideration at stake so great that no company could afford to withdraw, thus giving permanency to the arrangement. This feature has been wholly changed, for now in the contract we read that if any company fails to pay the fines assessed against it, "then any other company may withdraw from this agreement upon giving thirty days' written notice to the managers, and such company so withdrawing shall be entitled to the residue of the funds it has contributed." If this clause had been expressly framed to facilitate withdrawals it could not be better adapted for that purpose. Of course all the acts of the parties to the agreement are dependent upon the approval of their boards of directors, but this has not heretofore proved a barrier to withdrawals.

It only remains to add that while all the previous forms of the agreement provided that the compact should continue in existence for five years and thereafter until ninety days' notice, the present form says it shall continue for five years subject to ninety days notice. It is true the clause regarding the abolition of separate agencies and the organization of joint agencies is retained, but it is a question whether that idea can be made effective in view of all the weak points here enumerated and which are so obviously calculated to destroy the permanency of the arrangement. It will all depend upon the honesty and good faith of the parties to the contract. But so have all previous contracts. As a matter of fact, the new agreement in the shape in which it has been finally put differs in no essential particular, except in the proposition to abolish separate agencies, from the numerous other agreements which have come and gone during the last dozen years.

The October return of gross earnings of the Chicago & North Western has been awaited with considerable interest. The St. Paul in that month had increased its gross earnings in the large sum of $860,968, and there was a desire to see whether the North Western could show an equally noteworthy addition to its receipts. The return was issued yesterday afternoon, and makes it evident that both roads have been favored in much the same way. The return gives the earnings of the North West. for October 1895 as $3,774,590, which compares with only $2,905,333 for October 1894, an increase of $869,257. These figures are significant as reflecting the large grain movement in that section and the activity of trade resulting from it.

The bank return of last week showed a surplus reserve of $20,404,050. That statement was made on declining averages for cash, the bulk of the withdrawals of legal-tenders for exchange for gold required for shipment to Europe having occurred toward the end of the bank week. The withdrawals early this week were $1,750,000, and on Wednesday $1,000,000 more was taken. The outlook then was for a material reduction in cash to be shown by the statement of this week; that is to say, the current reports led to the belief that the shipments of gold by Saturday's steamer would amount to about $4,000,000 (actually the shipments as reported below proved to be $4,600,000), and this tended somewhat to stiffen rates for money on call after the opening of the week, a tendency which was increased by some calling in of loans by foreign bankers, thereby reducing the offerings.

Money on call, representing bankers' balances, has, for the reasons referred to in the foregoing, loaned not only at 1½ per cent, but more largely than last week at 2 per cent, the loans at each rate being about equal in amount, making the average for the week about 1¾. Some of the banks and trust companies loaned at 1½ per cent early in the week, but later they maintained 2 per cent. Transactions in time loans have been confined to long dates and to some special contracts with institutions not usually in the market. The demand has been light and the offerings have not been liberal. Rates are 2 per cent for thirty days, 2½ per cent for sixty to ninety days, 3 per cent for four and 3½@4 per cent for five to seven months. The demand for commercial paper has been lighter this week, influenced by the outlook for lower bank reserves; the supply has not increased, and business has been restricted to the best names. Quotations are 3¾@4 per cent for sixty to ninety day endorsed bills receivable, 4@4½ for four months' commission house and prime four months' single names, 4½@5 for prime six months' and 5 and above for good four to six months' single names.

The only feature in the European financial situation other than those above noted has been the transfer by the Chinese agent of £5,000,000 to the representative of Japan on Saturday at the Bank of England, being the indemnity paid to Japan for the retrocession of the Liao-Tung Peninsula. The money, it is stated, will remain in the Bank subject to draft by Japan. The Bank of England minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 2 per cent, but the Bank of Bombay has raised its rate from 3 to 4 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety-day bank bills in London 1⅝@1½ per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 1⅝ and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 3 per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England gained £502,275 bullion during the week and held at the close of the week £41,540,043. Our correspondent further advises us that the gain was due to the import of £481,000 (of which £313,000 were from the United States, £160,000 bought and £8,000 from Paris), to receipts from the interior of Great Britain of £321,000 and to exports of £310,000, of which £100,000 were to the Cape, £35,000 to South America, £30,000 to Roumania and £45,000 to other points.

The foreign exchange market was dull and firm until Wednesday afternoon, when it was influenced by offerings of bills against intended exports of gold on Saturday, some of the regular shippers drawing against their consignments, while others who were remitting gold in lieu of exchange did not draw bills. The supply of commercial drafts against cotton was light, some being delivered on contract, but very few against current movements of the staple, and bankers who usually handle fairly large amounts of these bills at this season say that they have rarely known the offerings to be so small. The business in exchange is light, the profits limited, and the outlook is not encouraging. The demand for remittance seems to be general and so greatly in excess of the supply as to compel exports of gold. On Monday the few commercial bills received by the mail were promptly absorbed and the market was firm with rates for actual business unchanged, compared with Friday of last week, at 4 87½@4 88 for long, 4 89½@4 89½ for short and 4 89½@4 89¾ for cable transfers. On Tuesday the market continued firm, though then there were some gold bills offered against an intended shipment on Thursday. Lazard Freres engaged $1,250,000 and L. von Hoffmann & Co. $500,000 gold for export on Wednesday, but no bills appeared against these shipments, and the market continued firm. On Wednesday dearer discounts in London caused a fall in rates for actual business in long sterling to 4 87½@4 87¾, but sight bills and cable transfers were not quotably lower, though there were some drafts in the market against intended gold exports on Saturday, and W. H. Crossman & Bro. withdrew $1,000,000 gold from the Sub-Treasury for shipment on the following day. On Thursday the market was quoted as dull and barely steady in the morning in consequence of further offerings of bills against intended shipments of gold on Saturday, and rates for actual business were 4 87½@4 87¾ for long, 4 89@4 89½ for short and 4 89½@4 89¾ for cable transfers, but in the afternoon the market was quoted as firm, indicating the absorption of the offerings. It was then reported that the shipments of gold on Saturday would most likely be large in the aggregate. Baring, Magoun & Co. withdrew $500,000 from the Sub-Treasury and gave notice of the requirement of $500,000 more. Yesterday the other withdrawals were by Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co., $750,000; Lazard Freres, $800,000; Müller, Schall & Co., $500,000; L. von Hoffmann & Co., $500,000; Handy & Harman, $50,000, and W. H. Crossman & Brother, $1,000,000. These with those previously mentioned make the shipments to-day $4,600,000, and for the week $7,350,000. Of the $4,600,000 to go to-day, $3,100,000 was taken in the form of bars, the Treasury Department having reduced the charge for bars from 1-10 of one per cent to 1-16 of one per cent. The annual report of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway for the year ending June 30 1895 has been issued this week. Though it is the second report of the new company, it is the first one covering the operations of a full period of twelve months; for the first four months of the previous year the property was still operated by the two constituent companies out of which the consolidated company has been formed, namely the Ohio & Mississippi and the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad. The late year was of course an unfavorable period, and the road suffered from much the same adverse influences and conditions as the Baltimore & Ohio (whose report we review to-day on another page), of which system the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern forms a part. There were the crop failure, the continued depression in business and the low rates; and President Edward R. Bacon also notes that the prolonged strike in the coal regions of Ohio in the latter part of the fiscal year greatly depleted the earnings of the road. Notwithstanding these various drawbacks it was found possible to increase the gross earnings $62,838 and the net earnings $9,737 as compared with the year preceding. The total of the gross earnings reached $6,323,035 and the total of the net income was $2,308,181. This latter was sufficient to meet all the obligatory charges and rentals, and leave a surplus of $212,056, out of which the 2½ per cent paid on the $8,750,000 of "A" income bonds the 1st of November was made. Mr. Bacon points out that though gross earnings in the late year were $635,562 less than in 1892-3, before the panic, the net is only $97,000 less than in that year, and he says that the comparison is suggestive of what may be expected from the operations of the company when normal conditions prevail.

The following statement gives the week's movements of money to and from the interior by the New York banks.

WHY NOT SETTLE THE CURRENCY QUESTION NOW?

There was one point in Secretary Carlisle's forcible and suggestive speech at the Chamber of Commerce dinner Tuesday night which will not only attract special attention but will receive from the people at large hearty endorsement. It was the closing portion of his remarks, and we give it in full below because of its importance and because it unquestionably voices the public sentiment and touches a public need.

Mr. President, I promised to say but little, and perhaps ought to stop here; but the situation seems to demand, or at least it seems to justify, one or two other suggestions.

Much of our financial trouble has been caused by doubt and speculation, here and abroad, concerning the views and purposes of our people at large and the policies of the political parties to which they are attached. This is a government by parties, and investors in our securities and in our industrial and commercial enterprises watch with the greatest interest and solicitude every manifestation of popular opinion, especially at the periods when, under the Constitution, changes are to be made in the chief executive office.

It is of vast importance that these doubts and speculations should be set at rest in order that the world may certainly know what is to be our permanent monetary policy and adjust its trade and direct its financial enterprises accordingly. Vague and indefinite declarations by the great political organizations of the country not only increase doubt and distrust abroad but encourage harmful agitation at home, and I hold, therefore, that it it the duty of all who are or who may become in any degree responsible for the welfare of the country to insist that there shall be no further equivocation or evasion in our treatment of this great subject.

Let us have no more ambiguous phrases, no more inconsistent and irreconcilable clauses in party platforms or in public utterances, but let us make our meaning so clear and our purpose so plain that they can be neither misunderstood nor successfully misrepresented.

If a majority of the people of the United States are in favor of the maintenance of the present standard of value and opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of legal-tender silver, they ought to have an opportunity to say so in a form which will preclude all controversy as to whether they have said so or not. On the other hand, if a majority of our people are in favor of abandoning the present standard of value and establishing silver mono-metallism by the free and unlimited coinage of that metal into full legal-tender money, they should have an opportunity to say that.

When this issue is directly presented we need not fear the result. Such an appeal to the common sense, the commercial integrity and the national pride of our people will not be in vain, and when the contest is over the question will be settled, finally and conclusively settled, in accordance with the general judgment of the most advanced nations and the real interests of our own country.

The substance of the foregoing is that men in political life, and party conventions in their platforms, when speaking of currency reform, use words, with rare exceptions, not to enlighten but to confuse the public as to their meaning. This every one will admit is the fact, and among the non-political class and especially among those who contend for sound money we do not believe a dissent could be obtained to the proposal of Mr. Carlisle that hereafter these vague expressions be discarded and frank openness be substituted. His conclusion, too, will find in the same circles an equally cordial response—that "when the currency issue is directly presented there need be no fear of the result." We may add that "vague and indefinite declarations" never formed a party, never aroused public opinion, never created enthusiasm, and "without enthusiasm nothing great was ever achieved."

Moreover, there is a formidable body of our people stronger in its purpose than ever before to prevent so far as it can the longer neglect of the currency derangement. These people are found in large numbers among the business classes everywhere. They see plainly that they have suffered and are suffering from the defects in our discredited note system, and care little for other political issues until its stability is re-established, not by some temporary make-shift, but permanently. There are obviously many States east of the Mississippi where the prevailing idea is that the public will divide at future near-by elections on some other question. That certainly is not true of the heretofore doubtful States, where the vote in November was largely controlled by the feeling that the safer method as matters stood was to support the party which has been historically the more reliable in financial emergencies and not the one more widely tainted with silver vagaries and Populistic alliances. Of course this was by no means the only influence. Probably ex-Senator Warner Miller's resolution in the political convention of his party, added to his subsequent independent course and speech in New York City, had much to do with the one-sided character of the vote in this State. There was a directness and a boldness throughout in his method and words, besides a great twin-moral idea underlying them which, with the result that followed, well illustrate and show the force of Mr. Carlisle's remarks.

We repeat then that the urgency of currency reform is sure to lead a large body among the commercial classes to act regardless of party if they can secure something solid to stand upon. Industrial prosperity is at stake. There is no way in which the beginnings of business activity already secured can be developed into the broader form of general buoyancy the country is anticipating except by removing the cause which is infecting with uncertainty the future of values. It is the simplest of propositions that so long as the least doubt is felt as to the ability of the Treasury to redeem all its promises in gold, there can be no free enterprise. While that doubt exists every venture must be in thralldom to the most disturbing of fears. We have illustrations to-day in this city. There are for example a number of large undertakings, calling for a very large amount of money, held in abeyance here, simply awaiting a better market. All this is well known in financial circles. It is a familiar fact, too, that these cases are merely representative; what is true of them is true only in a more complete and absolute sense of the interior of the country. Enterprise in the South or West depends upon fresh money and easy borrowing; that again depends upon confidence, and the basis of all confidence is a stable currency. Even the price the producer gets for his crops is lessened by the same depressing cause. If, for example, we could have a term of general confidence all the indications are that cotton spindles in America would increase as rapidly as they could be made, the demand for cotton would be enlarged and consequently become more urgent. Our prosperity too is always infectious. Great Britain would feel it because we are her best customer; the Continent also would feel it because our purchases there would be enlarged; hence the natural result upon the industry in question would be that even the largest crop of cotton we are likely to raise would find ready consumption at a good price. But it seems almost foolish to repeat matters so evident about which we have so often written. We only refer to them now to recall how universal the loss is that is being caused by our unfortunate currency system, at a time too when industrial conditions are so favorable that we almost have within our reach a term of prosperity greater than ever before realized.

Congress is about to meet. We think in that connection these thoughts may be useful. The situation in the Senate with reference to parties is such that party measures are not likely to succeed. Besides that, we are in the midst of another phenomenal drain of gold. We are producers of gold and if it were not for its connection with our currency derangement the public would be no more concerned over the outflow than they would be over an export of cotton. Under existing circumstances the movement is decidedly dispiriting; it already has in a measure checked enterprise and if present conditions are allowed to continue we cannot doubt, indeed we know, what will follow—first another bond sale and then another bond sale; what next? Does not the emergency demand, and is not the industrial condition of the country favorable, for financial legislation of a useful sort? Is it not also reasonable to assume that the party which obstructs curative action will suffer harm?

THE GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY.

The monthly returns of the Great Northern issued during the course of the year had made it evident that the company would be able to present a very good exhibit of income in its annual report. The report has now been issued, and it bears out expectations in that regard. In fact, for a year of unfavorable conditions the showing must be considered as very satisfactory indeed.

We say a year of unfavorable conditions, for though during the twelve months ending June 30 1895 there was on the whole an improvement over the twelve months preceding, and the Manitoba road as a consequence was able to recover a considerable portion of the tonnage lost in 1893 4, yet the general state of trade and the agricultural situation also in some respects continued decidedly adverse. The reader will recall that business interests all over the United States remained greatly depressed the larger part of the twelve months, and the Northwestern and Pacific sections of the country of course shared in the common depression, though in the case of the Great Northern there was special development in certain directions which served in some degrees as an offset. As regards the agricultural situation, that was partly better and partly worse than in the year preceding. President Hill, speaking with relation to the year's influences, remarks that the wheat and grain crops of Minnesota and North Dakota showed an increase over the previous year of about five million bushels, or 150,000 tons. But this increase, though important, is not as significant as it might seem, for comparison is with a very poor year. On the other hand, in South Dakota and some of the other States the crops in 1894 (which counted in the results for 1894-5) were an almost complete failure.

At first sight it may seem as if the poor crops in South Dakota and Nebraska could not have been much of an influence in the affairs of the Great Northern, since comparatively little of the mileage of the system lies in or connects with those States. But as it happens the company has two lines in the afflicted sections whose earnings are reported separately, and from these we can judge of the effects of the crop failure on it. The two roads referred to are the Duluth Watertown & Pacific and the Willmar & Sioux Falls. The latter is 205 miles in length, and runs from Willmar to Yankton, on the boundary line between South Dakota and Nebraska. Its gross earnings for 1893-4 had been $589,716; for 1894-5 the amount was only $355,800, a decline of $234,000, or about 40 per cent. The Duluth Watertown & Pacific is a much smaller road, being only 70 miles in length, and lies wholly in South Dakota. It is simply a small branch line or feeder. Its gross earnings in 1893 4 had been no more than $36,540; but for the late year they were only $15,346, a contraction of about 60 per cent. The Great Northern gets a long haul on the traffic coming from this feeder, and hence while the earnings of the Duluth Watertown & Pacific itself were but $15,346, the earnings of the Great Northern main line from business contributed by that branch were seven times as much, or $105,495. Assuming that the same ratio existed in the year preceding, the loss of revenue to the Great Northern from the decline in the earnings of this branch must have been between $140,000 and $150,000. In the case of traffic coming from the Willmar & Sioux Falls, the haul is much shorter, and the earnings of the Great Northern upon business contributed by that road in the late year were only $148,812; but obviously here also there must have been a considerable loss of revenue to the Great Northern from the falling off in the business of this line.

The roads mentioned constitute two of the several proprietary lines of the Great Northern. The company has a two-fold interest in these proprietary lines (1) as owner of their stock or their stock and bonds combined, and (2) in the revenue derived from traffic contributed by them. It has thus suffered in a double way from the unfavorable results attending their operation. The one of the adverse effects we have shown in the preceding paragraph. The other may be illustrated by reference to the income account of the Willmar & Sioux Falls. This road in 1893 4 showed a balance of $172,867 over and above expenses and fixed charges for the year, and out of this balance a dividend was paid of $150,000, which went into the treasury of the Great Northern as the owner of the whole stock of the road. In the late year, under the diminution in earnings, the income fell $38,084 short of meeting the charges for the year; hence no dividends could be paid, and the Great Northern's income from investments was diminished to that extent.

As to the remainder of the various proprietary companies, there was at least one other where the profits were smaller than in the previous year: the Northern Steamship Company while having greatly increased its business, as a result of the low rates received shows a deficiency of $115,958 below expenses for the late year, against a balance of net earnings for 1893-4 of $61,087. The other proprietary companies, however, did better than in the year preceding. This applies to the Montana Central, the Eastern of Minnesota, the Minneapolis Union, the Sand Coulee Coal Company, and the Great Northern Express Company, the improvement being particularly marked in the case of the first two.

It is important to bear in mind these facts regarding the proprietary companies, because examination of the income account of the Great Northern will show that the company received for interest and dividends in 1894 5 only $845,548, against $1,217,804 in 1893 4. The falling off is not to be attributed entirely to less favorable results in 1894-5 than in 1893 4. In some cases the dividends paid in the previous year had been considerably in excess of the income of that year, the company in order to get a return from its investments in the proprietary lines (in a year when such a return was so sorely needed to offset the deficiency in the operation of the Manitoba road) having in several instances distributed a considerable portion of the accumulated surplus of other years. In the late year the dividends came strictly out of the income of the year—that is, no drafts were made on previous years. It is evident, too, that some of the other items of miscellaneous income were exceptional in 1893-4. Thus for interest and exchange the company had received in that year $248,099; for the late year the amount was but $21,912. Bills receivable counted for $109,807 in 1893 4, for only $53,655 in 1894 5; rentals declined from $236,134 to $228,640, and the income from various miscellaneous items from $179,671 to $158,081. Altogether the company's income from investments and outside sources in the late year was but $1,307,836, against $1,991,516 in the previous year, a loss of almost seven hundred thousand dollars.

We give prominence to this falling off in the other income of the company because the fact that the company was able to forego the $700,000 shows how satisfactory have been the results of operations for the year. In 1893-4, even with the income that much larger, the company did not quite earn the 5 per cent dividend paid, there being a deficiency of $104,154. But for 1894-5 the dividends are shown to have been earned in full, with a surplus balance of $189,508 to carry forward. The difference of course is accounted for by the great improvement in the revenues of the Manitoba lines. In 1893 4 the revenues of these lines fell $908,170 short of meeting the rental guaranteed by the Great Northern. For 1894-5 the revenues are $131,672 in excess of the rental.

Of course the Manitoba lines constitute the main part of the system, and it is desirable, therefore, to see how the great improvement in results was established after the heavy loss in 1893-94. We find that the company carried 2,946,920 tons of revenue freight in 1895 against 2,593,749 tons in 1894, an increase of 353,171 tons, or 13⅝ per cent. President Hill states that a good share of the increase came from the newer portions of the system's lines in Montana and on the Pacific Coast, and that the largest relative increase in tonnage was on the Montana Division. On this tonnage the road gets a long haul, and the effect is seen in the much larger expansion proportionately in the tonnage movement one mile than in the tonnage itself. For the late year the aggregate of the tons one mile was 1,022,173,154, as against 799,306,864 tons in 1894, giving an increase of 222,866,290 tons, or 27⅞ per cent. In amount of freight handled the increase, as shown, was only 13⅝ per cent. The road did not move as much freight as two years before, in 1892 3, but its tonnage movement was 20 per cent in excess of that for that year and decidedly the largest in the company's history. The passenger traffic shows an increase of 3·70 per cent in the number of passengers carried and a decrease of 5·17 per cent in the number carried one mile; in both cases the amounts are decidedly smaller than two years ago, which reflects the business depression prevailing. We notice that the passenger train mileage again further increased, and was 2,176,297 in 1895, against 2,048,427 in 1894 and 1,971,476 in 1893. Every one knows that it is not possible to curtail train service with a falling off in travel, and these comparisons indicate the desire of the Great Northern management to furnish increased accommodations to the public—a policy which must secure popular favor for the line, and in the end also promote its best interests.

The statistics, however, which are deserving of most attention are those relating to the train loads and the earnings per train mile, for these show the ability and economy with which the road is operated, and also its favorable physical characteristics and condition. The earnings per freight train mile fell off slightly, being $2·45 for 1895 against $2·54 for 1894, but the report notes that the decrease resulted entirely from a further decline in the average rate received, and that there was another increase in the tonnage hauled per train. The average freight rate in the late year was but little over a cent per ton per mile—1·014 cents—which compares with 1·096 cents in 1893-4 and 1·232 cents in 1892 3. In two years the decline has been almost 20 per cent, in part of course as the result of the increase in the proportion of grain, ore, lumber, coal and other freight taking very low rates.

As regards the freight train load we pointed out a year ago that the record of the Great Northern in this respect was a very favorable one. The figures are given in the report this time. They relate to the Manitoba lines and show that on these lines the train load was 257 tons in 1894-95, against 237 tons in 1893 94. On the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern's most direct competitor, the train load in the same two years was respectively only 164 and 145 tons. Thus we observe one of the particulars in which there is a great difference between the two roads. But the results for the Manitoba also compare favorably with the large Eastern systems; for instance the New York Central's average load for the late year was 252 tons, and the Lake Shore's average for the calendar year 1894 was 267 tons, as against the Manitoba's 237 tons.

Combining the freight and the passenger movements, the earnings per train mile for the Manitoba in 1895 were $2·02 against $2·035 in 1894. But owing to the further increase in the train load the road was able to reduce the average expense per train mile from $1·165 to $1·10, and the result is a profit of 92 cents per train mile in 1895 against 87 cents for 1894. The Northern Pacific gets somewhat higher average rates on both passenger and freight than the Manitoba—its freight rate in the late year having been 1·11 cents as against the Manitoba's 1·014 cents, and its average per passenger per mile 2·77 cents against 2·55 cents on the Manitoba—but as its train loads are so much smaller it can show only $1·68 earnings per train mile, while the Manitoba earns, as we have seen, $2·02 per train mile. It happens that the expenses per train mile were exactly the same for the two roads, namely $1·10. Hence the difference in the gross earnings per train mile is also the difference in the net earnings, and thus while the profit of the Manitoba per train mile is 92 cents that of the Northern Pacific is only 58 cents.

In making these comparisons, we do not wish to be understood as expressing any opinion on the question whether it would be possible to obtain the same degree of efficiency in operation in the case of the Northern Pacific as in the case of the Manitoba. The answer to that question of course depends upon a variety of considerations, in which differences in location, profile, grade, alignment, general physical condition, &c., would form a prominent part, and it would require study and investigation by experts to reach an intelligent conclusion. It is sufficient for our purpose to know that at present results are decidedly in favor of the Great Northern. The bearing of this on the relative cheapness with which the Great Northern lines are operated is perfectly obvious. The ratio of expenses and taxes to gross earnings on the Manitoba in the late year was 58·01 per cent; on the Northern Pacific it was 67·80 per cent. The Great Northern has in the past been criticised because its percentage was so small. Aside from the fact that it is always costly to operate a property by receivers, as in the Northern Pacific case, the circumstance that train loads on the Manitoba are 45 per cent heavier than on the Northern Pacific suggests one way in which the Manitoba has been able to keep its operating cost low. No one needs to be told that there is economy in large train loads, for the energies of railroad managers have in recent years been chiefly directed toward that end. But it is not generally understood that aside from the direct saving in labor and other items there is also an indirect saving in the reduction of the cost of repairs to track, &c. With train loads of 164 tons on the Northern Pacific and 237 tons on the Great Northern, three locomotives running over the former will haul but little more freight than two over the latter. If it be assumed that the damage to road-bed, track, &c., occasioned by a moving train, is caused mainly by the engine, it is obvious that the cost to repair wear and tear in hauling a given load will be smaller where the work is done by two locomotives than where it is done by three.

It is proper to say that though both the gross and net earnings of the Manitoba in the late year were materially increased—the gain in gross was $1,764,583 and in net $1,059,627—the total in neither case was as large as two years ago. For the current year of course the outlook is exceedingly encouraging. The crops in the country tributary to the company's lines are the largest ever raised, and Mr. Hill says that the year should show the best net earnings in the company's history. The returns for the portion of the year already elapsed give promise that this favorable forecast will be realized, as for the four months to October 31 gross earnings show an increase of $803,780 for the Manitoba lines and of $921,614 for the whole Great Northern system, including the Eastern of Minnesota and the Montana Central. The finances of the company are in excellent condition. There are no bills or loans payable outstanding; the ordinary current liabilities on June 30 1895 amounted to $4,194,572, and the current assets (cash and accounts and bills receivable) to $3,769,123. There were also at the same date $835,384 of deferred liabilities, while the value of the stock of fuel and materials on hand was $605,692.

TURKEY AND THE SULTAN'S LETTER.

The situation in Turkey and as between Turkey and the great signatory Powers still commands wide interest. There has been change; but it can hardly be said that the change has brought about as yet any material improvement. The massacres are said to continue; Mohammedan fanaticism shows no positive signs of abatement; and according to late accounts the Pera district of Constantinople, where the foreign ambassadors and consular agents for the most part have their homes, and where there is a large European population, Germans preponderating, is in a state of excitement, dreading attack.

Special interest was given to the general situation last week by the pointed and emphatic utterances of the Marquis of Salisbury. Interest this week centres in the letter of the Sultan to the British Prime Minister, and the reading of the same at the conference of the Colonial agents in London. This latter affair is characterized by more than one feature of novelty. It is the first time, we believe, that any of the great crowned heads has paid such heed to the utterances of the Prime Minister of any country as to write him a personal letter piteously regretting what had been said, and begging him to take the first opportunity to present the petitioner in a more favorable light. It is also, we believe, the first time that a British Prime Minister has so far departed from the customary and long-established forms of diplomacy as to make known and comment upon the contents of such a document at a meeting of gentlemen who had nothing whatever to do with the general government. A sufficient justification of the proceeding, however, is found in the fact that the document referred to was a personal communication from the Sultan to the Marquis.

Lord Salisbury, it will be remembered, in his Mansion House speech had expressed doubts as to the honesty of the Sultan in carrying out promised reforms, or, as the Sultan himself puts it—"doubts as to my good intentions." Lord Salisbury had said more—he had said that the government which persisted in doing wrong was bound to bring about its own destruction, and that if the Turkish Government did not immediately bring about radical changes the great Powers united would take the work out of its hands. It was this menace, perhaps, more than the distrust expressed that prompted the letter. No one knows better than Sultan Abdul Hamid that the interference of the great Powers, especially in the form of occupation, would mean death to the Ottoman Empire. Whatever is to be done, occupation at least must be hindered. That the Sultan was in dead earnest when he wrote—that he really means what he says—we cannot doubt. "I repeat," he says, "that I will execute the reforms. I will take the paper containing them, place it before me and see that every article is put in force. This is my earnest determination, and I give my word of honor. I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I beg and desire his Lordship, having confidence in these declarations, to make another speech by virtue of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. I shall await the result of this message with the greatest anxiety." This is the language of a man profoundly in earnest; and we do not wonder that Lord Salisbury so felt it, and made haste to comply with the request.

The Sultan has reason to thank the British Premier. If Mr. Gladstone had been in power, there is but little likelihood that such a letter would ever have been written; but if written, we all know that the response would have been different. Mr. Gladstone long since ceased to have any faith in the Turk. Responsible in a large measure for the treaty of Berlin in 1878, which, among other things guaranteed the integrity of the Turkish Empire, and fully alive to the dangerous complications which would follow upon its disruption, Lord Salisbury is naturally willing to be reasonable with the Sultan in this the hour of his greatest difficulty, and to extend to him such opportunity as his own power and the circumstances of the case permit. That a certain temporary advantage has resulted from the Sultan's letter, taken in connection with Lord Salisbury's kindly remarks, we cannot doubt. There is a pause in the proceedings. His Lordship in what he said regarding the letter showed his usual wisdom. He made no promises either for himself or for the government of which he is the head. His language revealed sympathy for the Sultan; but it was in strict harmony with his speech at the Mansion House. It was not for him—it was not for the British Government—to assume undivided responsibility in the premises. Whether action should be taken at once or whether there should be a little temporary delay, thus giving the Sultan an opportunity to reveal not only his intention but his ability, it was for the signatory Powers to say; and if action became necessary, "whatever was done must be done with unanimity." "We and all the Powers are in a position common to those who are obliged to act together—namely, that if others do not agree with them, they cannot have their own way—but I in no wise desire to intimate by these words that the slightest shade of disagreement has arisen among the Powers.' If he had spoken other than he did—if he had indicated a disposition to act alone or in any way to saddle his own government with responsibility, the effect might have been very different. He might have alienated the other governments; for governments are like men—subject to jealousy.

The question which is now uppermost relates to the ability of the Sultan to carry out his programme of reform. He has promised to put the paper before him, and to see that every article is put in force. Granting that he is willing, has he the power? If he has the power, why has he been so slow to exercise it? Reforms were promised by and they are specified in the Treaty of Berlin. They have never been put in execution. Why? Either from the want of will or from the want of power. If from the want of will, the Sultan is placed in an awkward and most unenviable light; and we are not allowed to wonder at those who see in his piteous letter nothing but an effort of despair, wrung from him by stern and inexorable necessity. Taking, however, a generous view of the Sultan's conduct, and admitting that for the present at least he is really and honestly in earnest in his purpose to carry out reform, the question is still pertinent—has he the power? Lord Salisbury throws some doubts on this head, not directly, but in a way not to be easily mistaken. In his remarks on the death of Rustem Pasha, he advances the opinion that if there were men such as he around the Sultan the active interference of the Powers would not be necessary, and the present problem would be solved by the natural operation of the counsels of an enlightened minority working through efficient and competent instruments. Such men are wanting. It was not so twenty-five years ago, he reminds us, when there were many men quite competent to fill the place left vacant by the death of the Turkish Ambassador to the Court of St. James; and he does not forget to add that the "terrible Armenian problem is quite as much the want of competent men as it is the want of adequate laws."

It remains to be seen, therefore, what success will attend the Sultan's efforts to carry out reform. A few days at most will suffice to reveal the prospect; and if the massacres continue only a few days can be granted. The entire civilized world is looking on with horror at the atrocities which are being committed in every department of the Turkish Empire where Christian and Turk are brought into contact. An attack by the Mohammedans on Pera would almost to a certainty disconcert all peaceful plans and projects. There are numerous other spots about which much the same may be said. One thing is abundantly plain; and that is, if the Sultan cannot restore and re-establish order throughout his dominions, he cannot introduce reforms. Until the law is respected reform is simply an impossibility. If he cannot establish order and make the law respected, what is to follow? If it is decided not to take any steps in the way of dismemberment, but on the contrary to abide by the terms of the treaty of Berlin and preserve the integrity of the Ottoman Empire, reform being still an imperious necessity, it will be necessary for the signatory Powers to come to the Sultan's assistance. Joint occupation under certain specified conditions would restore order and give the Sultan the needed strength to execute his reforms. At present it does seem as if this was to be the way out of the difficulty.

THE BALTIMORE & OHIO REPORT.

Like the other large trunk lines, the Baltimore & Ohio had trying conditions to contend against in the fiscal year ending June 30 1895, for which the annual report has been issued the present week. In the previous fiscal year under the great depression in business and the other adverse influences, agencies and circumstances for which the year will always be distinguished, the gross revenues of the road had been reduced from $26,214,807 to $22,502,662, a decrease of $3,712,145, or about 14 per cent. It was hoped that in the late year a considerable portion of this loss might be recovered. Actually the gross earnings increased only $314,520. The explanation however is not far to seek.

Business recovery during the twelve months covered by the report made only slow progress, the spurts of activity being fitful, spasmodic and irregular until towards the end of the year. With the removal of the disturbing agencies in the bituminous coal fields, which had checked production so largely in the previous year, coal-mining was prosecuted with extraordinary vigor for a time, in the endeavor to replenish depleted stocks of coal, and as a result the coal tonnage of the Baltimore & Ohio, which is such an important item of traffic with the road, was considerably enlarged for a while; and the presence of that factor and the slight revival in trade which occurred, is seen in a gain in the freight revenues of the road of $1,674,586.

On the other hand, passenger revenues fell off in the large sum of $1,381,961, reducing them from $6,431,058 to $5,049,097. Here again the explanation is very simple. The previous year had included the period of the World's Fair, so that the loss merely marked a return to normal conditions. Besides this, the quite extensive failure of the grain crops in 1894 was an unfavorable element. It not only diminished the grain tonnage over the trunk lines but it was perhaps still more distinctly an adverse influence in curtailing the purchasing power of large sections of the community. The Western part of the Baltimore & Ohio system was of course most affected, since those lines are more exclusively dependent upon crop conditions. As showing the effect of this crop shortage we may note that while the system as a whole records $314,520 improvement in gross earnings over the year preceding, on the lines west of the Ohio there has been no improvement at all, but actually a decrease. The statement is true as to both gross and net, for while the former dropped from $5,481,449 to $5,228,793, the latter declined from $1,240,818 to $971,121. It follows that the improvement referred to occurred entirely on the lines east of the Ohio; on these lines gross earnings rose from $17,021,313 to $17,588,389, and net earnings from $5,701,156 to $6,045,017.

The better results on the Eastern lines are to be ascribed not alone to the fact that the poor crops were less an influence on those lines, but also to the fact that it was these lines mainly that got the benefit of the increase in the tonnage in coal. Still another unfavorable factor remains to be mentioned, namely the very unsatisfactory rate situation which prevailed and which of course extended to both the Eastern and the Western lines. President Charles F. Mayer makes particular reference to this, saying that the demoralization in freight rates which began so seriously in 1894 was intensified in the late fiscal year, during part of the latter half of which rates were lower than ever before, affecting all classes of traffic. In steam coals, so important a branch of the company's freight traffic, he observes, the prices for the greater part of the late fiscal year were the poorest on record. This condition he well says was not due to any demand upon the part of consumers but solely to the reckless competition inaugurated by some of the producing regions and the lines to which they were tributary. But for the judicious economies observed and the better handling of traffic rendered possible by the increased facilities and improvements in every department of the system, the rate situation, he remarks, would have produced even less satisfactory net results.

We have already pointed out that on the system as a whole the increase in gross earnings over the year preceding was $314,520. This was accompanied by an augmentation of $240,355 in expenses, leaving a gain of only $74,165 in net. But there was a falling off of $355,262 in the income from other sources, and at the same time an increase of $237,062 in the property's fixed charges—chiefly for interest on the terminal bonds. The result is that the balance remaining above expenses and taxes was $487,567 less in the late year than in the year preceding. Yet the income account shows a surplus on the operations of the year in the sum of $639,517, equal to 2½ per cent on the $25,000,000 of common stock outstanding. As is known, however, the company has suspended the payment of dividends, and nothing has been distributed to the stockholders out of the year's income. In the previous year the surplus had been $1,136,902, equal to about 4½ per cent, and that was the percentage paid in dividends out of that year's income. It should be understood that the $639,516 surplus has been arrived at in the usual way, that is after allowing for very extensive contributions in reduction of the bonded indebtedness through car payments, &c. In the late year these contributions amounted to $770,164, which alone is equal to over 3 per cent on the common stock.

The company, as is known, has made very large outlays for terminals, belt lines and other like purposes in recent years, in order properly to handle and develop its traffic, and the fact that the revenues had fallen off at a time when charges on these outlays began to accrue made it advisable to pursue a prudent policy in the matter of the distribution of dividends. The traffic of the system appears to be steadily developing. For 1895 the freight tonnage was 16,080,423 tons, or but little less than the 16,356,405 tons moved in 1893, the largest in the road's history. But freight earnings, notwithstanding the recovery in tonnage, were only $15,591,062 in 1895, against $17,561,997 in 1893—that is they were nearly two million dollars less. This makes it evident that the decline in rates has played a very prominent part in keeping down revenues. The outcome of the rate troubles has been the final adoption this week by the trunk lines of the new agreement for the maintenance of rates, and it is hoped that this will work a great change in the situation. The grain harvests the present year have been excellent, and President Mayer says that the continued steady increase in the already large volume of business, with the restoration of rates, promises an early return of railroad traffic to remunerative conditions.

The company spent somewhat larger amounts for Maintenance of Equipment and for Maintenance of Way and Structures in the late year after the reductions in the year preceding. Under the former head the expenditure was $2,092,716 in 1895 and $2,052,106 in 1894, and under the latter head $2,846,233 against $2,672,050. We notice that the expenditures include 13,469 tons of steel rails and over a million cross-ties—1,034,717. Mr. Mayer says it was deemed wise to continue to make improvements and to charge a large portion of the cost to operating expenses. The expenditures, he observes, have been confined mainly to material improvements in road-bed, bridges and culverts, and such improvements in Maintenance of Equipment as would prove most effective, while upon improvements or enlargements of stations, platforms, buildings and the like the expenditures were restricted to what was necessary for proper maintenance only. "The very careful and thorough manner in which all the company's work—both current and improvements—has been done in the past few years enabled the management to maintain the property in all departments, and to largely improve it in some, at a minimum expenditure. The roadbed over the entire system has never in the history of the company been in the superior condition which it is at present."

The expenditures for new construction during the year were only $641,306. The amount of loans and bills payable was reduced $100,214, and on June 30 1895 was $4,019,440. Including these loans, the aggregate of all current liabilities, together with interest, taxes, rentals, etc., accrued but not due, was $13,417,188. Cash and cash assets at the same date were $8,776,229. In addition there were $4,543,157 of advances on lines leased and operated and $17,398,697 of bonds and stocks in other companies held. Fuel and material account stood at $978,420.

COTTON-MANUFACTURING AT FALL RIVER IN 1895.

The year 1895 has been a fairly satisfactory one to the cotton-manufacturing corporations of the United States as a whole and to those located at Fall River in particular. The season did not open auspiciously because of a slack demand for goods; production was consequently below normal, and yet the prices obtained left little or no margin for profit. In fact, the treasurer of one of the leading corporations in Fall River informs us that the first six months of the season (covering the closing quarter of the year 1894 and January, February and March 1895) was a period of very little profit to the spinners of fine cotton yarns, and that most of their money was made in the last six months of the year. Early in the spring the inquiry for cotton textiles showed a marked improvement, which filled the mills with orders and set all the idle spindles and looms in motion. It thus happens that the season has proved to be much more favorable to the cotton-mill interests than even the most sanguine had reason to anticipate at its opening.

This gratifying condition of affairs is ascribable to several causes. The first, and probably the most important, was the contract perfected in February between the Government and a syndicate of bankers whereby the Treasury's depleted gold reserve was replenished and confidence in the financial stability of the country restored. A revival of business activity began almost immediately thereafter, being at first slight, but improving month by month as the season advanced, until almost all branches of industry shared in it, though few to a greater extent than cotton-manufacturing. The improvement in the demand for goods was naturally followed by a gradual increase in prices, thus widening the margin for profit. But the cotton mills were also favorably situated in another particular. We have in mind the extremely low prices at which the supply of the raw material had been obtained. In fact the cheapness of cotton induced mill-owners to buy more largely than for a number of years past, so that at the close of August they carried a heavier stock than at the close of any recent season.

We are unable to make as thorough an analysis of the workings of the Fall River corporations as we would desire, owing to the aversion of managing officials to furnish us complete returns. The manufacturing corporations of Massachusetts are required by law to make annual returns to the State authorities, and in many cases it is only from those reports that we are able to learn anything as to the earnings, &c., of most of the mills. The statement given below is therefore compiled largely from returns made public at the time of reporting to the State officials.

* Estimated at one-half the earnings of 1892. † Net loss.

It will be observed that we omit altogether from the above comparison the figures for 1894. In explanation we would state that the exhibit that year was so decidedly unsatisfactory—operations in a number of cases netting an actual loss—that we were able to obtain but very few returns from any source. The conditions in 1895 are wholly changed. All the mills that have as yet held their annual meetings make quite favorable financial statements—statements that show that all regular dividends have been paid out of current earnings; that allowance has been made for depreciation; that improvements have in many instances been provided for, and that additions have been made to surplus account. Of course the mills generally have not earned as much money as they did in either 1892 or 1893, but the fact must not be lost sight of that in the earlier months of 1895—January and February—the mills were not run to their full capacity, and furthermore that although since the beginning of March all machinery has been busily employed it was not until somewhat later that the upward movement of prices began. Nevertheless the sixteen mills for which comparative figures are given for all the years have earned net over 13 per cent in 1895, against a little less than 16 per cent in 1893 and about 14 per cent in 1892. A number of the corporations most favorably situated have done better this year than in either 1893 or 1892. Contrasted with 1891 every mill in the list makes a better showing. Our readers of course understand that these are net earnings and not the gross earnings of the mills, allowance in each case having been made for depreciation of plant, &c.

Turning our attention first to the dividend results for the last quarter of the year, we find that thirty-five corporations, representing a capital of $20,828,000, have distributed $130,750 during the period in 1895, or an average return of 2·07 per cent. In the corresponding quarter of 1894 the amount paid out was only $245,400, or an average of 1·20 per cent, and in 1893 shareholders received in the aggregate $400,420, or 1·92 per cent on their holdings. The details for the fourth quarter are as follows:

The fact that some five mills have merely maintained the rate of distribution of 1894 is no occasion for surprise. It is well known that it is the policy of some of the corporations to pursue a very conservative course, making but little change from year to year in the regular dividend no matter how great the profits, but occasionally reducing accumulated surplus by declaring a large extra dividend. Aside from the five corporations referred to, there are twenty-seven which have increased the amount paid out in the quarter this year, some of them materially. The Barnaby Mfg. Co. and the Metacomet Mfg. Co. have passed their dividends after having pursued a similar course in 1894, and the Osborn mills have reduced their rate.

Combining the above results with those for the nine months (published in the CHRONICLE of August 17, page 265), we have the following exhibit for the full year. It will be seen that thirty six establishments, with an aggregate capital of $21,828,000, have returned to shareholders $1,772,925 in 1895, or an average of 8·12 per cent, against $1,128,000, or 5·25 per cent, in 1894. The exhibit in detail for 1895, compared with 1894, is as follows:

This statement for the full year bears out what we have said above as to the satisfactory character of the 1895 results—twenty-nine mills have paid out a greater amount this year than last and five have made no change in their rate of distribution. The Metacomet Manufacturing Company, which passed all its dividends in 1894, has followed a like course this year, and the Barnaby Manufacturing Company, while paying 1½ per cent last year has abstained from declaring any dividends in 1895. The Border City Manufacturing Company, in addition to its regular dividends, has returned to stockholders $100,000, or 10 per cent on their investment, and the Sagamore Manufacturing Company has made an extra distribution of $162,000, or 18 per cent on its capital. To furnish a more comprehensive comparison we have compiled the following, which embraces the years back to 1886:

Not since 1889 have the shareholders in Fall River cotton-manufacturing establishments received in the aggregate so great a return on their investment, and contrasted with 1894 and 1891 the showing is particularly satisfactory.

As showing the relation this year's dividends in the case of individual mills bear to those for a series of years, we have prepared the following, which embraces nineteen of the leading corporations. The intention is to compare this year's ratio with the average rate per cent for the previous nine years:

The foregoing indicates that seven mills out of the nineteen represented in the table have made a better return this year on the capital invested than was the case on the average in the preceding nine years. If, however, we should make the comparison cover only the years since 1890 it would be found that in eleven instances this year's rate of distribution has been greater than was the average for the five years 1890–1894.

While at the present time the demand for cotton goods is somewhat less active than it had been, the mills are apparently well supplied with orders, some mill men reporting that business is in good condition and that they have all that they can possibly do, and at satisfactory prices. Altogether, the outlook for the coming year is believed to be quite promising.

RAILROAD NET EARNINGS IN SEPTEMBER.

As was the case in August, our statement of net earnings for September records only moderate improvement over the same month last year. The cotton movement was decidedly smaller than in 1894, and in the winter wheat districts some of the roads suffered from a falling off in the traffic in wheat. Rates in the West were badly demoralized and a war broke out, the difficulties, however, being adjusted before the close of the month. The strike of the ore miners in Michigan continued until the 20th of September, and in addition there were strikes of coal miners at special points in various parts of the country. The favorable offsets were the continued revival in trade, which operated most largely to the benefit of the roads in the East, and the heavy movement of spring wheat in the Northwest. The lines running out of Louisville had an advantage in the holding of the Grand Army encampment at that point.

The result of these various influences is a gain of $3,078,272, or 5·38 per cent, in the gross earnings, and of $972,556, or 4·90 per cent, in the net earnings, as may be seen by the following.

The gains here shown for September are not only moderate in themselves, but they follow very heavy losses in the same month of the two previous years. However, except in the case of the spring-wheat sections of the Northwest the roads had not yet begun to feel the benefits of the present year's large grain harvests to any appreciable extent.

In the case of the individual roads we have some fair-sized gains and only a few large losses. In the gross the losses above $30,000 are confined to the Southern Pacific with $163,494 decrease, the Union Pacific with $110,313 decrease, the San Antonio & Aransas Pass with $41,953 decrease and the Oregon Improvement with $38,147 decrease; and in the net to the Southern Pacific with $230,202 decrease, the Atchison with $201,394 decrease, the Louisville & Nashville with $118,241 decrease, the Reading with $103,489 decrease, the San Antonio & Aransas Pass with $54,338 decrease and the Western New York & Pennsylvania with $49,916 decrease. The falling off in several of these latter cases has been occasioned by heavy expenses. As regards the gains, they come from widely separated sections, both in gross and net. Among those in the gross we may enumerate the Reading with the Coal & Iron Company, which has $698,638 increase, the Pennsylvania $547,479 increase, the St. Paul $272,916 increase, the Burlington & Quincy $262,260 increase, the Central of New Jersey $154,211 increase, the Illinois Central $143,832 increase, the Burlington Cedar Rapids & Northern $127,329, the Mexican Central $112,222, the Northern Pacific $109,022, the Southern Railway $100,843, the Wabash $100,050, &c. In the net the St. Paul has $339,757 increase, the Northern Pacific $198,696, the Burlington & Quincy $164,131, the Pennsylvania $157,311, the Illinois Central $145,756, the Central of New Jersey $116,688, &c. The following is a full list of the changes above $30,000—both losses and gains:

When arranged in groups, every group has an increase in gross with the exception of the Southwestern and the Pacific, and every group an increase in net with the exception of the Southwestern, the Southern and the Eastern and Middle, the falling off on the latter two, however, being very trifling, leaving the Southwestern as the only one with any considerable loss in net, and for this the reduced cotton movement is of course mainly responsible. The largest percentage of improvement in net—namely 22·67 per cent—is made by the Northwestern group, where the heavy spring-wheat movement has played a prominent part in the result; only one road in that group has fallen behind in the net, namely the Chicago Burlington & Northern. In the Middle Western group the increase in net is 15·08 per cent, but this is due almost entirely to the favorable return of the Illinois Central.

Monetary and Commercial English News

LONDON, SATURDAY, Nov. 9, 1895.

The monthly settlement on the Paris Bourse which had been looked forward to with so much apprehension has been concluded with less difficulty than was anticipated. It is quite true that a very large number of weak speculators were unable to pay their differences, but for all that only four firms were found to be seriously embarrassed. Two of these have been declared defaulters, but they were in a small way of business. It was reported here for a while that a third firm which did a very large business with the East, and the chief of which is himself an Eastern man, had also failed, but at the last moment it received help. The fourth occupied a very important position in the outside market. It is understood that the firm was able to pay 80 per cent and that friends came forward to pay the remainder and put fresh capital into the firm. It is believed now that the liquidation is nearly at an end in Paris, but weakness will continue for some time because of the heavy losses and because of the state of Constantinople. At first the resignation of the Governor of the Credit Foncier made a very bad impression, but his successor inspires confidence. The resignation was caused by a vote of the Chambers against members of either House holding official positions in public companies.

The news from Constantinople is very serious. Never in the memory of living men has Turkey been in such utter anarchy. The Sultan has within a few weeks twice changed his ministers, and he seems incapable of making up his mind to any decisive action. Massacres of Armenians are reported day by day. In other quarters there appears to be fierce fighting between Mahommedans and Christians, and in short it looks as if the Empire were going to pieces. Still, the belief all over Europe is that a peaceful solution will be found. Happily all the powers are now acting together. Every Government is anxious to preserve peace, and all have been roused by the gravity of the situation to put forward their best efforts to prevent an outburst. But while everybody is hopeful that there will be no war, nobody can well see what the final arrangement will be. The best hope is founded upon the apparent cordiality with which England and Russia are now acting.

Here at home the various difficulties have been aggravated by the unfortunate strike upon the Clyde. The master shipbuilders in Scotland and Ireland are under contract to support one another against their work people. As the ship builders in Belfast were unable or unwilling to arrange with their men, the shipbuilders in Glasgow locked out 25 per cent of their engineers and the men responded by a general strike. The best opinion seems to be that the employers will have to give way—firstly, because the Scotch ship-builders admit that they have themselves no cause of quarrel with their employees; secondly, because the orders on hand are very numerous; and thirdly, because some of the ship-builders are under contract with the Government, and it is expected that the Government will insist upon fulfilment of the contracts.

Money has been in decidedly better demand this week, owing partly to withdrawals of gold for Paris and for Turkey and partly to the withdrawals for Scotland. At this time of the year there is always an expansion of the note circulation in Scotland, and under our laws the banks have to take gold from London in consequence. Trade is very active, and were it not for the strike or lock-out upon the Clyde it is believed that the expansion of the circulation would be exceptionally great just now.

The silver market continues very strong. There is a fair demand for India, but as yet Japan has not bought, though it is believed that she will soon enter the market. The India Council has again sold its drafts very well, receiving nearly 1s. 1⅞d. per rupee.

The stock markets have been very dull and inactive all through the week. The main influence has been the rioting and anarchy in Turkey. As already said, nobody expects war: but yet the public is very nervous and few venture therefore to incur fresh risks. The smoothness with which the Paris settlement has been concluded has brought about a better feeling, and there would probably be a slow revival now were it not for the news from Turkey. Here in London the best opinion is, both of bankers and brokers, that the forced selling is at an end, while on the other hand there is influential buying, especially in the mining market. But while there is reason to believe that the market will be supported there seems little ground for hope that there will be any material improvement until order is restored in Turkey.

On Monday the fortnightly settlement on the Stock Exchange begins here, and as the fall during the fortnight in all international securities, and especially in Turkish, has been considerable, there is some fear that the differences may not be paid. But in spite of that there is a confident feeling that the crisis is over. Along with the political disorders in Turkey there has been a serious financial crisis. The Armenian shops everywhere have been closed, and the Armenians themselves in large numbers have had to take shelter in the churches. Consequently the Armenians are unable to meet their obligations. It is reported, too, that it has been found impossible to warehouse goods imported and that the lighters therefore are full of stocks which cannot be delivered. One consequence was a run upon the Imperial Ottoman Bank. To stop this the Government granted a moratorium of four months, which, however, the banks did not take advantage of, and the run has continued up to the present.

But nobody doubts that the Ottoman Bank will come successfully out of the trial. The Government has offered it a moratorium of a month, which it has declined; and the Government, further to mark its approval of the action of the bank, has extended its concessions for twelve years. The total note circulation of the Bank is under £9,000,000, and the deposits in Turkey are small. The Bank, on the other hand, has in actual gold about £1,200,000; and as behind it there are powerful groups of bankers in London and Paris, it can obtain any amount of assistance that it requires. The Ottoman Bank indeed is one of the best managed and soundest in Europe.

As a matter of course, dealings in all departments are suspended for the time being. Scarcely anything is doing in the American market, and British railway stocks are declining. This is the more singular because trade is rapidly improving; indeed bankers say that the volume of business at present is as large as in 1890—one of the very best trade years in our history.

—Messrs. H. Amy & Co. offer to investors a limited amount of 6 per cent 1st mortgage gold bonds of the San Juan Smelting & Mining Company, Omaha and Grant Smelting Company, lessees. The bonds mature in 1915, and it is calculated that under the operations of the lease these bonds will be retired long before maturity at 110 per cent. A majority of these bonds has already been placed in Europe.

—A limited amount of Columbus (Ohio) Gas Company's first mortgage five per cent gold bonds is offered for sale by Messrs. Redmond, Kerr & Co., New York and Philadelphia. In their advertisement elsewhere a statement is given showing net earnings, interest charges, &c., and other interesting details regarding the company's affairs.

—In connection with the default on Wallace County, Kan., bonds, Messrs. James A. Brown & Co. advertise that at the request of holders of these bonds they contemplate taking steps to protect their interests. They request communications from other holders.

—Mr. B. St. John Hoyt, whose office is at No. 66 Broadway, advertises Terre Haute (Ind.) and other choice street railway bonds. Mr. Hoyt makes a specialty of this class of investments.

—The Minneapolis & St. Louis coupons maturing December 1, 1895, will be paid at the Central Trust Company.

—See card of Gustavus Maas, who has made a specialty of miscellaneous securities for many years.

—The surplus of the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, the last statement to the State Commissioners shows, has been increased to $750,000.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 22, 1895.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—Foreign liquidation of securities and the gold export movement have been the leading features of interest and influence in Wall Street during the week. This liquidation, so far as American properties are concerned, began months ago, but has increased during recent weeks. The gold exports are in obedience to a natural law than which that of gravitation is not more certain.

The Trunk-line Traffic Agreement has this week been ratified and is to go into effect January 1st. It is hoped that the result of this measure may be a more uniform and equitable standard of traffic rates throughout the country.

We are informed by excellent authority that it is quite uncertain when the new Reading plan will be announced. It may be delayed several weeks.

The latest reports of railroad earnings are a most encouraging feature. An increase of traffic is noted in the corn belt. This must be due to the movement of small grain and general merchandise, as the receipts of corn are not as heavy as at this time last year. The Lake Shore report for the September quarter shows an increase of nearly 30 per cent in earnings, and the North West. returns for October are $889,257 in excess of last year.

The open market rates for call loans during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 1½ to 2 per cent. To-day rates on call were 1½ to 2 per cent. Prime commercial paper is quoted at 3½ to 4½ per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed an increase in bullion of £593,275, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 57·59 against 58·16 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 2 per cent. The Bank of France shows an increase of 6,835,000 francs in gold and 1,200,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 16 showed an increase in the reserve held of $717,200 and a surplus over the required reserve of $20,404,050, against $19,260,050 the previous week.

Foreign Exchange.—The market for foreign exchange has continued firm through the week. The supply of commercial bills has been insufficient to meet the demand, and the deficiency has been made up by drawings against gold exports. Shipments of gold for the week aggregate $7,330,000, including $4,000,000 which goes to-morrow.

To-day actual rates of exchange were as follows: Bankers, sixty days sterling, 4 87½@4 87¾; demand, 4 89@4 89¼; cables, 4 89½@4 89¾.

Posted rates of leading bankers are as follows:

Documentary commercial	4 86½@4 86¾	.....

Frankfort or Bremen (reichmarks) b'kers	95³/₁₆@95¼	95⅝@95¹¹/₁₆

The following were the rates of domestic exchange on New York at the under-mentioned cities to-day: Savannah, buying ⅛ discount, selling ⅛ premium; Charleston, buying par, selling ⅛ premium; New Orleans, bank, par; commercial $1 per $1,000 discount; Chicago, 30c. per $1,000 premium; St. Louis, 50@75c. per $1,000 premium.

United States Bonds.—Government bonds have been weak and quotations are lower. State and Railroad Bonds.—Sales of State bonds at the Board include $10,000 Virginia fund. debt 2-3s of 1991 at 62, $10,000 Virginia 6s defd. trust rects., stamped, at 6½ and $3,000 No. Carolina con. 4s at 106.

The volume of business in the railroad bond market has been restricted, with such activity as is noted chiefly confined to a few issues. In most cases quotations are lower than last week, the decline averaging about one point. These conditions apply to the Atchison issues, Chesapeake & Ohio, Mo. Kan. & Texas, Northern Pacific, Reading, Southern Ry. and Texas & Pacific bonds.

The exceptional features are Ore. Short Line 6s, which have advanced 3½ points on buying said to be by parties representing inside interests. The buying is accompanied by an unofficial statement that the interest on these bonds will hereafter be paid promptly. Ore. S. L. & U. N. con. rects. have advanced from 58⅛ on the 12th inst. to 63. The Union Pacific issues have been firm and steady under liberal sales.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has been heavy and depressed during the week under the influences already mentioned. The outside public are disposed to keep aloof from stock speculation, and investors are buying stocks only when they are offered at low figures. As a consequence business at the Stock Exchange has been largely in the hands of professional room traders.

The granger stocks have been sustained by the excellent traffic returns of the group, so far as they have appeared, and have suffered only fractional declines. The coal stocks have been exceptionally dull, in some cases scarcely enough having changed hands to establish quotations, and in all cases fluctuations have been narrow. Louisville & Nashville has been freely sold for foreign account and declined nearly 2 points. Reading was weak, under reports of a heavy assessment in the reorganization. Some of the leading Southwestern shares have declined between 1 and 2 points. Manhattan Elevated has been freely sold since the annual report was issued last week, and dropped to 98⅛ on Wednesday, the lowest point it has reached since 1891.

The industrial list has been generally steady, with some notable exceptions. American Tobacco has been most active, and under a decision by the Attorney-General of this State that the company is violating the law in its methods of business it declined to 84¼ on Wednesday, which was its lowest point of the year, and closes at 83⅝. Western Union is next in point of activity and sold down to 86¾, on a decision by the United States Supreme Court which held that the Union Pacific Railroad had no right to make a lease giving to the Western Union a monopoly of its lines. There have been rumors of a scheme to oppose by legal proceedings the reorganization of the Chicago Gas Company, and the stock has been weak in consequence. Pacific Mail has lost a part of the advance noted last week. Declines of one point have occurred in General Electric and Tenn. Coal & Iron. U. S. Leather preferred has lost 3½ points, closing at 66⅛.

Investment AND Railroad Intelligence.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of United States railroads (and also a few Mexican and Canadian roads) for the latest period reported. The statement includes every STEAM road from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are not included in this table, but are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

Net Earnings Monthly to Latest Dates.—The following shows the gross and net earnings to latest dates of all STEAM railroads furnishing monthly statements. The compilation includes every road from which we can get returns of this character and in that form is given once a month. Early returns are published from week to week, as soon as issued, but for the convenience of our readers all the roads making returns are brought together here in the week in which we publish our monthly article on net earnings—say on or about the 20th of the month. Besides the roads furnishing monthly returns, we have added this time the roads which make quarterly returns.

The returns of the street railways we give by themselves under a separate head at the extreme end of these tabulations —see page 921.

a Net earnings here given are after deducting taxes.
b Net earnings here given are before deducting taxes
c After deducting other expenditures for repairs, replacements and general expenses, net income applicable to interest on bonds in Sept was $106,640, against $70,372 last year, and for nine months to Sept. 30 $752,502, against $6 8,12c; after adding earnings received from Federal Government net from January 1 to Sept. 30, 1895, was $752,502, against $725,788. d Figures for 1895 do not include results on Albany Florida & Northern after August 14, while the figures for 1894 do e Results of coal mining operations only.
g Including other income, the net for October was $81,132, against $79,239, and from January 1 to October 31 $298,986, against $382,305 for 1894, and from July 1 to October 31, $172,941, against $173,845.
h Included in expenses for September, 1895, is $18,261, and for July 1 to Sept. 30, 1895, $46,228, which in former years would have been charged to betterments.
i In the September quarter the present year, but not last year, earnings of Concord & Montreal are included.
* After deducting proportion due roads operated on a percentage basis and including results of operations of auxiliary companies, net in July, 1895, was $405,394, against $377,673 in 1894; for seven months ended July 31 $2,048,774, against $1,943,345, and for ten months from October 1 to July 31 $3,698,721, against $3,749,140.
† Includes only one-half of lines in which Union Pacific has a part interest. Figures are given exclusive of results on Oregon Railway & Navigation, Union Pacific Denver & Gulf, Fort Worth & Denver City, Leavenworth Topeka & Southwestern and Montana Union ‖ Including income from ferries, &c.

The Erie Telegraph & Telephone Co. on its part paid out $48,000 of this in both years in a dividend of one per cent, leaving a surplus of $25,150 in 1895, against $13,587 in 1894, which added to the above surplus of the subsidiary companies makes the combined surplus in 1895 $36,976, against $21,671 in 1894.

Interest Charges and Surplus.—The following roads, in addition to their gross and net earnings given in the foregoing, also report charges for interest, &c., with the surplus or deficit above or below those charges.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The follo wing table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

† Earnings increased largely on account of G. A. R. encampment in Louisville.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—In the following we show both the gross and the net earnings to latest dates of all STREET railways from which we have been able to procure monthly returns. As in the case of the steam roads, the returns of the different roads are published by us each week as soon as received, and once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday of the month) we bring all the roads reporting together, as is done to-day.

Kansas City Memphis & Birmingham Railroad.

Secretary Charles Merriam says:

"Since the last printed report in 1892, the plan of reorganization of the old securities of this company, which was submitted to the bondholders on Nov. 28, 1893, has been successfully carried out and the new securities issued thereunder. Since the reorganization, the earnings of the road have been more than sufficient to provide for the interest upon the new mortgage bonds, and the prospects are encouraging for the future. The company is without floating debt and the physical condition of the road and its equipment, although good, is being constantly improved with a view of ultimately producing the best net results for its security holders."

Elgin Joliet & Eastern Railway.

(Report for year ending June 30, 1895.)

President Samuel Spencer in the fifth annual report says:

General Results.—The increase in gross earnings in 1895 over 1894 was $60,360, or 8 per cent, while the increase in net earnings was $29,473, or 9 per cent. This result has been secured by greater efficiency of service in all departments and not by any depreciation of property. On the contrary the property has been improved. The general depression in all branches of manufactures and other industries which had prevailed throughout the preceding year continued throughout the year, and there was a large loss of revenue from these sources.

The increase in both gross and net earnings of the company under such adverse conditions, especially when considered in connection with the large losses upon almost all railways throughout the country, must be regarded as gratifying and encouraging.

Extension to South Chicago.—The extension to South Chicago referred to in the last annual report was opened for business on October 27, 1894. Notwithstanding the short grain crop the success of the two new elevators has been so encouraging to their owners that two others of one million bushels capacity each are now under construction. There now seems to be no doubt that a large proportion of the lake tonnage from Chicago will in future be loaded at South Chicago.

American Tobacco Company.—Litigation.—Attorney-General Hancock has given permission to C. A. Whelan & Co., of Syracuse, as requested, upon filing a bond of indemnity, to have a suit begun in the name of the State to prevent this

New Jersey corporation from transacting a cigarette business in New York State and to cancel the certificate under which it acts. The Attorney-General's decision was given at length in the New York daily papers of Tuesday. The company assures the stockholders that in the opinion of their counsel the suit cannot be successful.—V. 61, p. 749.

Atchison System—Atlantic & Pacific RR.—Foreclosure.—A press dispatch from Albuquerque, N. M., November 21, says that the United States Trust Company has secured from Judge Caldwell an order referring to a Master in Chancery the testimony and facts in the foreclosure case. The testimony, it is said, will be largely taken in New York City.—V. 61, p. 870.

Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe.—Proposed Officers—The reorganization committee held another meeting this week and again adjourned until Monday, November 25, at which time, it is understood, Mr. E. P. Ripley, Third Vice-President of the Chicago Milwaukee & St Paul, will be elected to the presidency of the company, and Mr. D. B. Robinson, who as First Vice-President has been operating the road under the receivers, will be continued as Vice-President.—V. 61, p. 870.

Baltimore & Ohio RR.—Annual Meeting—New Directors.—The President's remarks from the report submitted at the annual meeting is given on other pages of to-day's CHRONICLE. In the election of directors four changes were made, representation being given to four influential banking houses through which a few years ago a large amount of the company's stock was placed abroad. The new directors are as follows: Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, President of the Mercantile Trust Company, of New York; Eugene Delano, of Brown Bros & Co., bankers, London and New York; William A. Read, of Vermilye & Co., New York; Howland Davis, of Blake, Boissevain & Co., London. The members of the directorate re-elected are William F. Burns, William H. Blackford, William F. Frick, Maurice Gregg, George C. Jenkins, Aubrey Pearre, Alexander Shaw and George A. von Lingen. There are also two State directors who are named by the Board of Public Works. These have been Messrs. J William Baughman and J. McKenney White.—V. 61, p. 829.

Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Ry.—Directors Elected.—On Thursday, Nov. 21, at the stockholders' meeting, the following directors were elected: Edward R. Bacon, William L. Bull, Edgar T. Welles, Edward R. Bell, John H. Davis, William Mertens, W. W. Peabody, Frederick H. Alms, Lowe Emerson, Augustus B. Ewing, Frank W. Tracy and James Sloan, Jr; Francis Pavy, succeeding Patrick Buchan, the London director, deceased; Alexander Shaw succeeding Gen. Orland Smith as a Baltimore & Ohio representative; Henry W. Poor of New York succeeding John P. Heseltine an English director. Mr. Edward R. Bacon was re-elected president. The annual report will be found on other pages of to-day's CHRONICLE.—V. 61, p. 793.

Bay State Gas.—Annual Meeting.—At the annual meeting Tuesday, Nov. 19, at Wilmington, Del., J. Edward Addicks, James G. Shaw, Newell Ball, J. Frank Alles and John H. Bateman were elected directors. Two other directors were elected, but resigned to provide vacancies for directors to be hereafter elected to represent other gas interests under negotiation.

New Acquisitions.—The stockholders of the company also authorized the board of directors to issue "such stocks as provided by its charter and enter into such obligations" as the board shall deem necessary to carry out the policy of "receiving ownership or securing control of" valuable gas properties.

Earnings.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin says:

The net earnings of the five companies constituting the Bay State Gas syndicate for the year ending June 30, 1895, aggregated $551,352, while there was distributed in dividends $501,900. The interest charges on the $1,000,000 Boston United Gas first 5s amount to $450,000, and the sinking fund requirements to $90,000. The companies, therefore, earned the full charges on the first series of bonds in what is probably the year of the sharpest competition that it will have to meet. The charges on the seconds amount to $150,000. There are $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 firsts in the treasury of the company, and the income from these affords half enough to meet that requirement, reducing the amount that the company had to borrow from about $50,000 to $75,000.—V. 61, p. 793.

Brooklyn Heights RR.—Long Island Traction.—Quarterly.—The Brooklyn Heights is the operating company of the L. I. Traction. Earnings of the system for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

1895	$1,205,074	$566,712	$516,726	$49,986
1894	1,304,717	565,755	495,255	70,500

The operating expenses in the 1895 quarter include a considerable amount expended for betterment of tracks and equipment.—V. 61, p. 823, 880.

Central Branch Union Pacific RR.—Atchison Colorado & Pacific RR.—Atchison Jewell County & Western RR.—Foreclosure Suits.—At Topeka, Kan., Wednesday, Nov. 20, foreclosure suits were brought under the mortgage of each of these companies by Samuel Carr, the mortgage trustee.—V. 60, p. 1144.

Chicago Gas.—Application for Injunction.—By mutual consent the hearing of the application for an injunction against the reorganization has been postponed until Dec. 2.—V. 61, p. 793.

Chicago General Railway—Mortgage.—The directors this week approved the form of trust deed for the mortgage of $10,000,000 recently authorized securing 5 per cent 40-year bonds.—V. 59, p. 968.

Chicago & Northern Pacific RR.—Reorganization Plan.—The sub-committee appointed to prepare a plan of reorganization, it is expected, will report a plan to the committee during the coming week.—V. 61, p. 68.

Chicago Packing & Provision—Dividend.—The following circular has been sent from the London office regarding the non-payment of a dividend on the common stock:

After paying interest upon the outstanding bonds and all other fixed charges, the business of the Chicago Company shows a loss for the six months ending Oct. 5, 1895, of $4,105 35, or £844. The directors of the Chicago company consider that the interests of the company would be best served by not reducing the present surplus, which amounted to $6 [illegible],884 as at April 5 last, other than is necessary to pay dividend upon the preference shares.

By order of the Board. ANDREW W. BARR, Secretary.

The half-yearly dividend on the common stock was reduced last spring from 5 to 3 per cent. A Chicago paper says:

Business has been very dull, but the coming six months promise to show considerable improvement. Owing to the enormous corn crop the supply of hogs promises to be plentiful, and heavy offerings will naturally bring about a lower market price. The Chicago Packing Company will also derive some benefit from the operation of the new plant at Fort Worth, recently secured by it. The plant has a capacity of 2,500 hogs a day, and was fitted up a year ago at a cost of $100,000. The company expects to put the plant in operation in the very near future, starting in by killing 1,000 hogs a day.

Chicago & Southeastern Ry.—Improvements, Etc.—According to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat work has begun on the re-building of this road between Anderson and Waveland. Its business is reported good since the new Brazil extension from Waveland to Brazil was opened. The road, it is said, may be extended to Muncie during the coming year, and possibly through to Lima, O. At present it is 108 miles in length.—V. 61, p. 824.

Chicago Wisconsin & Minnesota RR. (Wisconsin Central)—Income Coupons.—Notice is given that outstanding income coupons of the Chicago Wisconsin & Minnesota (Wisconsin Central System), which matured on or before Sept. 1, 1895, will be paid each with accrued interest at 5 per cent on presentation at Room 81, No. 50 State Street, Boston. Interest stops Nov. 30 next.—V. 61, p. 795.

Columbus Sandusky & Hocking Ry.—Final Notice.—Notice is given to holders of first mortage bonds and equipment bonds of the Columbus Shawnee & Hocking and Sandusky & Columbus Short Line and of consolidated bonds of the Columbus Sandusky & Hocking to deposit the same and become parties to the reorganization agreement on or before December 20, 1895, or they will be debarred from all benefit under such agreement.

The new securities are being engraved and will be ready for issue early in the year. This is one of the quickest reorganizations on record.—V. 61, p. 880.

Delaware Lackawanna & Western RR.—Quarterly.—Earnings of the D. L. & W. leased lines in New York State for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

3 mos. end. Sept. 30—	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Rentals, and taxes.	Balance, surplus.
1895	$2,505,010	$1,411,260	$620,749	$790,511

—V. 61, p. 420.

Detroit Railway (Detroit, Mich.)—Mortgage Filed—This company has filed a mortgage for $1,800,000 to the Cleveland Trust Company, of Cleveland, as trustee.—V. 61, 749.

Eastern Trunk Lines—Articles of Organization Approved.—At a meeting of the presidents of the Trunk Lines and their principal Western connections, held at the office of the Trunk Line Association November 19th, the articles of organization of the Joint Traffic Association were unanimously approved by every party to the agreement and it was agreed to make it effective January 1st, 1896. The presidents then went into executive session in regard to the appointment of the Board of Arbitration and shortly adjourned until December 12th to complete that work. The board of managers will doubtless be announced within a few days.

The Committee on Revision was continued with power to arrange all details, procure signatures to the engrossed agreement and to decide as to the delivery of copies to the proper public authorities, the press, etc. The copies of the agreement, completed, have been furnished to the members of the press in accordance with this authority.—V. 61, p. 794.

Erie RR.—Consolidation.—The new company, in line with the policy of consolidating its system, has acquired all the stock of the Buffalo & Southwestern, which runs from Buffalo to Jamestown, 66 miles. This road was operated under lease by the old company, and will now be merged into the reorganized company.

The entire capital stocks of the Arnot & Pine Creek and Lockport & Buffalo have been acquired and practically all the stock of the Buffalo New York & Erie. The intention is to bring all the leased lines, with the exception of the Rochester & Genesee Valley and Cleveland & Mahoning Valley companies [which will continue to be held under the lease], into the direct ownership of the Erie Railroad Company.

The appointment of a receiver for the New York Pennsylvania & Ohio is in pursuance of the plan and will not interfere with the operation of the road by the Erie. Beginning December 1 the entire system, New York to Chicago and branches, will be operated by the new company. The mortgage has been completed and the new securities are now being engraved and will be issued as soon as possible.—V. 61, p. 871.

Forty-second St. Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Ave. Ry.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

3 months end. Sept. 30—	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes etc	Net Balance.
1895	$160,121	$26,149	$1,000	$40,700	def $3,551

Green Bay Winona & St. Paul RR.—Foreclosure—At Milwaukee, Wis., on Wednesday, Nov. 20, the application of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company for a decree ordering the sale of this road was granted by Judge Seaman, sitting in the United States Court.—V. 61, p. 749.

Houston City Street Ry.—Reorganization.—The bondholders' committee (Albert N. Parlin, Chairman, 36 Union Street, Boston), has issued a circular and presented a plan of reorganization. The circular states that the road is in bad physical condition—rails light and only 5 miles (out of 39) ballasted and on paved streets. This they say accounts for many of the existing damage suits, aggregating $300,000, several of which are in judgment. For improvements $100,000 should be expended. The $137,000 of 7 per cent bonds are in default and must be provided for. The committee believes, however, that gross earnings of $200,000 per annum can safely be expected.

Plan.—The plan provides for the readjustment of the capitalization of the old company or for the formation after foreclosure sale of a new company, but in either case the bonds outstanding after reorganization to be as follows:

First Mortgage 5 per cent 20-year bonds, issue limited to	$1,000,000
Of which to present bondholders for 50 per cent principal of old bonds	500,000
For assessments	125,000
To retire first mortgage 7s	137,000
To put road in safe condition for operation	100,000
For future extensions, settlement of claims, &c	138,000
Six per cent incomes. To present bondholders for 50 per cent principal of old bonds	500,000
Over due coupons	150,000

Exchange of Securities.—The old stock and bonds pay the assessments named below and receive:

	Pays Assessm't.	And Receives— New 1st Mtge.	New Incomes.	New Stock.
Holders of—	$	$	$	$

Bondholders who have contributed one per cent will be credited on this subscription with the amount already paid. Assenting bonds should be deposited with the International Trust Company, No 45 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

Annual Statement.—The earnings and expenses for the year ending November 1, 1895 given herewith, include the earnings of the Houston Heights Street Ry. Co., which has a mileage of 6½ miles. The earnings during this period were somewhat extraordinary, owing to the Confederate Reunion held at Houston during the month of May.

Hudson Tunnel Ry—Reorganization Plan.—At a meeting of the English bondholders, held in London, Nov. 6, it was decided that a plan of reorganization which had been received from America should be made the basis of an agreement between the English and American interests. This plan proposes the creation of $2,500,000 prior lien 5 per cent bonds; new first mortgage income bonds $4,000,000; new preferred stock $1,000,000; common stock $2,000,000. The holders of the £300,000 bonds sold in London are asked to pay an assessment of 30 per cent, which is to be accepted by way of subscription for $450,000 prior lien bonds, and to exchange their bonds at par for $1,500,000 first mortgage income bonds, an additional $225,000 in preference stock to be distributed to represent loss of interest, &c. If this scheme be accepted, the American interests intimated they would be willing to find one half the money which would be required to be raised under the plan.

Indiana Electric RR. (Goshen, Ind.)—Mortgage Filed.—On Friday, Nov. 15, this company executed a mortgage for $500,000 in favor of the Royal Trust Company of Chicago, as trustee. This mortgage replaces the mortgage of 1894 for the same amount which the company has decided to cancel, the cancellation being now in progress.

Iron Railway—Annual Report.—This company's report shows for the year ending June 30, 1895, Gross earnings, $49,850; net over operating expenses, $11,137, contrasting with $38,077 gross and $8,026 net in 1893-94. A new locomotive and 50 tons of steel rails have been purchased. The capital stock is $600,000; accounts payable, $5,131; bills payable, $40,247; cash on hand is $4,057.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter and the nine months ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

—V. 61, p. 266.

Lima & Northern RR.—New Mortgage—This company is reported to be filing a mortgage to secure $1,200,000 of 5 per cent bonds, the Manhattan Trust Company being trustee. This is the northerly extension of the Ohio Southern. The work now going on is from Lima north, about 35 miles, with a junction with the Toledo St. Louis & Kansas City road, and it is expected to complete this division by January. The next division to be put under contract will also be about 35 miles, bringing the road to Adrian, Mich.—V. 61.

Little Rock & Memphis RR.—Sale Postponed.—At Little Rock, Ark., on Wednesday, Nov. 20, the sale of this road was postponed again until the fourth Wednesday in January. This is the fourth postponement.—V. 61, p. 611.

Metropolitan Traction.—Eighth Avenue—The agreement with the Eighth Avenue road is being drawn, and when ready will be submitted to the stockholders. Meantime its terms are withheld.—V. 61, p. 871.

Metropolitan Traction System Sixth Avenue RR.—Extra Dividend.—The Sixth Avenue RR Co. is paying a dividend of 20 per cent, including the usual semi-annual distribution, the extra amount having been made possible by large sales of real estate. The annual rental from the Metropolitan Street Ry. hereafter will be $145,000 instead of $152,500, which was paid until the recent surrender of the Sixth Avenue depot property.—V. 60, p. 562; V. 61, p. 871.

Muskegon Terminal.—New Bonds and Stock.—A stockholders' meeting is to be held at Muskegon, Mich., on Dec. 10, to vote on a proposed increase of the capital stock to $1,050,000, and an issue of $3,000,000 bonds. In addition to the road proposed to be built by the company it is intended to put on steam transfer boats across Lake Michigan, from the western terminus of the company's road to Milwaukee.

Nassau Electric RR.—East River & Atlantic Ocean RR. (Brooklyn)—Incorporation.—The East River & Atlantic Ocean RR., with $3,000,000 authorized capital stock, was incorporated Saturday, Nov. 23, by Nassau Electric parties (P. H. Flynn and associates), to build about 30 miles of trolley road in Brooklyn, including lines on Hicks Street, Livingston Street, Sixth Avenue, Etc. These lines are desired in order to round out the system, including the Atlantic Avenue road. —V. 61, p. 829.

New York Lake Erie & Western RR.—Erie RR.—Bonds Called—The 6 per cent collateral trust bonds have been called for payment at 110 and accrued interest on Feb. 19, 1896, interest ceasing that day. The bonds will be paid at the United States Trust Company.

On December 4, at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., will be paid the receivers' certificates and the $2,500,000 reorganization first lien bonds.

Assessment.—The third instalment of the assessment on the common stock, amounting to $3 a share, and on the preferred stock, amounting to $2 a share, was payable this week. The fourth instalment is payable Dec 23.

New York & Long Island Bridge.—Supreme Court Decision.—In the proceedings brought by this company to secure the condemnation of land for its bridge, the New York Supreme Court General Term has decided that, owing to a defect in the act of the Legislature under which the proceedings were brought the company does not possess the right to condemn property. The act embraces, the Court decides, more than one subject, a thing forbidden by the State Constitution as regards private bills.—V. 60, p. 522.

New York & New Jersey Bridge—Stockholders' Meeting.—At the meeting of stockholders' at 214 Broadway on Tuesday the following board of directors was elected:

James S. Clarkson, Des Moines, Iowa; John S. Runnells, General Counsel Pullman Company, Chicago, Wm. J. Latta, Philadelphia; Daniel N. Lockwood Buffalo; Louis Windmuller, New York, Frederick Potter, Potter Building, New York; Charles A. Smythe, New York; William Bell, Produce Exchange, New York; William H. Ely, New York; Lorenzo Duncan, Brooklyn; John Loughran, President Manufacturers' Bank, Brooklyn; Charles H. Swan, Brooklyn; John C. Adams, Newburg.

President Clarkson reported important progress, and said that as soon as the location of the bridge was decided they would be in a position to make financial arrangements.

The Sinking Fund Commission Wednesday decided to locate the New York terminus of the bridge between Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth streets, 100 feet west of Eleventh Avenue.—V. 60, p. 1059

New York Pennsylvania & Ohio RR.—Erie RR.—Receiver.—At Akron, O., on Wednesday, John Tod, of Cleveland, Vice-President of the company, was made its receiver pending sale in foreclosure. This is in accordance with the Erie reorganization plan, by which the property is to be merged into the new Erie RR. Company.—V. 61, p. 872.

Norfolk & Western RR.—Reorganization Plan—The Philadelphia Ledger says: "The reorganization plan is not to be issued, it is now stated, till near the close of the year."

Northern Pacific RR.—Great Northern Ry.—Injunction.—At St. Paul on Saturday, Nov. 16, Judge Kelly filed a decision granting an injunction against the proposed traffic agreement between these companies. The injunction was applied for by a shareholder of the Northern Pacific. The decision embraces the following points:

The proposed traffic arrangement is a consolidation. Under the laws of the State of Minnesota, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific roads are parallel and competing lines. The traffic arrangement is, therefore, contrary to the public policy of the State and the general laws of 1871 and 1891. The defendant's charter does not contain, either in express terms or by necessary implication, the right to make such agreement or consolidation. If any such power was ever given the charter was subject to amendment by the Legislature and the laws referred to.—V. 61, p. 869, 872.

North Shore Traction Company.—Election.—At the annual meeting of stockholders this week at Camden, N. J., the following directors were elected: Isaac N. Seligman, C. S. Cuyler, Emanuel Lehman, Frederick Eley, J. W. Henning, Frederick Strauss and C. M. Wicker, of New York; Walther Luttgen, of Linden, N. J.; J. P. Ilsley, E. W. Clark, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Gordon Abbott, of Boston. The company states that it has no floating debt, and has over $150,000 cash on hand, besides bonds and other cash assets amounting to $130,000.—V. 60, p. 662.

Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain RR.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending September 30 have been reported as follows:

Ohio Southern RR.—Meeting of Security Holders.—First Mortgage Coupons.—At the meeting at the office of R. J. Kimball & Co., 16 Broad Street, New York, on Saturday, November 16, about one-third of the capital stock and about one-third of the second mortgage bonds issued were represented. Among those present were Mr. C. N. Haskell, counsel for the receivers of the company, and Mr. James D. Smith, Chairman of the Committee of Reorganization. Mr. Smith made a statement as to the work of the committee, but said that no plan for reorganization was yet matured.

General Rush C. Hawkins, who had a large interest in the road previous to the control by the present owners, made a statement in regard to the value of the property, and expressed his confidence in its future, if properly managed. The road had suffered much during the last year for the want of motive power, but the recent purchase of six large, first-class engines it is expected will enable them to show from this time forward a gratifying increase of earnings.

The counsel for the receivers stated that they expected to pay promptly the interest on the first mortgage bonds due December 1st, and it was hoped that arrangements would be completed by which they would be able to take care of their floating indebtedness and future payments so that a foreclosure and assessment would not be necessary.

R. J. Kimball & Co. announce that they will continue to receive addresses of holders of the second mortgage bonds, for the purpose of having them more fully represented at a future meeting.

Resolutions were passed approving of the course of the receivers and also of the committee, and the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.—V. 61, p. 872.

Oregon Short Line & Utah & Northern Ry.—Interest on Oregon Short Line 6s.—The opposition to the payment of the February, 1895, coupon on the sixes has been withdrawn, and it is expected that at the hearing next Tuesday the Court will order the payment, with interest to date, as also the interest on the August, 1894, coupon between the date of its maturity and the time of payment, December 6. It is reported that a new consol. committee is to be formed, which will at once prepare a plan of reorganization, under which the sixes will be undisturbed.—V. 61, p. 872.

Philadelphia & Reading RR.—Reorganization.—It is understood that the general scope of the plan has been determined upon and that the details are now being perfected by the sub-committee. It has yet to be submitted to the committee as a whole and must then be approved by J. P. Morgan & Co., so that probably ten days will elapse before the plan will be publicly announced. The principal provisions of the plan are the protection of the general mortgage 4s, the retirement of car trusts and the supplying for working capital. The first, second and third preference incomes and common stock will, it is expected, be assessed 20 per cent. The deferred incomes will also have a small assessment. The new securities will be: New general 4s, and first and second preferred and common stock. As intimated above, the proportion of new securities to be given in exchange for the old is not yet finally settled and is open to revision.—V. 61, p. 872.

Port Royal & Western Carolina —Foreclosure Sale.—This road, including the Augusta & Knoxville, was sold at Greenwood, South Carolina, on Wednesday to A. R. Hutchinson, representing Samuel Thomas and Thomas Ryan, of New York, for $2,650,000, the upset price.—V. 61, p. 704.

Rochester Railway (Quarterly).—Earnings for the quarter ending September 30 have been reported as follows:

3 months ending Sept. 30.	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Other income.	Interest, taxes, &c.	Balance, surplus.
1895	$239,708	$103,283	$1,777	$73,510	$31,550

Southwestern RR. (of Georgia).—New Lease—Dividend.—An official circular to the stockholders gives the facts regarding the new lease to the Central of Georgia Ry. The lease is for 101 years, and under it dividends of 5 per cent per annum "net to stockholders" began to accrue Nov. 1, 1895. They are payable Jan. 1 and July 1, that for January next representing only two months' rental. The defaulted rental at 5 per cent per annum from July 1, 1892, to Nov. 1, 1895, amounting to $865,183, is also to be paid. The directors have resolved so soon as this sum shall be received, which it is believed will be during the present year, to declare a dividend of 10 per cent to the stockholders of record at or about the date of declaration. Out of the $865,183 the directors will expend approximately $270,000 to cover cost of litigation and compensation for all services rendered by those conducting the negotiations now completed. After paying the 10 per cent dividend and this sum of $270,000, about $75,000 will be left in the company's treasury to be invested against unforeseen contingencies. By this agreement the company is relieved from all liability on account of the tripartite bonds and its endorsement on the bonds of the Montgomery & Eufaula.—V. 60, 528, 1008.

St. Lawrence & Adirondack RR.—Mohawk & Malone—New York Central & Hudson River RR.—Line to Montreal.—For some time it has been known that Dr. W. Seward Webb was preparing to obtain an independent connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge near Montreal for his Mohawk & Malone Road, which is under lease to the New York Central. To form a part of this line there were consolidated under the title of the St. Lawrence & Adirondack Railroad on Nov. 18 the Malone & St. Lawrence Ry. and the St. Lawrence & Adirondack Railway, forming a line 32 miles in length, already in operation, from Malone, N. Y., to Valleyfield, P. Que. The consolidated company, of which Dr. Webb is President, has $590,000 capital stock and $640,000 bonds outstanding. Dr. Webb, it is stated, has acquired control of a strip of railroad running from Valleyfield to Beauharnois, Que., and will construct a new line from the last-named place to Caughnawaga, making direct connection with the aforementioned bridge across the St. Lawrence.—V. 61, p. 794.

St. Joseph Railway, Light, Heat & Power—St. Joseph Traction & Lighting—Reorganization.—The St. Joseph Railway, Light, Heat & Power Company has been incorporated to succeed to the property of the St. Joseph Traction & Lighting Company, sold in foreclosure Aug. 21, and purchased for the bondholders for $300,000. The new company has an authorized capital stock of $3,500,000, half of which will be preferred, and assumes $100,000 Wyatt Park bonds. The incorporators are W. T. Van Brunt, R. A. Brown, J. R. Van Brunt, St. Joseph; W. M. Harriman, New York City.—V. 61, p. 326.

Syracuse Binghamton & New York RR.—Quarterly.—Earnings for the quarter ending Sept. 30 have been reported as follows:

3 months end. Sept. 30—	Gross earnings.	Net earnings.	Interest, taxes, etc.	Balance, surplus.
1895	$263,829	$144,312	$44,905	$99,407

Third Avenue RR.—Forty-second Street Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue RR.—Control Acquired.—Edward Lauterbach, counsel and a director of the Third Avenue Company, is quoted as saying: "It is true that we have acquired the Forty-second Street and Boulevard line. The contract of purchase has practically been consummated, but inasmuch as certain details are yet to be arranged I do not care to speak of the terms of settlement." It is reported that a majority of the capital stock has been purchased.—V. 60, p. 794; V. 61, p. 872.

Union Elevated RR. (Chicago)—Bond Issue.—This company, known as the Union Loop Company, is reported to have decided to issue $3,000,000 of bonds. The total authorized issue, it is thought, will be $5,000,000.—V. 61, p. 753.

Western Union Telegraph.—Decision Regarding Union Pacific Lines.—At Washington, Nov. 18, Mr. Justice Harlan announced the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court that the Union Pacific Railway Company did not possess the right to give practically exclusive privileges to the Western Union Telegraph Company to maintain telegraph lines along its right of way; and that the Government may maintain a bill of equity to compel the railway company to construct and operate its own telegraph lines. The decision sustains the Circuit Court in the Nebraska District and overrules the Court of Appeals. The Court holds untenable the claim of the United States for recovery of moneys paid for Government messages sent over the lines since 1881.—V. 61, p. 660.

Wheeling & Lake Erie Ry.—Prospects.—General Manager A. G. Blair is quoted as saying:

The Wheeling & Lake Erie the first four months in the new fiscal year beginning July 1 will show net earnings of over $180,000, which is equal to the fixed charges and 4 per cent on the preferred stock. We expect to show even better results for the balance of the fiscal year, as the new contracts, which are made early in the season, will be at advanced prices. The arrangement with the Baltimore & Ohio for the use of the Valley Road and its terminals by the Wheeling & Lake Erie is not yet in operation, as the Baltimore & Ohio has not perfected its plans to provide for the operation of the new line between Cleveland and Wheeling. The entrance into Cleveland will add largely to the earnings of the Wheeling & Lake Erie and also to the Valley road.

The full effects of the coal agreement entered into last March will not be shown, he says, until next year.—V. 61, p. 569.

Wisconsin Central—Reorganization.—The CHRONICLE is informed that Mr. George Coppell, chairman of the Reorganization Committee, is making an investigation with the aid of an expert accountant, to determine whether the earnings of the road will justify an early reorganization or whether it will be wiser to wait for an improvement in business in the territory traversed by the road before submitting a plan to the security-holders.—V. 61, p. 795.

The PITTSBURGH DIVISION embraces the following Roads: The Pittsburgh & Connellsville; the Somerset & Cambria; the Hickman Run; the Mount Pleasant & Broadford; the Fayette County; the Berlin; the Ohio & Baltimore Short Line (Eastern Division).

The decrease in Passenger Revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1895, as compared with the previous fiscal year is because the greater part of the large earnings from the World's Columbian Exposition travel accrued to the former year.

The demoralization in freight rates, which began so seriously in 1894, was intensified in the past fiscal year, during part of the latter half of which freight rates were lower than ever before prevailed, affecting all classes of traffic.

In steam coals, so important a branch of this company's freight traffic, the prices for the greater part of the past fiscal year were the lowest ever known.

This condition was not due to any demand upon the part of the consumers, but solely to the reckless competition inaugurated by some of the producing regions and the Lines to which they were tributary.

It may afford some illustration of the extent to which this general rate demoralization had extended by stating that, compared with 1893—the largest tonnage and revenue year of this Company—the tons one mile in 1895 showed a decrease of 8·20-100 per cent, while the revenue therefrom showed a decrease of 11·22 100 per cent, the classification being in favor of the latter year.

How forcibly do such facts emphasize the urgent necessity for the adoption of measures to correct the evil, and to secure to the public what it most desires, namely, uniform and reasonable rates, with the efficient service to insure which these are so essential.

But for the judicious economies observed, and the better handling of traffic, rendered possible by the increased facilities and improvements in every Department of the System, this rate situation would have produced even less satisfactory Net Results.

Tonnage of the Year, with Comparison.

The tonnage moved on the entire System is shown by the following statement:

Surplus	$59,147 66	$57,014 77	$2,132 89	.....

The statement of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad Company, in this Company's Annual Report, heretofore included the receipts from the Whitehall Ferry.

That Ferry having become a separate organization, its operations are not included in the above statement, which accounts for the decrease in Earnings and Expenses of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad Company.

That Company has recently closed a contract for the construction of the passenger station, sheds and approaches at St. George's, which will give very superior much needed facilities both passenger and freight, at this, its most important, terminal.

Baltimore Belt Railroad.

On the first of May last the Baltimore Belt Railroad was so far completed as to be open for passenger traffic—the trains being hauled by the regular passenger power of the Philadelphia Division.

On the fourth of August last the line was opened to the freight trains of the Company, hauled by the one electric motor which was ready for use at that time.

With this transfer to the Baltimore Belt Railroad Line of the entire passenger and freight traffic of the Company between Baltimore and its Philadelphia Division, the water transfer from Locust Point, Baltimore, to Canton, was in August last abandoned.

The line is now completed, with the exception of the freight yards and up-town passenger station. It is, in every particular, an admirably planned and constructed work, thoroughly suited for the purpose for which it was designed, and well worth the time and money expended upon it.

The Company has recently established, but not yet completed, four freight yards upon the line, in the most rapidly growing part of the city, at which an active business is already being done. These facilities will, in the very near future, bring to the Company a large volume of additional freight traffic.

The up-town passenger station—"Mount Royal Station"—was commenced in August last, and will be ready for occupation in the early spring. It is very eligibly located, and will offer every convenience and facility to that large and growing residence section of the city.

The Electric Power House at Camden Station, which is to supply power for the Electric Motor train service in the tunnel, and light for the tunnel, the yards, shops, buildings and offices of the Company in the City of Baltimore, has been in successful operation since June last.

The two remaining Electric Motors, to complete the equipment of three, will be finished before the close of the present calendar year.

The entire freight and passenger service through the tunnel will then be hauled by electric motors, and in view of the successful operation of the Motor in service since August 4th, no doubt is entertained of the entire success of the undertaking, making railroad tunnel service, heretofore so undesirable, as agreeable to the traveling public as that in the open.

Terminal Properties.

Of the important terminal properties of the Company referred to in last Annual Report, those at Pittsburgh and District of Columbia have not been completed during the past fiscal year as was contemplated, owing to legal difficulties in obtaining the right of way for the railroads to be constructed in connection therewith. It is expected these obstacles will be entirely removed and the work completed during the current calendar year. The work at the Cumberland terminal is being rapidly pushed for completion by the early spring.

The appropriations for the above will complete the Terminals covered by the Terminal Loan. They are provided for by the $1,387,500 reserved from the proceeds of that Loan, which sum is placed with the Special Depositaries for this Fund, as shown in Balance Sheet, pages 16 and 17 of pamphlet.

Sterling Loan of 1870 for £800,000.

The 6 per cent Sterling loan of the Company for £800,000, negotiated in 1870, matured March 1, 1895, and was paid on that date through the operation of the Miscellaneous Bonds in the Sinking Fund provided for in that Loan, amounting to $2,202,412

And through the Consolidated Mortgage 5 per cent 100-year Bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, as provided for in the Mortgage of December, 1887, covering the same, amounting to ... 1,889,000

This has effected a reduction of the total Funded Debt, as compared with 1894, of $2,202,000.

The Cleveland Terminal & Valley Railroad Company.

The Valley Railway, extending from Valley Junction to Cleveland, of which the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has held a controlling interest through ownership of stock, has recently been reorganized upon a sound and conservative basis under the title of the Cleveland Terminal & Valley Railroad Company, in which reorganized company the Baltimore & Ohio Company retains a controlling interest.

The Baltimore & Ohio Company has sold to the new company the valuable terminal properties it had acquired in Cleveland, with the view of giving the new company proper terminal facilities for its own business and enabling it to furnish the much-needed terminals for several Lines desiring such facilities in Cleveland.

Contracts for the use of its terminals and part of its line have already been made with the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railway Company. It is expected similar contracts will shortly be made with with one or two other important lines, in addition to one existing contract made by the Receivers of the old Company.

The property, as reorganized, will be a very valuable adjunct to the Baltimore & Ohio System.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company has agreed to endorse the $6,000,000 Four per cent One-Hundred Year Coupon Bonds of the reorganized company.

While the continued depression in business during much of the past fiscal year, and the extreme low rates of freight prevailing during the same, has rendered it proper for the management to exercise every economy consistent with a proper maintenance of the property, it has been deemed wise to continue to make improvements in the "Maintenance of Way and Structures" and "Maintenance of Equipment" and to continue as heretofore to charge a large portion of these expenditures to Operating Expenses.

In these Departments the expenditures have been confined mainly to material improvements in Road-bed, Bridges and Culverts, and such improvements in "Maintenance of Equipment" as would prove most effective, while upon improvements or enlargements of Stations, Platforms, Buildings, and the like, the expenditures have been restricted to what was necessary for proper maintenance only.

For Maintenance of Way and Structures	$2,846,232 71
For Maintenance of Equipment	2,092,716 03
For Construction	641,308 11

All these expenditures upon "Maintenance of Way and Structures" and "Maintenance of Equipment" have been charged to Operating Expenses.

The very careful and thorough manner in which all the Company's work—both current and Improvements—has been done in the past few years, enabled the Management to maintain the property in all Departments, and to largely improve it in some, at a minimum expenditure.

The Road Bed over the entire System has never, in the history of the Company, been in the superior condition which it is at present.

The continued steady increase in the already large volume of business—with the restoration of rates which it is reasonably expected must be made—promise an early return of railroad traffic to remunerative conditions.

The proposed agreement of the "Joint Traffic Association," in connection with which your Company has for a long time been earnestly engaged, will, when attained, materially aid the maintenance of these very important and desirable conditions.

The President and Directors take great pleasure in again acknowledging the faithful and efficient services of the officers and employes of the Company during the past fiscal year. To their special efforts is due the admirable condition of the Company's property, under a reduced expenditure in most Departments of the service.

By order of the Board,
CHARLES F. MAYER,
President.

BALTIMORE & OHIO SOUTHWESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT—FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1895.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.

To the Stockholders of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railway Company.

The President and Directors submit the following report of the results of the operations of this Company for the year ending June 30, 1895.

Gross Earnings		$6,323,035 50
NET EARNINGS		$2,305,931 64
Add Miscellaneous Receipts		2,250 00
		$2,308,181 64
Deduct—
Taxes and Assessments	$270,246 44
Rental of Terminal Property	60,000 00
Interest and Discount	4,393 17	334,639 61
Net Earnings applicable to Interest		$1,973,542 03
NET INCOME		$212,056 19

As this Company commenced its operations November 1st, 1893, the comparisons in this report are made with the operations for the year ending June 30th, 1894, being for the last four months of the Ohio & Mississippi Railway and the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad companies and the first eight months of this Company.

Increase in Gross Earnings	$62,837 82	1 00 per cent.
Increase in Net Earnings	9,736 55	·42 per cent.
Increase in Freight Earnings	162,147 67	4·15 per cent.

The percentage of cost of operation was 63·53 per cent, as compared with 63 33 per cent for the previous year.

The earnings of this Company have been seriously affected by the failure of the corn crop, which is so essential to this Company's revenues, and by the several labor strikes which prevailed during the year.

The prolonged strike in the coal regions of Ohio in the latter part of the fiscal year greatly depleted the earnings, which have been further reduced by a continuance of the low tariffs which prevailed for a greater part of the year.

Notwithstanding these serious difficulties which the management have encountered in operating the property, it is gratifying to report that the gross earnings have been increased $62,837 82 and the net earnings $9,736 55. This has been due to the maintenance of the economies which existed during the previous year, and to the judicious expenditures for improvements and betterments.

The year immediately preceding the Consolidation, the gross earnings of the Company were $6,959,598, being $635,563 above the gross earnings for the last year. This great shrinkage in business we believe is due mainly to the causes we have mentioned, and to the great financial depression that existed during the period. Although the management has had to contend with this great decline in gross earnings the net earnings are only $97,000 less than they were for that year. This comparison is suggestive of what may be expected from the operations of this Company when the contemplated improvements are fully made and normal conditions prevail.

The funded debt has been increased $366,925, $94,925 of the first consolidated four and a-half per cent Mortgage Bonds being exchanged for old securities, $350,000 being sold for improvements provided for under the plan of Consolidation; under such exchanges $78,000 of the old five per cent Bonds have been retired.

Substantial improvements have been made upon the property; about eighteen miles of seventy-five pound steel have been laid in the main line of the Ohio division, and the steel taken therefrom has been laid in the Portsmouth Branch, thereby completing all of the steel rail required in the branches of this Division, and bringing them to a high state of efficiency; eight hundred and fifty-two cars of different classes have been added to the equipment; the thirty-six iron bridges under construction during the last fiscal year have been completed; five miles of sidings and commercial tracks have been added and three stations have been constructed and improved, an electric plant and other improved machinery placed in the Shops, making a total expenditure of $761,488 74, the details of which are more fully set forth in the Vice-President's report submitted herewith.

There have been paid on account of these improvements $438,764 74, and the balance, when due, will be paid from cash on hand and bonds provided to be used for equipment, betterments and improvements under the plan of Consolidation. The equipment trust certificates and lease warrants maturing during the year to the amount of $113,770 60 have been paid from moneys derived from the same source.

The car equipment, motive power, plant and property have been greatly improved and thoroughly well maintained during the year, and the respective properties are in excellent condition. It has been the aim of the management to make all of the improvements of the best and most substantial character.

Contracts were made during the low price of iron and steel for sixteen bridges, which will be finished within the next fiscal year.

A contract has been made with the Cleveland Cincinnati Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company, which will go into effect the first part of the next fiscal year, for the use of the Louisville Branch between Mount Vernon and Jeffersonville, a distance of fifty-two miles, at the rental of $27,500 per annum, and the payment of a proportion of operating expenses, maintenance, improvements and taxes thereon, to be determined on a wheelage basis. This is an advantageous contract for this Company.

Improvements under the Terminal contract have been practically completed, and the facilities afforded and the economies realized in the operation of the property, created thereby, are far in excess of the sixty thousand dollars rental paid therefor.

The net revenues derived from the operation of the property are $212,056 19, a sum sufficient to pay two and a-quarter per cent on the "A" Income Bonds for the period covered by this report.

It is our painful duty to record the death of our esteemed associate, Patrick Buchan, Esq., of London, which occurred in June last. Mr. Buchan was a leading member of one of the London Committees representing the security holders on the Consolidation which created this Company and its accomplishment was largely due to his labors. He was a Director also of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad Company from its organization. He was a most valued member of the respective Boards and throughout performed his duties with unswerving fidelity to the interests committed to his charge.

The operations of the Company have been conducted with marked regularity and comparative freedom from casualties; and the vice-presidents, other officers and employes in all departments are entitled to commendation for their faithful and efficient services.

Your attention is respectfully called to the report of the Vice-President and General Manager, and to the Auditor's statements, herewith submitted, for information in detail.

By order of the Board of Directors,

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1895.

The President and Directors submit the following report for the year ending June 30, 1895.

During the year ending June 30, 1895, this Company has enjoyed a reasonable increase in the volume of its freight traffic, a good share of which has come from the newer portions of its lines in Montana and on the Pacific Coast. The largest relative increase in tonnage has been on the Montana Division. The wheat and grain crops of Minnesota and North Dakota show an increase over the previous year of about five million bushels, or 150,000 tons.

A material reduction in the average rate received per ton per mile will be noticed, which is mainly due to the larger amount of grain, ore, lumber, coal, etc., carried, which pay proportionately lower rates

The passenger traffic shows a decrease in the volume of business with an increase in the average rate. This may be attributed to the general condition of the business of the country and a consequent falling off in emigration to the newer States. There has arisen, however, during the present summer, a considerable movement on to the fertile and low-priced lands of North Dakota and Minnesota, and it is believed that intelligent efforts on the part of the people and the railways will result in extending this settlement to the States farther west, and particularly to the State of Washington, which for timber, fruit, stock-raising, general farming, mining, etc., has no superior in the Union.

The operation of your railway has during the year met with no serious interruptions from snows, floods, or otherwise, with the exception of the forest fires along the line of the Eastern Railway in September, 1894.

The work of permanent improvements of track, replacing sixty with seventy-five pound steel rails, changing pile culverts and trestles into solid embankments with either stone or iron water-ways, and replacing wooden bridges with steel structures of strong design, has been continued as heretofore, and will be continued until all temporary structures are changed into permanent ones. To do this as it has been done will take from three to four years.

The track, bridges, buildings, shops and locomotive and car equipment are all in good order and condition.

The permanent character of the work done on the mountain portions of your line during construction and since has enabled the Company to operate its line in those sections with safety and great economy. The Board of Directors wish to call particular attention to the fact that, while the cost of operation per train mile, which includes the cost of maintenance of track, equipment, renewals, improvements, etc., is unusually high, your Company's earnings per train mile, both gross and net, will compare very favorably with those of other railways similarly situated, or even with those of railways enjoying a much larger traffic at rates as high as or higher than the rates received by your Company.

At the time of making this report, the crop for the year 1895 indicates the heaviest grain tonnage ever hauled by the road, which will be handled under more favorable conditions than ever before. The fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, should show the largest net earnings in the history of the Company.

During the year the Company opened its new shops at Spokane, where it has ample facilities for doing all the repair work on the equipment used on the Western Divisions.

Large additions have been made to the terminal and division yards at Minneapolis, Melrose, West Superior and Duluth.

On the Great Lakes there has been carried a large tonnage during the year; but most of it at very low rates.

The Northern Steamship Company's second passenger steamer, "North Land," was put into service early in June, and the season is showing a very satisfactory increase in the traffic of both passenger steamers, particularly in the travel brought by them to your railways.

The Commercial Times.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 22, 1895.

The movement of general merchandise has been of moderate proportions and confined principally to thoroughly seasonable goods. No serious disturbance of values has taken place, although on the average the tone of most markets is slightly easier. The export trade has proven moderate. The latest general compilation of information regarding condition of wheat crop was favorable, the previous drought having been broken by sufficient moisture to promote growth, and a renewal of seeding in some localities affording promise for good average results. Within a day or two a sharp fall in temperature has occurred in Middle and Western latitudes. There is a more hopeful feeling in mercantile circles regarding market conditions at foreign business centres.

For lard on the spot there has been only a very limited inquiry and prices have declined, closing at 5·75c. for prime Western, 5 40c. for prime City and 6·15c. for refined for the Continent. There was no speculation in the local market for lard futures, but nominal prices were quoted lower in response to weaker advices from the West, where selling was quite general, prompted by heavy receipts of swine at primary points, closing easy.

	Sat.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thurs.	Fri.

Pork has been in slow demand and prices have weakened slightly, closing at $9 50@$10 for mess, $10 75@$11 25 for family and $10 50@$12 50 for short clear. Cut meats have sold slowly and prices have weakened a trifle, closing at 5½@5¾c. for pickled bellies, 12@10 lbs. average, 5½@5¾c. for pickled shoulders and 8½@8¾c. for pickled hams. Speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market has been irregular during the week under review. At the opening the offerings were quite free, but within a few days selling exhibited greater caution and values strengthened. During Saturday prices gained 6@7 points in consequence of unexpected steadiness at Liverpool, which served to stimulate covering by the shorts. The feeling on Monday was tame, and after a small gain at opening rates fell away again and closed apparently tame. Tuesday opened with a break of 12@13 points on Southern selling orders and recovered sufficiently to reduce net loss to 4 points, the decline having attracted a covering demand. Wednesday morning brought another momentary decline, but some free covering on foreign account served as a reactionary influence, and 8 points net advance was secured at the close. Yesterday covering continued, upon which an additional advance of 10 points took place, buyers acting upon an assumption that crop movement will run smaller. To-day the market opened higher on strong foreign accounts and indications of a small crop movement, but failing to draw new orders eased off again at the close. Cotton on spot quiet, but closes firmer at 8½c. for middling uplands.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 1,256,600 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 1,665 bales, including —— for export, 739 for consumption, 226 for speculation and 700 on contract. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week—November 15 to November 22.

☞ The imports into Continental ports the past week have been 107,000 bales.

The above figures indicate a decrease in the cotton in sight to-night of 243,770 bales as compared with the same date of 1894, a falling off of 185,491 bales over the corresponding date of 1893 and a decrease of 304,650 bales from 1892.

AT THE INTERIOR TOWNS the movement—that is the receipts for the week and since September 1, the shipments for the week and the stocks to-night, and the same items for the corresponding period of 1894—is set out in detail below.

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table indicates the actual movement each week from the plantations. The figures do not include overland receipts nor Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

The above statement shows: 1.—That the total receipts from the plantations since Sept. 1, 1895, are 2,700,281 bales; in 1894 were 3,734,899 bales; in 1893 were 3,030,242 bales.

2.—That although the receipts at the outports the past week were 312,429 bales, the actual movement from plantations was only 233,317 bales, the balance going to increase the stocks at the interior towns. Last year the receipts from the plantations for the week were 358,161 bales and for 1893 they were 312,019 bales.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT FOR THE WEEK AND SINCE SEPT. 1.—We give below a statement showing the overland movement for the week and since September 1. As the returns reach us by telegraph late Friday night it is impossible to enter so largely into detail as in our regular monthly report, but all the principal matters of interest are given. This weekly publication is of course supplementary to the more extended monthly statements. The results for the week ending Nov. 22 and since Sept. 1 in the last two years are as follows.

A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &C.—The inquiry for jute bagging has been extremely light during the week under review, the requirements for this crop year having been quite fully supplied. For winter delivery round lots are being offered at 3 7/8c. for 1¾ lbs., 4¼c. for 2 lbs. and 4¾c. for standard grades. Jute butts have ruled dull at 1 1-16c. for paper quality and 1 5/8c. for mixing.

BREADSTUFFS.

For wheat flour there has been an exceedingly slow and uninteresting market. Buyers have been very indifferent, and with free offerings prices for spring patents have declined about 10c. per bbl. The low grades of winter-wheat flour have also been offered more freely and prices have been lowered about 5 to 10c. per bbl. A moderately active business has been transacted in rye flour at steady prices. Buckwheat flour was easier earlier in the week, but at the close the more favorable weather caused a steadier feeling. Corn meal has sold slowly and prices have further declined. To-day the market for wheat flour was dull and easy.

Speculation in the market for wheat futures has been extremely slow and prices fluctuated within the narrowest limits in the absence of new or interesting features until yesterday, when dull and depressed foreign advices, coupled with a free movement of the crop at the Northwest and favorable conditions for the growing winter wheat crop, prompted liquidation by tired "longs" and prices declined. In the spot market a limited amount of business has been transacted with shippers, but at easier prices. The rates yesterday included No. 1 hard spring at 3½c. over December f. o. b. afloat, No. 1 Northern at 1¼c. over December f. o. b. afloat, No. 2 do at December price f. o. b. afloat, and choice No. 2 red winter at about 1c. over December f. o. b. afloat. To-day the market was weaker during early 'Change in response to easier foreign advices, but later reports of an active export business stimulated a demand from "shorts" to cover contracts, and prices advanced. The spot market was fairly active, shippers having been the buyers. The sales included No. 1 Northern at 1 3/4@1 15 16c. over December f. o. b. afloat, according to time of delivery; N. Y. inspection do. at 1½@1¾c. over December f. o. b. afloat, and No. 1 hard spring at 3⅞c. over December f. o. b. afloat.

There has been a quiet market for Indian corn futures and prices have shown some irregularity. The near-by deliveries have made fractional gains, owing to large clearances from the seaboard and a small movement from the interior, while the distant months have gradually weakened. In the spot market shippers have been limited buyers and prices have advanced slightly. The sales yesterday included No. 2 mixed at 38c. f. o. b. afloat and No. 2 white at 38c. f. o. b. afloat. To-day the market was easier in response to weaker advices from the West. The spot market was quiet. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 37¼c. delivered and 37½@37⅝c. f. o. b. afloat for early delivery.

Oats for future delivery have received very little attention, and in the absence of sustaining features prices have gradually declined. In the spot market the amount of business transacted has been small and prices have been easier. The sales yesterday included No. 2 mixed at 23c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 24¼@24⅜c. in elevator. To-day the market was dull but steady. The spot market was quiet and a trifle weaker. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 23¼@23c. in elevator. No. 2 white was quoted at 24½c. asked.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 22, 1895.

The market for cottons for the current season has passed through another dull week, both in staples and dress fabrics. The weather has been a decidedly restrictive influence, both here and elsewhere, the temperature, until towards the close, ruling too high for a normal distribution by either jobbers or retailers, and keeping business at first hands on quite a limited scale. The weakness in raw cotton has also had an unfavorable effect, inclining buyers to pronounced conservatism with regard to the future and to contend for lower prices on immediate supplies. The tendency has been in their favor on staple cottons, for although prices of leading makes are generally quite steady there are more frequent instances of other sellers proving easier to trade with, even though there does not appear to be any material increase in available stocks. The demand for spring fabrics in fancy cotton goods keeps up well, and prospects for the coming season are decidedly encouraging. The woolen and worsted goods departments show a good demand for new heavy-weight overcoatings, but are quiet for the current season in both men's-wear fabrics and dress goods. The jobbing trade has been dull outside of a few specialties and holiday goods.

WOOLEN GOODS.—The demand for Clay worsteds in new heavy-weights is reported good at the advanced prices recently quoted. There are but few other lines of heavy-weight suitings opened. In overcoatings, however, the display of samples for next fall is quite general in both plain and rough-faced goods. The new prices declared this week show beavers and kerseys irregular from last season's prices to 10 per cent advance, and rough goods, such as friezes and chinchillas, irregular from 5 per cent advance to 10 per cent decline. A considerable business has been done. The demand for light-weights has again been indifferent and supplementary business is developing slowly. Cotton-warp overcoatings for the new season are generally 5 per cent higher. Cloakings are without change, as are flannels and blankets. Carpets irregular; tapestries have been reduced 2½c. per yard, but new prices on ingrains are still withheld. Business in woolen and worsted dress goods quiet at firm prices.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 18 were 7,465 packages, valued at $347,925, their destination being to the points specified in the table below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year has been $3,075,499 in 1895 against $10,162,622 in 1894.

The tendency of the market in brown sheetings and drills is in favor of buyers, and business has been reported this week at ⅛c. decline from recent top prices in some quarters. Most leading makes are, however, well enough sold ahead to be steady. The demand for bleached goods is dull throughout, and in these also there are some sellers easier to deal with. Kid-finished cambrics are weak and fully ⅛c. lower to sell than best prices recently quoted. Silesias, percalines and other linings tend in favor of buyers. Wide sheetings inactive in all makes but unchanged in price. Cotton flannels and blankets dull. Denims dull and irregular; ticks quiet at previous prices, checks and stripes, plaids, cheviots and cottonades inactive and featureless. Printed fabrics in satines, tissues and special finishes sell well for spring, as do shirting prints. Dark fancies and other regular lines in quiet request, with prices firm. Ginghams and specialties in woven patterned fabrics for spring are in good demand. Staple ginghams firm but business light. Print cloths close with sellers of extras at 3¼c. after a week of inactivity.

The United States Life Insurance Co.

IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

This old and reliable Company now has the experience of forty-five years of practical Life Insurance, which has taught it that the sine qua non of success is the adoption of good plans of insurance, and the pursuit of a liberal policy towards both its Insured and its Agents. These essentials it possesses in an eminent degree, but judiciously tempered by that conservatism which is the best possible safeguard of the policy-holder. Its contracts are incontestable after two years. They are non-forfeiting, providing generally for either paid-up policy or extended insurance, at the option of the policy-holder. It gives ten days of grace in payment of all premiums. Its course during the past forty-five years abundantly demonstrates its absolute security.

Active and successful Agents, wishing to represent this Company, may communicate with the President at the Home Office, 261 Broadway, New York.

The full details of clearings for the week covered by the above statement will be given next Saturday. We cannot, of course, furnish them to-day, bank clearings being made up by the various clearing houses at noon on Saturday, and hence in the above the last twenty-four hours of the week have to be in all cases estimated, as we go to press Friday night.

Our usual detailed figures for the previous week, covering the returns for the period ending with Saturday noon, November 23, are given below, and we also present the results for the corresponding week in 1894, 1893 and 1892. In comparison with the preceding week there is a decrease in the aggregate exchanges of about ninety-four million dollars, but at New York alone the loss is sixty-five millions. Contrasted with the week of 1894 the total for the whole country shows an increase of 9·5 per cent. Compared with the week of 1893 the current returns record an excess of 16·8 per cent and the loss from 1892 is 4·5 per cent. Outside of New York the gain over 1894 is 9·6 per cent. The excess over 1893 reaches 20·6 per cent, and making comparison with 1892 the gain is seen to be 6·1 per cent.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Railroad earnings are furnishing an interesting object lesson just now. There is a feature about them which ought to appeal to every man in commercial life with a force hard to be resisted, even if his thoughts did not rise above his own personal interests. Indeed we cannot see how the facts disclosed week by week can fail to lead to a general consensus of opinion in favor of greater liberality hereafter in the treatment railroads shall receive from State and federal legislators and railroad commissioners. Take, merely as an illustration, the figures of the Pennsylvania system made public yesterday. They tell us in brief that this property increased its earnings in October on the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie, as compared with October 1894, $423,260 08; that in the same month it spent for repairs, new equipment, new work, wages, &c., on the same lines $359,445 62 more than in the same month a year ago. In other words, the road in this one month of October contributed towards increasing the industrial activity of the country about 359½ thousand dollars more than it did last October, thereby turning over not to stockholders but to labor and the business public all but about sixty-three thousand dollars of its additional receipts.

Since the first of June the increase in gross earnings of the Pennsylvania on these same lines has been $2,540,730 and the increase in expenses $2,088,593, showing that all but $452,137 of this additional amount went directly back to the people, and has been a conspicuous source of the renewed business activity which first became so manifest near the date last mentioned. Nor is that all; it should be added that the Pennsylvania Road has likewise during the period referred to, in accordance with its constant practice, spent a very considerable amount of its net earnings on work and materials for improvement of the property; and in this way, too, the public has received a larger benefit than it did a year ago by reason of the better income. If there ever was a case in complete correspondence with killing the goose that laid the golden egg it is to be found in the short-sighted policy which has tended to destroy the prosperity of these wonderfully fertilizing instruments.

It appears that the statement we made last week in commenting upon the new trunk line agreement to the effect that the term of the contract was for five years subject to ninety days notice of termination was incorrect. The agreement as we gave it did read that way, and as the copy was an official one, obtained from the Trunk Line Association, there was no reason to question its accuracy. But we have this week received a letter from the Secretary of the Trunk Line Association, which we print on another page, and also we may say a letter from the Vice-President of one of the roads, conveying the information that the official copy as furnished us was incorrect in the particular mentioned. The contract is for five years and subject to ninety days' notice of termination thereafter, thus leaving this part of the arrangement as it was in the agreements submitted in September and October. There is no provision for earlier retirement except that contained in Article 18, which says that in case any company fails to pay any fines that may be assessed against it, then any other company may withdraw from the agreement by giving thirty days' notice. This is the weak feature upon which we laid particular stress in our remarks last Saturday. Whether the clause fixing the duration of the agreement at five years modifies in any degree this authorization of withdrawal we shall have to leave to the courts to determine.

We have referred above to the increase in the earnings of the Pennsylvania Railroad for October, and analyze that company's statement at greater length further below. It has been a pleasing feature of the week that we have had quite a number of very favorable statements of earnings, gross and net. We noted last Saturday the large gains made during October by two of the spring-wheat roads of the Northwest—the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul, $860,989, and the Chicago & North Western, $869,257. This week we have had the return of the Burlington & Quincy and of the St. Paul & Omaha for the same month. The latter is a comparatively small road and yet it shows an increase over the gross of the same month last year of $237,393, the ratio of gain being nearly 30 per cent. The Burlington & Quincy in its statement shows $339,593 increase in gross and $19,404 increase in net. The Quincy is what is known as a corn road, and while its gains are not as heavy as those of the St. Paul and the North West. they are made at a time when the new crop of corn, which as we all know is of such large dimensions, has not begun to move to any extent yet. Judging, too, by the weekly returns of earnings of the St. Paul, the showing for November will be fully as good as that for October, for the company has reported $277,175 gain in gross for the first week, $288,159 for the second week and $171,531 for the third week, making $736,865 together for the three weeks. We may say that the company's increase in net for October as shown by the statement issued yesterday is $669,955.

But from other sections also we have some very good returns. This applies even to the anthracite coal roads. Thus the Central of New Jersey reports $160,032 increase in gross and $148,444 increase in net, and the Philadelphia & Reading has $272,469 increase in gross and $279,680 in net on the operations of the Railroad Company and $865,598 increase in gross and $85,583 increase in net on the operations of the Coal & Iron Company. In the South we have the Southern Railway showing $143,224 addition to its gross and $47,410 addition to its net. Among roads in other parts of the country we may mention the Wabash, which is able to report an improvement of $141,925 in gross for the month and an improvement of $88,617 in net, and the Canadian Pacific, which has enlarged its gross receipts $100,889 and its net $99,399.

There has been an improvement in the European financial situation this week, due to the efforts of strong banking houses to assist in the settlement which has been in progress in London, and from all accounts the liquidation in South African mining shares has ended; there seems to have been somewhat of a natural upward reaction in these specialties in consequence. The political situation in Europe has likewise improved, though yesterday disquieting reports were again received from Constantinople; the improvement has been reflected in a sharp recovery in consols in London and in slightly easier discounts at that centre. The request of the Powers made to the Sultan to give permission for an increase in the number of "foreign guard-ships" in the Bosphorus which last week it was said had been refused was on Wednesday, according to a press cable, granted. It was also stated that firmans would be issued providing for the passage through the Dardanelles of the extra ships demanded. This, it was claimed, would put an end to a very dangerous situation, for if the request were not granted the Powers might insist upon forcing the passage of the Dardanelles. The latest advices show that the Sultan is still pursuing his policy of procrastination and delay.

Last week's bank return did not fully reflect the loss of cash caused by withdrawals of legal tenders for exchange for gold required for shipment, such withdrawals having been chiefly made on Friday. Therefore the statement was made on declining averages for cash. As there was also $1,210,000 gold taken for shipment on Wednesday of this week it is probable that the bank return will show important changes in the reserve in to-day's statement, though these losses by export have been in part made good by larger arrivals of currency from the interior. The effect of lower reserves was apparent in the call loan branch of the money market during the week.

The rate for money on call, representing bankers' balances, has advanced from 1½@2 per cent to 2@2½ per cent; the average has not however been much above 2 per cent. Banks and trust companies quote 2 per cent as the minimum while a few obtain 2½ per cent. The offerings of time money are chiefly confined to trust companies and institutions other than banks, and foreign bankers are entirely out of this branch of the market. The demand is not at all urgent and the business is limited to special transactions, some of which are below and others above the quoted rates, according to the character of the collateral and the period of maturity. Quotations are 2 per cent for thirty days, 2½ per cent for sixty to ninety days, 3 per cent for four and 3½@4 per cent for five to seven months, these rates being for good, marketable security. The supply of commercial paper is only fair and the demand is somewhat limited; when business is done it is usually at concessions from the rates here quoted, which are 3½@4 per cent for sixty to ninety day endorsed bills receivable, 4@4½ per cent for four months commission house and prime four months single names, 4½@5 per cent for prime six months and 5 and above for good four to six months single names.

Aside from the above-mentioned improvement in the European political and financial situation, the only new feature is the report that France will soon be in the market for a refunding loan and that Chili is about to borrow £6,000,000. The Bank of England's minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 2 per cent. The cable reports discounts of sixty to ninety day bank bills in London 1 5 16 per cent. The open market rate at Paris is 1½ per cent, and at Berlin and Frankfort it is 3 per cent. According to our special cable from London the Bank of England gained £1,065,000 during the week and held at the close of the week £42,605,331. Our correspondent further advises us that the gain was due to the import of £959,000 (of which £373,000 were from the United States, £77,000 bought in the open market and £9,000 from miscellaneous sources), to receipts from the interior of Great Britain of £286,000, and to the export of £180,000, of which £100,000 were to the Cape and £80,000 miscellaneous.

The foreign exchange market has been dull and without special feature this week, with not the least change in nominal rates and only fractional alterations in figures for actual transactions. Bankers report the business very quiet for the season. The supply of commercial bills against cotton is still moderate, and those which are offered are held at high prices. Grain bills are coming forward more freely, and as they are more easily negotiated than cotton bills they command full prices. On Monday the market opened steady to firm, with rates for actual business at 4 87½@4 87¾ for long, 4 89@4 89¼ for short, and 4 89½@4 89¾ for cable transfers, these rates being entirely unchanged compared with those ruling on Friday of last week. The supply of commercial bills was fair and better, but they made no impression upon the market. On Tuesday the tone was easier, the demand for remittance having been satisfied in part by the engagement of $407,000 gold by L. von Hoffmann & Co. and of $803,000 by Lazard Freres for shipment on the following day, and the offerings of bills against part of this gold led to a reduction in the rate for cable transfers to 4 89½@4 89½. On Wednesday the market was quoted as easier, in the absence of demand, but no change was made in figures for actual business. The market was very dull and there were no indications whatever as to the amount of gold which would be shipped on Saturday, and it was said that possibly none would go forward. Thursday was a national holiday. Yesterday there were no new features. The gold withdrawals for shipment by the steamer to day were $1,000,000 by L. von Hoffmann & Co. and $750,000 by Baring, Magoun & Co., making the exports for the week $2,960,000. The following table shows the daily posted rates of exchange by leading drawers.

As already noted, the Pennsylvania Railroad submits a very good statement of earnings for the month of October. On the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie there is an increase of $423,280 in gross and of $63,834 in net, and on the lines west of Pittsburg an increase of $417,046 in gross and of $315,094 in net, so that for the combined system the improvement amounts to $840,326 in gross and to $378,928 in net. Last year in October comparison was with the month of heaviest traffic from the World's Fair, but notwithstanding that fact there was an increase of $359,733 in gross and of $353,641 in net on the eastern lines (to which the present year's increase of course is additional), and a loss of but $280,896 in gross and of $265,062 in net on the Western lines. The gains on the Pennsylvania system have been large all through the present year, and for the ten months to October 31 the increase on the combined lines reaches no less than $8,706,122 in gross and $3,379,053 in net. The following is a comparison for six years of the results on the lines east of Pittsburg.

The Northern Central for October reports $39,568 increase in gross and $28,236 increase in net, and the Allegheny Valley $33,347 increase in gross and $16,871 increase in net; these are both roads which form part of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, but whose earnings are reported separately. We have referred above to several other companies which have furnished returns this week for October. Below we compare the gross and net earnings of a number of roads for the last four years.

IMPORTANT MODIFICATIONS OF TREASURY REGULATIONS.

On Saturday of last week the Treasury Department issued a circular to Sub-Treasury officials modifying the instructions of July 9 and August 23 1886 regarding the treatment of light-weight gold coin. The officials were instructed to accept, when requested, all such coins at valuation in proportion to their actual weight, such valuation to be determined by deducting from the nominal value of the coin four cents for each grain each piece is found to be below the standard weight. At the same time the United States Treasurer directed Sub-Treasury officials to receive from banks and others United States gold coin in exchange for paper currency, such deposits to be made in sums or multiples of five hundred dollars, and the express charges on such coin and on the paper currency returned therefor to be borne by the Treasury Department.

In connection with this announcement it is of interest to recall some facts which help to explain the effect of the foregoing. The legal standing of abraded coin is generally known; the provisions which govern in such cases are found in the Revised Statutes, Sections 3505, 3512 and 3585. In substance, these sections direct (1) that gold coins shall be full legal tender at their nominal value when not below the standard of weight and limit of tolerance fixed by law; (2) if reduced in weight below such standard and tolerance, they shall be a legal tender at valuation in proportion to actual weight; (3) if after a circulation of twenty years they are reduced in weight by natural abrasion not more than one-half of one percentum below standard weight, and at ratable proportion for any period less than twenty years, they shall be received at their nominal value by the United States Treasury; (4) that gold coin in the Treasury reduced by weight below this limit of abrasion shall be re-coined. We do not know under what provision of the Statutes the Government first established its usage, which has been so long in practice, when rejecting gold coins presented to the Treasury that are below the limit of tolerance to stamp them with "L," denoting "light." That course seems unnecessary and arbitrary, as the person who presented the stamped coin is neither the issuer of the coin nor the cause of the waste, but simply unfortunate in being the last holder, and yet he is thereby not only required to pay the abrasion (that is, to make good all the natural wear), but also a commission on selling the coin to a bullion broker.

We notice in a letter of Deputy Assistant Treasurer Muhleman published in the "Evening Post" of Nov. 16 some interesting facts given with reference to the extent of the existing abrasion, facts disclosed through the recent bond issues. He states that out of $42,544,000 gold received at the Sub-Treasury in New York in February 1894 the light pieces amounted to $43,985; and out of $17,711,000 received in February 1895 $32,075 were rejected; the total of light coin in $60,255,000 was $76,060, or about $1 25 per $1,000. He adds that as coin is used more generally in the Western States, and almost exclusively in the States of the Pacific Slope, the proportion of light pieces is probably much greater than the above examination shows. Assuming, however, that it is on the average five times as great, the amount of light coin per $1,000,000 would be $6,250, and on the entire circulation, estimated by the Director of the Mint at $564,000,000, the proportion would bring the amount of light coin at present to $3,525,000. The probable actual loss on the re-coinage of this amount of coin may be gathered from the experience of the Mint. Mr. Muhleman figures the average loss on light coin melted down in the Philadelphia Mint at $4 32 per $1,000; in the New York Assay Office the loss was $44 03, and in the San Francisco Mint $100 10 per $1,000, while at New Orleans the loss has been $10 35 per $1,000. The results for all offices of the Mint for the past three years show a diminishing proportion of loss, tending thus to bear out the assumption that the condition of the coin in use is much better than formerly, probably made better by the export in recent years of the light-weight coin received at the Sub-Treasury. Here are the figures.

Year.	Nom'l value of coin deposited.	Loss in melting.	Loss per $1,000.
1893	806,830	14,360	17 81
1894	2,105,983	12,368	5 87
	$3,469,423	$44,860	$12 93

On the basis of the foregoing Mr. Muhleman estimates that the loss on re-coinage will not exceed $10 per $1,000, so that on the sum estimated to be abraded beyond the limit of tolerance ($3,525,000) the total cost would be $35,250. If it should turn out, however, that the gold used in the States of the Pacific Slope is in a worse condition than is herein shown, the amount needed would nevertheless be covered by an appropriation of $50,000, which would be sufficient to recoin $5,000,000 of coin showing a loss of $10 per $1,000, or one per cent. A special examination of the coin current in San Francisco could readily establish a proportion which could be relied upon.

In the light of these facts it is not only obviously just that there should be a standing appropriation sufficient for the Government to re-coin any of its naturally abraded coins, instead of pushing the loss off its own shoulders on to the public's, or rather the last holder's—it is not only just that the Government should bear that loss, but as the cost of doing it is such a trivial affair we can conceive no reason why it has been so long neglected. Moreover as the case stands this neglect of duty is not any saving; it saddles a larger loss upon the country's commerce. We pay for it many times over in the higher par for foreign exchange ruling when mixed coin is offered at the Sub-Treasury for export. A sprinkling of light-weight pieces in a bag of coin taints the whole; that is to say, to the banker about to withdraw gold for export it makes the total value uncertain, so that when conditions are otherwise normal, he waits for abnormal rates sufficiently high to insure himself not only against the actual abrasion but against the uncertainty as to its extent.

The part of the above order of most immediate importance is the offer of the Treasury Department to pay the transportation charges upon gold coin sent to the Sub-Treasury. This it is thought in official circles will result in the receipt of fairly large amounts of the metal from interior banks. Thus far the receipts have been small but the inquiries have been numerous, and to these inquiries full explanations have been sent. Last summer and early in the fall banks in Pittsburg, Buffalo, Chicago and other cities expressed a willingness to turn over part of their gold to the Treasury, but it was done only to a small extent because then the express charges were required to be borne by the banks. Now the Department will pay these charges, and if those banks are still disposed to make the exchange every facility will be offered by the Treasury officials.

A fact of some significance and worth the attention of Congress is that a few individuals have within the last week from patriotic motives sent gold to the Treasury which they have long had in their possession. The amount in the aggregate is of course not large. It is possible that this movement might be made large if Congress would promptly provide for the redemption at their nominal value of all light gold coins which have not been unlawfully dealt with. Perhaps much of the gold now hoarded in various parts of the country would be forwarded to the Treasury offices; and certainly such a provision would aid in inducing banks to ship a portion of their supplies. The stock of gold (coin and bullion) in the United States, according to the official report of Nov. 1, just a month ago, was $618,543,433. If that statement is correct there is abundance in the country, especially when added to the large production now in progress, to double our gold exports without disturbing our currency status. All that is wanted is to bring more of this stock where it can be useful in the present extremity.

INTER-STATE COMMERCE COMMISSION AWARDING DAMAGES.

After a period of inactivity during the summer months the Inter-State Commission has latterly again begun to give very decided evidences of its existence. We referred two weeks ago to its decision in the case of the rates to Cordele, Ga., which involved a consideration of the basing-point system, or the question of charging higher rates to local points than to the larger trade centres. We now have the text of its report and opinion, covering over 80 printed pages, in a case involving the question of discrimination in rates in the matter of shipments of petroleum. This latter is a decidedly novel ruling, for in it the Commission undertake to award large amounts in damages to the complainants and on transactions extending over a long period of years, that is from Sept. 3 1888 to May 15, 1894.

The decision embraces several related cases, the complainants being the same in all but one of them. In the first of these the Independent Refiners' Association of Titusville, Pa., and the Independent Refiners' Association of Oil City, Pa., bring an action against the Western New York & Pennsylvania, the New York, Lake Erie & Western, the Delaware & Hudson, the Fitchburg and the Boston & Maine railroads; in the second case, the action is by the same parties against the first two of the above-named roads, together with the Lehigh Valley; in the third case the plaintiffs are joined with the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Western New York & Pennsylvania as defendants; the fourth is an earlier action in which Rice, Robinson & Witherop were the plaintiffs and the Western New York & Pennsylvania the defendant. All through these proceedings there has been most unusual delay. Complaints in the first two cases were filed as early as December 4 1888, in the third case January 30 1889. Answers were filed from December 26 1888 to February 28 1889. Hearing was had at Titusville May 15 1889. So far there was reasonable promptness. Briefs now came in very tardily—the first not until February 11 1890, the last not until over nineteen months later—that is, on September 23 1891. Then the Commission took nearly fourteen months more to reach a conclusion and write its opinion, its decision coming on November 14 1892.

Thus almost four years elapsed between the initiation of the complaint and its determination. The ruling was against the roads on the point mainly at issue, to which we shall presently refer. The Commission, however, also decided that the plaintiffs should have "reparation" in the shape of money awards, but did not then determine the amount of such awards. Therefore the cases were continued for further action and inquiry. The subsequent proceedings dragged along as slowly as the earlier ones, the claimants being tardy in serving copies of their claims on the defendants, "and the carriers also evinced no disposition to hurry this matter of reparation to a close." Finally in June last the Commission took the bull by the horns and issued an order directing the carriers to complete their examination of the claims and file statements not later than June 25 1895, the time being, however, subsequently extended to July 15 1895. Now at length we have the result of the Commission's action on the claims. The report reached us the latter part of last week, but the imprint on it says it was filed October 22 1895. At all events, almost seven years have passed since the inception of the original complaint.

The list of damages awarded is long and heavy. The Commission has passed on no less than 73 claims, and the aggregate of the awards reaches roughly $85,000 with interest at 6 per cent to be added from May 15 1894, and this covers simply the transactions of parties who joined in the suits. The Commission say that other claimants "may, on failure of the defendants to adjust their demands, proceed upon the basis of reparation prescribed to enforce their claims in the courts." In view of the novel character of the action it is important to know upon what foundation it rests. While a number of collateral questions were raised, the main point at issue was as to the charges on shipments of oil in barrels as compared with the charges on shipments in bulk in tank cars. The plaintiffs are independent refiners, and the substance of their complaint was that on shipments to Boston and New England points and also on shipments to New York points, they were subjected to great disadvantage because in sending oil over the railroads in barrels they were obliged to pay not only for the oil in the barrels but in addition for the weight of the barrels, while those shipping in tank cars had to pay simply for the oil contents of the cars, and thus saved the freight on the barrels. This they alleged was discrimination against them, since they were not permitted to ship in the same way—that is in tank cars, these being in most cases simply hired from those engaged in the oil shipping business, mainly the Standard Oil Company, the railroads generally owning few or none of them, the Pennsylvania Railroad, however, being a noteworthy exception. The Commission in quite a lengthy decision sustained this contention in 1892, as already stated, holding that it is the duty of the carrier to equip its road with the means of transportation, and in the absence of exceptional conditions those means must be open impartially to all shippers of like traffic; that "where oil is transported by the carrier, both in barrels and tank cars, and the use of the tank cars is not open to shippers impartially, but is practically limited to one class of shippers, the charge for the barrel package in barrel shipments, in the absence of a corresponding charge on tank shipments, resulting in a greater cost of transportation to the shipper in barrels on like quantities of oil than to the tank shipper, is clearly a discrimination against the former in favor of the latter."

At first thought it does seem as if we had here a very clear case of unjust discrimination, and this feeling becomes all the stronger on reflection that the party alleged to be chiefly benefitted is such a powerful rival of the independent refiners as the Standard Oil Company. But when we probe a little below the surface we find that the question is not wholly free from doubt. There are many peculiar features connected with the whole matter. Thus we discover that when the question of the lawfulness of the charge for the barrel package was first presented for decision in the case of Rice vs. Western York & Pennsylvania the Commission ruled in favor of the railroads. Subsequently, however, on motion of the complainants, the case was re-opened, a new hearing granted and the first ruling reversed. Obviously such a course of action on the part of the Commission suggests that there are elements of uncertainty inherent in the problem which make a correct adjudication by no means easy. Curiously enough, the railroads averred that they had made the charge for the barrel package expressly to accord with the earlier ruling of the Commission. However, they did not rest their defense on this plea.

It will be understood that the Commission in its subsequent ruling condemning the roads for charging for the weight of the barrel gave the roads the alternative of providing tank cars open to the use of all shippers. But the initial lines from the oil regions—the Western New York & Pennsylvania and the Erie—were in no condition to avail of this alternative. They did not have the means to buy or build tank cars. As a matter of fact, both the roads mentioned have since the complaints were begun gone through the process of foreclosure and been sold out at the auction block. To these roads therefore the order of the Commission meant that they must carry something for nothing—that they must carry a barrel weighing sixty to seventy pounds without getting any pay for the work.

That there are elements of injustice in such a course even the Commission are ready to admit, and they only justify their order on the ground that it is the duty of the carrier to furnish equal facilities to all shippers. It appears that prior to September 3 1888 the rates were the same on both tank shipments and barrel shipments, nothing being charged for the weight of the barrel. But it also appears that for a long time previously the roads had been in active competition with the pipe lines, and that rates on both classes of shipments had as a result dropped to figures which were non-compensatory. Hence though rates were advanced on barrel and tank shipments alike at that time, the advance was clearly justified. The Commission were unable to find any fault with these higher rates in themselves, although they made a very extended investigation into that phase of the question; their sole objection was that in charging so much per 100 lbs. the shipper had to pay on the barrel as well as on the oil. As showing how low the rates are, it is only necessary to say that they yield an average generally of but little over six-tenths of a cent per ton per mile, and in some cases not as much as that. On several of the roads these oil rates per ton-mile are actually less than the cost of carrying a ton of general freight a mile, as revealed by the annual reports of the companies on file with the Commission.

Moreover, this presents only one phase of the question. It was proved that the amount of paying freight hauled in the average tank car is greater than that in the average car loaded with barrels, and that in consequence the revenue to the carrier is greater in the former case than in the latter, even when the barrel is charged for, and is of course still greater where no charge is made for the barrel. It was estimated by one of the witnesses that at the rate of 16½ cents per 100 lbs. to New York points, the carrier would receive on an average train load, the barrel being charged for, $35 76 more for the transportation of oil in tanks than in barrels, and excluding the charge for the barrel, $237 20 more. To be sure, the tank car has to be carried back empty, but so do most of the cars carrying the oil in barrels, the leakage and odor rendering them unfit for general use. The evidence offered went to show that not more than five to ten per cent of oil cars return loaded. Another important consideration bearing on the matter which cannot be overlooked is that though the shipper wants his barrels carried free of cost, they are actually worth 16 or 17 cents more to him here (taking the ruling market price) than the price he has to pay for them in the oil regions. The Inter-State Commerce Commission admit this, but they contend that the higher price simply represents the additional cost of labor, &c., in preparing the barrel.

A material point was brought out by the counsel of the Western New York & Pennsylvania at the hearing in 1889, when he showed that the Standard Oil Company, in whose favor the method of making rates was said to discriminate, had actually shipped more oil in barrels than in bulk, paying of course the extra charge for the barrels. We say this is a material point because it is evidence that the requirements of the trade call for considerable shipments in barrels any way, whether facilities exist for bulk shipments or not. It has been by no means established that the complainants in the present cases would avail to any great extent of additional tank cars (outside of what they are now using) if these cars were all open to their use. For certain purposes there is an obvious advantage in having the oil in barrels and it looks very much as if they wanted to turn to their account the helplessness of the railroads in not having any tank cars, and make that a weapon for compelling the abolition of the charge on barrels. A statement offered in evidence showed that on October 1 1889 the tank-car equipment of the United States consisted of 7,864 cars, of which only 1,343 cars were owned by the railroads (no less than 1,130 of the whole number being in possession of the Pennsylvania Railroad), 1,844 were owned by independent refiners, and all the rest by the Standard Oil Company. Thus the Pennsylvania is the only road in position to offer the tank-car facilities to general shippers, and it appears that 450 of its cars had been open indiscriminately to all shippers and found fully equal to the demand. The independent refiners could not deny this statement, but they sought to break its force by saying that the Pennsylvania would carry oil to Communipaw, but not to Perth Amboy, where they would like to have it go. We notice, too, that in its present ruling the Commission do not make any award against the Pennsylvania, but leave the complainants against that road to take their case into the courts.

We have gone thus at length into the various details because in no other way is it possible to determine what warrant there may be for the action of the Commission in going into the business of making awards. If the facts given do not furnish ample justification for the course of the railroads in disobeying the order of the Commission issued in 1892, at least they demonstrate that the matter is involved in much doubt and that on review by the courts there is certainly a possibility that the Commission may be found in error. This being so, it is difficult to see upon what grounds the order to compel "reparation" can be justified.

But the difficulties do not end here. The awards are principally against the Western New York & Pennsylvania and the Erie. As both roads have been foreclosed, and are no longer in existence, the question arises how are the plaintiffs going to collect their awards? The Commission express the opinion that "any order entered by us (them) requiring reparation to shippers for acts made unlawful by the statute will doubtless be promptly obeyed by the receivers of said defendants under direction of the Courts from which, respectively, their authority to act was derived." The Courts have never yet allowed themselves to be used as instruments of the Inter State Commerce Commission, but have always insisted on making independent investigations. Supposing, however, that the present cases should prove an exception, the properties have been foreclosed and the purchasers at the sale have been given title to them. In the case of the Western New York & Pennsylvania, the new company has had possession since the 1st of last April. Is it likely that the whole foreclosure proceedings would be opened up again? The Commission say that all the various roads which participated in making the through rates are each individually liable for the whole amount of the overcharge. The initial lines being defunct, are the other roads to be compelled to stand the whole amount of damage?

Still another point deserves consideration. Can it really be affirmed that action of the kind here taken by the Commission is within the contemplation of the Inter-State Act? The Commission give the eighth section of the Act as the basis of their authority. This provides "that in case any common carrier subject to the provisions of this Act shall do, cause to be done, or permit to be done, any act, matter, or thing in this Act prohibited or declared to be unlawful, or shall omit to do any act, matter or thing in this Act required to be done, such common carrier shall be liable to the person or persons injured thereby for the full amount of damages sustained in consequence of any such violation of the provisions of this Act, together with a reasonable counsel or attorney's fee, to be fixed by the court in every case of recovery, which attorney's fee shall be taxed and collected as part of the costs in the case." Assuming that the cases come plainly within this provisionof the statute, can it be maintained that the law contemplated punishment in instances where the right and wrong of the matter was not clear, and where there was no evidence of wilful injury. We can not help thinking that the better course for the Commission would have been to seek to enforce its order of November 14 1892 (when it became apparent that the roads would not obey it) through the courts. To make awards when it seems likely that the Judiciary will not uphold them can only operate to weaken the authority of the Commission.

SENATOR THURSTON'S PLAN FOR SETTLING THE PACIFIC RAILROAD DEBT.

A reminder of the urgency of the situation of the Pacific roads in their relations and indebtedness to the United States has been furnished this week in the issue by the Treasury Department of a circular giving notice that $3,680,000 of the so-called "currency sixes" become due and will be paid off the 1st of January. This is the third lot of these bonds which the Government has had to take care of within a short time, about $3,000,000 having matured and been redeemed in January and November of the present year, and $4,320,000 more will fall due in February. The importance of the matter lies in the fact that these amounts are simply the beginning of the series, that within the next few years other amounts will fall due, and that the Government has not the means to meet all the successive issues of the bonds. We presume the sinking funds are drawn upon to take care of these early lots, but these funds are not of extensive proportions, and when they are exhausted the question will become very pressing what to do with the large remainder of the obligations.

If this question of how to provide for the currency sixes or Pacific Railroad subsidy bonds is an urgent one, the question how to protect the interests of the United States in the roads—how to secure re-payment of at least a portion of the large amounts owing to the United States by the companies—is an even more important and likewise a more perplexing one. In the case of the Union Pacific the Government is actually threatened with a foreclosure of the first mortgage lien, which being antecedent to its own lien would extinguish its mortgage equity in the property. It is at this juncture that Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska comes forward with the outlines of a plan (as reported in the daily press) which seems to possess great merit and which in our estimation would solve the difficulty completely—at one and the same time protecting the Government interest in the property and providing means for meeting the currency sixes.

Senator Thurston's plan accords very closely with that proposed by the Government directors, but we need hardly say that we prefer it to the latter, since it amends said plan in the particular in which we think it is chiefly open to criticism, as shown by our article on the subject in the Chronicle of November 2, pages 772 to 774. Briefly, Senator Thurston would have the Government ascertain the indebtedness owing to the United States on the whole through line from the Missouri River to San Jose, Cal. (comprising the Union Pacific and Central Pacific), and then have the Secretary of the Treasury "offer that claim as one claim, to be sold to a purchaser as one claim, and sold to the highest bidder." The bid might be for 50 per cent of the entire amount, but he thinks it would be well to put the minimum at 40 per cent, so as to insure a sale. He well says that a public offer of this sort would arouse such competition among the great railroad interests of the country that the Government would obtain certainly what its claim is or can be worth or could be made by any forced sale of the property, or through any other disposition of it, in view of the fact that there is a very large first mortgage ahead of the Government's claim on the entire line.

An excellent feature in this as in the Government directors' plan is that it would effect a definite and final settlement of the whole vexed question and at the same time would sever all relationship between the roads and the United States—a consummation very much to be wished. The Government directors' plan however is cumbrous and there is at least a doubt whether the desired end could be reached through it. It proposes as a preliminary that the Government should pay off the prior mortgages and get possession of the property through foreclosure proceedings conducted by itself. All this having been done, the Government would then undertake to sell its claim and interest in the property. Obviously such a method of procedure would mean further and prolonged delay, and it would be particularly objectionable, as pointed out in our previous article, because it would involve the United States for further large amounts, thus drawing it deeper into the concern.

We need hardly say that the present is not the time for the country to assume any further new obligations—even if only temporarily. Under Senator Thurston's plan all this would be avoided. The Government would not be called upon to put any more money in the properties, but instead would, as Mr. Thuston says, receive almost at once in cash whatever its second lien against the properties is fairly worth in the market under competitive conditions. We see no reason either why the Government should not get as much for its claim before as after foreclosure. Indeed we are not at all sure that it would not realize more in that way. Mr. Thurston therefore is justified in asserting that his plan is simpler because it secures to the Government all that it can hope to obtain without further financial responsibility, and leaves to the purchasers of the Government claim the burden of carrying on all the foreclosure proceedings and effecting a reorganization. To facilitate the work, Mr. Thurston would give some one court of the United States, presumably the one for the Nebraska district, complete jurisdiction over the foreclosure proceedings, and he would also have the sale made to a committee of trustees; but these are all matters of detail which need not engage our attention, since they do not affect the main question.

In the press interview Mr. Thurston does not speak of the bearing such a sale of the Government claim as he proposes would have on the question how to provide means to take up the currency sixes as they mature. But obviously from that standpoint also there is much to be said in favor of the proposition. Mr. Thurston was asked what he thought the Government would receive under his plan. He said between $45,000,000 and $55,000,000. This we take it refers simply to the claims against the Central and Union Pacific roads. The principal amount of the subsidy bonds issued in aid of these two roads (including the Kansas Pacific) is $59,424,632, and the total amount issued in aid of all the Pacific roads, including these two, is $64,623,512, which of course was the aggregate amount of the outstanding currency sixes before the recent redemptions. If, therefore, the United States can expect to receive $45,000,000 to $55,000,000 on its claims against the roads, all occasion for anxiety regarding the maturing currency sixes will be removed.

It is earnestly to be desired that Mr. Thurston shall carry out his expressed intentions and submit his proposed bill early at the coming session of Congress, for as we have shown there is urgent need for prompt action. We think it is very appropriate too that the bill should emanate from the Senator of a State where a large portion of the mileage of the Union Pacific is located. At the same time Senator Thurston's attitude is significant of the popular temper in that part of the country; heretofore, as we know, public opinion in Nebraska has been peculiarly hostile to the roads. As to whether Congress can be got to pass a bill of this kind, we think there is no occasion for uneasiness on that score. Previous measures for dealing with the Pacific roads have failed of passage in part because Congressmen could not grasp their meaning; mainly, however, because the fear existed that the roads were through these measures attempting to evade their obligations to the Government. Let a bill be proposed providing for the payment by the companies of a large money consideration and we are persuaded all opposition will disappear. We would suggest, however, that Mr. Thurston refrain from his purpose to have the Government interest in both the Central and Union Pacific offered for sale as "one claim." The two are distinct properties, and will in all probability have to be reorganized separately, and it would complicate matters to have the claims against both combined in this way.

THE NEW TRUNK LINE AGREEMENT.

The following relates to an error in the official copy of the new trunk line agreement furnished to the CHRONICLE and published by us last Saturday. In our article on the Financial Situation some comments will be found regarding the change.

TRUNK LINE ASSOCIATION,

Editor Commercial and Financial Chronicle:

DEAR SIR.—Through some misunderstanding, the copy of the articles of organization of the Joint Traffic Association furnished you last week was incorrect so far as Section 2 of Article 21 was concerned, giving the impression that any party might retire from the agreement by giving ninety days notice after January 1, 1896.

To correct any misapprehension I give you the correct wording of Article 21, Section 2, as it appears in the Agreement finally adopted. Very respectfully,

F. H. HOYT, Secretary.

The following is the section referred to in the foregoing in the form in which it should have appeared last week:

SECTION 2.—This agreement shall take effect Jan. 1, 1896, and shall continue in existence for five years thereafter. After said period any company may retire therefrom upon giving ninety days written notice of its desire to do so.

INCOME ACCOUNT OF THE UNITED STATES RAILWAYS.

The Statistician of the Inter-State Commerce Commission has prepared a preliminary report on the income and expenditures of railways in the United States for the year ending June 30 1895. The report itself is not yet ready but the following brief outline of it has been furnished for the use of the press.

The report includes the returns from 650 roads, whose reports were filed on or before November 9 1895, and covers the operations of 164,729 miles of line, or 92 per cent of the total mileage in the United States. The gross earnings were $1,043,022,853, of which $233,185,792 were from passenger service, $668,022,988 from freight service, and $26,217,595 were other earnings from operation, covering earnings from telegraph, car mileage balances, switching charges, etc. The operating expenses were $677,967,635, leaving net earnings of $365,325,318 as compared with net earnings of $320,137,670 for the same roads in 1894. Reduced to a mileage basis, gross earnings were $6,336, operating expenses were $4,119, and net earnings were $1,977, or a decrease in gross earnings of $13 per mile as compared with 1894 and of $1,094 per mile as compared with 1893; a decrease in operating expenses of $44 per mile as compared with 1894 and of $757 per mile as compared with 1893. Net earnings show gain over 1894 of $31 per mile of line, but a decrease of $337 per mile as compared with 1893. Passenger receipts fell off $177 per mile as compared with 1894, while freight receipts show a gain of $119 per mile. Passenger receipts were $436 per mile less than in 1893 and freight receipts show a decrease as compared with that year of $755 per mile. The largest gain in net earnings has been in Groups I, III and IX.

Income from sources outside of the operations of the roads was $43,057,243, making total income available for the payment of fixed charges and dividends $353,412,461. Total deductions from income, including fixed charges, were $336,351,946, and dividends paid were $53,135,545, leaving a deficit from the operations of the year of $31,075,030. The dividends paid by the same roads the preceding year were $61,504,785.

THE GREAT NORTHERN REPORT—CORRECTION.—In our article last week on the Great Northern report an expression crept in which seems to have puzzled, as it well might, some of our readers. The expression makes us say that owing to the further increase in train-load the road was able to reduce the average expense per train mile. The mistake is in referring the reduction to the increase in train-load. What we meant to say was increase in train mileage. This increase in train mileage, due to the expansion in the company's business, serves to distribute certain items of expense which do not vary with the changes in the volume of business, over a larger total of mileage, and it is that circumstance presumably that will explain the reduction in the aggregate expense per train-mile.

Monetary and Commercial English News

LONDON, SATURDAY, Nov. 16, 1895.

Lord Salisbury's speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet on Saturday evening has had a very reassuring effect at home and abroad, and there is a decidedly better feeling in the markets. The action of the French Finance Minister in inducing the great banks to combine to prevent a further fall has also had a very good effect; and the fears that were everywhere prevalent of an utter break-down in Paris have now been dissipated. Further, the run upon the Ottoman Bank in Constantinople has ended, and some deposits are being returned. The political prospect in Turkey is as bad as ever. The six Great Powers, according to Lord Salisbury, are working harmoniously, and at present they are understood to be considering a proposal made by the Austrian Government for joint action to restore order in Turkey. What the proposal is nobody knows exactly; but as all the Powers are sending squadrons to the Mediterranean it is thought that a naval demonstration, if not actual naval action, is intended.

The recovery here and in Paris has helped the Berlin, Vienna and Pesth bourses; but in St. Petersburg there has been a semi-panic. It was not known that St. Petersburg had taken part very much in the mining boom, but undoubtedly St. Petersburg had speculated a good deal in Russian securities of all kinds, in the new Chinese loan and in some other international stocks. The Minister of Finance called the heads of the great banks together, and is said to have addressed very strong language to them. The banks in consequence are now supporting the market. As the week closes, therefore, there is a very much better feeling on the Continent as well as here, and hopes are entertained that a slow recovery will now set in.

Meanwhile trade is undoubtedly improving. The Clearing House returns, the railway traffic returns and the Exchequer returns are all most satisfactory, and prove that the volume of business done is exceedingly large. On the Continent there has been some check on account of the disturbances on the bourses and the political scare; but even there trade is better than it was. From South America the accounts are very good, particularly from Argentina. One of the great Argentine railway companies, which has its head office in London, has in fact stated that the accumulation of traffic at all its stations is so great that it has not rolling stock sufficient to cope with it.

Money during the week has been in better demand for the Stock Exchange, and there are likewise more bills coming forward. But the supply is enormous and rates will probably fall away now.

Silver is fluctuating between 30¾d. and 31d. per ounce, and not much is doing.

Efforts have been made by Sir Donald Currie to settle the Belfast and Glasgow ship-building strike, but unfortunately without success. The strike or lock-out may therefore continue for some time. But it is to be remembered that there is no cause of dispute between the Scotch employers and their work people and that the orders on the books are very numerous.

The fortnightly settlement which began on Monday morning and ended on Thursday evening has passed off much more smoothly than had been anticipated. Indeed on Saturday it looked at one time as if we were about to have a very able panic. For intervals of a few minutes once or twice it was almost impossible to sell at any price. The break down was caused by the immense number of selling orders from every part of the Continent, but chiefly from Paris. The French provincial bourses, especially that of Lyons, got thoroughly disorganized and threw stocks in unmanageable amounts on the Paris market. Paris in turn threw immense amounts upon London, and Berlin, Vienna, Pesth and St. Petersburg were frightened by the fall in Paris and likewise began to sell. The consequence was that jobbers here to protect themselves refused to buy and prices fell alarmingly. It was freely predicted, therefore, late on Saturday, that the number of failures at the coming Settlement would exceed anything that has been known since the Baring crisis. The market, however, under the influence of Lord Salisbury's speech, opened better on Monday morning; and the combination of the great French banks likewise strengthened Paris. Forced selling, therefore, was only on a moderate scale on Monday, and the market decidedly hardened as the day went on. Consequently the Settlement began at higher making up prices than had been anticipated. Only one small failure was announced on Thursday when payments had to be made; but a few cheques were returned on Thursday evening as there were no assets, and consequently further failures must take place, though perhaps not so many as is feared.

But the failures, whatever their number may ultimately turn out to be, do not truly represent the condition of the market. There is no question that very many members of the Stock Exchange had to be helped. Both bankers and the stronger members of the Stock Exchange recognize that the conditions were peculiar; that although the firms in difficulties had undoubtedly been to blame for encouraging overrash speculation, yet they could not be expected to foresee such a combination of disturbing influences—political, banking and financial—as has actually occurred. Therefore very great consideration was shown by creditors as a body, and it is owing to that mainly that the failures are less numerous than was feared. At the same time it is not to be forgotten that the losses were due far more to the inability of operators on the Continent to pay their differences than to any very great defaulting at home. Operators here at home paid their differences fairly well, and the losses were not by any means very great. Indeed, upon the whole the London Stock Exchange has gained much more than it has lost by the mining boom if the only profits anticipated had been actually realized; for it is to be recollected that London sold on an immense scale to the Continent, and the difficulties in London were mainly due to the fact that the Continent could not pay up.

As a matter of course, liquidation in the mining and international markets will continue for a good while. The actual plan to be followed by the great French banks is kept secret, but the best opinion is that the banks will carry over all kinds of stock for members of the Bourse who need only time, and that they will buy at a price from the actually insolvent. In either case there will have to be a very considerable liquidation, and the same is true of the other Continental bourses. Therefore, as the market strengthens here there is sure to be large selling from time to time. As this is the general expectation there is a hope that the American market will broaden and strengthen. The argument is that people will be afraid to buy much speculatively either in the mining or the interbourse department and that they will turn, therefore, to the American as more promising. At the same time there is a very large investment in both mines and international securities not only by great capitalists but also by small people.

WALL STREET, FRIDAY, NOV. 29, 1895.—5 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The political and financial conditions now existing in Europe have had less influence in Wall Street during this week than for several weeks past. The fortnightly settlement on the London Stock Exchange has passed satisfactorily and the eagerness of foreign holders to dispose of American securities has in some measure subsided. The foreign exchange market has become a trifle easier, and the outflow of gold this week is considerably less than had been expected.

The increased earnings of prominent railway systems continue to be a feature of interest and importance. Those of the Pennsylvania for the lines both east and west of Pittsburg in the month of October, just given out, show a gain of $340,326 in gross earnings and of $378,928 in net.

One feature of the week is the new interest which has sprung up in Colorado mining shares. This feature has importance chiefly because of promised future developments in gold and silver mining in Colorado. It is interesting to note that simultaneously with the development of the interest above mentioned the stock of a prominent Colorado railroad —the Denver & Rio Grande—advanced nearly three points in this market.

The open market rates for call loans during the week on stock and bond collaterals have ranged from 2 to 2½ per cent. To-day rates on call were 2 to 2½ per cent. Prime commercial paper is quoted at 3¾ to 4½ per cent.

The Bank of England weekly statement on Thursday showed an increase in bullion of £1,065,288, and the percentage of reserve to liabilities was 59·33 against 57·59 last week; the discount rate remains unchanged at 2 per cent. The Bank of France shows an increase of 2,250,000 francs in gold and 3,225,000 francs in silver.

The New York City Clearing-House banks in their statement of Nov. 23 showed a decrease in the reserve held of $1,073,600 and a surplus over the required reserve of $19,594,950, against $20,404,050 the previous week.

Foreign Exchange.—The foreign exchange market has been easy with a somewhat more liberal supply of commercial bills and a tendency to lower rates. Gold shipments are a less prominent feature, the total amount for the week being $2,960,000, including $1,750,000 engaged for to-morrow.

To-day's actual rates of exchange were as follows: Bankers' sixty days sterling, 4 87¼@4 88; demand, 4 89@4 89¼; cables, 4 89¼@4 89½.

Posted rates of leading bankers are as follows:

The following were the rates of domestic exchange on New York at the under-mentioned cities to-day: Savannah, buying 1-16 discount, selling 1-16 premium; Charleston, buying par, selling ⅛ premium; New Orleans, bank, par; commercial $1 75 per $1,000 discount; Chicago, 50c. per $1,000 premium; St. Louis, 50@75c. per $1,000 premium.

State and Railroad Bonds.—State bonds have been dull. Sales at the Board include $10,000 Virginia fund. debt 2-3s of 1991 at 62 and $1,000 Tenn. settlement 3s (small) at 85.

The railroad bond market has been dull but generally firm, and changes in the active issues are mostly confined to fractions of a point.

The list of strong features includes Mo. Kan. & Texas, Oregon Improvement, Northern Pacific, Reading, St. Louis Southwest., Rio Grande Western, Union Pacific, Texas & Pacific and the Atchison bonds.

Among the weak features are Ches. & Ohio gen. 4½s Ore. Short Line, Ore. S. L. & Utah No. bonds. Other active issues include the Wabash, Wisconsin Central, Tex. & N. O., N. Y. N. H. & H., Minn. & St. Louis, Kan. Pac., C. R. I. & Pac., Southern Railway and C. B. & Q. bonds.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—There is a better sentiment prevailing in the stock market, which has increased as the week advanced. The foreign liquidation of American securities has decreased, and other influences have resulted in a decided improvement in the tone of the market. The granger shares, and stocks with an international market, have responded most readily to the changed conditions. The advance in this class of securities is from about 1 to 2 points, including St. Paul, North West., Rock Island, Louisville & Nashville, Southern preferred and some of the Southwestern shares. Burlington & Quincy had gained 2 points on Wednesday when it sold at 86¼, but lost 1½ to-day, as the October statement was disappointing. The coalers continue dull, notwithstanding the reports of increased earnings for October. Lackawanna has been steady, Central of N. J. is one point higher and D. & Hudson Canal two points lower than last week. Mich. Central, Lake Shore and Ill. Central have gained from over 2 to 3½ points on limited sales. Denver & Rio Grande preferred has been more prominent than usual and advanced 2½ points, possibly as a result of a new activity in Colorado mining shares. Manhattan Elevated has recovered about 1 point of its recent decline.

American Tobacco has been most active of the industrial list and continued a weak feature, declining to 78½ on Tuesday and closing at 80½. U. S. Leather preferred sold at 61⅞ to-day, a loss of 36 of the 40 points it had advanced during the year. Am. Sugar has been relatively steady, Tenn. Coal & Iron has gained 1 point; General Electric and Pacific Mail are fractionally higher than last week.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The following table shows the gross earnings of United States railroads (and also a few Mexican and Canadian roads) for the latest period reported. The statement includes every steam road from which regular weekly or monthly returns can be obtained. The first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

The returns of the street railways are not included in this table, but are brought together separately on a subsequent page.

STREET RAILWAYS AND TRACTION COMPANIES.

The following table shows the gross earnings for the latest period of all STREET railways from which we are able to obtain weekly or monthly returns. The arrangement of the table is the same as that for the steam roads—that is, the first two columns of figures give the gross earnings for the latest week or month, and the last two columns the earnings for the calendar year from January 1 to and including such latest week or month.

† Earnings increased largely on account of G. A. R. encampment in Louisville.

Street Railway Net Earnings.—The following table gives the returns of STREET railway gross and net earnings received this week. In reporting these net earnings for the street railways, we adopt the same plan as that for the steam roads—that is, we print each week all the returns received that week, but once a month (on the third or the fourth Saturday) we bring together all the roads furnishing returns. The latest full statement will be found in the CHRONICLE of November 23. The next will appear in the issue of Saturday, December 21.

Wisconsin Central Company.

(Report Sept. 27, 1895, to June 30, 1895.)

The receivers in their report to the Court say in part:

General Results.—The Wisconsin Central Lines have during the entire period of the receivership suffered from the financial depression in business arising from the panic of 1893, and the failure of crops in the West and Southwest, which resulted almost in wiping out the market for the kinds of lumber which form a large proportion of the freight tonnage of the Wisconsin Central lines. The great strike in Chicago in July, 1894, and the coal strike during the preceding month, paralyzed all kinds of business for some weeks, and the Wisconsin Central lines suffered in common with nearly all other railways west of Chicago.

Iron Ore.—One of the chief sources of revenue for the Wisconsin Central lines consists in the great deposits of high-grade Bessemer ore, which are now mined on the Penokee and Gogebic ranges, lying in Wisconsin and Michigan, and traversed by the Penokee branch. In 1894 there was shipped out over this branch to ore docks owned by the company at Ashland 690,617 tons of ore, and during the season of 1895 this amount has increased to about 1,100,000 tons. Three well-developed mines, to wit, the Iron Belt Mine, the Atlantic Mine and the Montreal Mine are located upon the lands granted to the Wisconsin Central RR. Your receivers believe that very large deposits of high-grade ore exist in each of these several properties, the shipments from them during the season of 1895 amounting to 240,768 tons. In addition to the current charge imposed upon ore shipped out the trust estate receives a royalty per ton based upon the value of ore at Cleveland. Considerable revenue may be expected by the trust estate for many years to come from iron ore, provided adequate facilities are furnished for the handling and shipping it. During the winter of 1894-5 your receivers found it necessary to expend about $45,000 in enlarging the ore dock at Ashland. The shipments for the season of 1896 are likely to largely exceed the shipments of 1895, and to provide facilities it will be necessary to increase the capacity of the dock at Ashland. It is also proposed to deepen the channel along both sides of the ore dock in order to enable the largest class of vessels to load to their full capacity at the dock.

Land Grant.—The title of the company to about thirty-five (35,000) thousand acres of land in Ashland County was established in June, 1895, by the Supreme Court of the United States. Prior to this decision, however, all of these lands had been thrown open to public entry so that your receivers have had to institute suits to recover possession. The Wisconsin Central lines have always derived a large portion of their revenue from the transportation of forest products, in which their land grant lands are very rich. Your receivers propose to administer the lands so as to compel, as far as possible, the transportation of the forest products and output thereof over the Wisconsin Central and to encourage their manufacture in order that the lands may be cleared and thrown open to actual settlers.

Physical Condition.—The physical condition of the property when it came into the possession of your receivers was not good. Many bridges required immediate renewal; the equipment was in bad condition. Several hundreds of freight cars and a large part of the passenger equipment required immediate repair to fit them for ordinary business. Very large renewals of steel rail were also imperatively required.

Receivers' Certificates.—A floating debt of nearly $1,000,000 secured by pledge of valuable collateral was outstanding at the time of the appointment of your receivers, and unavoidable repairs required the receivers to incur a further indebtedness of $878,101. This indebtedness, aggregating $1,878,101, led to the issue of $2,000,000 6 per cent receivers' certificates maturing November 15, 1896, unless earlier retired under order of the Court. These certificates enabled the redemption of the securities pledged under the floating debt, the payment of the floating indebtedness, and also the making during the current year, 1895, certain necessary improvements upon the trust estate. The proceeds were expended for the benefit of the Wisconsin Central Company and Wisconsin Central Railroad company in the proportion of ninety (90) per cent upon the property of the former and ten (10) per cent upon that of the latter company.

Statistics.—Comparative results are shown as follows:

Fixed Charges.—The fixed charges ($1,547,234) for the year ending June 30, 1895, include: Taxes, $156,944; rental Chicago & Northern Pacific, $114,000; rental Chicago Central, $12,572; rental Northern Pacific $18,671; rental Great Northern, $44,780; rental Minn. Transfer Ry., $4,494; rental Chicago Wisconsin & Minnesota, $49,777; do. Milwaukee & Lake Winnebago, $178,587; do. Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul, $68,962; do. Peik. & Minot., $9,849; rental, car and engines, $251,283; interest and discount on receivers' certificates, $145,115; interest on old first mortgage bonds underlying Wisconsin Central issues, $128,709; interest on Wisconsin Central first series bonds, $58,450; interest and exchange, $2,889; total, $1,547,234. The charges of course do not include interest on the Wisconsin Central Company's first mortgage 5s of 1887 ($11,365,000 outstanding), which are in default. The interest on the joint improvement bonds is not mentioned in the report, but it is understood to have been paid (as it was paid) entirely, or in large part, out of the $251,283 paid for rental of cars and engines, the bonds having as part security a large amount of stock of the Central Car Company, to which much of this rental was paid.—V. 61, p. 926.

West End Street Railway.

(Report for year ending September 30, 1895.)

President Samuel Little in the eighth annual report says in part:

General Results.—The increase in the gross earnings have been satisfactory. The Convention of the Christian Endeavor Society and the Conclave of the Knights Templars have added somewhat to this result. The power houses of the company have been used to their utmost capacity and large additions were required.

Additions and Improvements.—Six new car houses have been constructed or are in process of construction having an aggregate capacity of 455 cars.

The Act compelling the placing of electric wires under ground in a certain defined district of the city affected this company to the extent of requiring all of its wires to be buried in the district named, except the trolley wires. The work already completed exceeds the requirements for the first two years; 2 24 miles of conduits containing 41·07 miles of duct have been constructed, in which have been placed 24 31 miles of feeder cables and 13 93 miles of return feeders. The cost of the conduits has been treated as an item of expense.

Electric heater equipments for the balance of the entire box-car equipment will be in operation the coming winter.

There has been a total new construction with girder track 4·68 miles; with tram track 3·61 miles. Since the last annual report six lines have been changed from horse to electric power, and on the 30th of September 96 per cent of the mileage, namely, 1,865,000 miles per month, was run by the electric system. In November, 1895, there will only be left as horse car lines a portion of Atlantic Avenue, the Back Bay lines, so called, and Western Avenue from Brighton to Central Square, Cambridge.

Cost of Repairs.—Large expenditures have been necessary for renewals and repairs of track and special work. Every year will bring an additional burden for such renewals and repairs. The immense traffic of our cars, with the heavy teaming and other wear to which it is subjected, makes the life of the best constructed track in many parts of the city of comparatively short duration.

Statistics.—Results for three years have been compiled for the CHRONICLE as follows:

Akron Street Ry.—Change of Control.—An Eastern syndicate headed by General Samuel Thomas of New York, it is understood, has practically consummated the purchase of the street railroad properties in Akron, O., including twenty-five miles of electric lines. The contract is reported to be for $1,200,000.—V. 60, p. 82.

Ann Arbor RR.—Listing.—On the New York Stock Exchange have been listed $7,000,000 first mortgage 4 per cent 100-year gold bonds of 1995 and $4,000,000 5 per cent noncumulative preferred stock. The committee will list $3,250,000 common stock when issued.

The application of Vice-President Geo. W. Quintard gives at length the details of the reorganization, the requirements and the resources to meet the same. The gross earnings for the year ending August 31, 1895, were $1,112,286, and the net, not deducting $231,696 expended for betterments (which is not properly a charge to expenses) were $336,755. In view of the requirements of the company and its resources, the payment of interest on the bonds will not commence until April 1, 1897.—V. 61, p. 792.

Atchison System—St. Louis & San Francisco Ry.—Coupon Payment.—On and after December 1 the receivers will pay at their office, 120 Broadway, New York, coupons No. 27, due July 1, 1895, from St. Louis & San Francisco general mortgage 5 per cent and 6 per cent bonds.—V. 61, p. 839.

Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe.—New Officers.—At the election on Monday Mr E P Ripley, now Third Vice-President of the St. Paul road, was chosen President of the new Atchison Railroad; Mr. D B Robinson was elected Vice-President, and Mr. Paul Morton a director of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, Third Vice President. Mr. Morton, who made his reputation as a railroad manager in the famous Burlington strike several years ago, is a son of Secretary Morton, of the United States Department of Agriculture.—V. 61, p. 924.

Brooklyn Traction.—Nassau Electric RR.—Proposed Lease.—The arrangement between the Brooklyn Traction and the Nassau Electric provides for an issue of $4,500,000 stock to be exchanged for the present $9,000,000 stock of the Brooklyn Traction Co. The old preferred stock will be exchanged for the new, share for share, and the old common will be given 25 shares of the new for 100 shares of the old, the latter exchange being conditional on the payment of two per cent assessment, or the purchase at par to the extent of 7½ per cent of holdings of the Brooklyn Bath & West End bonds, which are guaranteed by the Atlantic Ave. road. This assessment is for the purpose of clearing up the floating debt. The revenue from the lease, it is expected, will be sufficient to pay 4 per cent per annum on the new stock, except for the first year, in which 3 per cent, it is intended, shall be paid on the stock exchanged for the old preferred and 2 per cent on that exchanged for the old common.

The above is the plan contemplated, but matters have not sufficiently progressed to say that it may not be somewhat modified.—V. 61, pp. 829, 925.

Called Bonds.—The following bonds have been called for payment.

Northern Pacific.—Three-hundred and thirty-three general 1st mort. 6 p. c. gold bonds have been called for redemption Jan. 1. The numbers of bonds drawn and other data are given in the advertisement published in the Chronicle of Nov. 23.—V. 61, p. 925.

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Ry.—Reorganization Notice.—Notice is given by the Blackford committee that under the provisions of the bondholders' agreement a meeting of the holders of certificates for the bonds will be held in Baltimore on Monday, Dec. 23, 1895, at the rooms of the committee, 10 South Street, at 2 P. M., to consider the plan of reorganization.—V. 61, p. 870.

Central of Georgia Ry.—Mobile & Girard RR. Foreclosure Sale.—The Mobile & Girard was purchased on Monday at foreclosure sale for $1,000,000 by Julian T. Davies, counsel for the Central Trust. It will now be merged absolutely in the Central of Georgia Ry.

Sale of Bonds.—The unsubscribed portion of the $16,500,000 bonds recently offered for public subscription was taken by Harvey Fisk & Sons for institutions here and abroad; $1,000,000 of the bonds go abroad on this Saturday's steamers.

Statement for Old Company.—The following has been issued by the receivers of the old Central RR. & Banking Co.:

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 11, 1895.

To the New York Guaranty & Indemnity Company and the Mercantile Trust Company, New York:

Gentlemen—Replying to your request for a brief summary of the result of operations of the Georgia Central properties for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, we append the following:

Surplus earnings from operations of Central Railroad system	$1,533,574
Income from Banking Department	6,142
Surplus earnings from steamships and terminal properties	258,947
Surplus earnings from operations Savannah & Western system	324,900
Income from other sources	134,700
	$2,258,263
Taxes	135,945
Total surplus earnings	$2,122,318

The above given surplus includes the amount expended for improvements and betterments such as new equipment and a large amount of rails and fastenings. The conditions of the property requiring it, advantage was taken of the exceptionally low price of rails and other material to make betterments during the year, amounting to $425,793. Ordinary maintenance, however, requires a certain expenditure for steel rails and fastenings each year, which we estimate should not exceed an average of $200,000 per annum. Very truly yours.

H. M. COMER,
R. SOMERS HAYES,
Receivers.

Bonds Sold—The entire issue of $16,5000,000 Central of Georgia Railway 5 per cent fifty-year consolidated bonds, it is stated, has been sold. A syndicate of institutions and bankers in New York and in London on Wednesday took all the unsold balance.

Montgomery & Eufaula.—The sale of this road, which was to have taken place Tuesday, did not come off. Whenever it is sold it will become part of the Central system.—V. 61, p. 870, 873.

Central Ry. of Peoria (Ill.).—Bonds Called.—Under the provisions of the trust deed the first mortgage bonds for $200,000 have been called for payment at 105 and interest, at the Commercial National Bank of Peoria, interest ceasing Dec. 22.—V. 61, p. 793.

Chicago City Ry.—New Stock.—The stockholders at the annual meeting in January, it is understood, will be asked to authorize $2,000,000 new stock to pay for 35 or 40 miles of extensions. As already announced, the project of issuing stock to retire the bonds has been abandoned. V. 61, p. 830.

Cincinnati Portsmouth & Virginia RR.—New Mortgage.—This company has filed a mortgage for $500,000, the proceeds to be used, it is said, for improvement of the road and equipment. The bonds will be 30-year 5s. This road was formerly the Ohio & Northwestern.—V. 61, p. 702.

Cleveland & Mahoning Valley RR.—Listing.—On the New York Stock Exchange have been listed $981,000 additional 5 per cent gold bonds of 1938, making the amount listed $3,481,000. Of these additional bonds $581,000 were issued to retire prior mortgage bonds and $400,000 for construction of double track and terminal and shop buildings.—V. 57, p. 179.

Columbia & Maryland Ry. (Electric)—Mortgage Filed.—This company, which is constructing an electric railway between Baltimore and Washington, has filed a mortgage to the Central Trust Company of New York, as trustee, to cover the issue of $6,000,000 fifty-year 5 per cent bonds from June 1, 1895, principal and interest payable in gold. The Maryland & Columbia Railway Company was incorporated March 15, 1892, with an authorized capital stock of $4,000,000. Its mortgage now recorded recites the ownership of 10,625 shares of stock of the Eckington & Soldiers' Home Ry. Co. and 5,033 shares of stock of the Belt RR. Company, both of Washington, 200 shares of stock and $430,000 in bonds (the entire issue) of the Maryland & Washington Railway Company, 7,253 shares of stock of the Baltimore & Washington Turnpike & Tramway Company, 19,200 shares of stock and $500,000 in bonds of the Edmondson Avenue, Catonsville & Ellicott City Electric Railway Company. All these stocks and bonds are pledged, together with all of the mortgagor's right, title and interest of every description in the lines named, real estate, plant and equipment, &c., to secure the bonds. Of the $6,000,000 authorized, $5,500,000 worth are to be delivered to the mortgagor and $500,000 are to be reserved by the trustee, to be used only in betterments of roadway, rolling stock, plant, extensions, &c., which may be required.—V. 61, p. 239.

Columbus Hocking Valley & Toledo RR.—Decision in Belden Suit.—At Albany on Tuesday the Court of Appeals decided in favor of the defendants in the Belden suit against Stevenson Burke and associates for the recovery of the proceeds of sale of $8,000,000 consolidated bonds which it was alleged they, as former officers of the company, had devoted to uses not permitted by the mortgage. This decision reverses the decision of the General Term and upholds the decision of Justice Ingraham in the Supreme Court, Special Term. Judge Ingraham held that inasmuch as the banking house which originally purchased the bonds knew and approved of the application made of the proceeds of sale, no subsequent purchases had grounds for action.—V. 60, p. 711.

Consolidated Street Ry. (Portland, Oregon.)—Foreclosure Decree.—A decree of foreclosure under the consolidated mortgage has been obtained in the United States Circuit Court at Portland, Oregon, by the Mercantile Trust Company, the mortgage trustee.—V. 59, p. 1141.

Duluth & Iron Range RR.—Listing.—On the New York Stock Exchange have been listed $574,000 additional first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, making the amount listed $6,332,000.

The statement of earnings and charges was given amongst the net earnings in last week's Chronicle.

Fort Wayne (Ind.) Electric Ry.—Fort Wayne Consolidated Electric Ry.—Reorganization.—J. J. Shippard of Cleveland, a bondholder of the Fort Wayne Electric Railway, who was reported to have purchased the road, denies the purchase, but says: "The capital stock of the company is to be increased to $2,000,000 or $500,000 more than the original amount subscribed. There is to be a reorganization of the company, but the present stockholders will retain their shares. The road will be known as the Fort Wayne Consolidated Electric Railway Company. The greater part of the stock will remain in the hands of the Fort Wayne people and there will be no change in the directory, except that Mr. R. T. McDonald will be one of the new board."—Electricity.

Illinois Central RR.—New Stock Authorized.—At Chicago, November 26, the stockholders, as was expected, voted to increase the capital stock of the corporation by $10,000,000, payment to be made in instalments, as stated in the Investors' Supplement. To such as shall, on or before Dec. 31, 1895, have paid their subscriptions in full will be issued certificates therefor entitling the holder to receive the dividend to be paid in March 1896.

This increase of capital will, with the funds now in hand, enable the company to exercise Jan. 1, 1896, its option to retire, or redeem in cash, the 2-10 4 per cent gold bonds of 1904, and to liquidate the other obligations above incurred in the purchase of the Chesapeake Ohio & Southwestern, thus releasing the stocks, bonds, obligations, securities, real estate, interests in real estate, and items of indebtedness of the Chesapeake Ohio & Southwestern and affiliated corporations, which were pledged as collateral security for said 2-10 4 per cent bonds. Also out of the $10,000,000, it is said, $1,500,000 will be used in improvements, principally of the suburban service, and $500,000 for new cars.—V. 61, p. 749.

International Packing and Provision—Reorganization Plan—The reorganization plan for the Consolidated Packing Companies was given in the Chronicle for Nov. 2, page 794. The plan now issued for the International Packing & Provision Company provides for the conversion of that company's stock into stock of an Illinois company and for the payment of assessments to provide working capital, for which debentures ranking equally with those mentioned in the Consolidated Company's plan are to be issued. Each holder of four shares of old common stock (par value £10) or of two and a quarter shares of old preferred (par value £10) will therefore receive new securities as shown below, the assessment being at the rate of $10 for each preference share and $1.50 for each common share deposited:

		And receive.

; For assessment.

The reorganized company, it is understood, will have the following capitalization: Stock (part preferred), $2,500,000; debentures, (see V. 61, p. 794), $2,500,000. The present International Packing Co. has outstanding £340,600 preference and £385,740 common stock, which follow $2,206,000 bonds of the Consolidated Packing Companies.

The circular contains the following statement:

"Unless an effort is made promptly by the stockholders to secure the benefits accruing under the bondholders' plan, and thereby place the business of the Company on a sound basis, the stockholders' interests in the Company will be wiped out in part, if not altogether. At the same time there is every indication that if the stockholders adopt a plan such as is here submitted and thereby secure the co-operation offered by the bondholders' plan, a successful future of the Company may be confidently anticipated and your interests be conserved and pass through their present critical situation without being seriously impaired."

The reorganization committee consists of Messrs. Joy Morton, Clarence Buckingham, Charles H. Wacker, George R. T. Ward, William J. Watson, E. G. Foreman and Josiah Sales. The American Trust & Savings Bank is named as the trustee under the reorganization. About $1,800,000 of the Consolidated Packing Co.'s bonds, it is said, have been deposited under the plan for that company heretofore announced.—V. 61, p. 794.

Kings County Elevated RR. (Brooklyn)—Quarterly—Earnings for the quarter ending September 30 have been reported as follows:

Marietta & North Georgia RR.—Foreclosure Sale—This road was sold in foreclosure Saturday, November 23, and was purchased for $956 500 by the Car Trust Investment Company of New York, as trustee for a purchasing syndicate headed by Messrs. H. A. V. Post, Henry K. Mellarg, Newman Erb and Thomas Carmichael. The Southern Railway Company, the Knoxville Cumberland Gap & Louisville Railroad interests and a minority bondholders' combination were competitors and unsuccessful bidders at the sale. The purchasing syndicate propose to turn over the property to the bondholders on their acceptance of the following plan.

Modified Plan of Reorganization.—The committee, consisting of H. A. V. Post, Chairman, Newman Erb, Henry K. Mellarg and Thomas Carmichael, has issued a modified plan, which provides for the treatment of the following securities: First mortgage bonds, $3,000,000; coupons, $321,000; detached coupons allowed to participate in decree, $183,000; common stock about $2,000,000.

New Securities.—The new securities are to be:

First mortgage 5 per cent bonds, redeemable at 105 and interest at any time on any interest paying date	$750,000
Adjustment bonds for expenses in Atlanta and for certain capital expenditures required in Atlanta and Knoxville and other lines to be named	500,000
Second mortgage 6 per cent bonds to be issued for assessment and to pay same	450,0 0
Five per cent preferred stock to exchange for existing first mortgage bonds, coupons and detached coupons	600,000
Second preferred stock to exchange for consolidated bonds and coupons	1,500,000
Common stock, same to be given for cash assessments and for existing common stock	1,500,000

The committee reserve the right, if the same shall be required by a majority in amount of the holders of the general first mortgage bonds of the Marietta & North Georgia RR., to issue in lieu of and for the aggregate amount of the second mortgage bonds and preferred stocks proposed to be issued under said plan, general mortgage bonds as follows:

Second [illegible] for the amount of the proposed second mortgage issue, to be guaranteed as to principal and interest by endorsement [illegible]

[illegible] for the amount of the first preferred stock, to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, [illegible] to be entitled [illegible]

[illegible] for the amount of the second preferred stock, to be entitled to such voting power [illegible] and to be entitled to receive [illegible] of the net profits of the year 1896, [illegible] to be entitled to receive [illegible] of the net profits of the year 1897, and [illegible] to be entitled to receive [illegible] of the net profits of the year 1898, and [illegible] to be entitled to receive [illegible] of the net profits of the year 1899, and [illegible] to be entitled to receive [illegible] of the net profits of the year

Oregon Improvement—Coupon Payment.—Judge Hanford has authorized Receiver Smith to pay $122,610 interest on first mortgage bonds of the company which comes due Dec. 2. He was directed to borrow $50,000, if necessary, to make up the amount, and was also authorized to expend $160,000 in buying tide lands now occupied by the company.—V. 61, p. 872.

Oregon Short Line & Utah Northern Ry.—Coupon Payment.—In the U. S. Circuit Court, District of Wyoming, on the 23d inst. Judge Sanborn authorized and directed the receivers to pay the interest on the first mortgage bonds due Feb. 1, 1895, with interest at 6 per cent from Feb. 1 to date of payment; also interest upon the Aug., 1894, coupon during the period it was in default. It is expected that the payment under this order will be made next week.—V. 61, p. 926.

Savannah Florida & Western RR.—Annual Meeting.—At the annual meeting of the Savannah Florida & Western Railroad Company, in Savannah, Tuesday, directors were elected as follows: H. B. Plant, M. F. Plant, R. G. Erwin, M. K. Jesup, H. M. Flagler, B. F. Newcomer and J. H. Estill.

Year	Gross earnings.	Operating Expenses.	Net earnings.
1893-94	3,798,771	2,533,677	1,265,094

This decrease in the earnings, the officials say, is due entirely to last winter's cold in Florida, which destroyed the orange crop and many other products, the transportation of which was looked to by the railroads as a source of revenue. The earnings along other lines and in the transportation of other products have held up well, however, and the loss has not been so severely felt as might otherwise have been the case.—V. 61, p. 661.

Seattle Consolidated Street Railway.—Reorganization.—Notice is given that the plan of reorganization dated August 1, 1895, is changed as follows, viz:

1. The date for deposit is made Dec. 1, 1895.

2. The various cash subscriptions are divided into three installments, viz.: One-quarter Dec. 1, 1895; one-quarter March 1, 1896, and the remaining half on June 1, 1896, said deferred payments to bear interest at 7 per cent per annum from Dec. 1, 1895.

3. The committee has negotiated for the underwriting of the junior assessments, except those upon stockholders, and for the sale of $35,000 par of the new first mortgage bonds at 95 cents on the dollar—interest to be preferred for ten years—in order to provide for the deficiency between the assessments and the amount of receiver's certificates and reorganization expenses. This negotiation is to be approved and $50,000 par of the new stock is to be delivered as a consideration for such underwriting.—V. 61, 612.

Union Gas (Brooklyn).—Bonds Called.—Notice is given that the People's Gas-Light, 6 per cent debenture bonds dated April 1, 1880, will be redeemed Feb. 1, 1896; also that the Nassau Gas-Light registered certificates of indebtedness will be paid Dec. 9, 1895.

Union Pacific Ry.—Deposits Under Plan.—The deposits of bonds under the reorganization plan are said to be sufficient to practically assure the combination of the first mortgage bondholders, which forms the basis of the proposed reorganization. Advices from the several depositories at Frankfort, Amsterdam, London, Boston and New York report daily steady and substantial deposits. It is further announced that a number of prominent and large stockholders have signified their readiness to deposit their stock whenever desired by the committee. The Amsterdam administration, controlling the Dutch holdings of stock, have signified their willingness to assent to the plan.

Cash in Receiver's Hands.—The accumulation of cash in the receiver's hands awaiting the order of the Court for interest payments is said to aggregate some $6,000,000.—V. 61, p. 872.

General Situation.—President S. H. H. Clark is quoted as speaking as follows in regard to the general situation:

The present business of the Union Pacific is slightly better than it was at the same time last year. I should say there would be a still further improvement. Some benefit is derived indirectly from the development of the Cripple Creek gold field. Corn will begin to go forward in December. While the crop is large, the market price is low and farmers will be disposed to hold their corn for higher figures. The prices for hogs and cattle will be affected relatively by the price of corn. The price of corn will also have a bearing on transportation rates. The showing of the Union Pacific for the calendar year 1896 ought to be ahead of 1894 and perhaps equal to 1893. Rates in our territory are maintained and the prospect is good for their continued maintenance.

United States Government.—Bonds Redemption.—The Treasury Department gives notice that United States 6 per cent bonds of the face value of $3,680,000 issued under the acts of July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864, in aid of the Central Pacific, Kansas Pacific and Union Pacific railroads, commonly known as "currency sixes," become due on Jan. 1, 1896, and that interest will cease on that day.

Western Union Telegraph.—Decision Regarding Union Pacific Lines.—The recent decision of the Supreme Court has been issued in full, and is of interest in its bearing upon the right of railroad companies to give telegraph companies exclusive privileges over their routes. The decision in substance says:

Looking first at the agreement of October 1, 1866, between the Union Pacific Railway Company, Eastern Division, and the Western Union Telegraph Company, it is evident that the effect, if not the object, of the agreement was to give the telegraph company the absolute control of all telegraphic business on the line of the Union Pacific Railway Company, Eastern Division. The provision that the railway company should not give permission to another company to construct or operate any telegraph line upon the lands or roadway of the railway company, without the consent in writing of the telegraph company—this and other provisions plainly indicate that the object of the agreement was to grant to the Western Union Telegraph Company, as against all other telegraph companies, the exclusive right to control the railway company's roadway for telegraphic purposes. This agreement, if not void as against public policy, was inconsistent with the act of Congress of July 24, 1866, entitled "An act to aid in the construction of telegraph lines, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military and other purposes." The substantial provisions of this statute have been preserved in Sections 5,263 to 5,268, inclusive, of the Revised Statutes.

By the act of June 8, 1872, reproduced in Section 3.964 of the Revised Statutes, all railroads in operation are post-roads. And by the above statute of 1866 Congress declared that any telegraph company then or thereafter organized under the laws of any State of the Union should have the right to construct, maintain and operate lines of telegraph along any of the military or post-roads of the United States which have or may hereafter be declared such by act of Congress. That act further provides that the privileges granted shall not be transferred by any company acting under the act to any other corporation, association or person: Provided, however, the United States may at any time, after the expiration of five years from the date of the passage of this act, for postal, military and other purposes, purchase all the telegraph lines, property and effects of any or all of said companies at an appraised value, to be ascertained by five competent, disinterested persons, two of whom shall be selected by the Postmaster-General of the United States, two by the company interested and one by the four so previously selected. It is further provided that before any telegraph company shall exercise any of the powers or privileges conferred by this act, such company shall file its written acceptance with the Postmaster-General of the United States of the restrictions and obligations required by this act.

It is clear that the essential part of the agreement of 1866 is prohibited by this act of July 24, 1866. The railway company operating one of the post-roads of the United States, over which inter-State commerce was carried on, could not grant to any one or more telegraph company the exclusive right to use its roadway for telegraphic purposes.

But it is contended that the agreement of 1866 was authorized by the Idaho act of 1864. Even if the act of July 24, 1866, had never been passed, we ought not to construe the Idaho act as permitting the railroad company to bind itself by agreement to give to one telegraph company a monopoly of the use of its roadway for telegraphic purposes. It was very far from the intention of Congress, by any legislation, to so exert its power as to enable one telegraph corporation, federal or State, to acquire exclusive rights over any post road, especially one for the construction of which the aid of the United States was given, and the use of which was to some extent under the control of the National Government. We are consequently of opinion that the agreement of October 1, 1866, was in its essential provisions invalid, and not binding upon the railway company.

We now come to the important contract of July 1, 1881, between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Union Pacific Railway Company. The fundamental question is whether such a contract was permitted by the acts of Congress defining the obligations of railroad companies that accepted the bounty of the Government. For the reasons we have given in the discussion of other parts of this case, we answer this question in the negative. On behalf of the telegraph company it is contended that if the telegraph lines, or either of them, referred to in the bill and the defendant railway company are within the provisions of the act of August 7, 1888, it was beyond the legislative competency of Congress "to impair the contracts, first, that between the United States and the several companies mentioned in the act of 1862; and, second, those between the railway company and this defendant." We perceive no ground on which this contention can properly rest.—V. 61, p. 925.

The Commercial Times.

FRIDAY NIGHT, November 29, 1895.

General business has been slow during the current week and principally of a perfunctory character. The observance of the Thanksgiving holiday on Thursday and the near approach of the meeting of Congress, together with the gold export movement, have served as quieting influences. A heavy storm in northern, middle and western latitudes temporarily prostrating many telegraph wires may have acted as an additional check upon business here. The absence of free communication with many localities in the interior has also retarded the regular line of information regarding grain crop conditions, but desultory advices convey an impression that in some sections sufficient snow has fallen to afford fair covering for wheat. The foreign demand for wheat and flour has shown only fair proportions, but a large export movement is reported in corn. A lessened demand for iron and steel and their products is noted, and a slight weakening of values. Speculative ventures in staple merchandise continue cautious and moderate.

The amount of business transacted in the spot market for lard has been very limited, and as offerings have been fairly large prices have weakened slightly, closing at 5·67½c. for prime Western, 5·30c. for prime City and 6·05c. for refined. There has been the usual stagnation of trade in the local market for lard futures, and nominal prices have declined in response to weaker advices from the West, due to large receipts of swine at primary points, closing easy.

DAILY CLOSING PRICES OF LARD FUTURES.

	Sat.	Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thurs.	Fri.
November	5·75	5·80	5·80	5·70	....	5·70

For pork there has been very little inquiry, and the close was easy at $9 50@$10 for mess, $10 75@$11 25 for family and $10 50@$12 50 for short clear. Cut meats have continued to meet with a slow trade, but prices have held steady, closing at 5½@5¾c. for pickled bellies, 12@10 lbs. average, 5¼c. for pickled shoulders and 8½@9c. for pickled hams. Beef has been quiet and unchanged, closing at $7 50@$8 for extra mess, $9@$10 for packet, $10@$12 for family and $16@$17 for extra India mess. Beef hams have been steady at $14 50@$15. Tallow has been moderately active and closed a trifle higher and steady at 4 3-16c. Oleostearine has been without change, closing steady at 5½c. Lard stearine has been neglected, closing at 6¼@6½c. Cotton-seed oil has been firm but quiet, closing at 25½@26c. for prime crude and 29@29½c. for prime yellow. Butter has continued in light supply for the choice grades and prices have advanced, closing at 15@16c. for creamery. Cheese has sold slowly and the close was easy at 7½@10½c. for State factory, full cream. Fresh eggs have been quiet but steady, closing at 22@23c. for choice Western.

Coffee has been freely offered and pressed for sale, which served as a weakening influence, and prices are lower. Rio quoted at 14½@14¾c. for No. 7, good Cucuta at 18@18½c. and standard quality Java at 26½@27c. Contracts for future delivery have shown much irregularity, but under a disposition to liquidate long engagements prices weakened for all months and close sold in buyers' favor.

Nov	13·80c.	Feb	13·45c.
Dec	12·90c.	March	13·40c.
Jan	13·65c.	April	13·15c.
May	12·90c.	June	12·60c.
		July	12·40c.

Raw sugars quite generally met with neglect, but holders professed confidence in the situation, offered supplies moderately and asked about former rates. Centrifugal at the close quoted 3½c. for 96-deg. test and Muscovado at 3c. for 89-deg. test. Refined sugars sold slowly and close on basis of 4½c. for granulated.

Only a very small business has been transacted in Kentucky tobacco, but for choice grades prices were well held. Seed leaf tobacco has continued in slow request but prices have ruled steady; sales for the week were 845 cases, as follows: 200 cases 1894 crop, New England Havana, 6@19c.; 100 cases 1893 crop, New England Havana, 6@9c.; 100 cases 1893 crop, Wisconsin Havana, 7@9c.; 140 cases 1894 crop, Zimmer's, 11@11½c.; 100 cases 1894 crop, State Havana, 7@9c.; 50 cases 1893 crop, Pennsylvania Havana, 11c.; 55 cases 1894 crop, Pennsylvania Havana, 5½c., and 100 cases sundries, 4@16c.; also 900 bales Havana, 65c.@$1 05, and 1,500 bales Sumatra, 60c.@$2 90 in bond.

Very little speculative interest has been shown in the market for Straits tin and in the absence of new developments of importance prices have held fairly steady, closing at 14·20@14 35c. Ingot copper has been dull and prices have made a slight further decline, closing easy at 10·87½@11c. for domestic. Lead has further advanced, and the close was steady at 3·25@3·27½c. for domestic. Spelter has been quiet and unchanged, closing at 3 50@3 55c. for domestic. Pig iron has been moderately active and steady, closing at $12@$14 50 for domestic.

Refined petroleum has further declined, closing at 7·75c. in bbls., 5·25c. in bulk and 8 50c. in cases; crude in bbls has been nominal; naphthas unchanged at 8·25c. Crude certificates have declined, closing at $1 00 bid. Spirits turpentine has been quiet but steady at 27½@28c. Rosins have advanced, owing to scarcity, closing firm at $1 75@1 77½ for common to good strained. Wool has been in better demand and steady. Hops have been quiet and unchanged.

THE MOVEMENT OF THE CROP, as indicated by our telegrams from the South to-night, is given below. For the week ending this evening the total receipts have reached 199,533 bales, against 212,429 bales last week and 229,749 bales the previous week, making the total receipts since the 1st of Sept., 1895, 2,460,550 bales, against 3,749,016 bales for the same period of 1894, showing a decrease since Sept. 1, 1895, of 1,288,466 bales.

Speculation in cotton for future delivery at this market has been of erratic character. Both the "bull" and "bear" elements were perplexed over the situation, and as a result of the feeling of uncertainty considerable liquidation of outstanding engagements took place. During the session of Saturday a very good trade took place, the shorts covering freely under the influence of light crop movement reported for the week and strong advices from Liverpool, prices making a gain of 12@13 points. The fright among the bears continued on Monday morning, which served to stimulate a further gain of 18 points, but upon evidences that no new buying orders were coming into the market holders of long engagements commenced to liquidate, and their offerings forced a reaction that left only 11@12 points net gain for the day. Tuesday's market was quite irregular, but finally closed at 5 points net loss under further selling out of long holdings. Wednesday's deal was of feverish character, but resulted in 5@6 points advance on local shorts covering. The Exchange was closed on Thursday for Thanksgiving holiday. To-day the market opened irregular, but finally declined in consequence of limited investment demand. Cotton on the spot slow at 8⅝c. for middling uplands.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 1,137,000 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 2,317 bales, including —— for export, 817 for consumption, —— for speculation and 1,500 on contract. The following are the official quotations for each day of the past week—November 28 to November 29.

The above figures indicate a decrease in the cotton in sight to-night of 315,985 bales as compared with the same date of 1894, a falling off of 268,574 bales over the corresponding date of 1893 and a decrease of 367,077 bales from 1892.

AT THE INTERIOR TOWNS the movement—that is the receipts for the week and since September 1, the shipments for the week and the stocks to-night, and the same items for the corresponding period of 1894—is set out in detail below.

RECEIPTS FROM THE PLANTATIONS.—The following table indicates the actual movement each week from the plantations. The figures do not include overland receipts nor Southern consumption; they are simply a statement of the weekly movement from the plantations of that part of the crop which finally reaches the market through the outports.

Last year the receipts from the plantations for the week were 399,796 bales and for 1893 they were 309,708 bales.

OVERLAND MOVEMENT FOR THE WEEK AND SINCE SEPT. 1.—We give below a statement showing the overland movement for the week and since September 1. This weekly publication is of course supplementary to the more extended monthly statements. The results for the week ending Nov. 29 and since Sept. 1 in the last two years are as follows.

A considerable portion of the Sea Island cotton shipped to foreign ports goes via New York, and some small amounts via Boston and Baltimore. Instead of including this cotton for the week in which it leaves the Southern outports, we follow the same plan as in our regular table of including it when actually exported from New York, &c. The details of the shipments of Sea Island cotton for the week will be found under the head "Shipping News," on a subsequent page.

Charleston, Carolinas, medium fine, 23 to 24c.; fine, 25c.; fully fine, 26 to 27c.; extra fine, 35 to 40c.

JUTE BUTTS, BAGGING, &c.—The market for jute bagging has been devoid of animation the past week. Quotations for jobbing lots are steady at 4⅞c. for 1¾ lbs., 4¾c. for 2 lbs. and 4⅝c. for standard grades. Jute butts continue very quiet at 1 1 16c. for paper quality and 1½c. for mixing.

EGYPTIAN COTTON CROP.—The following report on the cotton crop in Egypt was issued by the Alexandria General Produce Association under date of October 31:

The weather at the beginning of October was rather too cool, and at that moment some anxiety was felt respecting the second and third pickings, but heat returned with the second part of the month, and hastened the development and opening of the bolls. At present the crop is well advanced. The first picking, already some time harvested, gave a normal production, except in the fields which had been strongly attacked by caterpillars during the summer. The second picking is drawing to a close. Everywhere it has matured well, the yields are satisfactory, and in general have produced an increase of crop. As for the third picking, which is the least important of the three, its appearance is fairly good, although it has suffered more than its predecessors from the cold and bad fogs of September and October. Heat is still necessary for it to be secured. The crop of Upper Egypt is excellent. On the other hand that of the Fayoum is not so good, in consequence of the damage done by the worms. Never theless the two provinces together will give about 290,000 cantars, against 260,000 cantars last year. In fine, taken altogether, the information is good. The crop will be in excess of that of 1894, and keeping account of the rather increased acreage we estimate that it will reach from 5,000,000 to 5,250,000 cantars.

SHIPPING NEWS.—The exports of cotton from the United States the past week, as per latest mail returns, have reached 171,446 bales. BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, November 29, 1895.

The amount of business transacted in the market for wheat flour has been small, but advices from the Northwest have been steadier, and consequently there has been less pressure to sell spring patents, causing a generally better tone. Winter-wheat flour has been sparingly offered, owing to scarcity, and prices have held steady. City mills have been quiet and unchanged. Rye flour has had a limited call at unchanged values. Corn meal has sold more freely at the decline in prices noted last week. To-day the market for wheat flour was moderately active and steady.

Early in the week the speculative dealings in the market for wheat futures were moderately active, and prices advanced on buying for both local and foreign account, mainly, however, to cover "short" contracts, stimulated by the small stock of contract grades here and a decreasing movement of the spring-wheat crop; but subsequently free selling by the West caused a reaction, and all of the improvement was lost. In the spot market shippers have been moderately active buyers, and prices have followed futures. The sales Wednesday included No. 1 Northern at 2c. over December f. o. b. afloat; New York inspection do. for delivery first half of December at 2c. over December f. o. b. afloat, and No. 2 red winter at 3@4c. over December f. o. b. afloat. To-day the market was fairly active; "shorts" were buying to cover contracts both here and at the West, and with light offerings prices advanced. The spot market was moderately active, as shippers were buying. The sales included No. 1 Northern N. Y. inspection at 1¾c. over December f. o. b. afloat; No. 1 hard spring at ¾c. over May f. o. b. from store delivery December 11, and No. 1 hard Manitoba at 3¼c. over December f. o. b. afloat.

Speculation in the market for Indian corn futures has continued quiet, but during the first half of the week prices advanced in sympathy with the improvement in wheat; later, however, predictions of an increased movement of the crop prompted freer offering and prices declined. A fair amount of business has been transacted in the spot market for export at steady prices. The sales Wednesday included No. 2 mixed at 36c. in elevator and 37½c. f. o. b. afloat; also new do. to arrive at ½c. over January in elevator. To-day the market was dull but steady. The spot market was quiet and unchanged. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 36⅝c.@36¾c. f. o. b. afloat and old yellow at 38c. f. o. b. afloat.

Oats for future delivery have been dull, but during the first part of the week prices scored fractional advances in sympathy with the improvement in corn, but later freer offerings caused a reaction. In the spot market business has been quiet but prices have held fairly steady. The sales Wednesday included No. 2 mixed at 22¾@23c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 24@24¼c. in elevator. To-day the market was without decided change. The spot market was quiet but steady. The sales included No. 2 mixed at 22¾@23c. in elevator and No. 2 white at 24c. in elevator.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, P. M., November 29, 1895.

The market has disclosed little change in any department during the past week beyond a smaller aggregate business than even the limited record of immediately preceding weeks. The holiday yesterday was an interruption of but small moment compared with the effect of the unfavorable weather which prevailed most days, and under the influence of which distribution of seasonable merchandise, from the retail trade up to first hands, has been seriously restricted. Really cold weather is badly needed. The tone of the market is dull, and although not heavy has a tendency towards easiness in staple cotton goods, shown rather more noticeably than last week by the growing frequency with which buyers find sellers disposed to trade. In other respects the market for cotton fabrics is unaltered from a week ago. The cotton market has shown renewed strength this week, but in face of the inert demand has had no effect on cotton goods. The market for new heavy-weight woolens, overcoatings chiefly as yet, is irregular in price with an irregular demand, and business in other woolen and worsted goods is quiet. The jobbing trade has ruled dull throughout. Collections fairly satisfactory.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The exports of cotton goods from this port for the week ending November 25 were 3,534 packages, valued at $181,145, their destination being to the points specified in the table below:

* From New England mill points direct.

The value of the New York exports for the year has been $8,256,944 in 1895 against $10,506,186 in 1894.

The demand for brown sheetings and drills has again been of a disappointing character, and even with an increased number of sellers easy to deal with, buyers have shown little inclination to do more than provide for their most urgent requirements. In other brown goods and in coarse colored cottons similar conditions have prevailed, and although there has been no quotable change in the prices of leading makes the market is less regular than a week ago. Bleached shirtings and cambrics have been in light demand by both the jobbing and manufacturing trades. Sellers are occasionally disposed to shade prices, particularly in the low-grades, which are affected by the easier tendency of print cloths. Kid-finished cambrics under same influence and slow demand are weak. Other lines of staple goods have ruled inactive and generally featureless. Business in printed fabrics have been chiefly in new lines of specialties for spring, which are in fair request at steady prices. Regular prints of all kinds, with the exception of shirtings, have been quiet. Napped cotton dress fabrics are selling well. Spring ginghams are in fair demand. Staples quiet. Print cloths have been neglected and easier at Fall River, although not quotably, while small sales have been made at Providence at a decline of 1-16c., or 3 3-16c. for extras.

DOMESTIC WOOLENS.—The new lines of heavy-weight overcoatings opened this week have not helped to settle the price question, irregularity again being the most noticeable feature, with values better maintained in kerseys and beavers than in rough-faced goods. The demand is irregular also, and the week's experience as a whole hardly satisfactory. New Clay worsteds have been in fair demand at opening prices, and a quiet business has been done in low-grade all-wool goods at last season's prices. There is a quiet business reported in clothings without change in price. Dress goods for spring are also quiet, but prices are generally firm, most agents having secured a good business for the coming season. There is only a limited demand for flannels and blankets, but as no stocks of any account are being carried prices are well maintained.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—The market has been slow all week in both seasonable and spring goods. In the former prices are irregular, but as a rule well maintained in the latter, foreign manufacturers being well employed on orders in dress goods, silks, ribbons, knit goods, etc. New heavy-weight woolens for men's wear, with a quiet demand, are occasionally lower.

Importations and Warehouse Withdrawals of Dry Goods

The importations and warehouse withdrawals of dry goods at this port for the week ending November 28, and since January 1, 1895, and for the corresponding periods of last year are as follows:

The original bonds of this county were issued in 1884 and 1885, partly to cover a floating indebtedness and partly to take up railway-aid bonds, amounting in all to $371,500. Of this amount $17,000 were redeemed by sinking fund tax levy of 1894, with a balance now in said fund to redeem $4,500, leaving the net bonded indebtedness $350,000 to be refunded. There has never been default made in payment of interest on any of the aforementioned bonds, but interest has always been promptly paid. The proceeds of the sale of the refunding bonds will be used solely to redeem the present outstanding bonds, and the only reason for this issue is to reduce the interest which is called for by the bonds now outstanding. The floating indebtedness of the county, amounting to $50,000, was created by the building of the Fourth Street Viaduct Bridge in 1893—an emergency—for which no previous appropriation had been made. The tax levy for 1895 will pay about one-third of this amount, the balance to be paid by tax levy in 1896 and 1897.

The United States Life Insurance Co.
IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
This old and reliable Company now has the experience of forty-five years of practical Life Insurance, which has taught it that the sine qua non of success is the adoption of good plans of insurance, and the pursuit of a liberal policy towards both its Insured and its Agents. These essentials it possesses in an eminent degree, but judiciously tempered by that conservatism which is the best possible safeguard of the policy holder. Its contracts are incontestable after two years. They are non-forfeiting, providing generally for either paid-up policy or extended insurance, at the option of the policy holder. It gives ten days of grace in payment of all premiums. Its course during the past forty-five years abundantly demonstrates its absolute security.

Active and successful Agents, wishing to represent this Company, may communicate with the President at the Home Office, 261 Broadway, New York.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Other than our own financial status the only important influence this week has been the varying aspects of the European situation. The financial strain at London and at the monetary centres on the Continent appears to have relaxed, the semi-monthly settlements being over. Money on call in the open market in London and the discount rates have grown easier, probably in part from the same cause and in part owing to further large accumulations of bullion in the Bank of England. Consols, though, have been a little feverish, with slight fluctuations, no doubt due to the political situation and the changing character of the rumors afloat. Towards the end of the week the report seemed to be well authenticated that the English Ambassador at Constantinople had actually notified the Sultan that if firmans were not issued by to-day for the admission of additional guard ships to the Dardanelles, the passage of the Straits would be forced by the fleet. The Russian Black Sea fleet appeared to be prepared also to co-operate, indicating that the concord between the Powers was still complete. Yesterday, on the contrary, it seemed as if the negotiation with reference to additional boats had been again deferred, some of the nations not being ready to enforce an ultimatum.

We repeat the foregoing matters because they are current history and because there is a popular belief that they are having an important bearing on our finances and are an influence largely affecting gold exports. We do not share in that illusion, as we have often said. If our gold exports were to the Continent it might be difficult to prove to the satisfaction of every one that there was not some unknown inducement drawing them. But all the gold we ship now seems to go to the Bank of England, and surely the Bank of England is not short or in any great stress for that metal. Only two years ago the current week that Bank reported its gold holdings at £25,677,882. In the week ending to-day, our cable says, it reported them at £44,338,765, or an increase of £18,660,883, which reckoned at five dollars to a pound would make the increase in two years $93,304,415. The same cable says that the gain this week from imports—that is excess of exports—was £1,908,000. Can any one fancy there is any evidence of scarcity in such a stock or that it indicates any need for or desire to have our gold? The whole truth plainly is, we are driving the metal from us, and by contrast it seeks the safest place on earth to rest in.

Bank clearings are not now showing such large ratios of gain as a short while ago. The explanation of course is very simple. Enterprise is being held in check by the depressing influence of the large gold exports and the uncertainty regarding the financial outlook caused by the lack of assurance that Congress will pass the needful measures to correct our currency derangements. We have compiled the figures of clearings for the month of November, and they indicate an increase over last year of only 13·6 per cent, as against 22·1 per cent increase in October and 18·4 per cent increase in September. In fact the ratio of improvement is the smallest of any month since last March. Nor can it be claimed that we are comparing with particularly good results a year ago, the increase at that time having been only 1·8 per cent, or considerably smaller than in the months preceding. We should expect the effects of the financial disturbances to be most marked at the monetary centres, and particularly at New York; and that is what a study of the returns of clearings reveals. At New York the gain for November is only 15·7 per cent, as against 28·6 per cent for October and 27·2 per cent for September. At Baltimore we notice there is actually a small decrease. Dealing with the points outside of New York as a whole, however (where the ratios of gain have all along been smaller than at this centre), the comparisons with previous months are much better—that is, the improvement for November is found to be 11·1 per cent, against 14·8 per cent for October, 8·6 per cent for September and 7·7 per cent for August. At some of the larger points the returns are not entirely satisfactory but on the whole it may be said that away from this centre the financial uncertainties have not unsettled business to any great extent yet. But obviously if Congress shall fail to provide proper relief within a reasonable time the blight will extend all over the country and give a set-back to business interests everywhere. It behooves our legislators therefore not to delay action until irreparable damage has been done and the present bright prospects for continued trade development destroyed.

We have several times of late directed attention to the very favorable statements of earnings the Illinois Central was making in its monthly returns. The company has this week issued the figures of gross and net for the month of October, and they show even more striking improvement than those for the months immediately preceding. As compared with the corresponding period of last year the company was able to enlarge its gross receipts $407,032, and this was effected with an addition of only $10,355 to the expenses, thus leaving the gain in net $396,677. As the net in October last year was $571,164, this brings the total the present year up to $967,841, and gives an increase of almost 70 per cent. For the four months of the current fiscal year from July 1 the addition to gross receipts has been $892,171 and the addition to the net $801,363, the latter furnishing a ratio of gain of almost 50 per cent for the whole period of four months. An approximate statement of the gross earnings for November has also been issued, and this shows a gain over last year of $130,212. Judging by past experience, however, that estimate will prove much too small. The officials of the roads always err on the safe side, and hence the actual results invariably prove better than the early estimates. For October, for instance, the gain had been estimated at $211,684, whereas, according to the audited return, as we have seen, the full gain is $407,032. It is proper to state, though, that the difference is not usually as large as this.
